Systems Theory and Agile Brand Management

The Educative View of Branding

Jan Lies

Series: Systems Thinking

Brands started out as communication tools to influence the image of companies or products (inside-out thinking) but have developed into channels of social forces. Powerful brands impact not just customer decisions, but also markets and social institutions, such as fashion trends, city life or even social movements. This book explores the implications of Niklas Luhmann’s theory of social systems for the theory and practice of agile brand management, in particular highlighting the central role of brand aesthetics and of brands as channels for mutual education between companies and consumers.

Creating Global Capitalism
Commodity Traders and the First Global Economy

Edited by Espen Storli, Marten Boon
Norwegian University of Science and Technology, Norway
This book provides a unique insight into the world of commodity trading companies, often depicted as the hidden companies of the global economy and showcases how they were instrumental in bringing about the economic integration of new commodities and far-flung regions into the first global economy in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century. This book brings together a collection of case studies of commodity trading companies across a range of commodities and regions between the 1870s and the 1930s. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Business History.

Inequality, Economic Growth and Business Decision-Making

Asis Kumar Banerjee
Series: Routledge Focus on Management and Society
This book explores the relationship between rising inequality of income and wealth on the one hand and a slowdown in the rate of economic growth on the other, and how these are two most important challenges faced today by the global economy. By analysing the crucial role of business managers in the private sector, this book presents the idea that contrary to popular belief, it is in the interests of private business itself that business managers take into account the effects that their decisions have on the economy as a whole.

The Art of Intercultural Business Communication
A Competency-Based Approach

Bertha Du-Babcock , Richard D. D. Babcock
This book examines intercultural business communication issues and practices from a global and interdisciplinary perspective with an Asian focus, which is essential to any contemporary study on business communication. Approaching business communication from the individual, organizational, and industry levels, the book’s integrated conceptual framework allows readers to progress to more advanced business communication concepts in a staged way. An essential guide for practitioners and researchers in today’s global business environment. It also benefits students with majors in intercultural business communication and international business.

Business, Peacebuilding, and Regulation

The Role of the State

Sean Molloy

Series: Business and Peacebuilding

This book examines the relationship between business-based peacebuilding and the opportunities that emerge from the pluralisation of regulation. The core message is, notwithstanding the broad range of regulatory initiatives and actors that exist in conflict-affected settings, the state should assume responsibilities for defining the types of contribution that business can and ought to make to peace.

Sustainability Beyond 2030
Trajectories and Priorities for Our Sustainable Future

Marco Tavanti, Alfredo Seir-Younis

Series: The Principles for Responsible Management Education Series

This book is an indispensable guide to understanding our planet’s sustainability past, present, and future. It offers an in-depth analysis of critical environmental issues, human development challenges, and the economic complexities of fostering equitable and sustainable growth. In addition to evaluating various pivotal policies and events, extracting patterns and trajectories that have shaped our present commitments to the 2030 SDGs and the 2050 climate goals, Sustainability Beyond 2030 boldly projects into the future, identifying core priorities likely to guide the global agenda beyond our current commitments.

Leading Hybrid Organisations
How to Build Trust, Collaboration and a High-Performance Culture

Michael Drayton

Going beyond the quick-fix solutions that emerged during the COVID-19 pandemic, this book takes a deeper, systems approach to leading a hybrid organisation to help managers understand the real, 'beneath the surface' issues in hybrid working. Established ways of managing everyday problems, such as workflow, communication, and performance management, now seem inadequate when some members of staff are in the office and others work remotely. There are also more complex challenges such as developing a cohesive team and organisational culture and a strong attachment to the organisation. This book gives leaders and managers the tools to address these challenges and more.

Design Your Business
A Creative Pathway to Transforming Ideas into Successful Products
Luca Landoli, Kevin T. James

Unlike other books focusing either downstream on the launch of a new venture or upstream on ideation and the acquisition of an entrepreneurial mindset, Design Your Business helps innovators to cross the chasm between attractive ideas and actual products, a crucial test in any entrepreneurial endeavor and one which most innovative ideas do not pass. Throughout the book, readers will learn about methods, steps, and resources to unleash their creativity, understand users’ needs, build and test prototypes, and design beautiful products.

Entrepreneurial Financial Management
An Applied Approach
Jeffrey R. Cornwall, David O. Vang, Jean M. Hartman

Now in its 6th edition, this classic and comprehensive resource presents an applied, realistic view of entrepreneurial finance for today’s entrepreneurs. The book provides an integrated set of concepts and applications, drawing from entrepreneurship, finance and accounting, to prepare aspiring entrepreneurs for the world they will most likely face as they start their new businesses. Each chapter includes discussion questions and opportunities for application, and PowerPoint slides and problem solutions are available for instructors. This will be a valuable resource for undergraduate and graduate students of entrepreneurship and budding entrepreneurs alike.

Entrepreneurial Wellbeing
Perspectives in SMEs based on Gender and Immigrant Entrepreneurs
Jeremy Zwiegelar, Shelley Beck

This book adds to the context of entrepreneurship by highlighting different types of wellbeing. In this book, the focus is placed on SME owners, and wellbeing and various ways of measuring it in different contexts are discussed. The SME owner is a critical stakeholder in economies and therefore, the highlighted focus on how they can apply and practically implement strategies linked to wellbeing is deemed to be essential for business success. This book will provide views on wellbeing for entrepreneurs, students, employees and research audiences and will help them to further understand this multifaceted topic.

Entrepreneurs
Talent, Temperament, Opportunity and Mindset
John Thompson, Bill Bolton

What does it take to be – or to become – a successful entrepreneur? Are there specific personality types that are best suited to entrepreneurship? And can these types, or rather the traits that combine to forge them, be learned or acquired? In this book, John Thompson answers these questions – and many more – to let the reader see through the eyes of the entrepreneur. Entrepreneurs: Talent, Temperament, Opportunity and Mindset introduces the world of entrepreneurship from a person-centred perspective.

Well-being and Wellness: Psychosocial Risk Management

Tony Boyle, Fiona Charlton
This book is a companion to Health and Safety: Risk Management, which describes techniques and background knowledge for preventing injury and ill health in the workplace. This text instead describes the techniques and background knowledge for preventing impairment of worker well-being and wellness. Written primarily for OH&S professionals wishing to extend the scope of their management system to include well-being and wellness issues, it is also directly beneficial to human resources (HR) professionals responsible for managing various psychosocial hazards. It will also be of use to managers in all sectors, and students of OH&S, HR or management.

A Woman’s Guide to Navigating a Successful Career in Healthcare Information Technology

Jeffery Daigrepont

While successful women have a tendency of empowering other women to succeed, it is not possible for them to speak to every young woman looking for advice. The intent of this book is to provide the opportunity to capture stories from highly successful women to inspire the next generation who want to pursue a career in HIT on a much larger scale and to inspire those already working in the field who are struggling to advance in their careers.

Advancing Strategic Sourcing and Healthcare Affordability
Our Discovery of the Lacuna Triangle

Michael Georgulis, Jr., Mark C. West

The book outlines what the authors call the Lacuna Triangle—three lacunas that occur in health systems that prevent them from pursuing effective EVA and strategic sourcing. The authors explore the three effects of those gaps, which keep the Lacuna Triangle walls tightly closed so that the oligopolies, irrational markets, and irrational pricing that those gaps create can continue to thrive. The goal with this book is to pluck the supply chain and health system executive and clinical leadership out of the chaos they are caught in and give them tactics for reengineering the alignment of these processes to serve their enterprises’ needs.

Human Resource Management in Higher Education Institutions
An International Perspective
Sylwia Przytula, Łukasz Sulkowski, Konrad Kulikowski
Series: Routledge Research in Human Resource Management
This book provides new theoretical and practical insights into HRM in HEIs. The global trends in academia, such as the need for branding and positioning in higher education ranking systems, growing retention and brain circulation between academia and business, diversity in academia, and the digitalization of teaching, have resulted in challenges such as de-recruitment, academic burnout and ill-being, and technostress, which are also addressed in this book.

Human Resource Strategy
Formulation, Implementation, and Impact
Michal Biron University of Haifa, Israe
Eline Corine Boon UvA, Netherlands
Elaine Farndale, Peter A. Bamberger Tel Aviv University, Israel
What is Human Resource Strategy? How are human resource strategies formulated and how can we explain the variance between what is espoused and what is actually implemented? Human Resource Strategy, third edition, provides an overview of the academic and practitioner responses to these and other questions. Applying an integrative framework, the authors review over thirty years’ worth of research in an attempt to reconcile often conflicting conceptual models and equivocal empirical findings. This new edition includes new chapters on innovations in HR strategies and diversity and introduces more practical examples. This book is an ideal resource for students and practitioners alike.

