Critical Thinking on Youth Participatory Action Research
Participation, Power, and Purpose
Edited by Gretchen Brion-Meisels, Thomas Albright
This book illuminates critical thinking on the past, present, and future of youth participatory action research (YPAR). In this critical moment, it shows how to better understand those who have been central to the envisioning and enacting of YPAR projects, and it examines the fundamental tenets and boundaries of their work. Showcasing new interviews with leaders in the field, this volume builds on the centrality of dialogue in PAR/YPAR processes. Elucidating the knowledge and perspective of leading YPAR practitioners, this timely book will be an essential resource for those seeking to unpack the complexities inherent in educational contexts. This book is ideal for use by teachers just embarking on their careers and in-service teachers looking to examine and improve their practices. Routledge

Video-Based Action Research
A Guide to Incorporating Video Analysis Into Reflective Practice for Teacher Development
Kimberly Lebak
This book introduces the use of video analysis into the popular educational research model of action research. Video analysis has become increasingly common in teacher development for reflective practice, as well as within the teacher certification process as an assessment tool. A 'how-to' guide, it brings the theoretical and practical together to show teachers how video can be a concrete artifact for unpacking and reflecting on the complexities inherent in educational contexts. This book is ideal for use by teachers at all stages of their careers, including pre-service teachers just embarking on their careers and in-service teachers looking to examine and improve their practices. Forth Years of the International Journal of Lifelong Education, Volume I
Reflections on a Changing Field
Edited by John Holford University of Nottingham, UK
Steven Hodge, Marcella Milana University of Verona, Italy
Richard Waller, Sue Webb Monash University, Australia
Over the last forty years, the International Journal of Lifelong Education has become a global leader in the field of research on adult education and lifelong learning. Drawing extensively on articles published in the journal, scholars from Africa, Asia, North and South America, Australasia and Europe reflect in two volumes on how the field has evolved over four decades, and on the strengths and weaknesses of its contributions to knowledge. The first of two volumes, this book offers rich insights into the nature of lifelong education, its development over the forty years of the journal (and more), and what challenges the field will be called upon to address in the future. Lived Experience, Lifelong Learning, Community Activism and Social Change
Edited by Sharon Clancy University of Nottingham, UK
Iain Jones University of Wales Trinity St David, UK
This book identifies and celebrates the learning adult educators can gain from the numerous sites of community activism, learning, and social change that are currently taking place across the globe. Each chapter and blog in this collection relate to different dimensions of community, democracy and dialogue and how this space has become one in which delimiting factors must constantly be fought. In these contributions, questions of critical pedagogy and voice, and contested notions of power, place and voice, are lived, felt and troubled in different national and international contexts. This book was originally published as a special issue of Studies in the Education of Adults. Routledge

The Mentor-Disciple Relationship in the Visual Arts and Beyond
Mentoring as Human Nurturing

Gaetano A. LaRoche
Series: Routledge Research in Arts Education
This book undertakes a deep examination of mentor and disciple relationships in the development of artists. It draws upon a variety of relationships and models, including an inner mentor, a mentor or apprentice scenario, and non-physical mentors such as historical figures, in order to investigate their history and philosophy. Using artists’ biographies and discussions of their work, this book sheds light on the role that mentoring has played in their development and can play in contemporary education. It will appeal to artists, art history teachers, educators, art students, and art scholars.

Language Conflict in Educational Settings
International Perspectives
Edited by Yliana V. Rodriguez, Adolfo Elizaincin
Series: Routledge Research in Language Education
Language Conflict in Educational Settings: International Perspectives delves into the intriguing intersection of contact linguistics and education, a topic that has been relatively unexplored until now. This well-rounded foundation for teaching second language (L2) grammar for pre-service, novice and practicing teachers, as well as for teacher educators who seek to develop their professional knowledge and skills. Written in a highly readable style for an international audience, it presents classroom strategies, techniques, activities, and applications of current and effective innovations to English grammar instruction. This book is an invaluable resource for researchers, scholars and teacher-educators, offering insights to help understand such an intricate phenomenon, as well as those working across language education, linguistics, and the sociology of language more broadly.

