Professionalism in Probation
Making Sense of Marketisation

Matt Tidmarsh
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

This book explores probation staff understandings of professionalism in the aftermath of the Transforming Rehabilitation (TR) reforms to services in England and Wales. Drawing on the sociology of the professions, this book offers an original and timely contribution to the criminal justice literature, examining the ways in which professionalism in probation has been reshaped and renegotiated in response to the market logic that has dominated public services in recent decades.

Written in a clear and direct style, this book is essential reading for researchers engaged in probation, rehabilitation, criminal justice, and organizational and professional studies.

Building Abolition
Decarceration and Social Justice
Edited by Kelly Struthers Montford and Chloe Taylor
Series: Routledge Studies in Penal Abolition and Transformative Justice
Building Abolition: Decarceration and Social Justice explores the intersections of the carceral in projects of oppression, while at the same time providing intellectual, pragmatic, and undetermined paths toward abolition. Prison abolition is at once about the institution of the prison, and a broad, intersectional political project calling for the end of the social structured by settler colonialism, anti-black racism, and related oppressions. Beyond this, prison abolition is a constructive project that imagines and strives for a transformed world in which justice is not equated with punishment, and accountability is not equated with caging.

Handbook on Pretrial Justice
Edited by Christine S. Scott-Hayward, Jennifer E. Copp and Stephen Demuth
Series: The ASC Division on Corrections & Sentencing Handbook Series
The Handbook on Pretrial Justice covers the front end of the criminal legal system from pretrial diversion to pretrial detention or release. Often overlooked, the decisions made at the earliest phases of the criminal legal system have huge implications for defendants and their families, the community, and the system itself, and impact the entire criminal legal system. This is Volume 6 of the American Society of Criminology’s Division on Corrections and Sentencing handbook series. The handbooks provide in-depth coverage of seminal and topical issues around sentencing and correction for scholars, students, practitioners, and policymakers.

The Impact of Supreme Court Decisions on U.S. Institutions
A Sociology of Law Primer
Robert Costello and Colleen Eren
This book introduces readers to the purpose, history, and functioning of the Supreme Court, and shows the Court’s impact on the five key sociological institutions in American society: government/politics, education, religion/belief systems, family, and the economy and work. It gives a clear picture of the influence that Supreme Court decisions have on other key concepts in sociology, such as gender, sexual orientation, race, class/inequality, immigration, and deviance. The gains familiarity with concepts found in both sociology and constitutional law/criminal justice texts, and is able to bridge the relationship between these two fields.

Beyond Drugs, Smuggling and Trafficking
Violence, Victimization and Community Action in Mexico’s Criminal Landscape

Edited by Gabriella Sanchez and Sheldon X. Zhang, University of Massachusetts Lowell

This collection of essays shows how community-based research efforts to examine practices like kidnapping, migrant smuggling, human trafficking, sex work and citizen-led forensics in Mexico can effectively correct methodological and conceptual gaps present in Mexico’s dominant organized crime narrative, while providing effective mechanisms to inform academic and policy debates. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Victims & Offenders.

2nd Edition
Contemporary Critical Criminology

Walter S. DeKeseredy, West Virginia University, USA

Written by an internationally renowned scholar, Contemporary Critical Criminology introduces the most up-to-date empirical, theoretical and political contributions made by critical criminologists around the world. Now fully updated and expanded in a new edition, this book offers further coverage of new directions in critical criminology. It covers topics such as Green Criminology; Indigenous Criminology; Intersectionality; Narrative Criminology; Rural Critical Criminology; Zemiology; Critical Research Methods and Contemporary Critical Criminological Policies.

Crime and Disorder in Community Context

Edited by Rebecca Wicke, University of Queensland, Australia and Lorraine Mazerolle, University of Queensland, Australia

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime, Security and Justice

Drawing on unique longitudinal community-level data in Brisbane, this bookentwines current ecological theories of crime with key debates on the relevance of ‘community’ in contemporary urban life to examine the spatial and temporal relationships between community structure, community social capital, informal social control and the occurrence of crime and disorder. An accessible and compelling read, this book will appeal to all those engaged with critical criminology, sociology, and cultural studies.

Criminal Theory Profiles
Inside the Minds of Theorists of Crime and Deviance

Joshua D. Behl and Leonard A. Steverson

This book brings to life the major theories of crime and deviance by presenting detailed profiles that help readers differentiate each theory and its major propositions by better understanding how, when, and by whom the theory was formed. All chapters are organized with a brief overview of the theorist and their significant ideas, a biographical profile of the theorist, coverage of the theoretical developments and contributions of the theorist, a list of major works by the theorist, and a summary detailing the overall legacy of the theorist in the field. This book is ideal for courses on criminology, criminological theory, and criminal behavior.

Critical Criminology Today
Counter-Hegemonic Essays

Vincenzo Ruggiero, Middlesex University, UK

This book argues that critical criminology today can be reimagined if new concepts are elaborated which bring academic efforts close to the practices of social movements. Building on an original collection of anti-hegemonic essays focused on specific criminological areas, including femicide, organized crime, drug use, punishment, state-corporate terrorism and financial crime, this book identifies the radical potential inherent in the choice of areas, topics and variables that critical criminologists can address today. An accessible and compelling read, this book will appeal to all those engaged with critical criminology, sociology, and cultural studies.

Cyber Victimology
Decoding Cyber Crime Victimization

Debarati Halder, Centre for Cyber Victim Counselling (CCVC), India

Cyber Victimology provides a global socio-legal-victimological perspective on victimization online, written in clear, non-technical terms, and presents practical solutions for the problem. This book is suitable for use as a textbook in cyber victimology courses and will be of interest to policy makers and activists working in this area.