Human Resource Management in the Contemporary Workplace
Enhancing Organisation Sustainability
Edited by Agata Sudolska, Kamil Zawadzki
Series: Routledge Research in Human Resource Management
The main aim of the book is to indicate the direction of demand for new competencies regarding workplace human capital and identify synergies between its particular aspects with reference to contemporary human capital development. The monograph’s objectives include presenting tools that allow to analyse and develop human capital competences, pro-active and pro-environmental attitudes and behaviours, promote the coexistence of workers and AI in the organisation, as well as provide employee well-being, satisfaction, and commitment.

If Your Resume Could Talk
Dig in and Prepare Yourself or Others for What’s Next Through Career Exploration, Conversations, and Pivots
Evelyn M. Lee
How do we find that perfect match? In years past, one might pivot once, perhaps even twice over the course of their careers. Today, a person may need to pivot multiple times. Can a business adapt to the amount of change their employees may need to make over the course of their lifetime? Will an individual want to or be prepared to change jobs on an ongoing basis throughout their career? Sometimes, there is a need to pivot. Can the pivot be made, smoothly? Finding starting points for these conversations can be challenging. Is it a pivot or is it a career change? Both are acceptable. Pivots, if planned, can be easier to navigate. Career changes require more preparation.

Unleashing the Power of European Innovation
How Government, Industry and Science Share Knowledge to Overcome Global Challenges

Fred Bakker

The world is at a critical juncture where our industrial and economic principles have to be reshaped. Three major transitions are underway: towards the use of alternative energy sources, towards carbon-neutral and sustainable production, and towards digitized manufacture and distribution. To bring about these changes, productive cooperation between government, industry and (technological) knowledge centres must be established. This book looks at the process of ‘Sharing Brainpower’ – a unique European strength – and explores the ways in which these transitions are taking place in Europe, among a wide range of European businesses, industries and research institutes.

The Chinese Belt and Road Initiative
Strategic Responses of Governments and Multinational Companies

Edited by Filip De Beule, Philippe De Lombaerde, Haiyan Zhang

The Belt and Road initiative have placed China at the heart of geopolitics in the Eurasian region but also globally. Therefore, China faces significant hurdles in implementing these initiatives, with many countries and organizations around the world becoming increasingly wary of China’s BRI and geopolitical strategy. This book examines these issues of the BRI and analyzes the impact of the BRI on Chinese involvement in Asia and Europe. It sheds light on the strategic responses of host country governments and regional economic organizations, as well as the reactions of Chinese and other multinational companies, and ultimately the Chinese government.

The Gig Economy in India
Start-Ups, Infrastructure and Resistance

Pradip Ninan Thomas University of Queensland, Australia

The Gig Economy in India explores the topic of gig work in India’s digital political economy, and the relationship between key factors such as start-ups, state government, and platform providers. The book begins by placing the gig economy in context, defining the platform ecosystem and the Indian government’s perception of its problems and opportunities. Thomas then examines critical dimensions of the gig economy in India, from its data infrastructure capabilities, the enabling role of venture capital and FinTech, to government regulation. Given the limited research on India as a case study, this volume fills a crucial gap in the literature.

Urban Renewal in Central Seoul
Planning Paradigm Shifts

Hyung Min Kim The University of Melbourne, Australia

Series: Routledge Research in Sustainable Planning and Development in Asia

Kim details a brief history of urban renewal in central Seoul through articulating urban planning paradigm shifts. Spatial development policies for central Seoul have been changed from modern transport facilities, post-war reconstruction and industrialisation to walkability, sustainability, and social cohesion in line with economic restructuring. In recent times, more focus is placed on preserving historical sites and heritage and maintaining green spaces. A useful read for researchers on urban planning and policies who are keen to understand the complicated process of urban renewal and ways to revitalise economic and human activities and transform built environments.

Cultivating Career Advancement

Edited by Vicki L. Baker, Aimee LaPointe Terosky, Laura Gail Lunsford

This book offers action-oriented tools to engage (or re-engage) mid-career programming at the individual faculty, institutional, consortial, and grant-funded levels. Bringing together leading scholars and practitioners engaged in research and practice, this edited volume offers solutions to two driving questions faced by mid-career faculty: “what’s next” and “how to navigate.” Each chapter can serve as a stand-alone resource, be read in order as presented, or be read non-sequentially based on the reader’s specific needs.

Building Sustainable Leadership from the Inside
How To Grow The Inner Capabilities We Need To Lead

Joakim Eriksson

This is a research-backed and practical guide for how to grow inner capabilities enabling sustainable leadership in this time. It is built around five areas that many leaders will recognize as being challenging on a personal level, such as how to stay calm under pressure or collaborate skillfully with people with diverse points of views. While many leadership books describe the importance of such traits, few show how to actually cultivate them. Grounded in multiple fields of research, this book offers a practical training manual for the mind. With more than 40 reflections and exercises, it offers a guided tour to an ‘inner gym’, showing readers how to cultivate these capabilities.

Charismatic Leadership in Organizations
A Critique of Texts

Iga Maria Lehman

Series: Routledge Studies in Leadership Research

Given that scholarly writing about leadership, management and organizations is inevitably a mix of the presentation of empirical truths and value judgements, the ability to engage the reader intellectually and emotionally is necessary for the successful dissemination of disciplinary knowledge and belief claims. This book encapsulates this ability in the notion of charisma.

Compassion in Disaster Management
The Essential Ethic of Relational Leadership

Mark Crowseller Ethical Intelligence Pty Ltd, Australia

This book offers leaders, especially those in disaster management, a way to improve their ability to lead, serve, and protect others during disasters and crises. Drawing upon his own experiences as a disaster management specialist as well as high-level interviews with disaster management leaders from the USA, Australia and New Zealand, Crowseller bridges theory and practice to provide context, empirical accounts and a relational leadership framework centred upon an ethic of compassion. An essential text for aspiring and experienced leaders, especially those in the fields of EMS, fire services, law enforcement, and emergency management.

Digital Transformation in Educational Organizations
Leadership, Innovation and Industry 4.0

Paweł Pożytek

Series: Routledge Open Business and Economics

The publication presents a theoretical and practical approach to assess how well educational leaders handle the challenges of the digital transformation era by using European collaborative projects. The book will be of value to researchers, academics, practitioners, and advanced students in the fields of leadership, organizational change, management of technology and innovation, and those interested in the development of education and the utilization of digitalization.

Essentials of Healthcare Strategy and Performance Management
A Practical Guide for Executives and Emerging Leaders

James R. Langabeer, Tiffany Champagne-Langabeer

Using pragmatic and real-world evidence, this book provides essential briefings on key topics that every current or aspiring leader needs to know in order to better manage strategy and achieve improved performance in their hospital or health system. Leaders and students of healthcare organizations should be asking themselves one thing in these financially challenging times: how can we maintain a strategic and competitive advantage over other facilities in their market?

Leading Beyond Sustainability
Six Aspirations for a Brighter Future
Clive Wilson
As well as the obvious disruptive challenges of climate change, wars, and the pandemic, technology has evolved at a blistering pace. Through technological advances in five sectors – energy, transport, materials, food and manufacturing – we could, in principle, combine and transform the world as we know it. The book seeks to give readers the confidence that there is real hope for a better future for our world using these developments. The text is supported by inspiring case studies of organisations who are already doing amazing things.

The Age of Decentralization
How Web3 and Related Technologies will change Industries and our Lives

Sam Ghosh, Subhasis Gorai

In this book, the authors take us on a journey through the tech landscape, exploring how decentralized technologies, including Web3, are on the verge of becoming mainstream and offer a practical roadmap for understanding and embracing this shift. Web2 brought us "the great centralization" by centralizing not only data but also business processes, blurring the industry boundaries. So, payment platforms started offering e-commerce services and ride-hailing services started delivering food. Scale became the most effective moat. But, at the same time, these huge platforms became a magnet for security threats and started violating user privacy rights and consumer rights.

The developing markets of Africa, Asia and the Middle-East are quickly becoming the future of world economic and trade development. They are affluent in terms of population, resources, and market expansion. This book presents contemporary cases across Africa, Asia and the Middle-East to aid the global understanding of both market and consumer behaviours across the regions, and equally provide robust knowledge to approach the markets with strategic responses. This edited collection will bring together a comprehensive assembly of cases considering these diverse characteristics to provide foresight for marketing strategy, policy and decision making.
Money and Marketing in the Art World

Henrik Hagtvedt
Series: Routledge Studies in Marketing
This book illustrates how money and marketing, in combination with general trends, play decisive roles in shaping the art world and in propelling specific artists and artworks to positions of prominence. With a combination of marketing insights, and relevant research findings, this book contributes to increased transparency while providing thought-provoking digressions and anecdotes along the way. It offers an accessible analysis of the art market for scholars and graduate students across arts marketing and management in particular but will also interest those more broadly interested in art and business.