Building Asset-Based Transitions to Postsecondary Education with Multilingual Students with Disabilities
Audrey A. Trainor, Lindsay E. Romano, Lynn A. Newman
This important volume presents the results from a five-year, mixed methods study on the transition from high school to postsecondary education for young adults who, during secondary school, received both English learner and special education services. With a focus on equitable, culturally sustaining transition research and practice, the book informs graduate students, researchers, and teacher educators about how to mitigate the effects of historical marginalization, increasing our collective understanding of intersectional experiences and how they shape young adults’ choices as they leave high school and move into young adulthood.

Practical Grammar Teaching for the Second Language Classroom
Edited by Eli Hinkel
Professor of Linguistics and MA-TESL Programs at Seattle Pacific University, USA.
Series: ESL & Applied Linguistics Professional Series
Practical Grammar Teaching for the Second Language Classroom provides a well-rounded foundation for teaching second language (L2) grammar for pre-service, novice and practicing teachers, as well as for teacher educators who seek to develop their professional knowledge and skills. Written in a highly readable style for an international audience, it presents classroom strategies, techniques, activities, and applications of current and effective innovations to English grammar instruction. This book is essential for students in undergraduate and graduate MA-TESOL programs, pre-service and practicing ESL/EFL teachers, teacher educators, and teaching faculty.

Building Disciplinary Literacies in Content and Language Integrated Learning
Edited by Julia Hüttner
University of Vienna, Austria
Christiane Dalton-Puffer
University of Vienna, Austria
Series: Routledge Series in Language and Content Integrated Teaching & Multilingual Education
Hüttner and Dalton present research demonstrating the tangible benefits of long-term sustainability of Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL) on participants’ educational outcomes. This book argues that the specific benefit of CLIL is that learners acquire specific literacy practices linked to the curricular subjects they study via the CLIL language and that these go beyond what is commonly learned and studied within a foreign language curriculum. The various chapters showcase research and development projects from different geographical and educational contexts. A useful reference for graduate students studying applied linguistics, language teachers and teacher trainers.

Questioning the Native Speaker Construct in Teacher Education
Enabling Multilingual Identities and Decolonial Language Pedagogies
Julie Waddington
University of Girona, Spain
Series: Routledge Research in Language Education
Questioning the construction of the ‘native speaker’ as an authority and ideal in language education, this book offers a critical and accessible engagement with research problematising notions of ‘nativeness’ while emphasising the intersectional and ongoing nature of identity construction. Providing an accessible overview of complex issues along with strategic action in teacher education, this book will be of interest to researchers, academics and postgraduate students in the fields of language education, applied linguistics, TESOL and teacher education. Teacher educators and language teachers should also benefit from this volume.
Teaching Social Studies to English Language Learners

Bárbara C. Cruz, Stephen J. Thornton

Series: Teaching English Language Learners across the Curriculum

This fully updated new edition provides readers with a comprehensive understanding of the challenges that face English language learners (ELLs), also known as English Learners (ELs), as well as the ways in which educators might address them in the social studies classroom. The authors offer context-specific strategies for the full range of the social studies curriculum, including geography, U.S. history, world history, economics, and government. These practical instructional strategies will effectively engage learners and can be incorporated as a regular part of instruction in any classroom.

Curriculum Fragments
A Currere Journey through Life Processes
Edited by Thomas S. Poetter
Trinity University With
Series: Studies in Curriculum Theory Series
This book builds upon Louise Berman's late 20th century framing of life processes to inform school curriculum, by proposing a new curriculum project that extends and reframes Berman in and beyond schooling. Focusing on real life experiences in school and life that have educational implications and that can inform the curriculum, the field of curriculum studies, and the act of curriculum theorizing, this book will appeal to curriculum scholars interested in using currere, understanding patterns of use, participating in the production of curriculum and educational knowledge in the field, and perceiving and using curriculum theorizing as an integral part of their daily work.