Visual Criminology
From History and Methods to Critique and Policy Translation

Edited by Johannes Wheeldon

This edited collection captures the expertise of scholars from the US, the UK, Australia, and Canada to catalog the rise in visual approaches in criminology. It presents examples of visual methods, uses, and approaches in criminology; assesses the potential for new graphic approaches to collect, analyze, and present data; and provides some analysis of the use of images in teaching, to spur social critique, and guide policy translation. This interdisciplinary book will be of interest to criminologists, sociologists, visual ethnographers, historians and those engaged with media studies.

Serial and Mass Murder

Elizabeth Gurian

This book reframes the study of multicide (that is, serial and mass murder) to use objective measures, and aims to expand our understanding of multicide offending through descriptive and inferential statistical analyses of different homicide patterns of the offenders. The research and analysis based on a database of over 1300 cases contributes to the criminological study of violence and draws distinctions between types of offenders (partnered and solo, serial and mass, male and female, etc.) from a range of different countries and across decades.

Sexual Abuse Within the Church

Assessment, Intervention, and Prevention

Chris Rush Burkey, Michael C. Braswell, Professor Emeritus, East Tennessee State University, USA and John T. Whitehead, East Tennessee State University

This book takes a holistic approach by providing insight into the behavior and nature of sex offenders within the church. The text covers various types of sex offenders as well as their criminal propensities and methods of acquiring victims. Warning signs associated with sex crimes within the church are explained as well as security measures and prevention strategies that church leaders and criminal justice professionals can utilize to minimize risk to congregants. Discussion questions and case study scenarios are provided to allow the reader to examine relevant issues and explore a range of potential solutions and interventions.

Theories of Terrorism

Contemporary Perspectives

Edited by Murat Haner and Melissa M. Sloan

Series: Advances in Criminological Theory

This book explains and advances the major theories of terrorism that address issues of becoming a terrorist, being a terrorist, and leaving terrorism, in a clear and accessible format for use by students and academics seeking to advance theoretically driven research in the area. The style and content coverage of the book make it appropriate as a supplemental text in undergraduate courses on terrorism and political violence. The inclusion of current empirical literature and guidance for future research efforts gives the text appeal for graduate students and academics in the disciplines of criminology/criminal justice, political science, sociology, and interdisciplinary terrorism studies.

Child Protection in the Church
An Anglican Case Study

Michael A. Guerzoni
Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society
Child Protection in the Church investigates whether, amidst publicised promises of change from church institutions and the introduction of “safe church” policies and procedures, reform is actually occurring within Christian churches towards child protection; using a case study of the Anglican Diocese of Tasmania, Australia. Providing an insight into the lived reality of child protection within churches, and highlighting the ongoing complexities of safe ministry, the book is a useful companion to students, academics and practitioners of child protection and organisational studies, alongside clergy, church leaders and those training for the ministry.

Explaining Variation in Juvenile Punishment
The Role of Communities and Systems

Steven N. Zane
Series: Routledge Studies in Juvenile Justice and Delinquency
This research monograph provides a comparative analysis of juvenile court outcomes, exploring the influence of contextual factors on juvenile punishment across systems and communities. In doing so, it investigates whether, how, and to what extent context influences variation in juvenile punishment across these systems and communities. The contextual hypotheses under investigation evaluate three prominent macro-structural theoretical approaches: the conflict-oriented perspective of community threats, the consensus-oriented perspective of social disorganization, and an organizational perspective of the political economy of the juvenile court.

Juvenile Risk and Needs Assessment
Theory, Research, Policy, and Practice

Christopher J. Sullivan and Kristina Childs
Series: Routledge Studies in Juvenile Justice and Delinquency
This book takes a comprehensive, analytic approach to understanding Juvenile Risk and Needs Assessment (JRNA), covering elements relevant to how the practice affects youths’ cases and the juvenile justice system. The work draws on both analysis of the extensive research on risk and needs assessment in the juvenile justice system as well as data from the authors’ recent work in the area. This monograph is essential reading for scholars of juvenile justice system impact and reform as well as practitioners engaged in youth and juvenile justice work ranging from the preventive to the rehabilitative stages.

Youth Violence in Context
An Ecological Routine Activity Framework

Eileen M. Ahlin, Penn State Harrisburg and Maria João Lobo Antunes, Towson University
Series: Routledge Studies in Juvenile Justice and Delinquency
This book examines how protective and risk factors associated with two distinct types of youth violence are nested within four layers of the ecological framework: community, family, peers, and youth characteristics. The authors apply micro- and macro-level theoretical perspectives to explain how community, family, peers, and youth characteristics influence unique forms of youth violence. Each layer of the ecological framework unfolds to reveal the latest scholarship on youth exposure to community violence and involvement in violence while also translating the research to practical solutions for reducing youths’ risk and encouraging healthy environments.

The Law of Insurance Warranties

Flawed Reform and a New Perspective

Alastair Owen

Series: Lloyd’s Insurance Law Library

The book provides a detailed review of efforts to reform the law on insurance warranties in Australia, New Zealand and the UK, arguing that none of these have been successful. The text proposes a radical new approach to reform of this area of the law, demonstrating through detailed stress testing of these proposals that they would deliver more consistent and equitable outcomes than those achieved to date. The book will be of considerable interest and value to practitioners, academics and students, as well as to other common law jurisdictions contemplating reform of this area of the law.