Place Marketing and Temporality

Gary Warnaby
Series: Routledge Focus on Business and Management
This book examines the role of temporal dimensions in place marketing and branding. It analyses how the past - both material (i.e. the historic built environment) and intangible (i.e. routines, practices and the ‘character’ of the populace) - is appropriated, in order to ‘sell’ the city into the future. It acknowledges the inherent selectivity involved and discusses the factors influencing what is remembered from the past - and equally importantly, what is forgotten. Adopting a range of theoretical approaches to understanding temporality in this context, the book will appeal to advanced students, academic researchers and reflexive place branding practitioners.

Purpose-Driven Pricing

Leveraging the Power of Pricing for Profit and Societal Good

Saloni Firasta-Vastani, Jagdish N. Sheth
Pricing is frequently used as a key strategic lever for management to increase profitability. However, price can also be used as a lever for societal good. Price can be used to manage demand, incentivize consumer behavior, and influence change. This book, written by two leading thinkers on pricing strategy and practice, demonstrates how effective use of price can have prosocial impacts, such as helping to reduce carbon emissions, accelerating the adoption of eco-friendly products, and improving people’s health outcomes and quality of life.

Revolutionizing the AI-Digital Landscape

A Guide to Sustainable Emerging Technologies for Marketing Professionals

Edited by Alex Kha, Pushan Kumar Dutta Amity University Kolkata, Sachin Gupta, Nishu Ayedee, Sandeep Chatterjee
This book investigates the growing influence of artificial intelligence in the marketing sphere, providing insights into how AI can be harnessed for developing more effective and efficient marketing strategies.

Shifting the Marketing Mindset

A Toolkit To Drive Sustainable Transformation

Clara Millard Dereudre
Accused of manipulation and more, marketing is one of the most misused functions and misunderstood professions. The rise of “green marketing” could have been an opportunity for the profession to exhibit its potential to transform business—but instead, there has been a turn to greenwashing, with false claims of environmental friendliness. Now, businesses must evolve, rebalancing social and environmental priorities with economic ones, and it is time for a new era: Positive Impact Marketing.

Social Media Marketing Management

How to Penetrate Emerging Markets and Expand Your Customer Base

Robert Ebo Hinson, David Mhlanga Monash University, Australia, Kofi Osei-Frimpong, Joshua Doe
This book seeks to provide practical guidance on the use of social media in the firm’s operations. While it provides practical perspectives by addressing contemporary issues in relation to social media marketing practices, this book will also serve as a relevant teaching text in social media marketing.
2ND EDITION

Strategic International Marketing
Strategy Development and Implementation

Carl Arthur Solberg, Håvard Huse
This book offers a uniquely adaptable strategy framework for firms of all sizes that are looking to internationalise their business, using Carl Arthur Solberg's tried and tested Nine Strategic Windows model. Compact and readable, this practical text offers the reader insights into the globalisation phenomenon, partner relations and strategic positioning in international markets. This 2nd edition has been fully updated to include coverage of the complex international business environment, consider how technological development has shaped buyer behaviour, channels of distribution and payments systems globally, and the impact of digitalisation on the global economy more broadly.

Business Economics

Rob Dransfield

Business Economics introduces the theory and practice of economics for non-specialist students new to the topic. Business Economics, Second Edition, is designed to provide a general introduction to the discipline of Business Economics, covering an important part of first year studies and beyond. The new edition retains the successful structure of the previous edition but, like any good business economics text, includes new and updated case studies and examples to reflect present-day economic global realities.

Sensitivity Analysis for Business, Technology, and Policymaking: Made Easy with Simulation Decomposition (SimDec)

Edited by Maria Kozlova LUT University, Finland
Julian Scott Yeomans York University, Canada

This book is the first to articulate the ubiquitous applicability of Simulation Decomposition (SimDec) and has been written by the leading proponents of the technique. It provides the necessary background to fully understand the underlying approach and then demonstrates its applicability to a wide spectrum of fields. The innovative material will be of primary benefit to practitioners and researchers analyzing data from the social sciences, business, science, engineering, mathematics, and computing.

Engaged Decision Making: From Team Knowledge to Team Decisions

Etiënne A. J. A. Rouwette, L. Alberto Franco

In this book, the authors draw from research in cognitive and social psychology, decision and systems sciences—as well as their own research and consulting work that spans more than 20 years—to show how designed interventions can enable team decision making to become transparent, rigorous, and defensible. The real-life applications will also offer valuable insights for all types and sizes of teams.

Holistic Flexibility for Systems Thinking and Practice

Rajneesh Chowdhury University of Hull, UK

This book explores how the conceptual lens of Holistic Flexibility presents new advancements in systems thinking in management science. Systems thinking is often associated with frameworks and methodologies that often confine the discipline to academic circles in operations research and management science (OR/MS). Holistic Flexibility for Systems Thinking and Practice challenges this status-quo and talks about systems thinking as a state of mind, giving it a cognitive character.
Coping With Dynamic Business Environments
New Management Approaches for Resilience During Difficult Economies

Agnieszka Stachowiak

This book discusses the existing management approaches for dealing with changes – namely readiness, maturity, and resilience. Although these concepts have been discussed for several years now, their importance grows when companies must deal with extended changes in economies.

Innovation Management and the Law
An Institutional Approach

Alexander Styhre

Series: Routledge Studies in Management, Organizations and Society

Innovation Management and the Law examines how the idea of value creation is understood to be a matter of innovation activities, and how such innovation activities are premised on legal rights that create not only incentives, corporations, and markets, but that more widely signal to market actors what kind of activities that are consistent with policy makers’ economic and social welfare objectives. It will be of interest to researchers, academics, professionals, and advanced students in the fields of management, economic theory, and law.

Graphical Facilitation
Enabling Conversation And Learning Through Images

Curie Scott, Steve Hutchinson

Individuals are bombarded by information, and organizations, managers, and teachers often lack a corresponding set of tools to make sense of this complexity. This is that toolkit, also offering invitations to readers to extend their thinking past these tools to enable the creation of graphical depictions, models, and metaphors to help people make sense of their world. This accessible book is constructed as a visual reference so readers can quickly pick out the specific tool or strategy they need, whether working with individuals and teams to promote self-awareness, develop emotional intelligence, improve communication, or articulate vision and strategy.

The Meaning and Purpose of Work
An Interdisciplinary Framework for Considering What Work is For

Christopher Michaelson, Jennifer Tosti-Kharas

Two seminal crises of the early 21st century – the 9/11 terrorist attacks and COVID-19 pandemic – have led emerging generations of workers to prioritize the meaning and purpose of work. At the same time, other social and environmental crises are threatening, capitalism is evolving, and technology is advancing. In this book, a philosopher and organizational psychologist who together research meaningful work consider what these forces mean for whether work might give meaning and purpose to our lives or take it away. Readers emerge with an understanding of the meaning of meaning as well as a practical appreciation for the role of meaning in their own work.

Transforming Higher Education With Human-Centred Design

Edited by Radka Newton, Jean Mutton, Michael Doherty

Through case studies, thought pieces and practical advice, this book takes a fresh look at the application of Design Thinking and Service Design in a variety of university contexts. Human-centred design perspectives show up the fact that decades of rhetoric about student-centred learning have often left the student still effectively marginalised from change processes. The reader will encounter ample tools and techniques of design and co-creation that can enhance the student experience, from applicant to alumnus.

Pursuing Sustainable Urban Development in North Korea

Edited by Pavel P. Em Seoul National University, South Korea
Series: Routledge Research in Sustainable Planning and Development in Asia

This book utilizes an urban lens to provide a critical analysis of North Korean efforts to pursue sustainable development while subject to strict sanctions and experiencing a lack of vital resources. Contributors focus on six key aspects, namely: population, economics, architecture, urban planning, culture, and cross-border cooperation. They assess and reassess the trends in sustainable development resulting from market pressures, and suggest trajectories for their further intensification. A valuable reference for researchers who have a regional interest in North Korea and/or a topical interest in urban studies, urban sustainability, and post-socialist urban transformation.

Systemic Thinking for Public Managers

Sheila Murphy , Tracey Regenold , Philip Reed

Systemic thinking - the combination of systems thinking, critical systems thinking, and design thinking - provides a way of addressing the complexity of problems faced by public sector managers. Far too often systemic thinking has been discussed theoretically rather than practically. This book changes that, enabling public sector managers and leaders to connect staff, partners, and stakeholders in the pursuit of thoughtfully designed and responsive service.