Decolonisation and the Law School
Dreaming Beyond Aesthetic Changes to the Curriculum
Edited by Foluke I Adebisi
University of Bristol, UK
This book explores strategies, approaches, tools, challenges, and reflections that animate the conversation around decolonisation in UK law schools. This volume will be of interest to legal scholars, legal educators, law students as well as legal practitioners who are engaged in questions of how decolonisation relates to law – broadly understood. It was originally published as a special issue of The Law Teacher.
Early Childhood and the Asian American Experience
Exploring Intersectionality and Addressing Misrepresentations

Sohyun Meacham, Su-Jeong Wee, Jinhee Kim, Sophia Han, Wu-Ying Hsieh

This essential and urgent book presents research-based understandings about Asian American early childhood, bringing to light the battle Asian Americans face against American nativism from their early years’ experiences. The first of its kind in academic literature, the book addresses the well-known issue of underrepresentation of Asian Americans in early childhood education research and practice, and in American society in general. This book is key reading for early childhood education researchers, professors, and graduate students to become more productively engaged in discussions and practices toward racial justice.

Nature, Spirituality, and Early Childhood Education
Fostering Children’s Awareness and Responsibility through Outdoor Learning

Ruth Wills

This novel volume delves into a specific and crucial aspect of early years pedagogy—the intersection between early childhood education and spirituality, offering tips on nurturing spirituality and a sense of connectedness with nature through outdoor learning. Ultimately exploring avenues that can foster a sense of well-being and social responsibility in children, the book will be of interest to researchers, educators and teacher trainers in the field of early childhood education, environmental education, philosophy of education and teacher education. Policy makers and school leaders may also benefit from this volume.

Encounters with Materials in Early Childhood Education

Veronica Pacini-Ketchabaw

This rich text rearticulates understandings of materials—blocks of clay, sheets of paper, brushes and paints—to formulate new ideas about what happens when we think with materials and apply them to early childhood development and classrooms. Updated to include choreographies with fabrics and the process of repairation with plastics, this second edition shows how educators, young children, and researchers have explored what materials are capable of in their encounters with other materials and with children. The book is key reading for undergraduate students, graduate students, and pre-service teachers in early childhood education and art education programs.

Creative Sound Play for Young Learners
A Teacher’s Guide to Enhancing Transition Times, Classroom Communities, SEL, and Executive Function Skills

Hayes Greenfield

This fun and engaging guide invites you to use sound-making as a collaborative, play-based practice in your early childhood classroom—first to transform tricky transition times and ultimately to support your children’s executive functioning development and social emotional learning. The book offers techniques and ideas for every teacher to reach every child in their classroom including verbal, non-verbal and special needs children. The book features an ‘overview of the school year’ calendar and an implementation guide, in addition to a variety of suggested sound-making activities that start out simply and expand to engage children’s creativity in more dynamic ways.

How the Roles of Early Childhood Caregivers and Educators Came To Be Marginalized
The Influences of Gender, Race, Developmental Psychology, and Public Policy

Stacie G. Goffin

This book examines how the influences of gender, race, developmental psychology, and public policy affect the development, status, and standing of Early Childhood Care and Education (ECCE) as a field of practice. In order to understand how ECCE has been externally and internally marginalized, Goffin traces the field’s origins and its evolution over time. The book calls attention to the racial and gender makeup of the field, its reliance on psychology, and the contribution of public policy to the field’s low prestige. This work is ideal for early childhood care and education graduate faculty and students, educators, and caregivers who want to know more about their history.
Sharing Perspectives for Educating Young Children with Disabilities

Developing Family and Professional Partnerships

Nancy Sall, Catherine Hall Rikhye, Darnell Carr Newsum, Samreen Hoda

This important book is an exploration of the ways parents, teachers, and academics view the development and schooling of young children with disabilities. It offers an in-depth examination of the common and critical issues that emerge as children and their families first enter the school system, navigate the educational landscape, and learn to advocate for their rights. Sharing Perspectives for Educating Young Children with Disabilities is essential reading for all pre-service and in-service early childhood and special education professionals and parents engaging in the process of listening carefully to others with the aim of supporting the education of young children.