The Origin of Copyright

Expression as Knowing in Being and Copyright Onto-Epistemology

Wenwei Guan

City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

This book provides insights on the copyright evolution and how proprietary individual expression’s copyright protection forms an integral part of our knowing in being, driven by the advances of technology through the proliferating trading frameworks. Building on its onto-epistemological critiques on the stakeholder, force, and mechanism of copyright evolution, the book helps readers understand why, not only copyright, but also law in general, and justice too, need to be onto-epistemologically balanced, as this is categorically imperative for being, the fundamental law of nature.

Digital Technologies and the Law of Obligations

Edited by Zvonimir Slakoper and Ivan Tot

This book critically examines the emergence of new digital technologies and the challenges they pose to the traditional law of obligations, and discusses the extent to which existing contract and tort law rules and doctrines are equipped to meet these new challenges. Chapters cover various contract and tort law issues raised by emerging technologies – including distributed ledger technology, blockchain-based smart contracts, and artificial intelligence – as well as by the evolution of the internet into a participative web fuelled by user-generated content. This volume will be of interest to legal scholars and researchers in the fields of contract law, tort law, and digital law.

Transport Law on Passenger Rights

Edited by Marko Pavliha

Series: IMLI Studies in International Maritime Law

This book will cast light through a critical prism on the most important characteristics of the international transport law, the EU legislation and jurisprudence regarding passenger rights during the carriage by air, sea, rail and road. One of the ideas which, however, needs further research is that the commendable legal solutions and experience of the EU can serve as an excellent framework for a new holistic international convention on passengers rights in all transport modes.

Domestic Legal Pluralism and the International Criminal Court

The Case of Shari’a Law in Nigeria

Justin Su-Wan Yang

This book explores how the unique historical development of Islamic Shari’a criminal law alongside English common law in northern Nigeria has created a hybridised criminal legal system. It examines how this could be accommodated by the ICC and that it could ultimately prove to be preferable in encouraging the Shari’a courts to exercise criminal justice over the radical insurgents in northern Nigeria. It will be essential reading for academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of International Criminal Law, Legal Pluralism, Islamic Shari’a Law, Nigeria, and religiously-inspired violence.

Tackling Terrorism in Britain
Threats, Responses, and Challenges Twenty Years After 9/11
Steven Greer

This book takes stock of counterterrorism in Britain 20 years after the events of 9/11. Closely mirroring the four Ps of the official CONTEST counterterrorist strategy it seeks to summarise and grasp the essence of relevant domestic law and policy, without being burdened by excessive technical detail. It also provides a rigorous, context-aware, illuminating, yet concise, accessible and policy-relevant analysis of this important and controversial subject, grounded in relevant social science, policy studies, and legal scholarship. It will be essential for those in law and social science, human rights, terrorism, counterterrorism, security and conflict studies.

The United States of America and the Crime of Aggression
Giulia Pecorella

This book traces the position of the United States of America on aggression, beginning with the Declaration of Independence up to 2020, covering the four years of the Trump Administration. The decision of the Assembly of States Parties to the International Criminal Court to activate the Court’s jurisdiction over the crime of aggression in 2018 has added further value to a book concerning the position and practice of one of the most influential states, a global military power and permanent member of the UN Security Council. The work will be a valuable guide for students, academics and professionals with an interest in International Criminal Law.

Transitional Justice
Theories, Mechanisms and Debates
Edited by Hakeem O. Yusuf, University of Strathclyde, UK and Hugo van der Merwe

Transitional justice is the way societies that have experienced civil conflict or authoritarian rule and widespread violations of human rights deal with the experience. With its roots in law, transitional justice as an area of study crosses various fields in the social sciences. This book is written with this multi and inter-disciplinary dynamic of the field in mind. Transitional Justice: Theories, Mechanisms and Debates is an important text for postgraduate and advanced undergraduate students who take courses in transitional justice, human rights and criminal law, as well as a systematic reference text for researchers.
Climate Change Law, Technology Transfer and Sustainable Development

Md Mahatab Uddin
Series: Routledge Research in International Environmental Law

This book explores the possibilities and scope of facilitating innovation and transfer of the environmentally sound technologies in the Post-Paris climate era. The possibilities to be explored by the book will focus on the roles of the climate finance and technological cooperation mechanisms in innovation and transfer of environmentally sound technologies. It will focus on role of the 'flexible mechanism' (i.e. indirect financial mechanisms), which has been re-introduced by the Paris Agreement as 'voluntary cooperation' or 'sustainable development' mechanism in innovation and transfer of environmentally sound technologies.

Law, Climate Emergency and the Australian Megafires

Nicole Rogers

This book addresses the ways in which the Black Summer megafires influenced the development of climate narratives throughout 2020. It analyses the global pandemic, and its ensuing restrictions, as a countervailing force in the production of such narratives. This important and timely book will appeal to environmental lawyers and socio-legal theorists; as well as other scholars and activists with interests in climate change and its impact. It is recommended for anyone concerned about current and future climate disasters, and the shortcomings in legal, political and popular responses to the climate crisis.

Principles of Equity and Trusts

Alastair Hudson, Alastair Hudson is Professor of Equity & Finance Law at the University of Exeter.

This is the second edition of Principles of Equity and Trusts, the concise new textbook from Alastair Hudson. Through clear and careful analysis, the author explains what the law is, its foundational principles, and its social and economic effect. By beginning with the core principles on which this field is based, even the most complex academic debates concerning express, resulting and constructive trusts, the family home, charities law and other equitable doctrines become comprehensible and interesting. This book offers a fresh, lively and often humorous account of Equity and Trusts.