Rural Arts Management

Elise Lael Kieffer , Jerome Socolof

Series: Discovering the Creative Industries
The arts and arts management exist in every corner of the world, from the largest city to the smallest town. However, just as a metropolis and a hamlet bear little resemblance to each other despite similar basic needs, arts organizations in the former are unlike to those in the latter, and many foundational arts management texts give little attention to rural settings. This book combines insights from research and practice to fill that knowledge gap and help readers understand arts administration in rural communities. This book provides a valuable resource for scholars, advanced students and reflective practitioners at the intersection of the arts and rural studies.

Accountability Research
Ethnographic Methods in Organisation and Accounting

Edited by Hugo Letiche, Ivo De Loo, Carolyn Cordery, Jean-Luc Moriceau
Series: Business for Society

This book discusses (auto-)ethnographies of accountability, undertaken (in close collaboration) by a multinational group of accounting and organization theory researchers over a period of three years. The key assumption underlying the book is that accountability is inherently an identity creating process where the study of account-making has to be done participatively, with radical openness to the one(s) being researched, as well as to their context.

Risk science is becoming increasingly important as businesses, policymakers and public sector leaders are tasked with decision-making and investment using varying levels of knowledge and information. This book explores the theory and practice of risk science, providing concepts and tools for understanding and acting under uncertain conditions. This revised and updated second edition features an entirely new chapter on the integrity and quality of risk studies, and dealing with misinformation in the context of risk.
Sales Management for Startups and SMEs
Building An Effective Scalable Sales Organization

Anderson Hirst

Useful for nearly any sector or industry, this book is a thoroughly practical guide on how to build an excellent sales organisation, brick by brick. Creating an effective sales organisation is a challenge for many businesses, and it's easy to waste resources on ineffective approaches. Many MBA and executive education programmes do not cover sales management in any depth. Filling this knowledge gap, this guide will help readers to create their own unique high-performing sales organisation that fits their product and market environment.

Ethics in Business Decisions and Competitive Advantage

John E. Triantis

The uniqueness of this book is the creation of a method to identify and assess how ethics impacts business decisions and competitive advantage based on accepted economic tenants. It lays the plan for quantitative assessments of the impact of ethical behavior and it is written from the perspective of a business economist. Other books deal with business ethics elements only; none explains how ethics effects permeate to business sustainability. The main contribution of this book is demonstrating that ethics is a necessary factor for business sustainability.

Data-Driven Decision-Making for Business

Claus Grand Bang

In this book, the reader will discover the history, theory and practice of data-driven decision-making, learning how organisations and individual managers alike can utilise its methods to avoid cognitive biases and improve confidence in their decisions. It argues that value does not come from data, but from acting on data. Data-Driven Decision-Making for Business provides important reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students of business and data analytics programs, as well as wider MBA classes. Chapters can also be used on a standalone basis, turning the book into a key reference work for students graduating into practitioners.

Combining practice with theory, the reversal of the conventional ‘theory with practice’ idea being intentional, one of the standout features of this book is that it articulates business heuristics for each of the drivers of success along with guidelines on how to use them. To illustrate the empirical grounding of the theoretical aims, the authors connect multiple real life business cases to each of the four GARC dimensions. This volume will therefore be of value to researchers, academics, practitioners, and advanced students in the fields of strategy, organizational studies, and management.

Strategy, Finance and Sustainable Value Creation

Claudio Scardovi
Alix Partners LLP, UK
Series: Routledge International Studies in Money and Banking

This book argues that strategy and finance are value twins, both of which need a thorough overhaul, from their tool kits to their end goals. The author contends that we rely on strategic and financial frameworks that were developed decades ago but, in an increasingly complex and risky environment, these need to undergo a profound transformation, one which follows an intertwined approach, enabling companies to achieve the twin goals of value creation and sustainability, consistently and successfully. Readers are given useful insights via the inclusion of case studies from numerous industries, closing the gap between theory and practice.

Accounting for the Holocaust
Enabling the Final Solution

Edited by Warwick Funnell, Michele Bigoni, Erin Twyford
Series: Routledge New Works in Accounting History
This book reveals how the numerical calculations, techniques and reports that constitute accounting practices allowed the attempted annihilation of Jews by the German Nazis and the Italian Fascists to be carried out with machine-like efficiency and devoid of any moral considerations. This largely hidden aspect of the Holocaust will allow a wide range of readers, both academic and across many sectors of the general population, to understand how the systematic murder of more than six million Jews was expedited by accounting practices and the information that these produced by allowing the humanity of those killed to be denied when they became mere numbers in a process.

The Routledge Handbook of Accounting for the Sustainable Development Goals

Edited by Andrea Venturelli, Chiara Mio
Series: Routledge International Handbooks
This handbook identifies the recent challenges in accounting research and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) by exploring the evolutionary pathways and future direction of sustainability reporting. It explores the role of businesses as contributors to Agenda 2030 by assuming a multidisciplinary approach and provides a measure of organisations' contributions to the SDGs through the understanding of business strategies and policies on Agenda 2030 integration. It will appeal to students, scholars, researchers, practitioners and policymakers interested in increasing their awareness of Agenda 2030 and offers a significant contribution to the evolution of accounting practices.

Accounting, Accountability and Crisis Management
Lessons from Italy's Pandemic Response

Edited by Ericka Costa, Massimo Contrafatto, Lee Parker
Series: Routledge Studies in Accounting
This book presents a multifaceted analysis and reflection of the challenges that various types of organisations - public, private and non-profit - have had to face during the pandemic. Italy was one of the earliest countries to be affected by the COVID-19 pandemic and also one of the hardest-hit. With a focus on institutional approaches to establishing, maintaining and discharging accountability throughout the pandemic, the insights of this book are invaluable to both students and practitioners seeking to bolster institutional resilience in an increasingly uncertain world.

Earnings Management and Corporate Finance
The Importance of Transparent Financial Reporting

Edited by Joanna Lizińska, Marzena Remlein, Leszek Czapiewski
Series: Routledge Studies in Accounting
This book uniquely discusses practical earnings management methods within the accounting and taxation realms. It is supported by extensive international evidence linking informativeness of financial reports to companies' financial decisions and provides profound insights into how profits can be influenced through accounting choices and real business transactions. It is a must-read for those seeking the latest insights on earnings management, those producing or assessing accounting information, and those using financial reports in their research or business practice.
Financial Sustainability of Local Governments in Southern Africa
In Pursuit of Sustainable Cities and Communities
Edited by Nirmala Dorasamy, Tonderai Kapesa
Series: Routledge Studies in Development Economics
This book delves into the critical issue of ensuring the long-term financial viability of local governments in the diverse region of Southern Africa. The authors explore the intricate relationship between financial sustainability and the pursuit of sustainable cities and communities through different lenses. They examine the factors influencing revenue generation, expenditure management, and fiscal governance, shedding light on the complexities of financial decision-making in the context of limited resources and pressing development needs. The book offers practical insights and actionable recommendations for policymakers, practitioners, and academics alike.

The Political Economy of Underdevelopment in Sub-Saharan Africa
Christopher E.S. Warburton
East Stroudsburg University, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Development Economics
This book combines history, politics, and economics to rationalize the progression of underdevelopment in Sierra Leone, and the challenges of economic growth and development confronting some Sub-Saharan African countries. It concisely presents the internal frictions that are most responsible for the underdevelopment of Sierra Leone since 1961, while also benchmarking the performance of the country with other countries globally. It highlights the external threats that are highly capable of stifling the economic growth and sustainable development of the country, including sovereign debt, the paucity of human capital, the use of natural resources, and external shocks.

Responsible Business and Sustainable Development
The Use of Data and Metrics in the Global South
Edited by David Mhlanga, Mufaro Dzingirai
Series: Routledge Studies in Development Economics
This book presents a transdisciplinary framework for addressing the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda, offering fresh perspectives from the Global South. It provides an overview of the key challenges and opportunities associated with responsible business practices in the information age, including the need to balance privacy and security concerns with data analytics and innovation. Its inclusive approach to exploring various perspectives and opinions invites readers to participate in a constructive dialogue, broadening their understanding and deepening their empathy for different viewpoints.

Unlocking Economic Development
The Unlearning Process of Nations
Ahmed Tahiri Jouti
Series: Routledge Studies in Development Economics
This book addresses development issues from a behavioral perspective, linking mindsets and behaviors to growth and development strategies and policies. It identifies six mindsets and actions that impede the economic development of underdeveloped nations and suggests solutions to upgrade the mindsets according to the plans and policies. Each chapter identifies the state of mind needed to ‘unlearn’ with real examples and experiences and offers suggestions to undertake and accomplish the unlearning process. It will appeal to scholars, students, and researchers in economics and development, as well as policymakers wishing to attempt new approaches to counteract the boomerang effect.

