Academic Freedom in Africa
The Struggle Rages On

Edited by Yamikani Ndasauka University of Malawi, Malawi, Garton Kamchedzera

This book leaves no stone unturned in its comprehensive examination of the complex challenges surrounding academic freedom in Africa. Drawing on diverse perspectives and methodologies, it delves into the historical, philosophical, legal, and socio-political dimensions shaping academic freedom across the continent. The authors grapple with colonial legacies, tensions between Western and African notions of intellectual liberty, government authoritarianism, and institutional constraints that hinder open discourse and the pursuit of knowledge.

An Anthology of African Cultural Studies, Volume I
Groundings

Edited by Keyan G. Tomaselli University of Johannesburg, South Africa, Handel Kashope Wright

This volume provides an overview of fundamental or ‘grounding’ themes in African Cultural Studies, including the articulation of African cultural studies, the issue of Africa’s diaspora(s), African identity and identifications, and media studies in Africa and its relationship with cultural studies. The first of two volumes, the book predominantly pulls together a rich reservoir of previously published articles from Critical Arts; South-North Cultural and Media Studies, mapping a long history of the field that draws from a diverse range of origins and locations, especially from within Africa itself.

An Anthology of African Cultural Studies, Volume II
Directions

Edited by Handel Kashope Wright , Keyan G. Tomaselli University of Johannesburg, South Africa

This volume focuses on the directions that African cultural studies has taken over the years and covers the following central themes: contemporary issues in African cultural studies; Gender and the making of identity; the dual discourses of Afropessimism and Afrofuturism; problematizing the African diaspora and methodology and African cultural studies. The second of two volumes, the book predominantly pulls together a rich reservoir of previously published articles from Critical Arts: South-North Cultural and Media Studies.

Capitalism and Economic Crime in Africa
The Neoliberal Period

Edited by Jörg Wiegratz

This book offers a comprehensive analysis of economic crimes and market ‘irregularities’, including matters of trickery, parallel economy, illicit trade, economies of violence and criminalisation of the poor in neoliberal Africa. It investigates economic crime as a phenomenon of neoliberal reform and transformation, and unpacks crime as a societal—and particularly as a political-economic—phenomenon under capitalism. The book brings together research articles, briefings and updated blog posts that were published over a period of nearly 40 years (1986–2023), in the journal Review of African Political Economy (ROAPE) and on its website roape.net

African Media and Communication
Foundational Conversations

Edited by viola c. milton University of South Africa, Winston Mano University of Westminster, UK

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

This book provides an important set of critical reflections from a selection of foundational scholars of African media and communication studies through biographical method. The book interrogates the center of mainstream academic scholarship by providing the foundational history and origins of an Africanist conceptual model while highlighting its significance globally. The editors use biographical and life story interviews to critically review the respondents’ interpretations of their key works and arguments in relation to key moments in the field, the continent and globally. As such, it will be of interest to scholars of media and communications in Africa, and the global south.

An African Feminist Philosophy of Language

Olayinka Oyeleye

Series: Global Africa

This book calls for the institution of an African feminist philosophy of language, challenging existing debates and encouraging a move away from the Western gaze. Challenging the derogatory language found in proverbs which enrech patriarchal oppression, the book advocates for feminist postproverbial: new proverbs which draw on deep cultural tradition. The book will be an important resource for researchers from across the fields of gender and women studies, feminist philosophy, philosophy of language, cultural studies, and African studies.

Civil Society Organisations and State-Owned Enterprises in South Africa

Promoting Accountability and Corporate Governance

Julieth Gudo
Series: African Governance

This book examines the important role which civil society organisations in South Africa play in challenging poor corporate governance in state-owned enterprises and demanding better government accountability, transparency, and citizen participation. The book will be useful to policy advisors, public servants and social justice activists, as well as to postgraduate students and researchers who are interested in African governance and accountability.

Commercial Banking in Kenya

A History from Colonisation to Digital Age

Christian Velasco
Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Africa

This book investigates the impact of commercial banks in Kenya right through from their origins, to their role during the colonial period, the process of adaptation following independence, and up to their responses to new challenges and economic policies in the twenty-first century. It argues that commercial banks are fundamental to understanding African colonies, and the foundations over which the financial system of contemporary Africa was constructed. This book will be of interest to researchers of banking, economic history, the colonial period, and African studies.

Contested Heritage in Europe and Africa

Representation, Commemoration, and Memorialization of a Connected Past

Edited by Marco Zoppi

This book investigates Euro-African cultural relations, considering their connected histories through material and immaterial forms of representation, commemoration, and memorialization. Recent waves of protest around the world have called for restitution of looted African art, and toppled statues and vandalized monuments which are connected to white supremacist, colonialism, and imperialism. Providing a timely analysis of the developing cultural relations between Africa and Europe, this book will be an important resource for researchers across the fields of global history, heritage studies, memory studies, and international relations.

Digital Activism in Zimbabwe

Dissent and Hegemony in the Information Age

Tenford Chitanana
Series: Routledge African Media, Culture and Communication Studies

This book investigates the role of the internet and social media in political processes in non-Western, and non-democratic contexts. From the case of Zimbabwe, the book builds out a broader theoretical analysis of the evolution of ‘third world protest’ in the digital age, examining the limitations of activists’ actions and the ideological deficit in online activism to ferment a virulent counter hegemony.

Epistemologies from the Global South

Negritude, Modernity and the Idea of Africa

Cheikh Thiam

This book argues that the pervasiveness of the modern paradigm and its corollary, the colonial matrix of power, have led scholars of Negritude to think of Leopold Sedar Senghor’s work either as an anti-thesis to the anti-Blackness constitutive of European modernity or as another manifestation of the West as subject of history. As opposed to this tradition, the book reads Negritude through the prism of endogenous African world views without the filter of the modern Western paradigm. Print edition not for sale in Sub Saharan Africa.

Ethnic Continuities and a State of Exception

Goodwill Zwelithini, Mangosuthu Buthelezi and Jacob Zuma

Gerhard Maré

This book alerts readers to the dangers of tradition as a formal, structured politics, which enriches a narrowly elite minority while overriding democratic rights, effecting a ‘state of exception’ for the governance of millions who are rendered as ‘subjects’ in South Africa. Gerhard Maré sets his focus on three powerful men – Goodwill Zwelithini, Mangosuthu Buthelezi and Jacob Zuma – to illustrate how, from different social locations, each has relied on claims to Zulu tradition to occupy powerful and financially rewarding positions. Print edition not for sale in Sub-Saharan Africa.
Fifty Years of Family Planning in the Democratic Republic of the Congo: The Dogged Pursuit of Progress

Jane T. Bertrand
Series: Routledge Studies on Gender and Sexuality in Africa

This book chronicles five decades of struggle to introduce family planning into one of the largest, most complex countries in sub-Saharan Africa: the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC). Interweaving details of major political, social, and economic events into the history of family planning in DRC (formerly Zaire), the book analyses the achievements and setbacks of five decades of programmatic work. The book will be of interest to development and public health researchers and practitioners, as well as to historians of the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

Insidious Trauma in Eastern African Literatures and Cultures

Edited by Norman Saadi Nikro, Denish Odanga, James Odhiambo Ogone, Odour Obura
University of Potsdam, Germany, Obala Musumba
Series: Routledge Studies in African Literature

This book investigates the thematic and conceptual dimensions of insidious trauma in contemporary eastern African literatures and cultural productions. Drawing on different circumstances and experiences across and between the eastern African region, the book explores how emerging cultural practices involve varying modes of narrating, representing, and thematising insidious trauma. Transdisciplinary in scope and showcasing the work of experts from across the region, this book will be an important guide for researchers across literature, media studies, sociology, and trauma studies.

Gender-Inclusive Higher Education in Tanzania: Transforming Academia

Edited by Susan P. Murphy, Perpetua John Uri
Series: Routledge Studies on Gender and Sexuality in Africa

Whilst there is an extensive body of research exploring the barriers to gender equality and female empowerment in high-income states, there are far fewer systematic analyses within lower-income settings. This book draws on extensive empirical data to analyse gender mainstreaming and gender transformative actions in Tanzanian higher education. By bringing together real-world insights from action-based research, the book demonstrates the impact of real-time social change and gender transformation, with implications both for Tanzania and beyond, this book will be of interest to researchers and policy makers across the fields of gender studies, education, and African studies.

Intellectual Decolonisation: Critical Perspectives

Edited by George Hull
University of Cape Town, South Africa

This book puts contemporary calls for decolonisation in context. Featuring an interdisciplinary team of scholars from around the world, the book explores and critically assesses the diverse theoretical visions which inform calls for decolonisation of the mind today. As this book demonstrates, advocates of intellectual decolonisation give very different—and indeed, incompatible—answers to these questions. Critically examining conceptualisations of decolonisation spanning a century and four continents, the book explores what is at stake in the choice between these theoretical alternatives. This book was originally published as a special issue of Social Dynamics.

Higher Education Transformation in Africa: A Quest for Epistemological Rupture

Edited by Emnet Tadesse Woldegigiрисі, Logan Govender, Dennis Zami Atibuni
Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

This book critically interrogates the notion of transformation in higher education, focusing on epistemological and structural issues in postcolonial and contemporary Africa.