Children, Human Rights and Temporary Labour Migration

Protecting the Child-Parent Relationship

Rasika Ramburuth Jayasuriya

This book focuses on the neglected yet critical issue of how the global migration of millions of parents as low-waged migrant workers impacts the rights of their children under international human rights law. It fills a gap that emerges at the intersection of child rights studies, migration research and existing literature on the purported nexus between labour migration and international development. It will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers and policy-makers working in these areas.

Children’s Rights and the Law

An Introduction

Hilaire Barnett, formerly at Queen Mary, University of London, UK

The rights of parents over children have long been recognised in law. The rights of children, however, remain far less recognised and certain. This book examines the extent to which primarily English law gives adequate recognition to and protection of the rights of children. The book covers the Children Act 1989, the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child which came into force in the UK in 1992, and the Human Rights Act 1998. The book looks at children’s rights thematically. It considers topics including: the right to protection from abuse and neglect; the right to education; children and the criminal justice system; the rights of children to contract and property rights.

Christianity and the Law of Migration

Edited by Silas W. Allard, Kristin E. Heyer and Raj Nadella

Gathering fourteen leading scholars from both law and Christian theology, the book covers legal perspectives, theological perspectives, and key concepts in migration studies. The work provides a truly interdisciplinary introduction to the topic of migration for those who are new to the subject; an opportunity for immigration lawyers and legal scholars to engage Christian theology; an opportunity for pastors and Christian theologians to engage law; and new insights on key frameworks for scholars who are already committed to the study of migration.

Dignity and International Human Rights Law

An Introduction to the Punta del Este Declaration on Human Dignity for Everyone Everywhere

Brett G. Schaffs and Ewelina U. Ochab

In 2018 an initiative was instigated to revitalize the human rights project by way of engaging the notion of human dignity. This resulted in the Punta Del Este Declaration on Human Dignity for Everyone Everywhere. This book provides an overview of how the notion of human dignity has been used to strengthen human rights. It discusses how human dignity plays many different roles in human rights discourse and has the force to revitalize the human rights project.

The book will be a valuable resource for all those working in the areas of International Human Rights Law, Legal Philosophy and Law and Religion.

Global Reflections on Children’s Rights and the Law

30 Years After the Convention on the Rights of the Child

Edited by Ellen Marrus and Pamela Laufer-Ukeles

Thirty years after the adoption of the UN Convention of the Rights of the Child, this book provides diverse, international perspectives on its implementation, critique and reform. It revolves around key issues including: whether the CRC as an instrument is beneficial or advisable at all; progress in implementing the CRC worldwide; how to include children in legal proceedings; how to uphold children’s various civil rights; how to best assist children at risk; and discussions surrounding children’s identity rights in a changing familial order.

The book will be of significant interest to scholars and practitioners working in the areas of children’s rights and justice.

Indigenous Children’s Right to Participate in Law and Policy Development

Holly Doel-Mackaway, Macquarie University, Australia
Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law
This book presents a model for reforming and developing Indigenous related legislation and policy, not only in Australia, but also in other jurisdictions. The model provides guidance about how to seek, listen to and respond to the voices of Indigenous children and young people.
The book will be of interest to researchers, academics, policymakers, legislators, and students in the fields of human rights law, children’s rights, participation rights, Indigenous peoples law, and family, child and social welfare law.

Islam, Constitutional Law and Human Rights

Tommaso Virgili
Series: Comparative Constitutionalism in Muslim Majority States
This book focuses on Islamic constitutionalism, and in particular on the relation between religion and the protection of individual liberties potentially clashing with sharia and the Islamic ethos. The analysis goes from general to particular, starting with a theoretical overview on constitutionalism, human rights and Islam, moving to the assessment of the post-Arab Spring Constitutions of Egypt and Tunisia, and concluding with a specific focus on the rights of sexual minorities and freethinkers.

Legal Code of Religious Minority Rights

Daniele Ferrari
Series: ICLARS Series on Law and Religion
This volume presents a systematic collection of the various international legal sources that define the rights of religious minorities. In a time of increasing tensions around religious minorities, this volume presents a systematic collection of international and European documents on the protection and promotion of religious minorities’ rights.
This book will be an invaluable resource for students, academics and researchers interested in law and religion, international law, public law and human rights law, the code is also a powerful tool for minorities themselves, and for advocates of their rights.

Non-Governmental Organisations and the United Nations Human Rights System

Fiona McGaughy
Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law
This book charts the historical development of the NGO role in the UN. It examines the UN regulation of NGOs but the largely informal nature of the role, and an exploration of the various types of NGOs, including some less benign actors such as GONGOs (Governmental NGOs). It also draws on empirical data to illustrate NGO influence on UN human rights bodies and gives voice to stakeholders both inside and outside the UN. The book concludes that the current UN human rights system is heavily reliant on NGOs and that they play an essential fact-finding role and contribute to global democratisation and governance.

The Rohingya, Justice and International Law

Kriangsak Kittichaisaree
Focusing on the plight of the ethnic and religious group of persons called the ‘Rohingya’, normally residing in Myanmar, as the case study, the book elaborates the complex legal technicalities and impediments in international courts and foreign domestic criminal courts exercising ‘universal jurisdiction’ in relation to acts amounting to genocide, crimes against humanity and/or war crimes. Written by an international judge, professor and former ambassador with decades of experience in the field, the book will be essential for students, researchers and academics in public international law, international criminal law, international human rights law.