Economic Shocks and Globalisation
Between Deglobalisation and Slowbalisation
Edited by Elsabé Loots
Series: Routledge Studies in Development Economics
This book answers the question of why the performance of the hyper-globalisation period has not continued during the post-GFC (Global Financial Crisis) period after 2010, and what might be expected going forward. It analyses recent global events and shocks such as the COVID-19 pandemic, gathers a deeper understanding of the present drivers of globalisation and identifies the major geo-economical, socio-economical, and geopolitical trends and shifts. The book is aimed at academics in economics, political sciences, social sciences, and may also find an audience among international policymakers and scholars at multilateral institutions such as the World Bank and the United Nations.

The Economics of Financial Inclusion
Edited by Firdous Ahmad Malik, Tarika Singh Sikarwar
Series: Routledge Studies in Development Economics
This book offers a thorough examination of the economics of financial inclusion and management from a contemporary standpoint. It covers a vast array of financial inclusion-related topics, surveying economies around the globe and analyzes the factors that contribute to both financial inclusion and exclusion. It discusses the role of technology, examining how technological advances have revolutionized financial services and increased access to populations that were previously underserved and studies the intersection of financial inclusion and sustainability. Its comparative approach provides readers with insights into promoting financial inclusion in various economic contexts.
Collective Sustainable Consumption

The Case of Poland

Edited by Anna Horodecka, Alina Szypulewska-Porczyńska
Series: Routledge Studies in Ecological Economics

This volume promotes a collective approach to sustainable consumption, and combines general theoretical issues with empirical examples from the Polish economy. This book will be of great interest to researchers and scholars interested in sustainability and consumption issues in economics, management, law, public administration and political science.

Oğuzhan Altinkoz, Sinem Bağçe
Series: Routledge Studies in Gender and Economics

This book fills a gap in the extant literature by providing an in-depth analysis of the main claims made in favour of identity economics. Firstly, it familiarizes readers with the concept of Identity Economics. Secondly, and essentially, it persuades a larger audience of the relevance and creativity of this sector, and thirdly, it advocates for the applicability of the approach to the field of knowledge. The book skillfully weaves together literature from several disciplines including regional, gender, labour, social and areas studies, thus academics, students and researchers in these fields will find the individual contributions useful for their areas of study.

Economy and Theology

Cusanus’ Theory of Value

Agnieszka Kijewska
Series: Economics and Humanities

Economy and Theology: Cusanus’ Theory of Value, a study from the field of the history of philosophy, responds to the present-day interest in what is referred to as economic theology. This study aims to show that value (valor), one of the fundamental concepts of contemporary philosophy and economics, has its genealogy in the thought of Nicholas of Cusa.

Karl Popper and Situational Analysis

Theory and Method for Contemporary Economics and Sociology

Alfonso Palacio-Vera
Series: Routledge INEM Advances in Economic Methodology

‘Situational Analysis’ represents Karl Popper’s methodological proposal for the social sciences. Although it has been widely studied and interpreted, this book argues that Situational Analysis remains underestimated and undeveloped and, if properly rethought, it could yet become a broad methodological framework that encompasses both the ‘historical’ social sciences and a large section of the ‘theoretical’ social sciences. This book will be vital reading for academic economists, sociologists, philosophers of science and other social scientists interested in methodology.

Freedom and Adaptive Preferences

Carl Christian von Weizsäcker
Series: The Graz Schumpeter Lectures

Traditional welfare economics works with the assumption of the fully rational economic agent (homo economicus) whose preferences are fixed: that is, they are not influenced by their economic environment. To the contrary, this book presents a theory of welfare economics that maintains the principles of normative individualism while allowing for adaptive or changeable preferences. This book will be of great interest to readers of welfare economics, behavioural economics and economic theory.

Lagging Regions in the European Union

Structural, Productivity and Efficiency Aspects

Pawel Dobrzański
Series: Routledge Advances in Regional Economics, Science and Policy

This book investigates the problem of left-behind regions in the European Union. It first introduces the reader to the theories of regional imbalances and problems with measuring them. It then explores imbalances in the European Union using a variety of indicators and describes the EU’s regional policy for reducing regional disparities. It uses an empirical shift-share analysis to assess the productivity of EU regions which are lagging behind. The book also provides an empirical analysis of the effectiveness of EU funds in increasing labour productivity performed with DEA methodology.

Philosophical Foundations of Economic Reality
Anthropological, Ethical and Metaphysical

Javier Aranzadi
Series: Routledge Studies in Economic Theory, Method and Philosophy

The dominant paradigm of the economy is based on homo economicus and its positivist, mechanistic, and utilitarian approach. This book argues for a reconceptualization of the philosophical foundations of economic reality in the 21st century. The book also explores the ethics that structure human behaviour providing a comparison between utilitarian ethics, hedonistic ethics and first-person ethics or virtues. This book marks a significant addition to the literature on philosophy of economics, ethics and markets, institutions and economic theory more broadly.

Political Economy, Institutions and Virtue
Alasdair MacIntyre’s Revolutionary Aristotelianism

Matías Petersen
Series: Routledge Advances in Social Economics

This book engages with a radical critique of the modern state and the contemporary economic order: Alasdair MacIntyre’s ‘revolutionary Aristotelianism’ project. Central to this critique is the idea that the moral norms that markets and states tend to reproduce or reinforce are an obstacle to the development of practical judgment. The book outlines MacIntyre’s theory of practical reason and discusses some of the institutional arrangements that can be derived from it. This book will be of interest to social scientists working in questions of political economy as well as political and moral philosophers.

The Business of Affordable Housing
Case Studies of the Commercial Supply of Affordable Homes

Alexander Styhre OP
University of Gothenburg, Sweden
Series: Routledge Advances in Regional Economics, Science and Policy

This book offers a case study that includes two Swedish housing development companies that have targeted a market niche for affordable homes that few other companies and market actors are concerned with. One is part of a major construction company conglomerate, which produces pre-fabricated housing modules. The other is a municipality-owned housing development company that acts on basis of market practices and rules but that also on policymakers’ stated ambition to provide affordable homes for the residents in a large municipality. The study of these two companies provides first-hand insights into how the production of affordable homes takes place in a real-world economy.

Global Environmental Politics and International Organizations
The Eurasian and European Experience
Edited by Anastasio Obydenkova Uppsala University, Sweden
This book aims to address the following questions: How do various actors (such as regional IOs) matter in promoting an environmental agenda? What challenges do they face? The first perspective developed investigates European IOs (e.g., the EU, the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development) and newly emerged Eurasian IOs (e.g., the Eurasian Economic Union, the Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank). The second perspective unfolds various environmental issues within the EU and across post-Communist EU members and candidate states (e.g., in Serbia, Latvia, Hungary). The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Problems of Post-Communism.

Sustainable Development, Regional Governance, and International Organizations
Implications for Post-Communism
Edited by Anastasio Obydenkova Uppsala University, Sweden
This book aspires to establish a dialogue among the studies of sustainable development, global environmental politics, comparative regionalism, and area studies of Eurasia. The chapters reflect deep knowledge of the authors of the main trends in environmental politics at global, international, and national levels before the invasion in Ukraine in 2022. With a new foreword and afterward, this book will appeal to students, scholars and researchers of political science, international relations, area-studies, and practitioners and policymakers working in international organizations. The other chapters were originally published as a special issue of Problems of Post-Communism.

Urban Scaling
Allometry in Urban Studies and Spatial Science
Edited by Luca S. D’Acci
Series: Routledge Advances in Regional Economics, Science and Policy
This book addresses a relatively novel but highly debated topic within urban studies and geography, and presents many results, techniques, methods, and reflections on urban scaling and allometry. The sections are organized into different sub-areas e.g. socio-economic, infrastructural or environmental outputs, so that there is a broad organization of the findings into recognizable sub-domains. It is particularly timely as it is becoming increasingly urgent and necessary to understand the pro and cons of different city sizes and therefore to plan policies accordingly. It will benefit researchers in urban science, and scholars entering the field from a variety of disciplines.

Environment and Ecology in the History of Economic Thought
Reassessing the Legacy of the Classics
Edited by Vitor Eduardo Schincariol
Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Economics
This volume proposes a reconsideration of ecological and environmental aspects of the work and ideas of various heterodox authors and traditions in the history of economic thought, including the field of economic development. Many of the contributors to this book focus on thinkers and works which are not typically considered as part of the ecological sphere, while others consider such economists in a new light or domain. This book will be of great interest for readers in the history of economic thought, ecological economics, environmental economics and economic development.