Language Matters in Contemporary Zimbabwe

Edited by Collen Sabao, Esther Mavengano
Series: Routledge African Media, Culture and Communication Studies

Speaking to a broader global preoccupation with the state of languages and language development, this book considers issues surrounding the diverse languages, linguistic communities, and cultures of Zimbabwe. Coming at a critical moment of increasing mobility, migration, cultural plurality and globalisation, this book will be an important resource for researchers across African literature, linguistics, communication, policy and politics.
Magical Realism in Africa

Literary and Dramatic Explorations

Edited by Sarali Ginsburg, Kenneth Usongo

Series: Routledge Studies in African Literature

Magical realism has deep roots across many African languages and regions. This book explores African magical realism from a transregional and inclusive approach, drawing on contributions from different literary genres across the continent. The chapters in the book constitute a sustained and insightful reflection on the salient components of this literary genre as well as evaluating its connections to themes of conflict, violence, women's rights, trauma, oppression, culture, governance, and connecting to the African self. This book is a timely contribution to debates within African literature, cultural anthropology, ethnography, and folklore.

Majority State Ownership of Oil and Mining Sectors in Africa

The Resource Curse Undermined

John James Quinn

Series: Routledge Studies on the Political Economy of Africa

Majority State Ownership of Oil and Mining Sectors in Africa: The Resource Curse Undermined shows that countries in sub-Saharan Africa with majority state ownership of their major oil or mineral export sectors suffered from more severe versions of the natural resource curse than other similar countries.

Maye! Maye!

The History and Heritage of the Kwa Mai Mai Market

Sipho Sithole

It explores how the Kwa Mai Mai community, formerly a working class and folklore. This book is a timely contribution to debates within African literature, cultural anthropology, ethnography, and folklore.

Mzala Nxumalo, Leftist Thought and Contemporary South Africa

Edited by Robert J. Balfour

This book discusses the significance of Mzala Nxumalo’s work in the context of contemporary South African left politics. It explores the apartheid era that preceded the advent of democracy and also discusses its history and challenges. The topics covered in this book deal with a wide range of topics, including the new social, economic and political challenges facing democratic South Africa; the need to reexamine the critique of capitalism in the 21st century; the relationship between race, class and community struggles; and the ecological challenges under capitalism. Print edition not for sale in Sub Saharan Africa.

Natural Resource-Based Conflicts in Rural Zimbabwe

Edited by Joshua Matanzima, Patience Chadambuka, Kirk Helliker

Rhodes University, South Africa

Series: Routledge Studies in Peace, Conflict and Security in Africa

This book investigates the range of conflicts over land and other natural resources in contemporary Zimbabwe, considering the different forms these conflicts take, and the ensuing outcomes. Zimbabwe is a country rich in natural resources, including land, wildlife, minerals, and water resources. These resources are integral to the formal and informal livelihoods of most Zimbabweans, as well as supporting many key industries. This book will be useful to policy makers, students, conservationists, and academics across the fields of sociology, human geography, development, political science, and environment studies.

Phonemes, Graphemes and Democracy

The Significance of Accuracy in the Orthographical Development of isiXhosa

Zandisile W. Saul, Rudolph Botha

Cover Image Not Available

This book provides comprehensive guidelines on important aspects of isiXhosa orthography such as word division, spelling and capitalisation. Authors’ primary focus has been those challenging areas of standardisation which have not yet been attended to. The book makes an important contribution to the development of isiXhosa into a fully functional medium of teaching and learning in Higher Education, and facilitate the enhancement of its status as one of South Africa’s official languages. Print edition not for sale in Sub-Saharan Africa.

The Quest for Unity
An Appraisal of Regional Integration in Africa
Edited by Sizo Nkala, David Monyae
Regional integration was identified many years ago as being critical to Africa’s quest to overcome its colonially induced underdevelopment. To encourage this, several potentially significant programmes or projects have been stillborn or inadequately implemented, including the establishment of RECs and operationalisation of AfCFTA. This book provides a deeper insight into pertinent conceptual and theoretical issues of vital importance to Africa’s development. It also presents case studies of several of the RECs, as well as the processes involved in constructing the AfCFTA. Print edition not for sale in Sub Saharan Africa.

The South African Tradition of Racial Capitalism
Edited by Zachary Levenson
This book documents the emergence and development of the theory of racial capitalism in apartheid South Africa. It interrogates the specificity of this theory in the South African context and draws lessons for its global applicability. The volume contributes to a burgeoning literature on the concept of racial capitalism, the origins of which many commentators trace back to apartheid South Africa. It pays particular attention to the crucial role of anti-apartheid activists as theorists, whose important insights remain relevant for scholars and activists around the globe. This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnic and Racial Studies.

The Training of African Teachers in Natal from 1846–1964
Nicolas Schicketanz
The history of African teacher training in Natal is one of the most neglected and under-researched aspects of educational history. This book attempts to set out the administrative history of this field as a first step in stimulating the further research that is so urgently needed. Print edition not for sale in Sub Saharan Africa.

The Routledge Handbook of the New African Diasporic Literature
Edited by Lokangaka Losambe, Tanure Ojaide
The Routledge Handbook of the New African Diasporic Literature introduces world literature readers to the transnational, multivocal writings of immigrant African authors. Covering works produced in Europe, North America, and elsewhere in the world, the book investigates three major aesthetic paradigms in African diasporic literature: the Sankofan wave (late 1960s–early 1990s); the Janusian wave (1990s–2020s); and the Offshoots of the New Arrivants (those born and growing up outside Africa).
Time and Nature in the Poetry of Niyi Osundare
Poetics of Animism, Anthropocene, and Capitalocene

Chukwunwike Anoluoe
Series: Routledge Studies in African Literature
This book provides an ecocritical analysis of the poetry of the famous Nigerian poet Niyi Osundare, interrogating the intricate interface between time and nature in 12 of Osundare’s defining poetry collections. It brings together the ecocritical theory of animism and theories of geologic time in the discussion of Osundare’s poetry. Deploying an interdisciplinary approach that stretches across the fields of literature, religion, geology, physics, economics, and anthropology, this book will be an important read for those looking for fresh ways to understand Osundare’s poetry and African nature writing.

Trends And Tropes
Some Aspects of African Indigenous Literatures of South Africa

Edited by E.D.M. Sibiya, Zilibele Mtumane
This collection explores topical and current issues in indigenous African language literature of South Africa. These include narratological elements of literature, language usage, poetry analysis, and song lyrics. Each scholar presents findings that are particular to their research, thus making the book a valuable source of knowledge penned in a diversity of writing styles across different literary genres. Print edition not for sale in Sub Saharan Africa.

Ubuntu Ethics
Human Dignity, Moral Perfectionism, and Needs

Motsamai Molefe
Series: Routledge Studies in African Philosophy
This book provides a philosophical exposition of Ubuntu ethics, which is grounded in the understanding that ‘a person is a person through other persons’. Written by one of the world’s leading scholars of African philosophy, the book first argues that this focus on umuntu (or, a person) in Ubuntu ethics, as intrinsically valuable, makes ethical humanism and human dignity vitally important. Providing an important guide through Ubuntu ethics as a moral system constructed in terms of moral perfectionism, it will be an important read for researchers of African philosophy, and of the philosophy of virtue ethics and moral perfectionism more generally.

Worlds Apart?
Perspectives on Africa–EU Migration

Edited by Adeoye O. Akinola, Jesper Bjarnesen
This book explores the crucial political and diplomatic issue of migration, which over the past decade, has become a central theme in relations between Africa and Europe. It discusses the diverse perspectives of African and European actors on migration and presents a more just and sustainable migration governance agenda, against the backdrop of the more debated and discussed key policy priorities, drivers, regional dynamics, and actors influencing African–EU migration. Print edition not for sale in Sub Saharan Africa.

Youth in Post-Apartheid South Africa
A Sociological Perspective

Acheampong Yaw Amoateng, Elizabeth Biney
Series: Routledge Contemporary South Africa
This book investigates the life experiences of youth in South Africa, considering whether contemporary youth have benefited from the socioeconomic reconstruction of post-apartheid society. Student protests against apartheid drove transformative change in South Africa, and the subsequent new constitution promised vast positive change for the nation’s youth. The book argues that in 1976 South Africa’s youth became the conscience of the nation when they brought the apartheid regime to its knees during the Soweto uprising. This book will be of interest to researchers across the social sciences, most especially in the fields of Sociology, Demography, Development Studies, and Psychology.

‘Dying’ to be White
The Obsession with Fair Skin in India and the Global South

Purnima Mehta Bhatt
This book examines the phenomenon of colourism in India and the Global South and critically analyses the obsession with fair skin and its association with social capital or mobility. How much did Colonialism and European imperialism contribute to the desire to be white? How has globalisation and the spread of consumer culture and western ideals of beauty helped exacerbate these issues? The author discusses these questions while looking at the aspirations for beauty and modernity among these societies and the growing popularity of the use of creams, lotions, and other methods to whiten the skin as a means to assimilate, emulate the West, and gain better prospects and life.
A People's History of the Farmers' Movement, 2020–2021

Edited by Shamsher Singh, Sabah Siddiqui

Instigated by the contentious farm laws of 2020, the Farmers’ Movement burgeoned into a year-long saga of protest and perseverance, ending only with the withdrawal of the laws on December 13, 2021. From the initial demand for law repeal to the multifaceted growth of the movement, the book traces the journey of the Farmers’ Movement, as each essay dissects the socio-political dynamics, cultural nuances, and mass solidarity that underpinned the protests, including focused analyses from Delhi, Punjab, Haryana, Uttar Pradesh, Rajasthan, Maharashtra, and the Sikh diaspora in the UK.