Ancient Indigenous Human Remains and the Law
Fiona Batt
Series: Routledge Research in International Law
This book seeks to recharacterize ancient indigenous human remains and ancient indigenous DNA, through a process called unbundling, in order to develop an equitable framework for the protection and repatriation of ancient indigenous human remains and DNA. Indigenous peoples are increasingly making requests for the return of their ancestors’ human remains and ancient DNA. However, some museums and scientists have refused to repatriate indigenous human remains or have initiated protracted delays. The continued retention perpetuates cultural harm and is a continuing violation of human rights. This book develops a litigation framework which can be used in such disputes.

Environmental Protection, China and International Trade

Fengan Jiang
Series: The Rule of Law in China and Comparative Perspectives

This book argues for a balanced approach to ‘greening’ the WTO ban on China’s export duties without opening the floodgates to protectionism. As a result of the WTO’s controversial China—Raw Materials and China—Rare Earths decisions, China is prohibited from using export duties to address any environmental problems, including those associated with climate change. This book puts the case for a more balanced approach. Law and the Christian Tradition in Modern Russia
Edited by Paul Valliere and Randall A. Poole
Series: Law and Religion
This book, authored by an international group of scholars, focuses on a vibrant central current within the history of Russian legal thought: how Christianity, and theistic belief generally, has inspired the aspiration to the rule of law in Russia, informed Russian philosophies of law, and shaped legal practices. The collection embraces the most creative period of Russian legal thought—the century and a half from the later Enlightenment to the Russian emigration following the Bolshevik Revolution. It will merit the attention of anyone interested in the connections between law and religion in modern times.

Lawfare
Waging War through Law
Cristiano Zanin Martins, Valeska Teixeira Zanin Martins and Rafael Valim
This book examines one of the most emblematic case of lawfare today: the criminal prosecution of former Brazilian President Lula. The authors argue that Lawfare is not just a slogan or a game at the service of any one political ideology. Rather, it has to do with a complex, multifaceted phenomenon, that should be carefully reflected upon in modern constitutional democracies, given that it is able to demolish majority rule and the rule of law.
The book will be of interest to students, researchers and policy-makers in the areas of public law, international law, procedural law, anthropology of law and sociology of law, as well as political science and international relations.

Public Health, Mental Health, and Mass Atrocity Prevention
Edited by Jocelyn Getzen Kestenbaum, Caitlin O. Mahoney, Amy E. Meade and Arlan F. Fuller
This multidisciplinary volume considers the role of both public health and mental health policies and practices in the prevention of mass atrocity—including war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide. It brings together diverse fields of study by global north and global south authors in diverse contexts and culminates in a narrative that demonstrates the state of the current fields on intersecting themes within public health, mental health and mass atrocity prevention and the future potential directions in which these intersections could go.

Secession and Statehood
Lessons from Spain and Catalonia
Ana Gemma López Martín and José Antonio Perea Unceta
Series: Routledge Research in International Law
This book analyses the complex phenomenon of secession as a form of creation of States from the perspective of International Law. Faced with other approaches based on the analysis of the political foundation of the secessionist processes or on the construction of a legal basis that justifies the existing practice, the aim is to provide an explanation of secession as a practice without coverage in the legal regime of the United Nations.

Regulating Transnational Heritage
Memory, Identity and Diversity
Merima Bruncevic
Series: Routledge Studies in Cultural Heritage and International Law
Transnational heritage challenges the idea of monolithic, mono-cultural, ethno-national states. This book explores the regulation of transnational heritage. By discussing many cases of transnational heritage and the problems that arise due to the lack of regulation the book analyses the manifestations of memories and constructions of communities through heritage. The book underlines that the issues surrounding transnational heritage involve more than a communal right to culture. It is argued that transnational heritage also directly affects wider matters of law such as citizenship, human rights, sovereignty, as well as the movement of people and cultural goods.

Technocracy and the Law
Accountability, Governance and Expertise
Edited by Alessandra Arcuri and Florin Coman-Kund, Erasmus University Rotterdam, Netherlands
Series: Transnational Law and Governance
Technocratic law and governance is under fire. This book focuses on whether and how experts involved in policymaking can and should be held accountable. By offering fresh insights into the manifold aspects of technocratic decision-making and suggesting new avenues for rethinking expert accountability within multilevel governance, this book will be of great value not only to students and scholars in international and EU law, political science, public administration, science and technology studies, but also to professionals working within EU institutions and international organizations.

The Conflict in Syria and the Failure of International Law to Protect People Globally
Mass Atrocities, Enforced Disappearances and Arbitrary Detentions
Jeremy Julian Sarkin
This book explores, through the lens of the conflict in Syria, why international law and the United Nations have failed to halt conflict and massive human rights violations around the world. It argues that international law is state-centred rather than victim-friendly, is to some extent outdated, is vague and often difficult to understand, and therefore hard at times to apply. The book will be valuable to students, academics and policy-makers working in the areas of Public International Law, International Human Rights Law, Political Science and Peace and Security Studies.

The European Sovereign Circle between Sovereigns and Banks
Phoebus L. Athanassiou and Angelo T. Voulidis
Series: Routledge Research in Finance and Banking Law
This book explains why the euro area’s progress in reining-in the risks arising from the well-documented bi-directional financial contagion transmission mechanism that links sovereigns to commercial banks has been more prominent in respect of the channel of contagion moving from banks to sovereigns. Providing an analysis of the legal and regulatory measures that Europe and the euro area have taken to mitigate the exposure of sovereigns to financial crises generated by commercial banks, this book draws attention to areas where improvements to the arsenal of tools hitherto introduced are either desirable or necessary.