Hegel on Ethics, the State and Public Policy
Comparisons with Immanuel Kant and Utilitarianism
Samuel Hollander
Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Economics
Drawing on a wide range of Hegel’s writings, this book analyses the Hegelian position on ethical action. This position is systematically compared with that of Immanuel Kant, the comparison emphasizing Hegel’s insistence on a morality grounded in an ‘ethical’ context which essentially refers to the State rather than the agent’s private will. This book carries further the researches published in A History of Utilitarian Ethics and Immanuel Kant and Utilitarian Ethics, and will be of interest to readers in the history of political economy, political science, philosophy and ethics.

Macroeconomics After the General Theory
Fundamental Uncertainty, Animal Spirits and Shifting Equilibrium in a Competitive Economy
Angel Asensio
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy
This book approaches macroeconomics on the basis of the General Theory, of which a new exposition is offered in the first part, purged of the grey areas that resulted from the context in which it was written, and of the considerable confusion generated for almost a century by the vain attempts of orthodox thinking to integrate such novel ideas in its deficient conceptual framework.

Schumpeter’s General Theory of Capitalism
Joseph A. Schumpeter made multiple contributions to economic science and beyond. Drawing on this wide range of writings, this book argues that Schumpeter provided a theoretical account of capitalism as a total phenomenon. It methodically reconstructs the “general theory” of capitalism present in Schumpeter’s work and show its consistency and limits. The book identifies three key dimensions of a Schumpeterian general theory of capitalism. This book will be of interest to readers in history of economic thought, economic theory, innovation, political economy and social theory.

Slavery and Colonialism in the History of Economic Thought
The Cases of France and Great Britain

Simona Pisanelli
Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Economics
This book aims to briefly illustrate the colonisation process implemented by France and Great Britain in the Caribbean and to reconstruct the debate on colonialism and slavery that developed in these two countries, approaching the issue from the standpoint of the History of Economic Thought. The book provides the reader with the critical tools to understand that opting for slavery was not only an unforgivable sin in human history, but also an economically irrational choice.

The Economic Thought of Hilaire Belloc
A Christian Alternative to the Servile State

Alfonso Díaz Vera
Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Economics
Hilaire Belloc’s thinking on the economy constitutes a heterodox approach of the greatest interest in addressing the economic problems of his time and those of our own. Belloc’s main interest as a writer were on economics and history, and his works were praised by economists such as F. A. Hayek or Wilhelm Röpke and political philosophers such as Robert Nisbet and Russell Kirk, but his contributions have been often overlooked. To address that oversight, this book inserts Belloc’s ideas into the academic dialogue on economics. The book will be of interest to scholars and students, as well as general readers, interested in heterodox perspectives on economics.

Artificial Intelligence, Big Data, Algorithms and Industry 4.0 in Firms and Clusters

Edited by Luciana Lazzaretto, Rafael Boix-Domenech, Jose-Luis Hervás-Oliver Universidad Politecnica de Valencia, Spain, Niccolò Innocenti

This volume offers a wide-ranging discussion on the interrelations among AI, algorithms, big data, and Industry 4.0 to understand the importance of these new paradigms for the development of firms, districts, clusters, cities, regions, and innovation. Drawing on theoretical, empirical, and qualitative studies and using local perspectives, the chapters in this book explore theoretical aspects of AI and its evolution in social sciences, focusing on industry 4.0, smart cities, big data, and other related topics. This book was originally published as a special issue of European Planning Studies.

Spatial Planning and the European Union

Eva Purkarthofer

Series: Routledge Advances in Regional Economics, Science and Policy

This book serves as a guide to navigate the connection points between EU policies and spatial planning by introducing the logics of EU policymaking and European spatial planning, outlining the most relevant EU policies with relevance for spatial planning and presenting examples from Austria and Finland how EU policies are applied in domestic contexts. By exploring the Europeanisation of spatial planning ‘from within’, the book acknowledges how differential ideas about what spatial planning is and what role the EU plays therein shape the actualised impacts of EU policies.

Economic History of the European Energy Industry

Lighting up Western Europe, 19th to 21st centuries

Alberte Martínez-López, Jesús Mirás-Araujo, Nuria Rodríguez-Martín

Series: Routledge Explorations in Economic History

Global climate change and the war in Ukraine have put energy back on the agenda for Europe in a way that has not been seen since the oil crisis of the 1970s. This book explores changes in energy markets, strategies, firms and investments during the 19th and 20th centuries. The primary focus is on manufactured gas - the gas that was initially produced from coal distillation until new ways of manufacturing gas emerged after World War II. This book will be of interest to readers in economic history, business history, energy history, the history of public utilities and modern European history more broadly.

Technology-Based Regional Economic Development

Institutional Perspectives from the USA and Japan

Akio Nishizawa, David V. Gibson

Series: Routledge Advances in Regional Economics, Science and Policy

This book provides an overview of United States and Japanese technology policy development at the national level with case analyses of Austin, Texas and Tsuruoka, Japan to identify key strategies and processes that have resulted in successful endogenous technology-based business development and job creation. It offers an innovative analytical perspective to improve our understanding of how successful tech-based regional economic development works in theory and practice. The book clearly explains the relations between institutions and economic growth, an important issue in contemporary economics.

Economic Resilience and Pandemic Response

Edited by Agnieszka Rzepka Lublin University of Technology, Poland, Artur Paździor

This book presents research on these transformations caused by COVID-19, examining how the economy and society were impacted. Organizing different aspects of the pandemic into individual chapters, it examines issues such as financing structures, liquidity, profitmaking, investment, financial security, and market valuation, among other topics. Reflecting deep research as well as an extensive review of the literature, each chapter provides not just theoretical and empirical insight but also a set of policy recommendations to insur against similar crises in the future. It will appeal to a wide range of readers interested in economics, management, regional studies, and related fields.

The Development of European Competition Policy

Social Democracy and Regulation

Edited by Brian Sheve, Sigfrido M. Ramirez Pérez

Series: Routledge Explorations in Economic History

This book considers a central issue of our time: the relationship between the macroeconomic objectives of political parties in democratic countries and the legal framework of market economies. The impressive panel of contributors examine social democratic policies on cartels, market concentration, and competition in multiple European countries, spanning a hundred-year period (specifically the interwar period, the initial postwar period, the 1960s and 1970s, the 1980s and 1990s, and the 2000s). This book is for advanced students, researchers and policymakers interested in modern economic history, industrial organization, political economy, European legal history and political science.
3RD EDITION
The Economics of Urban Transportation
Kenneth A. Small, Erik T. Verhoef Free University Amsterdam, The Netherlands Robin Lindsey University of British Columbia, Canada

This new edition of the seminal textbook The Economics of Urban Transportation incorporates the latest research affecting the design, implementation, pricing, and control of transport systems in towns and cities. The book offers an economic framework for understanding the societal impacts and policy implications of many factors including congestion, traffic safety, climate change, air quality, COVID-19, and of newly important developments such as ride-hailing services, electric vehicles, and autonomous vehicles.

It is essential reading for students, researchers, and practicing professionals in transportation economics, planning, engineering, or related disciplines.

The Evolution of European Manufacturing Industries
The Dynamics of Core-Periphery Relationships
Bolesław Domański, Grzegorz Micek, Robert Guzik, Krzysztof Gwosdz, Arkadiusz Kocaj
Series: Routledge Studies in the European Economy

The book provides a picture of the increasing significance of Central Europe and especially Poland in global production networks, discussing the underlying economic, social, and political factors. The key question it answers is to what extent the growth of production and exports results in industrial upgrading towards the manufacturing of more sophisticated high value-added products, new technologies, and the development of non-production functions, especially design and advanced service capabilities. The authors provide insight into relationships between globalisation processes, place-specific attributes, and current economic policies.
Crisis Era European Integration
Economic, Political and Social Lessons from Croatia
Edited by Jakša Puljiz, Hrvoje Butković
Series: Routledge Studies in the European Economy
This book examines how Croatia has changed over the last decade and looks at the driving forces as well as the obstacles on its post-accession path of Europeanization. It argues that the Croatian case has special importance given that the last decade of European integration has arguably been the most challenging one yet. The book provides answers to the question of how successful Croatian policymakers were in dealing with the crises related challenges and other adaptations and explores how EU membership has affected the design and implementation of selected national public policies, the functioning of governing institutions and patterns of cooperation between main social actors.

Social Transformation and the Global Economy
Labour, Latin America, and the Lefts

Ronaldo Munck
Series: Routledge Studies in Labour Economics

The overall context of this book is set by the decline of the globalization paradigm’s ability to grasp the complexity and uncertainty of the current era. It takes a new approach based on the frame of ‘transformation’ viewed as a catalyst to understand the complex interconnected nature of the world around us from a concrete, grounded perspective. Latin America offers a unique laboratory of social transformation, since the ‘pink tide’ of the 2000s. The book is at once global in its ambition while grounded in labour and Latin American realities. Theoretically based and empirically robust, it will enthuse the reader to pursue their own research on matters covered here.