Constructivist Teaching by Heart

A Child-Centered Approach for Educators, PreK-3

Krista Calvert, Dana McMillan

This insightful book offers a modern take on the time-honored tradition of developmentally appropriate, child-centered, constructivist philosophy of instruction: Teaching children one at a time, yet all at once. The book provides a comprehensive road map to teaching that supports student engagement, child development, classroom environment, grouping and organization, authentic literacy instruction, and culturally informed practices. The authors push back against scripted curriculums and ‘one-size-fits-all’ school initiatives, offering instead rich examples and guiding questions to bring you closer to an authentic teaching approach that honors students and their learning.

Rethinking Weapon Play in Early Childhood

How to Encourage Imagination, Kindness, and Consent in Your Classroom

Samuel Broaden, Kisa Marx

This book invites you to reconsider your automatic ‘no’ when it comes to young children’s weapon play. It offers new perspectives on how weapon play and other risky or controversial play can provide opportunities for healing discussions—including around boundaries, kindness, and consent—and create positive learning experiences for children and teachers alike. Centered in an antiracist framework and written by two educators who each share their perspectives on risky play, questions to consider, and strategies to try in the classroom, this book is an essential resource for early years teachers, practitioners, and anyone with an interest in creating supportive spaces for young children.

Gender and Power in Early Childhood Education in Indonesia

Vina Adriany Universitas Pendidikan Indonesia

Series: Evolving Families

Adriany explores gender discourses in early childhood education in Indonesia, as well as how teachers and children are engaged in the process of constructing, negotiating and resisting dominant gender discourses in kindergartens. The findings of this book show the extent to which early childhood education becomes a space for the teachers and children to construct, negotiate, as well as resist dominant gender discourses in kindergartens. Offering insights into local and global contexts that shape gender values in early years, this book will be a valuable reference for researchers, scholars and students in early childhood education, gender studies, and comparative education.

Nurturing Children through Preschool and Reception

Developing the Potential of Every Child

Kathryn Peckham

The preschool and reception years can be viewed as a stage of preparation for formal schooling. Nurturing Children through Preschool and Reception explores how a child’s mind and body develops during this critical and sensitive period and how the choices practitioners and parents make every day have a deep impact on these processes. Part of the Nurturing Childhoods series, this exciting book provides practitioners with the knowledge and understanding they need to nurture children’s happiness, well-being and sense of security through the preschool and reception years.

Nurturing Children through the Primary Years

Developing the Potential of Every Child

Kathryn Peckham

This book argues that supporting a child’s learning in primary school is more about nurturing their dispositions than continually assessing their performance. It shows how teachers and parents have a deep impact on children’s learning, motivation and potential and the practices that offer children the best opportunities for future success. Part of the Nurturing Childhoods series, this exciting book provides teachers, practitioners and parents with the knowledge and understanding they need to nurture children’s happiness, well-being and sense of security through the preschool and reception years.

Supporting Early Childhood Practice through Difficult Times

Looking Towards a Better Future

Edited by Ute Ward University of Hertfordshire, UK
Series: Towards an Ethical Praxis in Early Childhood

It is essential reading for teachers, trainee teachers, lecturers, researchers, and policy makers world-wide who want to improve the teaching of reading and writing in the English language.
The Right Start to Phonics

A Guide to Supporting Excellence in Early Phonics

Rose Blair

If children are to access all phonics teaching effectively, they first need to know how to tune into and manipulate the sounds specifically needed for reading. This book shows readers how they can support children in gaining the skills they need to listen with accuracy, to differentiate between, manipulate and understand the sounds we hear. This experience will give them the knowledge and understanding needed to hear letter sounds and blend them together to eventually read words. Full of playful, active and fun ideas to help young children develop the auditory skills they need to access the phonic code, this is essential reading for all early years and primary educators and parents.