The Human Right to Water and International Economic Law
Roberta Greco
Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Law
This book discusses the international right to water and the liberalization of water services. It provides an unbiased analysis of different international legal regimes under which the liberalization of water services has occurred or is likely to occur in order to assess whether the main features of the right to water can be guaranteed under each of these systems and whether there is space for prospective harmonization. The work will be an invaluable resource for academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of International Human Rights Law, International Economic Law, International Water Law, International Trade Law and EU Law.

The Transnationalization of Anti-Corruption Law

Edited by Régis Bismuth, Jan Dunin-Wasowicz and Philip M. Nichols
Series edited by Paolo Farah
Series: Transnational Law and Governance

The last twenty years have witnessed an astonishing transformation: the fight against corruption has grown from a handful of local undertakings into a truly global effort. This book deals with the most salient aspects of the global anti-corruption regime. It is written by people who contribute to the structure of the regime, who practice within the regime, and who study the regime. It is written for anyone interested in corruption or corruption control in general, anyone with a general interest in jurisprudence or in international law, and especially anyone who is interested in critical thinking and analysis of how law can control corruption in a global context.

Indigenous Legal Judgments
Bringing Indigenous Voices into Judicial Decision Making

Edited by Nicole Watson and Heather Douglas

This book is a collection of key legal decisions affecting Indigenous Australians, which have been re-imagined so as to be inclusive of Indigenous people’s stories, historical experience, perspectives and worldviews. The new judgments are characterised by intersectional perspectives which draw on postcolonial, critical race and whiteness theory. Some contributors imagine new truth-telling forums, highlighting the strength and creative resistance of Indigenous people to oppression and exclusion. Others have rejected the possibility that the legal system, that has been integral to settler colonialism, can ever deliver meaningful justice to Indigenous people.

Imaginative Resistance, Queer Fiction and the Law
Same-Sex Desire and the Good Life in Heteronormative Orders
Aleardo Zanghelli

This book argues – in a philosophical rather than a psychological register – that heteronormativity also affects queer well-being in more intangible ways. The central claim is that heteronormativity shackles the imagination; it curtails no less the imaginative reach of authors of queer fiction, than our ability – engaged as we are in projects of self-authorship – to make-believe personal futures in which same-sex intimacy is brought to bear on our well-being. The book’s central claim re-works a concept central to the philosophy of fiction – “imaginative resistance” – and puts it into service of questions raised in moral philosophy.

Law, Responsibility and Vulnerability
State Accountability and Responsiveness
Edited by James Gallen and Tanya Ni Muithile
Series: Gender in Law, Culture, and Society

This book addresses how law and public policy cause or exacerbate vulnerability in individuals and groups. Bringing together scholars, judges and practitioners, it identifies how individuals and groups can become vulnerabilised through the operation of law, and examines how the State can acknowledge and remedy that impact. The book offers not only a theoretical, ethical and normative conception of vulnerability in law, but also an evaluation of the diverse practices of responding to vulnerabilisation through accountability mechanisms and public campaigns.

Regulating the End of Life
Death Rights
Edited by Sue Westwood
Death Rights is a collection of cutting-edge chapters on assisted dying and euthanasia, written by leading authors in the field. Providing an overview of current regulation on assisted dying and euthanasia, both in the UK and internationally, this book also addresses the associated debates on ethical, moral and rights issues. It considers whether, just as there is a right to life, there should also be a right to death, especially in the context of unbearable human suffering.

Social Justice and Adequate Housing
Rights, Roma Inclusion and the Feeling of Home
Silvia Cittadini
This book analyses and challenges the understanding of this term in law and politics by investigating its relationship with the idea of ‘home’. It is necessary to provide them with adequate housing. It is very common to hear this phrase when dealing with housing poverty, especially in relation to migrants, minorities, indigenous and other subaltern groups are concerned. But what does ‘adequate housing’ mean? This book tackles this issue by proposing a critical analysis of this concept and of its use in the development of housing policies addressing the subaltern group par excellence in Europe, Roma.
Clinical Legal Education
Philosophical and Theoretical Perspectives
Edited by Hugh McFaul and Omar Madhlood
Series: Emerging Legal Education
Clinical Legal Education provides a range of philosophical and theoretical frameworks that can serve to enrich the teaching and practice of clinical legal education (CLE). Of interest to scholars of clinical legal education and practitioners, Clinical Legal Education illustrates how a variety of philosophical and theoretical perspectives can illuminate a range of clinical legal education approaches.

Construction Arbitration and Alternative Dispute Resolution
Theory and Practice around the World
Edited by Renato Nazzini
Series: Construction Practice Series
This book provides comprehensive, rigorous and up-to-date coverage of key issues that have emerged in the first quarter of the 21st Century in transnational construction arbitration and alternative dispute resolution (ADR). Construction Arbitration and Alternative Dispute Resolution is an invaluable resource for practitioners in the field, academics in arbitration and construction law, and post-graduate students in construction law and dispute resolution.

Jurists and Legal Science in the History of Roman Law
Edited by Aldo Schiavone and Fara Nasti
Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Law
This book provides a new approach to the study of the History of Roman Law. It collects the first results of the European Research Council Project, Scriptores iuris Romani - dedicated to a new collection of the texts of Roman jurisprudence, highlighting important methodological issues, together with innovative reconstructions of the profiles of some ancient jurists and works.