A Sociology of Journalism in Japan

The Last Empire of the Press

César Castellvi

Series: Nissan Institute/Routledge Japanese Studies

This book represents an in-depth analysis of journalism in Japan during the golden era of the daily press and the gradual introduction of digital technology starting from the mid-1980s to the late 2010s. Based on an extensive ethnographic fieldwork carried out by the author over several years, this book will be of huge interest to students and scholars of Japanese society, journalism and media studies.

Academic Leadership in Higher Education in India

Needs, Issues, and Challenges

Edited by Lokanath Mishra

This volume focuses on the need of establishing good leadership in academic settings and higher education institutions in India. It provides an understanding of the higher education system, knowledge, skills, and experience required for better leadership and management of academic institutions. The book highlights the importance of practising data-driven decision making for leaders of dynamic organisations within a complex social, political, and economic environment.

Accounting for Managers

A Skill-building Approach

Jency Treesa, St. Teresa’s College, Kerala, India.

This book presents fundamental aspects of financial accounting, its basic terminology, the accounting process, and the preparation of a journal, ledger, trial balance, income statement, and balance sheet. This book would be useful to students, researchers, and teachers of financial accounting, accounting, statistics, and business management. The book would also be useful for anyone interested in learning the basic concepts of financial accounting to help them in their daily lives.

Accumulation and Dispossession

Communal Land in Northeast India

Asok Kumar Ray, Bhupen Sarmah, Gorky Chakraborty

This book sketches a road map of privatisation, accumulation and dispossession of communal land in the tribal areas of North East India from pre-colonial times to the neo-liberal era. This title is co-published with Aakar Books. Print edition not for sale in South Asia (India, Sri Lanka, Nepal, Bangladesh, Pakistan and Bhutan).

Affect, Emotion and Sensibility in Modern Japanese Literature

From Natsume Sōseki to Ishimure Michiko

Reiko Abe Auestad

Series: Routledge Research on Asian Literature

This book takes the unique approach of combining cognitive approaches with more established close-reading methods in analyzing a selection of Japanese novels. Rejuvenating previously established cultural theories through a cognitive and emotional lens (narratology, genre theory, historicism, cultural study, gender theory and ecocriticism) this book will appeal to student and scholars of Modern Literature and Japanese Literature.
Asianization of Asia

Edited by Chang Kyung-Sup Seoul National University, South Korea, Kim Taekyooon, Lee Joongkoo
Series: Routledge Contemporary Asia Series
This book explores the Asianization of contemporary Asia, a trend which through neoliberal economic globalization has diluted the political effect of the Euro-American dictated segmentation of Asia and instead facilitated and accelerated socioeconomic exchanges and collaborations among Asian nations themselves. As an interdisciplinary study of South Korea’s industrial, social and cultural integration with other Asian societies in both outbound and inbound directions, this book will be of huge interest to students and scholars of Korean studies, Asian politics, development and sociology.

Audiovisual Translation in India
Trends and Practices

Priyanka Rachabattuni, J. Prabhakar Rao
This book provides a comprehensive introduction to Audiovisual Translation (AVT) in India. It examines the AVT of TV advertisements, analyses trends and practices of AVT in India, and studies the challenges faced by AV translators, including synchronising video with voice/dialogue in advertisements and time and space/text compression for subtitling. The volume studies the interplay of language, culture transfer, and the role of the AV translator in Indian AV advertisement translations and looks at how global advertising impacts local language and culture.

Between Resistance and Conformity
Premchand’s Fiction in Colonial North India
Shailendra Kumar Singh
This book examines the questions of conformity and resistance with respect to Premchand’s literary corpus. Mapping the various complexities of interwar India, it demonstrates how the passive peasant protagonists of the writer’s works present a diametrically opposed definition of dharma as compared to their nationalist counterparts. It also examines the asymmetry between Premchand’s representations of women as compliant domestic subjects and those that portray them as rebel patriots of colonial North India. Print edition not for sale in South Asia (India, Sri Lanka, Nepal, Bangladesh, Pakistan or Bhutan).

Care of Older Persons
Emerging International Perspectives
Edited by Mala Kapur Shankardass
This book explores the implications and significant ethical, social, economic and health challenges that an ageing world population presents. It provides valuable insights on concerns related to providing, organizing, planning and managing care of older persons in both formal and informal settings. As the number of older persons increases rapidly around the globe, caring for them is a very important aspect of all ageing and aged societies. The essays in this book underline a rights-based approach and focus on ethical, social, economic, health and legal aspects of care as they pertain to the universal phenomena of ageing.

Colonial Anthropology
Technologies and Discourses of Dominance, 1886–1936
Edited by Subhadra Mitra Channa
University of Delhi, India, Lancy Lobo Centre for Culture and Development, Vadodara
This book examines the process of domination of a civilization and the creation of a vast empire by the British in India in the late 19th and early 20th century. It explores how they extended and maintained their tenuous rule over India through coercion, violent oppression and exploration of knowledge of this vast region and its people.

Comfort Women of the Japanese Empire
Colonial Rule and the Battle over Memory
Park Yuha
Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia
This is an important and controversial book, hitherto available only in Korean, Japanese and Chinese, a book which has been subject to court cases attempting to have some parts of the book deleted. The author reconsiders the issue of the “comfort women”, that is the Korean women who were compelled to provide sexual comfort to Japanese troops during the Asia-Pacific War. She explores the human complexity of the experiences of these women, who despite terrible exploitation, she feels, cannot and should not only be considered only as passive victims.

Contemporaneity of the Mahabharata Narrative

Epic of the Moment

Edited by Anirban Bhattacharjee, Dhrubajyoti Sarkar

Notwithstanding its renowned comprehensive narrative encapsulation of the Indic culture, the Mahabharata keeps on posing a challenge to its contemporary readers: how do we relate to something over two millennia old in today’s context without freezing it in time? This volume looks at the problem from diverse periods and viewpoints and shows us that this challenge is, in fact, a legacy of the Mahabharata and the responses to this challenge is what makes the text ever-contemporary to different readers of different times and positions.

Creationism in a South Korean Culture
Science, Religion, and the Struggle against Evolution

Hyung Wook Park
Nanyang Technological University, Singapore
Series: Routledge Contemporary Asia Series

Through an intensive study of antievolutionary movement in South Korea during the twentieth and early twenty-first centuries, Park investigates the unexpected success of early Korean creationists. This book argues that South Korea’s creationism stemmed from its past as a developmental state and subsequent democratization and globalization. Creationism reflected the new identifications of some Korean scientists and engineers with evangelical faith, who actively formed their own domain outside of the state hegemony and authority. A valuable reference for scholars interested in the interaction between science and religion in East Asia.

Cultures of Learning
Mapping the New Spaces of Critical Pedagogy in India

Edited by Suresh Babu G.S
Jawaharlal Nehru University, India, Arunima Naithani

This book looks at educational institutions and their role as sites of learning in times of moral and political chaos. It highlights the erosion of critical pedagogical traditions in universities in India and registers the ongoing responses and struggles as educational experiences. This book develops a critical approach by redefining education from the perspective of learning as a political act to experience the complex network of learning activities beyond the confines of educational institutions. It also locates caste, gender and religious hierarchies in schools and universities in India.

Cultures of Modernity and the U.S.-Japan Cold War Alliance

Masami Kimura
Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

Cultures of Modernity and the U.S.-Japan Cold War Alliance reconsiders the origins of postwar U.S.-Japan relations by focusing on “modernization” ideologies that the Americans and the Japanese shared in the 1940s-early 1950s. Mobilizing a wealth of English and Japanese-language sources, the author identifies parallel groups of modernist thinkers in America and Japan and follows how different strands of thought played out within an evolving political environment.

Defending Legal Freedoms in Indonesia

Tim Mann
Series: Routledge Law in Asia

Based on rich ethnographic research, this book charts the developments of the organisation since its founding in 1970, its contribution to the ending of the authoritarian, military-backed New Order (1966-1998), its relative decline in the years following Indonesia’s democratisation and its revival in recent years as Indonesian democracy and human rights come under threat. The author examines the tactics the organisation has used, including show trials and working alongside grassroots communities, organising them and educating them about their rights.

Dalit Counter-publics and the Classroom

Edited by V Geetha, Uma Chakravarti

This book is an anthology of the collected essays of Sharmila Rege (1964 – 2013), which address themes to do with pedagogy and culture. Rege makes a compelling argument for rethinking the content of sociological knowledge and invokes in this context, Anticaste radical philosophies, associated with Mahatma Phule and Babasaheb Ambedkar as well as the writings of Dalit women. Equally, she seeks to rethink and engender the domain of Cultural Studies.

Deliberation in International Institutions

Seebal Aboudounya

This book studies the deliberative dynamics in the International Maritime Organization. The importance of international shipping becomes clear when we realise that almost everything is transported through this mode of transportation; indeed 90% of world trade is carried by those vessels we call ships. This book will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of International Relations and International Politics as well as international public policy practitioners and interested readers worldwide.

East Asian Ethical Life and Socio-Economic Transformation in the Twenty-First Century
The Ethical Sources of the Entrepreneurial Renewal of Companies and Communities
Edited by Carsten Herrmann-Pillath, Qian Zhao
Series: Routledge Studies in the Growth Economies of Asia
This book considers ethical culture in East Asia, examines the impact it has had on economic and social transformation, and explores what effect it might have on solving current problems. It views the ethical culture of East Asia, that is the beliefs, values and practices that define East Asian societies' conceptions of ethics in everyday life, as different from what pertains in the West, with more emphasis in East Asia on respect for ancestors, concern about propriety of behaviour, and notions of community.