The Creative Art of Troublemaking in Education

Frank Coffield

Drawing on a lifetime’s experience and research in education, Frank Coffield brings together some of his previously published papers to assess the impact of a wide range of national educational policies and to examine the role of the state in public education. He concludes that damage has been done to education by political parties of both right and left and that it will not be reversed unless significant change is made such as addressing poverty and reducing the powers of the state. An essential read for anyone in education, this provocative criticism of our past and current educational 'system' provides an accessible as well as a humorous critique of educational policy and politics.

Gaslighting School Educational Policy in a Post-Truth World

Systems, Schools and Society

Grant Rodwell The University of Newcastle, Australia
Series: Routledge Research in Education Policy and Politics

Focusing on current educational systems in the US, UK, and Australia, Grant Rodwell examines the politics of gaslighting within school educational policy and how this links to political motives in a post-truth world. Using sustained comparative description and analysis, Rodwell provides up-to-date research on how gaslighting impacts school educational policy. As gaslighting is a complex term, the book gives a framework of how to comprehend it relative to school educational topics and issues. This book will be a foundational resource for tertiary institutions, educational policy students and researchers, politicians and parents concerned with gaslighting policies and practices.

Task Engagement Across Disciplines

Research and Practical Strategies to Increase Student Achievement

Edited by Joy Egbert, Priya Panday-Shukla

Using an evidence-based model developed by Egbert and colleagues, editors Joy Egbert and Priya Panday-Shukla provide a comprehensive overview of task engagement, collating this research into a resource teachers and researchers can utilize. Chapters address how task engagement theory, evidence, and instruction can be applied to increase learner achievement, and include background information, resources, and exercises for readers to extend their research into their practice. Though ideal for teacher education research scholars, students and faculty, this book is useful for instructors at all levels interested in integrating task engagement concepts into their practice.

Relational Practice: New Approaches to Mental Health and Wellbeing in Schools
Edited by Sahaja Timothy Davis, Tom Billington, Mary Chilokoa, Claire Whiting

A clear and compelling text written by teachers, psychologists and educationalists, this book proposes a dynamic and relational approach to supporting the mental health needs of children and young people within education. Contributing authors advocate a movement away from the deficit, medical model of mental health and instead encourage readers to embrace a relational approach, considering the wider contexts that shape mental health. Providing a comprehensive introduction to relational practice within education, this is an indispensable resource for anyone working in education who wishes to support the mental health and wellbeing of their school community.

Inventions of Teaching
A Genealogy
Brent Davis, Angus McMurtry

This updated edition of Inventions of Teaching presents an examination of the many and varied metaphors of teaching in English. These metaphors serve as sites to excavate conflicting historical, conceptual, and philosophical influences that have contributed to modern teaching practices. This book is an informative text for senior undergraduate and graduate courses in curriculum studies and foundations of teaching. It is also relevant for students, faculty, and researchers across the field of education who want to explore the consequences of diversities of opinion, belief, and practice concerning teaching and closely related topics of learning, knowing and formal education.

Developing Formative Assessment in STEM Classrooms
Edited by Michel Grangeat University of Grenoble Alpes, France
Christine Harrison King’s College London, UK
Jens Dolin University of Copenhagen, Denmark
This book, drawn from the practical experience of the European Assess Inquiry in Science, Technology and Mathematics Education (ASSIST-ME) project, aims to support researchers, teacher educators and teachers in navigating the complex nature of formative assessment. The volume illustrates how ideas about inquiry and assessment are played out in the classroom, revealing both how the pedagogical approach fits with the assessment choices made and the support that teachers need, to engage with these changes. The chapters included in this book were originally published in International Journal of Science Education.

A Paradigm Shift for Language Education
Project-Based Learning and Teaching
Gulbahar H. Beckett University of Cincinnati, US

This book investigates the argument for the significance and necessity of project-based learning and teaching (PBLT) as it becomes increasingly important in language education. It explores the research foundations and the historical and theoretical antecedents of PBLT, articulating the project of project-based learning and teaching as a valuable approach for second language education pedagogy and research. Utilizing qualitative classroom research, it then moves to address key concerns surrounding the difficulties of effectively implementing PBLT with existing curriculum and keeping track of content acquisition, cognitive and social skills development, and language learning.