Doing Socio-Legal Resarch in Design Mode
Amanda Perry-Kessaris
This book is the first to explore what design can do for sociolegal research. Written by an experienced sociolegal researcher with formal training in graphic design, the book is primarily focused on the sociolegal research community can take from design, but it also offers lessons to designers, especially those who work with law.

Courthouse Architecture, Design and Social Justice
Kirsty Duncanson, La Trobe University, Australia and Emma Henderson, La Trobe University, Australia
Series: Space, Materiality and the Normative
This collection interrogates relationships between court architecture and social justice, from consultation and design to the impact of material (and immaterial) forms on court users, through the lenses of architecture, law, socio-legal studies, criminology, anthropology and a former high-court judge. It provides tools for those engaged in creating, and reflecting on, ethical design and building use, and deepens the dialogue across disciplinary boundaries towards further collaborative work in the field. It also exists as a new resource for research and teaching, facilitating undergraduate critical thought about the ways in which design enhances and restricts access to justice.

Law and Philosophy of Language
Ordinariness of Law
Pascal Richard
Series: Routledge Research in Constitutional Law
Academic legal production, when it focuses on the study of law, generally grasps this concept on the basis of a reference to positive law and its practice. This book differs clearly from these analyses and integrates the legal approach into the philosophy of normative language, philosophical realism and pragmatism. The book will be essential reading for academics working in the areas of legal theory, legal philosophy and constitutional theory.
Law, Literature and the Power of Reading
Literalism and Photography in the Nineteenth Century

Suneel Mehmi
Series: Discourses of Law
At the intersection of law, literature and history this book interrogates how a dominant contemporary idea of law emerged out of specific ideas of reading in the nineteenth century. This secret history of law will appeal to legal historians, legal theorists, those working at the intersection of law and literature, and others with interests in law and the visual.

Law, Relationality and the Ethical Life
Agamben and Levinas

Tom Frost, University of Sussex, UK
Series: Law and Politics
This first book-length study into the influence of Emmanuel Levinas on the thought and philosophy of Giorgio Agamben, Law, Relationality and the Ethical Life demonstrates how Agamben’s immanent thought can be read as presenting a compelling, albeit flawed, alternative to Levinas’s ethics of the Other. The publication of the English translation of The Use of Bodies in 2016 ended Giorgio Agamben’s 20-year multi-volume Homo Sacer study. Over this time, Agamben’s thought has greatly influenced scholarship in law, the wider humanities, and social sciences.

Law, Violence and Constituent Power
The Law, Politics And History Of Constitution Making

Héctor López Bofill
Series: Comparative Constitutional Change
This book challenges traditional theories of constitution-making to advance an alternative view of constitutions as being founded on power which rests on violence. The work argues that rather than the idea of a constitution being the result of political participation and deliberation, all power instead is based on violence. Hence the creation of a constitution is actually an act of coercion, where, through violence, one social group is able to impose itself over others.

It will be essential reading for academics and researchers working in the areas of constitutional law and politics, legal and political theory, and constitutional history.

Learning Legal Skills and Reasoning
A Study Guide

Geraint Brown
Law students rarely have experience of answering problem questions before university, and lecturers concentrate on teaching content rather than the exam skills needed. This book bridges the gap on how to transpose knowledge and research into structured and coherent answers to problem questions during a Law degree.

Aimed at undergraduates, international students, foundation and SQE candidates, the book gives a step-by-step study guide on how to navigate what a problem question is asking you to do. It deconstructs the process using examples from a range of different fields of law, providing essential guidance from research and critical thinking to style and tone.

Subversive Legal History
A Manifesto for the Future of Legal Education

Russell Sandberg
This book rejuvenates not only the historical study of law but also the role of Law Schools by asking which stories we tell and which stories we forget. Subversive Legal History is not a type of Legal History but is a characteristic. It describes a legal method that should not be the preserve only of specialist legal historians but rather should be part of the toolkit of all law students, teachers and researchers.

It will be essential for all who work and study in Law Schools, proposing a radical new approach not only to the historical study of law but to the content, purpose and ambition of legal education.

The Cabinet of Imaginary Laws
Edited by Peter Goodrich and Thanos Zartaloudis
Series: Discourses of Law
Returning to the map of the island of utopia, this book provides a contemporary, inventive, addition to the long history of legal fictions and juristic phantasms. Aimed at an intellectual audience disgruntled with the negativity of critique and the narrowness of the disciplines, this book will appeal especially to theorists, literati, lawyers, scholars and a general public concerned with the future of decaying laws and an increasingly derelict legal system.

The Politics of Human Life
Rethinking Subjectivity
Piergiorgio Donatelli
Through a discussion of the intimate human spheres of reproduction, dying and sexuality, Piergiorgio Donatelli argues that we now live in a world characterised by new ways of living: by novel rearrangements of emotions, and by the modification, and in some cases a radical rupture in, existing ideas of human life. Engaging pressing contemporary themes, this book will be invaluable to scholars in the fields of ethics, law and political theory, and both analytic and continental philosophy.

The Spaces of Mental Capacity Law
Moving Beyond Binaries

Beverley Clough, Law Department at the University of Leeds
Series: Social Justice
This book explores the conceptual spaces and socio-legal context which mental capacity laws inhabit. It will be seen that these norms are created and reproduced through the binaries that pervade mental capacity laws in liberal legal jurisdictions—such as capacity/incapacity; autonomy/paternalism; empowerment/protection; carer/cared-for; disabled/non-disabled; public/private.