Technological Change and Labor Markets
Productivity, Job Polarization, and Inequality

Edited by Reyna Elizabeth Rodríguez Pérez, Liliana Meza González
Series: Routledge Studies in Labour Economics

This book demonstrates how digitalization and task-biased technological change are affecting the labor markets and the economy in general of different regions of the world and examines the factors that cause this inequality among nations. The book also considers questions such as how labor market effects differ by gender and what the impact of digital skills on employment, inequalities and public policies might be. In so doing, it identifies the advances, opportunities, and changes that have taken place, while also making public policy proposals. The book will appeal to graduate students and researchers in the field of economics and, specifically, in the study of labor markets.

G20 Economic Policy
A Balance of Payments Framework

Marcello Minenna

Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Business and Management

This book examines the statistics of the G-20 members with the goal of providing an analysis of their economic policies, with a particular emphasis on the financial dynamics of each country’s Balance of Payments, in order to offer a framework for better understanding where we are headed in an era of great economic and geopolitical reconfiguration. It seeks to contribute to a nuanced understanding of the current economic realities of key global actors and their complex interplay with geopolitical choices. Based on a scholarly approach, the analysis provides insights into the complex and evolving global order.

The Islamic Economic System
Cultural Context in a Global Economy

Muhammad Awan, Ali Osman Öztürk, Omar Khalid Bhatti, Nazima Ellahi

Series: Islamic Business and Finance Series

This book presents an interesting and timely narrative of the concepts of Islamic economics in the context of Islamic culture, guiding individuals and organizations towards a Shariah-based Islamic Economic System. The author emphasizes the principles that set Islamic economics apart from traditional systems and highlights their role promoting overall business success and ethical practices in the banking industry, offering comparative analysis between Islamic and conventional models. Drawing on a rich array of sources, including the Quran and interviews with renowned religious scholars, the book provides a well-rounded and thoroughly researched argument.

Human Enhancement Technologies and Healthcare Policy

Jacek Klich

Series: Routledge International Studies in Health Economics

This book presents the definition, theory, scope, and main challenges of human enhancement (HE) from a health policy and healthcare systems perspective. It examines the latest achievements of HE, focusing on four forms of enhancement: cognitive, physical, mood and moral. These forms are supported by the list of specific technologies and techniques used for HE. The book identifies the current trends in HE’s development and analyzes the challenges that HE poses to health policy and healthcare systems. The book will be of interest to students and researchers in political sciences, public health, public sector management and sociology, as well as healthcare managers and policymakers.

Long-Term Financial Sustainability Accounting and Reporting in the Public Sector

Hassan Ouda

Series: Routledge Studies in Accounting

This book’s primary aim is to develop a novel accounting and reporting system for measuring and reporting long-term financial sustainability in the public sector. The significance of this book lies in its introduction of an innovative role within the field of accounting. This role entails providing guidance and issuing alerts to governments regarding essential adjustments needed in current policies to ensure the long-term financial sustainability of governmental entities. This approach functions as an early warning system for governments and empowering them to proactively modify their policies and transition from unsustainable scenarios to sustainable ones.
Advanced Microeconomics

Theory, Applications and New Developments

Bibhas Saha

Advanced Microeconomics presents microeconomic problems in an intuitive way. Real-life applications are given throughout the chapters, clearly showing students how the advanced theory connects to the real world. Learning is supported by lists of key terms, chapter summaries and further reading suggestions. Advanced technical materials are presented in optional appendices. Flexible chapter sequencing in the book enables instructors to create their preferred syllabus. Developing students’ intuitive appreciation for the theory as well as mathematical analysis, this is the ideal textbook for microeconomics courses at master’s level (MSc and MRes) and advanced undergraduate level.

Artificial Intelligence and the Future of Healthcare

Jon-Arild Johannessen
Nord University, Oslo, Norway

Series: Routledge International Studies in Health Economics

This book reveals systemic connections to tackle questions about the potential impact of AI on future challenges in the healthcare sector. Specifically, it develops practical proposals for ways in which AI can be applied to solve these forthcoming issues. It emphasizes the importance of AI in ‘human augmentation’. The book’s innovative perspective is apparent in the way it challenges conventional wisdom in the context of several pressing questions and it also contains an underlying argument to the effect that the rational approach adopted by economists is perhaps less rational when applied to a healthcare sector that is crying out for more ‘first line competence’.

Empirical Law and Economics

Price-Fixing and Bid-Rigging Cases in Japan

Atsushi Maki
Tokyo International University, Japan Bank

Maki provides an empirical analysis of law and economics through reevaluating Myrdal’s value premises and Weber’s separation of analysis and policy. The general equilibrium theory assumes a perfectly competitive market. However, in the real economy, legal transactions do not always take place and this book analyzes price-fixing and bid-rigging cases. Using the real economy as data, this book illustrates issues related to the ideals of economics and the proper application of law. A useful reference for graduate students and researchers in economics and legal research, and an interesting read for those who consider economics to be an empirical science.

A Practical Guide to Paying off Your Mortgage Early

Lien Luu University of Northampton, UK
Sukanlaya Sawang
This book shows borrowers how to manage their mortgage debt more effectively, and how to repay their mortgage quickly so that they are debt-free. It seeks to empower consumers, young and old, by providing a roadmap to help borrowers achieve financial security through planning for the future, insuring their income and setting up an emergency fund. It also outlines simple strategies for an early repayment of debt, including paying off the capital, making extra payments and monitoring their mortgage debt. In doing so, it aims to help readers improve their general well-being, enhance their financial security, reduce their financial worries, and eliminate their ‘mortgage insomnia’.

Islamic Finance in the Modern Era

Digitalization, FinTech and Social Finance

Edited by Hussain Mohi-ud-Din Quadri, M. Ishaq Bhatti
La Trobe University, Australia
Series: Islamic Business and Finance Series
This book focuses on recent developments in financial technology, specifically, how FinTech affects the Islamic finance industry. It examines into the challenges of shariah compliance and explores opportunities for riba-free finance. It addresses thematic issues in Islamic finance, including its role in poverty eradication, elevating SMEs and the Islamic digital economy and examines Shariah-compliant instruments in Islamic finance. Finally it assesses the risk profile of Islamic finance products and explores mitigation strategies. It simultaneously presents theories, practice, and key issues, introducing new ideas and perspectives to the Islamic banking and financial community.

FinTech, Financial Inclusion and Sustainable Development

Disruption, Innovation and Growth

David Mhlanga
Series: Routledge Studies in the Economics of Innovation
This book explores the significant impact of FinTech on the financial industry and how it could be used to promote legitimate development in the global economy. It takes readers on an engaging tour of the field of FinTech, immersing them in a thorough investigation of the technological advancements, creative business models, and regulatory issues that define the FinTech landscape. This will be a useful reference for researchers, scholars and students, concerned with the changing dynamics of the industry in an increasingly digital and interconnected world.

Green Finance in the European Union

Marta Postula, Mariusz Lipski
Series: Routledge International Studies in Money and Banking
There are very few publications that offer a comprehensive approach to the financing of environmental protection activities by the European Union. This book explores this topic from various angles and levels, as well as highlighting the determinants that influence micro- and macro-level decisions in this area. It presents an in-depth and unique analysis of the sources of funding for environmental measures implemented by European Union institutions, against the backdrop of national expenditure by Member States, and analyses the plausibility of the adopted targets in the run-up to 2050, in the context of the war in Ukraine and ad hoc energy policy solutions.
A History of Capitalist Transformation

A Critique of Liberal-Capitalist Reforms

Giampaolo Conte

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

This book highlights how, since the recent financial crises, the expression ‘liberal reform’ has entered common parlance as an evocative image of austerity and economic malaise, especially for the working classes and a segment of the middle class. The research analyses the historical origins of liberal-capitalist reformism using a critical approach, starting with the origins of the Industrial Revolution. This volume will be of significant interest to readers on capitalism, political economy, the history of the global economy and British history.

China’s Economic Development

Decoding and Reframing Its Rise

Lee Pei May
International Islamic University of Malaysia, Malaysia

Series: Routledge Research on Asian Development

Lee addresses China’s catch-up by using four development theories to uncover its complexity and multifaceted development. Positioning China within the global economy, this book traces its developmental progress relative to other countries. To determine if the Chinese political economy is socialist, Lee moves away from the orthodox definition of socialism and instead examines the official narrative of Socialism with Chinese characteristics. Lastly, the book argues that though China is catching up, challenges are to be anticipated. A useful resource for students and scholars in the field of international political economy, Chinese studies, and development studies.