K-12 Classroom Research in Language Teaching and Learning
Narratives for Understanding and Engaging in Teacher Research
Edited by Kate Mastruserio Reynolds, Khanh-Duc Kuttig

This edited volume presents narratives on a range of methods for research on second language teaching and learning appropriate to the elementary, middle, and high schools (K-12). Teacher researchers in different worldwide contexts narrate their processes to explain and demonstrate practitioner research in context; contributors describe their research from exploring the rationale for the project, to designing the study, analyzing the data, and disseminating it. The book illustrates how K-12 practitioners design, gather, analyze, interpret, and strategically employ data to make data-driven, evidence-based, and analysis-informed instructional, assessment, and programmatic decisions.

Literacies in Times of Disruption
Living and Learning During a Pandemic

Bronwyn T. Williams University of Louisville

The wide-ranging disruptions of the COVID-19 pandemic altered the experiences of place, technology, time, and schoolwork. This book explores how students' responses to these extraordinary times shaped their identities as learners and writers, as well as their perceptions of education. In a time when disruptions, including but not limited to the pandemic, continue to ripple and resonate through education and culture, this book provides important insights for researchers and teachers in literacy and writing studies, education, media studies, and any seeking a better understanding of students and learning in this precarious age.

In Community With Readers
Transforming Reading Instruction with Read-Alouds and Minilessons
Lynsey Burkins, Franki Sibberson

What is the true purpose of whole-group reading instruction? Is it possible to teach standards and skills while also creating a community in which students are free to bring their whole selves into the work of reading? How do we make this an everyday reality in grades 3-6 classrooms? Lynsey Burkins and Franki Sibberson answer these questions and more in In Community With Readers: Transforming Reading Instruction with Read-Alouds and Minilessons. In this book, Burkins and Sibberson push back on the idea that whole-group reading instruction must be teacher-centered skill and drill and instead offer us a way to create a truly meaningful whole-group reading community.

Mediation as Negotiation of Meanings, Plurilingualism and Language Education
Edited by Bessie Dendrinos

This edited collection considers the theory and practice of mediation in plurilingual education. Bringing together the voices of scholars from European universities who are also experienced language teacher educators, contributing authors present their research in classrooms and other multilingual environments, consider the data collected critically and offer concrete suggestions for the development of language learners' ability to mediate within and across languages. This book makes the case for why mediation constitutes a key competence to be developed for active global and local citizenry in today's societies where there is an increased rate of knowledge acquisition and exchange.

Researching Educational Practices, Teacher Education and Professional Development for Early Language Learning
Examples from Europe
Edited by Sandie Mourão, Nova University, Portugal and Carolyn Leslie, Nova University, Portugal

Decolonising Australian History Education
Fresh Perspectives from Beyond the ‘History Wars’

Edited by Rebecca Cairns Deakin University, Australia
Aleyk Fricker Deakin University, Australia
Sara Weuffen UNSW, Australia

This book is the first of its kind to showcase a range of fresh and expert perspectives on decolonising History education in Australia. The research-informed chapters by First Nations and non-Indigenous educators and scholars provide guidance on applying practical strategies for decolonising learning and teaching, and moving beyond the ‘history wars’. Combining theoretical perspectives and practical ideas, this book is an essential resource to support pre-and-in-service teachers, in all education contexts, in navigating the decolonisation of Australian history education. This makes it an important contribution to local, as well as global, decolonising efforts.

Learning to Relearn
Supporting Identity in a Culturally Affirming Classroom

Kwame Sarfo-Mensah

Kwame Sarfo-Mensah’s latest book, Learning to Relearn, challenges educators to embark on a transformative journey toward creating classrooms that embrace diversity, equity, and inclusion. Rooted in the principles of anti-bias, anti-racist (ABAR) education, this book offers a roadmap for teachers seeking to dismantle systemic biases and foster inclusive spaces that honor intersectional student identities. It’s a call for unlearning and relearning, encouraging teachers, through first-person narratives and actionable insights, to continually evolve their practices to meet diverse needs and create culturally-affirming classrooms where every student’s identity is celebrated.