Encounters with the Invisible
Revisiting Spirit Possession in the Himalayas
Edited by Marie Lecomte-Tilouine, Anne de Sales
This volume considers spirit possession in the Himalayas and the various ways in which invisible powers are made present. It does so by examining material representations of these powers through artefacts, animals, plants and natural substances, while also focusing on narratives of people’s encounters with the invisible that may help them to reconfigure reality. Through these two approaches, the contributions examine new phenomena associated with the concepts of “possession” and “shamanism”, which otherwise tend to lead research into well-worn furrows.

Engaging with a Nation

Representations of India in the 21st Century

Edited by Siddhartha Biswas
The book looks at the impact that the idea and institution of nationhood have had on the constituents of India in the contemporary postcolonial period. It provides a critical analysis through a variety of perspectives—historical, philosophical, literary, and gendered, and locates the nation and its “discontents,” along with its nationalist agenda firmly within the context of the contemporary perceived modernity. The book also engages with the colonial legacy that the ‘nation’ had to endure for two hundred years.

EU–Central Asian Interactions

Perceptions, Interests and Practices

Edited by Rick Fawn University of St Andrews, UK, Karolina Kluczewska Ghent University, Belgium, Oleg Korneev HSE University, Russia
Series: Central Asian Studies
From limited interactions in the early 1990s, the EU and Central Asia now consider each other to be increasingly important. This book includes 12 chapters written by seasoned and policy-engaged researchers from across Eurasia and the wider world that analyse multiple levels of mutual interactions, understandings and misunderstandings across a range of policy areas. It shows why and in what ways exactly the EU and Central Asia matter to each other and why policy-makers and researchers should pay more attention to their interactions. The chapters in this book were published over three issues of Central Asian Survey.

From Civil War to Soft Authoritarianism
Ethnonationalism and Democratic Regression in Sri Lanka
Neil DeVotta Wake Forest University, USA
Series: Routledge Contemporary South Asia Series
This book shows how Sri Lanka’s civil war gradually undermined liberal democracy and caused the country to regress toward the current soft authoritarian dispensation. In doing so, it introduces the concept of ethnic supererogation, a governing system built around the notion that a majority ethnic group and/or the state could go beyond the standard expectations to accommodate minority concerns and institute incentives for ethnic minorities to operate within a united state so as to preclude dissension and secession.

It explores Gramsci’s historicism which is sensitive to historical, regional and national differences and its relevance in post-colonial societies.
Hindi Cinema and Pakistan
Screening the Idea and the Reality
Meenakshi Bharat
University of Delhi, India
Ever since the 1947 partition of the Indian subcontinent, Mumbai-based Hindi cinema has been returning compulsively to the idea of Pakistan, sometimes as the desirable other, sometimes as the horrifying antagonist. Hindi Cinema and Pakistan traces the genesis and development of this theme in Hindi cinema in the 1950s, showcasing its relevance as a tool that both reflects and shapes how India sees its neighbour, the India–Pakistan relationship, and itself.

Home Across Borders
The Ethnography of Sri Lankan Immigrants in Australia
Jagath Bandara Pathirage
This book studies how transnational migrants create a sense of home in their host countries. It draws on case studies of Sri Lankan migrants living in Australia to argue that "home" is an existential experience rather than a fixed entity. The author looks at how the sense of home arises as a fresh category which is critical in defining one's existentiality in the host society.

Hindutva before Hindutva
Selected Writings and Discourses of Chandranath Basu in Translation
Edited by Amiya P. Sen
This book weaves the past with the present to trace and analyse the distinctive but reiterative evocations of Hindutva ideology in the modern-colonial period. It studies the concept of Hindutva as understood by its first major spokesperson Chandranath Basu, a formidable late 19th-century scholar-critic. The author examines the new rhetoric that has shaped Hindu ideologies in a colonial-modern context by foregrounding debates between Chandranath Basu and radical revisionists such as Rabindranath Tagore. It provides original translations of Basu’s works and brings to light a long-neglected professional literary critic.

Hunter, Peasant, Rebel

Colonialism and the British Assam Frontier

Manjeet Baruah
Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi

Series: Empire and Frontiers

British Assam holds an important place in the history of the British Empire in South Asia. This is especially so in the context of colonial frontier-making. It is in this regard that the book examines what it culturally meant to be a hunter, peasant or rebel between the late nineteenth and mid-twentieth century in the British Assam frontier. Using a wide spectrum of archival sources, the hunters’ memoirs, the peasants’ ballads, and a rebel’s worldview are examined as the cultural forms through which one can study these relations that generated the sense of colonial reality in these figures.

Japan in the 1960s
Ten Years of Turning Points
Edited by Robert D. Eldridge, Jason M. Morgan
Reitaku University, Japan
Series: Inside East Asia
This book is the first to see the 1960s as a historical subject in its own right and argues that the specificity and internal complexity rooted in East Asia during this period showed how East Asians were dynamic agents in shaping the decade. From street battles over Japan’s security treaty with the United States, to a peace treaty with the former Japanese territory of South Korea, to Japan’s hosting the 1964 Summer Olympics, the 1960s in Japan was a decade of nationalism, modern history, Central Asian, Eastern European society, and the global positioning of Japan. With exercises, discussion points, and reflective questions throughout, Japan: The Basics is an engaging introduction to the culture, society, and the global positioning of Japan. With exercises, discussion points, and reflective questions throughout, Japan: The Basics is ideal starting point for all those studying Japan.

Keramat, Sacred Relics and Forbidden Idols in Singapore
William L. Gibson
Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series
Keramat, holy graves and shrines, represent physical markers of Singapore’s history as a multi-ethnic maritime trading center. They offered sanctified spaces not only for Muslims but the entire community in which they were found. This book concludes by critically examining the often-tense relationship between keramat and authority, both secular and religious, from colonial to modern times. The dilemmas of grappling with puritanical norms and grassroots elaborations in varying modes of preservation are investigated here. A vital resource for scholars, it contributes to a people’s history of Singapore, one that both deepens and problematizes official historical accounts.

Kinship as Fiction
Exploring the Dynamism of Intimate Relationships in India
Edited by Anindita Majumdar, Yoko Taguchi
Bringing together emerging ethnographies on kinship in South Asia, this book explores the idea of kinship as ‘fiction’ in intimate relationships. This edited volume resurrects the idea of fiction and fictive-ness to understand how intimate relationships may use these particular labels, translate into practices, or create an experiential understanding around ideas. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Contemporary South Asia.
Knowledge, Power and Ignorance
The Indian Context

Edited by Bidhan Kanti Das, Gorky Chakraborty
Associate Professor, Institute of Development Studies
Kolkata, India, Abhijit Guha

This volume seeks to be premised in a framework where ignorance is understood as being a socially produced and maintained phenomenon, where the ways of knowing and not knowing are interdependent. It is a novel attempt for an academic re-orientation of the Knowledge–Ignorance paradigm through a process of re-interpretation of the bounded purview attached with the existing epistemological understandings. This interdisciplinary volume will be of interest to a cross-section of academics and students of sociology, social anthropology, political science, human geography, history, public policy and development studies.

Territorializing the Chinese Nation-State

Cartography, Geopolitics, and Huang Maocai’s Mission to India (1878–1880)

Edited by Kamal Sheel, Ranjana Sheel

This book is the first annotated translation of the travelogues of Huang Maocai. A trained Chinese cartographer in the service of the imperial Qing state, he was officially deputed to ascertain the Tibet-India land route and the geo-political status of British India in the 19th century. His travelogues are the first authoritative modern Chinese texts exploring the physical and ideological connections between China and India. Unpublished for a long time, and so far, unavailable in an English translation, these texts provide meaning to many key issues that enshroud the concepts of civilization and nation.

The Abolition of the Ottoman Caliphate, 1924

Debates and Implications

Edited by Elisa Giunchi, Nicola Melis
Series: Durham Modern Middle East and Islamic World Series

This book explores the decision by the Grand National Assembly of Turkey in 1924 to abolish the caliphate. The Ottoman sultans had long borne the title of caliphs of Islam, with all the prestigious authority throughout the Muslim world which went with it, and even after the demise of the sultanate in 1922 the caliphate retained great symbolic relevance. The book considers the questions that arose with its abolition, including whether or not the caliphate should be revived, reformed or replaced by other forms of political affiliation and organization.

The Indian Farmers’ Protest of 2020–2021
Agrarian Crisis, Dissent and Identity

Edited by Christine Moliner, David Singh
Series: Social Movements and Transformative Dissent

The Kisan Andolan or the Indian farmers’ protest is one of the longest, biggest (and victorious) social movements in the history of independent India. This book adopts a multi-disciplinary approach to contextualize the movement in the long run. It engages with the historical, social, and religious roots of the Andolan, examining what makes it so unique and transformative for Indian polity.

The Labyrinth of Love
A Tale of Latin American Romance

Alberto Castelli

This book studies the various narrative shades of love in twentieth century Latin American fiction. It examines writings by Isabel Allende, Roberto Ait, Garcia Márquez, and Mario Vargas Llosa. The author provides a close textual reading of each novel and discusses how humans make sense of their lives through love. He shifts the focus of these writings from political violence and historical disillusionment to the illusion of love.