Exploitation, Ethics and Law
Violating the Ethos of the Doctor-Patient Relationship

Suzanne Ost and Hazel Biggs, University of Lancaster, UK
Series: Biomedical Law and Ethics Library
This book provides an assessment of whether exploitation in the doctor-patient relationship is a special case. It contextualises the evaluation by exploring the nature of this relationship and making an assessment of patients’ vulnerability to such exploitation. The authors consider aspects of UK, American, Australian and Canadian law as part of the contextual analysis.
The work provides a critical, inter-disciplinary evaluation of exploitation in the doctor-patient relationship that will be of interest to health care lawyers, bioethicists, legal academics and practitioners, health care professionals, and students.

Routledge Handbook of Global Health Rights

Edited by Clayton Ó Néill, Charles Foster, Jonathan Herring, University of Oxford, UK and John Tingle
This book examines the idea of a fundamental entitlement to health and healthcare from a human rights perspective. It is based on a particular conceptual reasoning that balances critical thinking and pragmatism in the context of a universal right to health. Thus, the primary focus of the book is the relationship or contrast between rights-based discourse/jurisprudential arguments and real-life healthcare contexts. It will be an invaluable resource for students, academics and policy-makers working in the areas of health law and policy, and international human rights law.

Accountability and the Law
Rights, Authority and Transparency of Public Power
Edited by Piotr Mikuli and Grzegorz Kuca
Series: Comparative Constitutional Change
This book combines conceptual insights into what shapes contemporary accountability mechanisms with a selection of case studies. The authors deal with various problems connected to controlling public institutions and incumbents’ responsibility in state bodies. Providing insights into increasing understanding of various concepts, principles and institutions characteristic of the modern state, the book makes a valuable contribution to the area of comparative constitutional change.
It will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers and policy makers working in the areas of Constitutional Law and Politics.

Constitutional and Administrative Law
14th Edition
Hilaire Barnett
Mapped to the common course outline, the 14th edition of Constitutional and Administrative Law equips students with a thorough understanding of the UK constitution’s past, present and future, as well as ongoing constitutional reform. This edition has been fully updated and includes discussion of the consequences of the United Kingdom’s withdrawal from the European Union, including the impact on the legislative supremacy of Parliament and the relationship between EU and domestic law after departure. It also features discussion of the 2020 Coronavirus Act, with its implications for state power.

Courts and Judicial Activism Under Crisis Conditions
Policy Making in a Time of Illiberalism and emergency Constitutionalism
Edited by Martin Below
Series: Comparative Constitutional Change
This book explores the impact of activist courts on democracy, separation of powers and rule of law in times of emergency constitutionalism. The volume offers an explanation of the concept of judicial activism, its impact on both the legal system and the political order and the role of courts in shaping the structures of the legal order. These issues are explored in theoretical and comparative constitutional perspective. The book will be a valuable resource for academics and researchers working in the areas of courts, constitutional law and constitutional politics.

European Economic Legal Order After Brexit
Legacy, Regulation, and Policy
Enzo Cardi
Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Law
This book takes an innovative approach to provide a mirror perspective of the legal systems of the UK and the EU in contemporary institutional scenarios. It questions the effects deriving from the legacy, i.e. the foundations of the two legal systems, on handling the issues of our time, the impact on market regulation of the striking contemporary events and the unsettled consequences on policy of the current convulsing political and financial landscape. The book will be essential reading for those working in the areas of European public regulatory law.

Constitutional Change and Popular Sovereignty
Populism, Politics and the Law in Ireland
Edited by Maria Cahill, Colm Ó Cinnéide, Seán Ó Conaill and Conor O’Mahony
Series: Comparative Constitutional Change
This collection focuses on the particular nexus of popular sovereignty and constitutional change, and the implications of the recent surge in populism for systems where constitutional change is directly decided upon by the people via referendum. At a time when populist pressures on constitutional change are to the fore in many countries, this detailed examination of where the Irish experience sits in a comparative context has an important contribution to make to debates in law and political science.

Illiberal Constitutionalism in Poland and Hungary
The Deterioration of Democracy, Misuse of Human Rights and Abuse of the Rule of Law
Timea Drinóczi and Agnieszka Bień-Kacala
Series: Comparative Constitutional Change
This book theorizes illiberal constitutionalism by interrogation of the Rule of Law, democratic deterioration, and the misuse of the language and relativization of human rights protection, and its widespread emotional and value-oriented effect on the population. The book will be an invaluable resource for scholars, academics and policy-makers interested in Constitutional Law and Politics.
Peace, Discontent and Constitutional Law
Challenges to Constitutional Order and Democracy
Edited by Martin Belov
Series: Comparative Constitutional Change
This book offers a multi-discursive analysis of the constitutional foundations for peaceful coexistence, the constitutional background for discontent and the impact of discontent, and the consequences of conflict and revolution on the constitutional order of a democratic society which may lead to its implosion. It provides a valuable resource for academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of constitutional law and politics.

Routledge Handbook of Subnational Constitutions and Constitutionalism
Edited by Patricia Popelier, Nicholas Aroney and Giacomo Delledonne
This handbook provides a toolbox of definitions and typologies to develop a theory of multi-level constitutionalism and subnational constitutions. Broad in scope, it encompasses many different types of multi-tiered systems world-wide to map the possible meanings, uses and challenges of subnational or state constitutions in a variety of political and societal contexts. Developing the building blocks of an explanatory theory of subnational constitutionalism, it will be essential to all those interested in comparative constitutional law, federalism and governance.