Economic Growth and Long Cycles

A Classical Political Economy Approach

Nikolaos Chatzarakis, Persefoni Tsaliki, Lefteris Tsooufildis
University of Macedonia, Greece

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Contemporary capitalism is characterized by periods of vigorous economic growth and periods of slow or even negative growth. This book draws on the classical political economy approach to consider both economic cycles and economic growth and draw conclusions about the inherent instability of the modern economy. The book shows that the work of the old Classical economists (Smith and Ricardo) and Marx is theoretically sound and capable of providing answers to both growth and cycles. This book will interest readers in history of economic thought, economic growth and development, macroeconomics and political economy.

Economics as Rhetoric

The Thought of Bernard Maris

Anne Isla

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Bernard Maris was killed in Paris on January 7, 2015, during the terrorist attack against the satirical magazine Charlie Hebdo. He remains one of the most original intellectuals of contemporary France but despite being a uniquely original heterodox thinker, his international reputation has been compromised by the fact that his writings are inaccessible to non-French speakers. This book remedies that. This book will be of great interest to readers in heterodox economics, economic methodology, epistemology, as well as French literature and culture more broadly.

Economics for Humanity
Integrating Well-being, Community, and Practical Philosophy
Mitsuki Okabe
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy
Economics is often referred to as “the queen of social sciences.” This is because mainstream economics has been established as an elegant academic discipline by assuming mankind simply to be homo economicus. This book challenges this basic perception of human beings.

Global Rentier Capitalism
Theory and Development
Edited by Balihar Sanghera
University of Kent, UK
Series: Global Challenges in Political Economy
Recent work on rent and rentierism has offered a distinctive and fresh approach to understanding and explaining contemporary capitalism. Drawing on political economy, economics, geography and sociology, this research has brought together distinct theoretical traditions in original and fertile ways to reshape the study of issues related to class, political-economic change and environmental challenges. It will be the first book of its kind to offer a global account of rentier capitalism. It will be of immense interest to readers in economics, political economy, sociology, geography and development studies.

History of Economic Management in North Korea
From Planned Economy to Socialist Enterprise System
Phillip Park
Kyungnam University, South Korea
Series: Perspectives in Economic and Social History
This book seeks to understand how the economic construction of the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea (DPRK) evolved, shaped by the formulation and execution of various economic management systems spanning the years 1949 to 2023, in response to numerous challenges faced by the country. Park charts the developmental phases of the DPRK economy under Kim Il Sung, Kim Jong Il, and current leader Kim Jong Un. Where related literature relies on testimonies and interviews of defectors, it offers a novel analysis of sources taken from North Korea. It will be of interest to scholars and advanced undergraduates of Korean history, Korean studies, and economic history.

Inequality and Stagnation
A Monetary Interpretation
Santiago Capraro, Carlo Panico, Luis Torres-González
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy
The book examines how the outgrowth of the financial industry has contributed to the recent tendencies towards inequality and stagnation. It proposes a monetary interpretation of these events using a Classical-Keynesian theoretical approach derived from the work of Keynes and Sraffa. Using the Classical-Keynesian approach, the book shows how the changes in legislation and policies since the abandonment of the Bretton Woods agreements have raised financial instability. This book is essential reading for researchers studying the interactions among financial markets, distribution and growth.

Income Redistribution, Inequality and Democracy
A Political Economy Approach
Hwan Joo Seo
Hanyang University, South Korea
Jung Jin Kang
Korea University, Korea
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy
Through a political economy perspective, Seo and Kang argue that income inequality and income redistribution are shaped by the institutions, policies, and laws generated by the political system, with their formation and nature being determined by the power distribution among socio-political groups. What sets this research apart from existing studies is its intensified focus on income inequality as a product of the complex interplay between the political and economic domains, rather than a standalone examination of income inequality in isolation. A useful resource for researchers, scholars, and policymakers concerned with issues of inequality and income redistribution.

Inequality: Economic and Social Issues
Edited by Mats Lundahl
Stockholm School of Economics, Sweden
Daniel Rauhut, Neelambar Hatti
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy
Inequalities of opportunity affect a person’s life expectancy, access to basic services and human rights, through discrimination, abuse and lack of access to justice. This book presents wide-ranging perspectives on economic inequality, as measured by differences in incomes and wealth. The contributors to this book explore how the economy is shaped in such a way as to generate differences in economic and social welfare between individuals, regions and nations. It will be essential reading for anyone interested in the causes and consequences of economic inequality including those in economics, sociology, politics, and geography.
Public Policy in Transition Economies
An Institutional Perspective

Maciej J. Godzicki, Anna Zachorowska-Mazurkiewicz

Series: Routledge Advances in Economic Policy

Public policies are usually carefully designed to address a particular problem, but they are also shaped and influenced by the sociocultural heritage of a particular country. This volume explores the origins of economic and other public policies in Central and Eastern Europe. The book will be of interest to readers in institutional economics, policy studies, transition economies and the recent history of Eastern Europe.

Regional Cooperation and Resilience in East Asia

Edited by Sebastian Bobowski

Series: Routledge Advances in Regional Economics, Science and Policy

This book argues that a resilient region should act reactively and proactively in the face of shocks and disruptions and asserts that the institutionalization of regional cooperation may be the answer to development challenges in times of uncertainty and instability. It considers regional, transregional, and subregional cooperation initiatives for building regional resilience and critically examines a broad spectrum of issues, such as international security and trade, economic development, value chains in production, and social welfare. The book will be helpful to scholars and students of international economics, international security as well as as policymakers.

The Economics of Inequality

Robert S. Rycroft University of Mary Washington, USA

With an emphasis on data, theory and policy, the third edition of this introductory-level book tackles each issue by exploring three key questions in each chapter: What does the data tell us about what has been happening to the American economy? What are the economic theories needed to understand what has been happening? Key controversies are highlighted in each chapter to drive classroom discussion, and end-of-chapter questions develop student understanding. The book will also be accompanied by PowerPoint slides for each chapter. This clearly written text is suited to a variety of courses on contemporary economic conditions, inequality, and social economics in the United States.

The Economy of Ancient Egypt

Mahmoud Ezzamel

Series: Routledge Explorations in Economic History

Taking ancient records as the starting point for analysis, this book theorises the state, administration and economy of ancient Egypt. The book examines the classification schemes of the Egyptian population devised by the administrative field of power and how they were used to differentiate, hierarchise and fix specific individuals within clearly demarcated social and economic categories that aimed to fix the subjectivity of those assigned to each category. This book will be of interest to readers in economic history, ancient Egypt and ancient history more broadly.

The Ideas That Rule Us

Chris Grocott University of Leicester, UK

It may seem surprising that the economic choices we make in society are often determined by ideas rather than scientific evidence or financial resources. The consequences of such choices are often stark – such as the austerity policies which eroded our ability to withstand crises like the Covid 19 pandemic. This book explores the ideas that rule our economy works, how government operates and how workers organise. This accessible book invites readers to question the ideas that rule us and explore the challenges facing society. It invites progressive thought about how we need to urgently organise action for the future.
The Political Economy of Mediterranean Europe

A Growth Models Perspective

Edited by Luis Cárdenas, Javier Arribas
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Applying the demand-led growth models framework, this book examines the recent macroeconomic performance of the key Mediterranean economies - Italy, Spain, Portugal and Greece - including the responses to the economic and financial crisis (2008), the debt crisis (2010) and the Covid-19 crisis (2020). In particular, the book examines whether policy responses and state interventions in recent years have led to a divergence between the economies. This book marks a significant addition to the literature on the economics and politics of Southern Europe and the fields of political economy, comparative economics and macroeconomics more broadly.

The Political Economy of Post-Capitalism

Financialization, Globalization and Neofeudalism

Richard Westra
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Westra explores a nuanced literature on postcapitalism which claims that instead of constituting the end of history or ending in its supplanting by socialism, capitalism has transmuted into something else. Foci of this literature ranges from questions of financial system and technological change through evidence of shifting class contours metastasizing a more predatory constellation. This book, written in a clear and compelling fashion, is a clarion call for social change. It will be of interest to academics and students across fields of economics, political economy, economic history, political science and sociology as well as to progressive policymakers and social activists.

Unequal Development and Capitalism

Catching Up and Falling Behind in the Global Economy

Adalmir Antonio Marquetti, Alessandro Miebach, Henrique Morrone
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Unequal development is one of the main features of capitalism. Throughout history, countries have exhibited differences in their productivity and growth performances and although some nations may catch up with the productivity levels or well-being of developed economies at times, others fall behind. Trying to explain the factors behind these variations has puzzled economists for many years. This book is a major resource for readers interested in economic growth and development, heterodox macroeconomics, development economics and related areas.