The Making of Contemporary Kuwait
Identity, Politics, and its Survival Strategy

Edited by Mahjoob Zweiri Qatar University, Qatar, Sinem Cengiz

Series: Durham Modern Middle East and Islamic World Series

This book explores the contemporary history, governance, foreign policy, political economy, culture and society of Kuwait. It highlights the dynamics of the country, putting forward both an overview of each subject covered and also new research findings. It begins by providing an historical understanding of Kuwait and goes on to examine state structure, including the ruling monarchy, state legitimacy, and the creation of the constitution and the National Assembly. It considers foreign policy, including the tools of diplomacy, the state’s regional and international approach, and the factors that have formed and reformed Kuwait's strategic policy in the global arena.

The New BJP
Modi and the Making of the World’s Largest Political Party

Nalin Mehta

This book examines how the BJP became the world’s largest political party. It goes beyond the usual narrative of the party’s Hindutva politics to explain how, under Narendra Modi, the party reshaped the Indian polity using its own brand of social engineering. According to the findings of this book, this reconstruction was cleverly powered by new caste coalitions, the claim of a new welfare state that focused on marginalised social groups and the making of a women-voter base. Print edition not for sale in South Asia (Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Nepal, Pakistan and Sri Lanka).

The Order of Destruction
Monoculture in Colonial Caribbean Literature, c. 1640-1800
Heinrich Wilke
Series: Transdisciplinary Souths
This book studies sugarcane monoculture, the dominant form of cultivation in the colonial Caribbean, in the later 1600s and 1700s up to the Haitian Revolution. Researching travel literature, plantation manuals, Georgic poetry, letters, and political proclamations, this book interprets texts by Richard Ligon, Henry Drax, James Grainger, Janet Schav, and Toussaint Louverture. His study will be of interest to literary critics and historians working in the early Americas, to students and scholars of agriculture, colonialism, and (racial) capitalism, to those working in the environmental humanities, and to Marxist academics.

The Plural Social Sphere
Insights from Contemporary Indian Society
Edited by Sakarama Somayaji The Energy and Resources Institute (TERI), India, Ganesh Somayaji, Joanna P. Coelho
This book reiterates pluralism as the basic feature of the Indian social sphere. It highlights challenges to the continuity of the plural fabric of India’s society and culture. Acknowledging that socio-political concerns on women’s issues do not always find adequate representation in social science texts, the book explores issues and policies related to gender.

The Political Economy of Hungarian Authoritarian Populism
Capitalists without the Right Kind of Capital
Samuel Rogers
Series: BASEES/Routledge Series on Russian and East European Studies
This book emphasises the importance of state-business relations and external capital for structuring and strengthening authoritarian populism in Hungary. It argues these capitalist relations are crucial to understanding the economic aspects of this ideology, which has developed in the country since 2010. The book investigates both “internal” and “external” legs of the Hungarian political economy. First how a politically loyal national capital owning class has subsumed domestic business. Second the government’s operationalisation of “new” inward transnational capital inflows to finance large-scale infrastructure projects, which complement extant investment particularly from Germany.

Emerging Negotiations

Tribal societies in India observe a diverse set of religious practices which are a quintessential part of their community life. This handbook explores rituals, beliefs, ceremonies and festivals, liturgy, knowledge and traditions that tribal people practice today and traces the history of their interaction with other religions, communities and cultures. It looks at the interactive spaces where the religious practices of tribes and other communities have changed and adapted through the years in contemporary India. It will also be useful for academicians, educationalists, educators, curriculum developers, and general public readers interested in understanding the sustainability challenges.

This handbook illustrates the potential of education as a tool for institutional leadership, educational program development, and developing course and lecture materials. It focuses on the challenges of sustainable development and explains how these challenges require a revised pedagogical approach in preparing modern students for the 21st century. This unique handbook will be of interest to students, teachers, and researchers of education, higher education, sustainability, and sustainable development. It will also be useful for academicians, educationalists, educators, curriculum developers, and general public readers interested in understanding the sustainability challenges.

This handbook maps and analyses cross-sector (public–corporate–social–community–faith) governance theories, models and practices as they are evolving in a digital world.

This handbook explores the diversity of religious practice in tribal cultures in India. It looks at the interactive spaces where the religious practices of tribes and other communities have changed and adapted through the years in contemporary India. Tribe as a social category emerged in India during the colonial period; this handbook departs from the conventional approaches to studying ‘tribal religion’ and analyses the intersections of spirituality, rituals, gender and identities within tribal religion through a cross-cultural and pan-Indian perspective.
The Russian Revolution of 1917 - Memory and Legacy

Edited by Carol S. Leonard, Daniel Orlovsky, Jurej Petrov
Series: BASEES/Routledge Series on Russian and East European Studies

The way in which the Russian Revolution of October 1917 is regarded and commemorated has changed considerably over time, and is a contentious subject, well demonstrated by the absence of any official commemoration in Russia in 2017, a huge contrast to the very large celebrations which took place in Soviet times. This book, which brings together a range of leading historians of the Russian Revolution – from both Russia and the West, and both younger and older historians – explores the changes in the way in which the October 1917 Revolution is commemorated, and also examines fundamental questions about what the Russian Revolution – indeed what any revolution – was anyway.

The Struggle for Abolition

Power and Legitimacy in Multilateral Nuclear Disarmament Diplomacy

Kjølv Egeland

This book investigates the pursuit by states, civil society groups, and international organisations of nuclear abolition. Detailing the evolution of the institutional architecture for multilateral nuclear disarmament from the 1960s onwards, The Struggle for Abolition tells a story of high hopes, broken promises, and clashing views of history, security, and the future. The book concludes with a discussion of policy implications and a reflection on successes and failures in the history of multilateral nuclear disarmament. The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of diplomacy, history, and politics and international relations.

The Taiwan Question in Xi Jinping’s Era

Beijing’s Evolving Taiwan Policy and Taiwan’s Internal and External Dynamics

Edited by Suisheng Zhao

How has Beijing’s Taiwan policy evolved? What is the support for armed reunification among the Chinese people? And how have Taiwan’s internal dynamics and external relations changed in response to Beijing’s evolving policy toward Taiwan? These are crucially important questions that this edited volume delves into and hopes to answer. This book will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese foreign policy, Taiwan studies and cross-Strait relations, Political Science, International Relations as well as Asian politics. The chapters in this book were originally published in the Journal of Contemporary China and are accompanied by a new Introduction.

The Trial That Shook Britain

How a Court Martial Hastened Acceptance of Indian Independence

Ashis Ray

The Indian National Army trials of 1945–46 have generally been given short shrift by historians in their cataloguing of the Indian freedom movement. This book examines to what extent the trials had an impact on the final phase of India’s quest for independence. In so doing, it unveils that, while the Indian National Congress’ extended odyssey was essentially about a passive push-back, at a critical juncture of its campaign to extinguish British colonialism in India, it appauled and capitalised on the INA’s use of force.

The US Navy and the South China Sea

American, Chinese, and Vietnamese Maritime Relations, 1945-2023

Bruce A Elleman

This book explores the question “Why is the US Navy in the South China Sea at all?” It traces the history of diplomatic, economic, and military tensions among the People’s Republic of China, the Soviet Union, the United States, and the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, outlining the origins of the United States–Vietnam relationship during the immediate post-World War II period, the turmoil of the Vietnam War during which China supported North Vietnam against a US-backed South Vietnam and the decision of the US government to open relations with China beginning in 1972.

The Working of the Indian Constitution

Edited by Arghya Sengupta, Goyal Omita

The Indian Constitution has held the country together for 75 years now. This volume demonstrates the Constitution is not a static document and has seen several amendments and interpretations over the years. It delves into how the document has worked for the people since its adoption — its strengths and weaknesses, its many interpretations, how it has influenced and shaped our collective over time and in turn been shaped by the people.
Theorizing a Bengali Nation
Abul Hashim and the United Bengal Movement, 1937–1947
Sucharita Sen
This book explores the philosophical and political roots of the United Bengal movement of 1947 that emerged as a final bid to keep the province united against Partition. Through Abul Hashim, one of its architects, it explores the idea of an independent Bengali nation in the years preceding independence and examines the underlying tensions of the concept of a Muslim-led independent Bangalistaan and its repercussions on a sizeable Hindu minority. A major, new intervention, this book will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of modern Indian history, especially the Partition, politics and South Asian studies.

Towards a New Paradigm on Post-truth
Anam Kuraishi
This book reconceptualises the idea of ‘post-truth’. It does not limit the domain of post-truth to the production factories of fake news. Drawing on examples such as Trump, War on Terror, anti-vaccination, climate change denial, denial of scientific facts about smoking and so forth, it analyses the concept through a new theoretical lens which focuses on the specificity of post-truth discourses. It will be essential reading for students, scholars and researchers of media and communication studies, politics and South Asian studies.

Theory Building for Hypothesis Specification in Organizational Studies
Badrinarayan Pawar

A hypothesis has a significant role in research methodology and theory building is a major step in the research process. This book is a comprehensive guide to theory-building for hypothesis specification in academic research in organizational studies.

Traditional Malay Monarchy
Haji Awg Asbol bin Haji Mail
Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia
This book brings to an English-speaking audience detailed scholarship originally conceived and written in the Malay language and with a Malay perspective. It examines the nature of monarchy in the Malay world, which includes present-day Malaysia and Indonesia, before and during the onset of Western colonialism when the Malay world was ruled by a large number of separate Muslim sultanates. It highlights that monarchs were the highest authority in the social, political, legal and economic system, rather than the government of a clearly defined territory; the notion of Dewaraja and what a model monarch’s attributes should be; and how the monarch’s role related to Islamic principles.