Teaching and Supporting Students with Disabilities During Times of Crisis
Culturally Responsive Best Practices from Around the World

Edited by Pavan Antony, Stephen Shore

This volume offers international perspectives on the disproportionate impact Covid-19 has had on disabled students and their families, serving as a call to action for educational systems and education policy to become proactive, rather than reactive, for future disasters. Each chapter in the book is written by authors with lived experiences across diverse global regions, highlighting the daily life of people with disabilities and their families during the pandemic. Including case studies and practical suggestions, the book demonstrates that culturally responsive practices are essential to successfully support people around the world in their times of need.

Understanding Intellectual Disabilities
Historical Perspectives, Current Practices, and Future Directions

Stephen B. Richards, University of Dayton, USA
Michael P. Brady, Ronald L. Taylor, Florida Atlantic University, USA

The third edition provides thorough coverage of the causes and characteristics of intellectual disabilities as well as detailed discussions of the validated instructional approaches in the field today. A revised “Future Directions” chapter explores the most recent philosophical, social, legal, medical, educational, and personal issues that professionals and people with intellectual disabilities face. All chapters have been updated with recent developments in research and the newest terminology being used in the field. This comprehensive and current introductory textbook is ideally suited for introductory, or methods courses related to intellectual disabilities.

Let’s Talk About Race in the Early Years

Stella Louis, Hannah Betteridge

This groundbreaking book is a must-read for all early years professionals working with babies, toddlers, young children and their families. Its practical and accessible guidance provides the tools and techniques you need to identify and confront discriminatory practices, with strategies to break down barriers and tackle these complicated issues sensitively and constructively. Reflective questions and case studies encourage you to evaluate your own practice. Each chapter builds your confidence and ability to create dynamic and anti-racist learning environments and will ensure your setting fosters a positive sense of identity and belonging.

Empowering EAL Learners in Secondary Schools
A Practical Resource to Support the Language Development of Multilingual Learners

Joanna Kolota

1 in 5 students are identified as speaking English as an Additional Language and all teachers are highly likely to be teaching multilingual students in their classrooms. As our schools become more culturally and linguistically diverse, they must respond to the needs of the students in front of them. This book provides a range of strategies and resources to ensure teaching is adaptive and responsive so that all learners thrive and fulfill their academic potential. It will be essential reading for all school educators and teaching assistants who support EAL students in mainstream lessons and are responsible for producing resources and implementing classroom strategies.

Talkabout Assessment of Social Skills

Alex Kelly, Managing director of Alex Kelly Ltd; Speech therapist, Social Skills and Communication Consultant, UK
Naomi Pearson

This accessible, practitioner-focused textbook details a comprehensive classroom behavior management framework that is easy to understand and implement within a K-12 classroom. Influenced by decades of classroom teaching and special education teacher candidate preparation experiences, the book features effective evidence-based strategies designed both to prevent problem behaviors from occurring in classrooms and address challenging behaviors that presently exist or may arise. Ideal for both current and prospective special educators, this book supports readers in developing their own comprehensive approach to classroom behavior management that can be implemented across grade levels.

Talkabout Assessment of Social Skills (TASS) is a tool using a software programme which allows education and healthcare professionals to input and analyse the assessment of social skills. It gathers information from key sources to provide a holistic view of a person’s social communication and uses rating scales to enable quantitative analysis of intervention. The accompanying manual includes an overview of the resource and guidelines for each section, in addition to worked examples and photocopiable versions of the digital forms. TASS is a valuable resource for anyone working the area of social communication and is suitable for use by both individual practitioners and teams.
2ND EDITION

Teaching Protective Behaviours to Young Children
Empowering Young Children to Feel Safer

Carolyn Gelenter, Rachel Bailey, Belinda Riley
This teaching resource provides staff in education settings with a comprehensive way of supporting children, aged 4–9, to learn that they have a right to feel safe and can talk with someone about anything. Fully revised and updated, this second edition provides a practical replication of the Protective Behaviours framework, including suggested session plans and accompanying resources. It helps supporting adults teach sessions within an open time frame, offering ideas that can be embedded into everyday practice with children. This resource is an essential tool for staff in early years and primary settings, as well as other professionals supporting young children with safety.