Nimit Chowdhary, Monika Prakash
This book provides a comprehensive overview of marketing for the tourism and hospitality industry. With a focus on the Indian subcontinent, it explores various frameworks and marketing strategies and their application in diverse areas and markets.

Trafficking and Sex Work in Cambodia
Larissa Sandy
Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series
This book shows how policies to combat human trafficking and regulate sex work have shaped both the structure of the modern Cambodian sex industry and sex workers’ experiences. It is rich in empirical detail, based on extensive long-term fieldwork and in-depth interviews and highly original, as the author describes the largely undocumented experiences of male and female sex workers to show how sex work remains prevalent in Cambodia and continues to be a dynamic terrain responding to global and local socioeconomic forces and moulded by government control and people’s constantly changing social and sexual tastes.

Visibilities and Invisibilities of Race and Racism
Toward a New Global Dialogue
Edited by Yasuko Takezawa
Kansai Gaidai University, Japan, Faye V. Harrison
University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign, USA, Akio Tanabe
Kyoto University, Japan
Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology
Takezawa, Harrison, Tanabe and their contributors present a multi-sited, transnational, and intercultural perspective on racism, shifting its emphasis away from the conventional North Atlantic interpretive frameworks to better understand its fundamental nature. The strength of this work lies in its exploration of the varied modalities of race and racism, particularly those that deviate from the conventional, visibly identifiable notions of race, thus broadening the understanding of racism beyond traditional paradigms. An important contribution to the re-worlding of the study of racism, for scholars, researchers and students of anthropology, sociology and ethnic studies.

Women in Bengal
In Reality and Through Representations
Edited by Sudarshana Sen
University of Gour Banga, India
Series: Routledge Research on Gender in Asia Series
This book analyses the status of women in Bengal, India, by examining the versatile everyday living conditions of women, and how they are represented as individuals and a category in the media. Organized into two sections the book presents women in reality, their living conditions, struggles and women as represented in films, stories, framed in plots sometimes by women and sometimes by men. This book improves our understanding of various dimensions of gender and transgender relations in India. It will be of interest to researchers in Gender Studies, South Asian Culture and Society and Studies on India.

Vulnerable Communities in Neoliberal India
Perspectives from a Feminist Ethnographic Approach
Edited by Deepanshu Mohan
Jindal Global University, India, Sakshi Chindaliya
Jindal Global University, India, Ashika Thomas
London School of Economics and Political Science, UK
Series: Routledge Contemporary South Asia Series
This book offers an ethnographic critique of modern, neoliberal India from the perspective of studying the daily lives-livelihoods of vulnerable communities residing in the urban, peri-urban spaces across the nation. The diverse range of ethnographic case studies further explore the invisibilization of the growing informal sector in India’s labor market, studied through the applied concepts of Gayatri Spivak’s othering, Doreen Massey’s power geometries and Pierre Bourdieu’s (fractured) habitus. A useful read for scholars and policymakers interested in understanding intersectional applications of development studies in context of the unsecured workforce in India.
‘Dying’ to be White
The Obsession with Fair Skin in India and the Global South

Purnima Mehta Bhatt
This book examines the phenomenon of colourism in India and the Global South and critically analyses the obsession with fair skin and its association with social capital or mobility. How much did Colonialism and European imperialism contribute to the desire to be white? How has globalisation and the spread of consumer culture and western ideals of beauty helped exacerbate these issues? The author discusses these questions while looking at the aspirations for beauty and modernity among these societies and the growing popularity of the use of creams, lotions, and other methods to whiten the skin as a means to assimilate, emulate the West, and gain better prospects and life.

A People’s History of the Farmers’ Movement, 2020–2021

Edited by Shamsher Singh, Sabah Siddiqui
Instigated by the contentious farm laws of 2020, the Farmers’ Movement burgeoned into a year-long saga of protest and perseverance, ending only with the withdrawal of the laws on December 13, 2021. From the initial demand for law repeal to the multifaceted growth of the movement, the book traces the journey of the Farmers’ Movement, as each essay dissects the socio-political dynamics, cultural nuances, and mass solidarity that underpinned the protests, including focussed analyses from Delhi, Punjab, Haryana, Uttar Pradesh, Rajasthan, Maharashtra, and the Sikh diaspora in the UK.

Asianization of Asia

Edited by Chang Kyung-Sup
Seoul National University, South Korea, Kim Taekyoon, Lee Joonkoo
Series: Routledge Contemporary Asia Series

This book explores the Asianization of contemporary Asia, a trend which through neoliberal economic globalization has diluted the political effect of the EuroAmerican dictated segmentation of Asia and instead facilitated and accelerated socioeconomic exchanges and collaborations among Asian nations themselves. As an interdisciplinary study of South Korea’s industrial, social and cultural integration with other Asian societies in both outbound and inbound directions, this book will be of huge interest to students and scholars of Korean studies, Asian politics, development and sociology.

Between Resistance and Conformity

Shailendra Kumar Singh

This book examines the questions of conformity and resistance with respect to Premchand’s literary corpus. Mapping the various complexes of intertextuality, it demonstrates how the passive peasant protagonists of the writer’s works present a diametrically opposed definition of dharma as compared to their nationalist counterparts. It also examines the asymmetry between Premchand’s representations of women as compliant domestic subjects and those that portray them as rebel patriots of colonial North India. Care of Older Persons

Emerging International Perspectives

Independent Consultant

This book explores the implications and significant ethical, social, economic and health challenges that an ageing world population presents. It provides valuable insights on concerns related to providing, organizing, planning and managing care of older persons in both formal and informal settings. As the number of older persons increases rapidly around the globe, caring for them is a very important aspect of all ageing and aged societies. The essays in this book underline a rights-based approach and focus on ethical, social, economic, health and legal aspects of care as they pertain to the universal phenomena of ageing.

Britain and Japan in the 1973 Middle East Oil Crisis

Washington’s Silent Partners

Erika Miller

University of Niigata Prefecture, Japan
Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

Using important primary sources from Japan, Britain, and the United States—including recently declassified Japanese documents that had not previously been examined—this book contends that previous literature failed to address the important role of Britain and Japan and their political impact on the development in the historical events of 1973 and 1974. Miller argues that the support from both countries enabled the United States to take the lead in the peace process as well as in discussions to resolve the energy crisis. An insightful read for scholars interested in the Arab-Israeli conflict and the tensions between Arab oil producing countries and developed consumer countries.

Citizenship, Belonging, and the Partition of India

Edited by Neeti Nair. University of Virginia, USA

This book revisits the aftermath of the partition of 1947, and the war of 1971, to examine some of the longer-term consequences of the remaking of borders across South Asia. From the eastern frontier of Assam to the westernmost reaches of Gujarat and Sindh, the chapters in this volume study the “minority question” and show how it has manifested in different regional contexts. The essays argue that a deep dive into how people have been affected by border-making and remaking in each of these frontier regions is integral to understanding the “big picture” that is South Asia. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Asian Affairs.

Colonial Anthropology

Edited by Subhadra Mitra Channa. University of Delhi, India, Lancy Lobo Centre for Culture and Development, Vadodara

This book examines the process of domination of a civilisation and the creation of a vast empire by the British in India in the late 19th and early 20th century. It explores how they extended and maintained their tenuous rule over India through coercion, violent oppression and exploration of knowledge of this vast region and its people.

Comfort Women of the Japanese Empire
Colonial Rule and the Battle over Memory

Park Yuha

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

This is an important and controversial book, hitherto available only in Korean, Japanese and Chinese, a book which has been subject to court cases attempting to have some parts of the book deleted. The author reconsiders the issue of the “comfort women”, that is the Korean women who were compelled to provide sexual comfort to Japanese troops during the Asia-Pacific War. She explores the human complexity of the experiences of these women, who despite terrible exploitation, she feels, cannot and should not only be considered only as passive victims.

Creationism in a South Korean Culture
Science, Religion, and the Struggle against Evolution

By Hyung Wook Park
Nanyang Technological University, Singapore
Series: Routledge Contemporary Asia Series

Through an intensive study of antievolutionary movement in South Korea during the twentieth and early twenty-first centuries, Park investigates the unexpected success of early Korean creationists. This book argues that South Korea’s creationism stemmed from its past as a developmental state during the Cold War but proliferated further amid subsequent democratization and globalization. Creationism reflected the new identifications of some Korean scientists and engineers with evangelical faith, who actively formed their own domain outside of the state hegemony and authority. A valuable reference for scholars interested in the interaction between science and religion in East Asia.

Cultures of Learning
Mapping the New Spaces of Critical Pedagogy in India

Edited by Suresh Babu G.S Jawaharlal Nehru University, India, Arunima Naithani
This book looks at educational institutions and their role as sites of learning in times of moral and political chaos. It highlights the erosion of critical pedagogical traditions in universities in India and registers the ongoing responses and struggles as educational experiences. This book develops a critical approach by redefining education from the perspective of learning as a political act to experience the complex network of learning activities beyond the confines of educational institutions. It also locates caste, gender and religious hierarchies in schools and universities in India.

Cultures of Modernity and the U.S.-Japan Cold War Alliance

Masami Kimura
Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia
Cultures of Modernity and the U.S.-Japan Cold War Alliance reconsiders the origins of postwar U.S.-Japan relations by focusing on "modernization" ideologies that the Americans and the Japanese shared in the 1940s-early 1950s. Mobilizing a wealth of English and Japanese-language sources, the author identifies parallel groups of modernist thinkers in America and Japan and follows how different strands of thought played out within an evolving political environment.

Dalit Counter-publics and the Classroom
A Sharmila Rege Reader

Edited by V Geetha, Uma Chakravarti
This book is an anthology of the collected essays of Sharmila Rege (1964 – 2013), which addresses themes to do with pedagogy and culture. Rege makes a compelling argument for rethinking the content of sociological knowledge and invokes in this context, Anticaste radical philosophies, associated with Mahatma Phule and Babasaheb Ambedkar as well as the writings of Dalit women. Equally, she seeks to rethink and engender the domain of Cultural Studies.

Defending Legal Freedoms in Indonesia
The Indonesian Legal Aid Foundation and Cause Lawyering in an Age of Democratic Decline

Tim Mann
Series: Routledge Law in Asia
Based on rich ethnographic research, this book charts the developments of the organisation since its founding in 1970, its contribution to the ending of the authoritarian, military-backed New Order (1966-1998), its relative decline in the years following Indonesia’s democratisation and its revival in recent years as Indonesian democracy and human rights come under threat. The author examines the tactics the organisation has used, including show trials and working alongside grassroots communities, organising them and educating them about their rights.

Encounters with the Invisible: Revisiting Spirit Possession in the Himalayas

Edited by Marie Lecomte-Tilouine, Anne de Sales

This volume considers spirit possession in the Himalayas and the various ways in which invisible powers are made present. It does so by examining material representations of these powers through artefacts, animals, plants and natural substances, while also focusing on narratives of people’s encounters with the invisible that may help them to reconfigure reality. Through these two approaches, the contributions examine new phenomena associated with the concepts of “possession” and “shamanism”, which otherwise tend to lead research into well-worn furrows.

Hindutva before Hindutva
Selected Writings and Discourses of Chandranath Basu in Translation
Edited by Amiya P. Sen

This book weaves the past with the present to trace and analyse the distinctive but retentive evocations of Hindutva ideology in the modern-colonial period. It studies the concept of Hindutva as understood by its first major spokesperson Chandranath Basu, a formidable late 19th-century scholar-critic. The author examines the new rhetoric that has shaped Hindu ideologies in a colonial-modern context by foregrounding debates between Chandranath Basu and radical revisionists such as Rabindranath Tagore. It provides original translations of Basu’s works and brings to light a long-neglected professional literary critic.

Hindi Cinema and Pakistan
Screening the Idea and the Reality
Meenakshi Bharat

Ever since the 1947 partition of the Indian subcontinent, Mumbai-based Hindi cinema has been returning compulsively to the idea of Pakistan, sometimes as the desirable other, sometimes as the horrifying antagonist. Hindi Cinema and Pakistan traces the genesis and development of this theme in Hindi cinema in the 1950s, showcasing its relevance as a tool that both reflects and shapes how India sees its neighbour, the India–Pakistan relationship, and itself.

Hunter, Peasant, Rebel
Colonialism and the British Assam Frontier

Manjeet Baruah Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi
Series: Empire and Frontiers
British Assam holds an important place in the history of the British Empire in South Asia. This is especially so in the context of colonial frontier-making. It is in this regard that the book examines what it culturally meant to be a hunter, peasant or rebel between the late nineteenth and mid-twentieth century in the British Assam frontier. Using a wide spectrum of archival sources, the hunters’ memoirs, the peasants’ ballads, and a rebel’s worldview are examined as the cultural forms through which one can study these relations that generated the sense of colonial reality in these figures.

A useful guide to ancient Indian texts, the book will be indispensable for students and researchers of mythology and classical literature, literary and critical theory, Indian literature, Sanskrit studies, and South Asian studies.

Indianizing India
Thinkers Whose Ideas Shaped a Nation
Bidyut Chakrabarty University of Delhi, India
This book presents a comprehensive portrait of how Indians conceived of the idea of India. It highlights the diverse traditions and intellectual threads that contributed to the making of a vibrant democracy. It examines the different ideas of India through 14 eminent Indian thinkers and highlights how ancient and modern intellectual discourses coalesced with the aspirations of ordinary Indians under the yoke of colonialism. Accessibly written, this book is essential reading for students and researchers of Indian political thought, modern history, political science, and South Asian studies.

India’s Development Partnership
Expanding Vistas
Edited by Nutan Kapoor Mahawar, Dhrubajyoti Bhattacharjee
India’s foreign policy is based on the principle of “Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam”—the world is one family. Despite resource constraints, India shares its developmental experience and technical expertise with other developing countries as part of its commitment to South-South cooperation. This edited volume compiles views and papers presented at a seminar on India’s Development Partnership, marking ten years of the Development Partnership Administration. Print edition not for sale in South Asia (India, Sri Lanka, Nepal, Bangladesh, Pakistan and Bhutan).
Indigeneity, Marginality and the State in Bangladesh

Homeless at Home

Nasir Uddin University of Chittagong, Bangladesh

This book explores the critical linkages between indigeneity, marginality, and the state in Bangladesh. Indigeneity is progressively gaining currency in politics and thereby becoming an active force in the larger context of national activism with transnational patronage and international support. Drawing on comprehensive and solid ethnographic accounts, the book offers a broader understanding of the process of marginalisation and the emergence of new leadership among the Khumi, an indigenous group of Bangladesh.

Japan in the 1960s
Ten Years of Turning Points
Edited by Robert D. Eldridge, Jason M. Morgan. Reitaku University, Japan
Series: Inside East Asia
This book is the first to see the 1960s as a historical subject in its own right and argues that the specificity and internal complexity rooted in East Asia during this period showed how East Asians were dynamic agents in shaping the decade. From street battles over Japan's security treaty with the United States, to a peace treaty with the former Japanese territory of South Korea, to Japan's hosting the 1964 Summer Olympics, the 1960s in Japan was a decade of turning points. An important volume for historians, political scientists, sociologists, and other scholars interested in cutting-edge history-writing about a transformative ten-year period in East Asia.

A Momentous Decade
Edited by Gilbert Rozman. Princeton University, USA, Brad Glosserman
Series: Routledge Studies on the Asia-Pacific Region
Rozman and Glosserman follow a momentous decade in the transformation of Japanese foreign policy from 2013 to 2023 that unveils Japan in a new light as a leading power more closely aligned with the United States than ever before but with distinct aspirations. A vital read for students of international relations in the Indo-Pacific and of Japan and advanced undergraduate courses on Japanese foreign policy, Asian regional studies and comparative international.

Keramat, Sacred Relics and Forbidden Idols in Singapore
William L. Gibson
Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series
Keramat, holy graves and shrines, represent physical markers of Singapore's history as a multi-ethnic maritime trading center. They offered sanctified spaces not only for Muslims but the entire community in which they were found. This book concludes by critically examining the often-tense relationship between keramat and authority, both secular and religious, from colonial to modern times. The dilemmas of grappling with puritanical norms and grassroots elaborations in varying modes of preservation are investigated here. A vital resource for scholars, it contributes to a people's history of Singapore, one that both deepens and problematizes official historical accounts.
Kinship as Fiction
Exploring the Dynamism of Intimate Relationships in India

Edited by Anindita Majumdar, Yoko Taguchi

Bringing together emerging ethnographies on kinship in South Asia, this book explores the idea of kinship as ‘fiction’ in intimate relationships. This edited volume resurrects the idea of fiction and fictive-ness to understand how intimate relationships may use these particular labels, translate into practices, or create an experiential understanding around relationships. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Contemporary South Asia.

Knowledge, Power and Ignorance
The Indian Context

Edited by Bidhan Kanti Das, Gorky Chakraborty

Associate Professor, Institute of Development Studies Kolkata, India, Abhijit Guha

This volume seeks to be premised in a framework where ignorance is understood as being a socially produced and maintained phenomenon, where the ways of knowing and not knowing are interdependent. It is a novel attempt for an academic re-orientation of the Knowledge–Ignorance paradigm through a process of re-interpretation of the bounded purview attached with the existing epistemological understandings. This interdisciplinary volume will be of interest to a cross-section of academics and students of sociology, social anthropology, political science, human geography, history, public policy and development studies.

The Abolition of the Ottoman Caliphate, 1924

Debates and Implications

Edited by Elisa Giunchi, Nicola Melis

Series: Durham Modern Middle East and Islamic World Series

This book explores the decision by the Grand National Assembly of Turkey in 1924 to abolish the caliphate. The Ottoman sultans had long borne the title of caliphs of Islam, with all the prestigious authority throughout the Muslim world which went with it, and even after the demise of the sultanate in 1922 the caliphate retained great symbolic relevance. The book considers the questions that arose with its abolition, including whether or not the caliphate should be revived, reformed or replaced by other forms of political affiliation and organization.

Series: Durham Modern Middle East and Islamic World Series
This book explores the contemporary history, governance, foreign policy, political economy, culture and society of Kuwait. It highlights the dynamics of the country, putting forward both an overview of each subject covered and also new research findings. It begins by providing an historical understanding of state formation and goes on to examine state structure, including the ruling monachy, state legitimacy, and the creation of the constitution and the National Assembly. It considers foreign policy, including the tools of diplomacy, the state’s regional and international approach, and the factors that have formed and reformed Kuwait’s strategic policy in the global arena.

The New BJP
Modi and the Making of the World’s Largest Political Party

Nalin Mehta
This book examines how the BJP became the world’s largest political party. It goes beyond the usual narrative of the party’s Hindutva politics to explain how, under Narendra Modi, the party reshaped the Indian polity using its own brand of social engineering. According to the findings of this book, this reconstruction was cleverly powered by new caste coalitions, the claim of a new welfare state that focused on marginalised social groups and the making of a women-voter base. Print edition not for sale in South Asia (Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Nepal, Pakistan and Sri Lanka).
The New World Politics of the Indo-Pacific

Perceptions, Policies and Interests

Edited by Josukutty C A University of Kerala, India, Joyce Sabina Lobo St Aloysius College (Autonomous), India

Series: Indo-Pacific in Context

The book offers vivid analysis of new geopolitics in the Indo-Pacific in terms of big power rivalry between US-China and country-wise perspectives situating largely within the late 2000s and culminates with developments of the COVID 19 period. It captures the mosaic of stakeholders—rivals the US and China along with Russia; other QUAD members Australia, India, and Japan; key ASEAN members, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, and Vietnam; vulnerable states in East Asia viz., Taiwan and South Korea; and groupings including the ASEAN and QUAD—that constitutes the new world politics of the Indo-Pacific.

The Order of Destruction

Monoculture in Colonial Caribbean Literature, c. 1640-1800

Heinrich Wilke

Series: Transdisciplinary Souths

This book studies sugarcane monoculture, the dominant form of cultivation in the colonial Caribbean, in the later 1600s and 1700s up to the Haitian Revolution. Researching travel literature, plantation manuals, Georgic poetry, letters, and political proclamations, this book interprets texts by Richard Ligon, Henry Drax, James Grainger, Janet Schaw, and Toussaint Louverture. His study will be of interest to literary critics and historians working in the early Americas, to students and scholars of agriculture, colonialism, and (racial) capitalism, to those working in the environmental humanities, and to Marxist academics.

The Plural Social Sphere

Edited by Sakarama Somayaji The Energy and Resources Institute (TERI), India, Ganesh Somayaji, Joanna P. Coelho

This book reiterates pluralism as the basic feature of the Indian social sphere. It highlights challenges to the continuity of the plural fabric of India’s society and culture. Acknowledging that socio-political concerns on women’s issues do not always find adequate representation in social science texts, the book explores issues and policies related to gender.

The Political Economy of Hungarian Authoritarian Populism

Capitalists without the Right Kind of Capital

Samuel Rogers

This book emphasises the importance of state-business relations and external capital for structuring and strengthening authoritarian populism in Hungary. It argues these capitalist relations are crucial to understanding the economic aspects of this ideology, which has developed in the country since 2010. The book investigates both ‘internal’ and ‘external’ legs of the Hungarian political economy. First how a politically loyal national capital owning class has subsumed domestic business. Second the government’s operationalisation of ‘new’ inward transnational capital inflows to finance large-scale infrastructure projects, which complement extant investment particularly from Germany.

The Routledge Handbook of Craft and Sustainability in India
Edited by Rebecca Reubens
Center for Environmental Planning and Technology, Ahmedabad & Rhihome, Ahmedabad, India, Tanishka Kachru National Institute of Design, Ahmedabad, India
Traditional crafts have been an essential part of Indian history, culture and life. This handbook looks at craft as both a cultural artefact that reflects people’s worldviews, indigenous practices and traditions, as well as a source of income generation and development that is inclusive. India’s rapid development has meant a breakdown of traditional economies, and including craft production-to-consumption systems.

The Routledge Handbook of Global South Studies on Subjectivities
Edited by Sebastian Thies Eberhard-Karls-Universität Tübingen, Germany, Susanne Goumegou, Georgina Cebey
Series: Transdisciplinary Southern
This handbook is to provide a series of exemplary studies conjoining perspectives from Asian, African, and Latin American Studies on subjectivity in the Global South as a category of social and cultural analysis. The contestation of the Northern myth of the autonomous subject — the dispositive that contests subject formation in the South by describing it as fragmented, incomplete, delayed or simply deviant, has been a cornerstone of theory production from the South. This book will be an essential resource for students, scholars, and researchers in literature, media and culture studies, sociology, anthropology, philosophy, law, politics, visual arts and art history.

The Russian Revolution of 1917 - Memory and Legacy

Edited by Carol S. Leonard, Daniel Orlovsky, Jurej Petrov
Series: BASEES/Routledge Series on Russian and East European Studies

The way in which the Russian Revolution of October 1917 is regarded and commemorated has changed considerably over time, and is a contentious subject, well demonstrated by the absence of any official commemoration in Russia in 2017. A huge contrast to the very large celebrations which took place in Soviet times. This book brings together a range of leading historians of the Russian Revolution - from both Russia and the West - and both younger and older historians - explores the changes in the way in which the October 1917 Revolution is commemorated, and also examines fundamental questions about what the Russian Revolution - indeed what any revolution - was anyway.

The Struggle for Abolition
Power and Legitimacy in Multilateral Nuclear Disarmament Diplomacy

Kjølv Egeland

This book investigates the pursuit by states, civil society groups, and international organisations of nuclear abolition. Detailing the evolution of the institutional architecture for multilateral nuclear disarmament from the 1960s onwards, The Struggle for Abolition tells a story of high hopes, broken promises, and clash views of history, security, and the future. The book concludes with a discussion of policy implications and a reflection on successes and failures in the history of multilateral nuclear disarmament. The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of diplomacy, history, and politics and international relations.

The Trial That Shook Britain
How a Court Martial Hastened Acceptance of Indian Independence

Ashis Ray

The Indian National Army trials of 1945–46 have generally been given short shrift by historians in their cataloguing of the Indian freedom movement. This book examines to what extent the trials had an impact on the final phase of India’s quest for independence. In so doing, it unveils that, while the Indian National Congress’ extended odyssey was essentially about a passive push-back, at a critical juncture of its campaign to extinguish British colonialism in India, it applauds and capitalised on the INA’s use of force.

Traditional Malay Monarchy

Haji Awg Asbol bin Haji Mail

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

This book brings to an English-speaking audience detailed scholarship originally conceived and written in the Malay language and with a Malay perspective. It examines the nature of monarchy in the Malay world, which includes present-day Malaysia and Indonesia, before and during the onset of Western colonialism when the Malay world was ruled by a large number of separate Muslim sultanates. It highlights that monarchs were the highest authority in the social, political, legal and economic system, rather than the government of a clearly defined territory; the notion of Dewaraja and what a model monarch’s attributes should be; and how the monarch’s role related to Islamic principles.

Trafficking and Sex Work in Cambodia

Larissa Sandy
Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

This book shows how policies to combat human trafficking and regulate sex work have shaped both the structure of the modern Cambodian sex industry and sex workers’ experiences. It is rich in empirical detail, based on extensive long-term fieldwork and in-depth interviews and highly original, as the author describes the largely undocumented experiences of male and female sex workers to show how sex work remains prevalent in Cambodia and continues to be a dynamic terrain responding to global and local socioeconomic forces and moulded by government control and people’s constantly changing social and sexual tastes.

Visibilities and Invisibilities of Race and Racism
Toward a New Global Dialogue
Edited by Yasuko Takezawa Kansai Gaidai University, Japan, Faye V. Harrison University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign, USA, Akio Tanabe Kyoto University, Japan
Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology
Takezawa, Harrison, Tanabe and their contributors present a multi-sited, transnational, and intercultural perspective on racism, shifting its emphasis away from the conventional North Atlantic interpretive frameworks to better understand its fundamental nature. The strength of this work lies in its exploration of the varied modalities of race and racism, particularly those that deviate from the conventional, visibly identifiable notions of race, thus broadening the understanding of racism beyond traditional paradigms. An important contribution to the re-worlding of the study of racism, for scholars, researchers and students of anthropology, sociology and ethnic studies.

Vulnerable Communities in Neoliberal India
Perspectives from a Feminist Ethnographic Approach
Edited by Deepanshu Mohan Jindal Global University, India, Sakshi Chindaliya Jindal Global University, India, Ashika Thomas London School of Economics and Political Science, UK
Series: Routledge Contemporary South Asia Series
This book offers an ethnographic critique of modern, neoliberal India from the perspective of studying the daily lives-livelihoods of vulnerable communities residing in the urban, peri-urban spaces across the nation. The diverse range of ethnographic case studies further explore the invisibilization of the growing informal sector in India’s labor market, studied through the applied concepts of Gayatri Spivak’s othering, Doreen Massey’s power geometries and Pierre Bourdieu’s (fractured) habitus. A useful read for scholars and policymakers interested in understanding intersectional applications of development studies in context of the unsecured workforce in India.

Arab Spring and Its Legacies

Edited by Mujib Alam, Sujata Ashwarya

This edited volume examines the impact of the protest movements that shook West Asia and North Africa in the early 2010s. The Arab Spring uprisings, driven by grievances such as political repression, corruption, and economic difficulties, resulted in the downfall of longstanding dictatorships. Although the protests have ended, their legacy lives on, affecting the region’s political economy and international relations. The book offers an in-depth analysis of politics, party systems, and regime transitions in the MENA region. It is poised to resonate with students and researchers in political science, history, and Middle East studies.

Arnon Golan
Israel and the Gaza Strip
The First Decade 1947–1957

Series: Routledge Studies in Middle Eastern Politics

This book concentrates on the formative period of the Gaza Strip and the bordering Israeli Gaza Frontier Area, considering them as a distinct geographic region that might best be understood as an integral unit of analysis. The innovative historical-geographical approach of the research offers key insights into the politics of the region, and the book will be of particular interest to anyone studying the history and development of the Arab-Israeli conflict.