The Inclusive Early Years Educator
A Reflective Toolkit

Ann Lowe, Stephen Kilgour
This book encourages us to change our mindset when it comes to children with learning differences and disabilities, considering areas where our provision needs adjustment, in order to be truly inclusive. The toolkit aims to give all children the best chance of making progress by helping practitioners identify and celebrate all aspects of individual learners, building a holistic picture of a child’s learning. It includes a wealth of case studies, reflective prompts, accessible guidance and strategies to advocate a change in practice. This book will enable reader to become an ally for championing neurodiversity-affirming practice and true inclusion in early years education.

The SEND Handbook for Parents and Carers
How to Navigate the SEND System and Support Your Child Through School

Sarah Alix
Being a parent of a neurodivergent child can feel like a constant battle to be heard and to gain the support that you and your child need. This book provides an accessible overview of the SEND system and how it works, so that you can successfully untangle and navigate the system and draw upon the best resources offered. Chapters break down key assessments, documentation, legislation, funding and the responsibilities of school staff, going on to consider important transitions through each of the school phases and include a range of both practical and reflective activities. This comprehensive guide is an essential tool for parents and carers of children with SEND.

The Therapeutic School Approach
How to Embed Trauma-Informed, Attachment-Aware Practices to Improve Outcomes for All Children

Shahana Knight
This book offers a step-by-step guide to embedding a trauma-informed teaching approach that is tangible and practical. It highlights practices which can create disconnection with children and explores underpinning key theory, from childhood trauma to the power of the environment. This whole school approach gives readers the tools and practical strategies needed to support children when they are dysregulated by reframing ‘difficult’ behaviour and focusing on emotional intelligence and self-regulation. It is essential reading for primary school teachers, head teachers, SENCOs, and support staff who want to put children’s wellbeing at the core of their practice.

Understanding Anxiety at School
From Personal Experience to Practical Pupil Support

Rachel Thynne
This book explores anxiety in children and young people, unpicking social anxiety, situational mutism, school anxiety, and separation anxiety. It illustrates the importance of relationships, communication and self-regulation skills and provides a wealth of strength-based strategies that can be implemented quickly and easily by school staff to alleviate anxiety and build self-esteem. The book supports collaborative work with caregivers to achieve maximum impact and includes real-life examples and case-studies to bring theory to life. It will enable school staff, including teachers and SENCOs, to recognise signs of anxiety and to provide support empathically and compassionately.

Unlocking Inclusion for SEN Learners
A Practical Toolkit for Primary Schools

Beccie Hawes
This book emphasises the message that the adaptions we make to our daily practice are crucial for some but helpful for all. It provides the tools to unlock whole-school inclusion and ensure each child is given the opportunity to fulfil their potential, offering practical, impactful ideas that are easy and cost-effective to action, designed to help primary schools foster active inclusion. With self-evaluation tools to help readers identify and celebrate current successes and pinpoint next steps for improvement, this book is an essential resource for primary school teachers, SENCOs and senior leaders who wish to ensure that their inclusive vision is embodied throughout their school.

Late, Lost, and Unprepared
A Parents’ Guide to Helping Children with Executive Functioning
Joyce Cooper-Kahn, Laurie Dietzel
Does your child have difficulty meeting deadlines, staying organized, or keeping track of important information? Do they tend to forget details? Are they prone to emotional meltdowns? This book will become your go-to, all-inclusive guide to helping children manage issues with these executive functions. In addition to providing approaches for helping your child to manage demands in the short run, this book offers strategies for building independent skills for long-term self-management. Late, Lost, and Unprepared gives parents the support they need to help their child become productive and independent – today and in the future.

Parent’s Quick Start Guide to Dysgraphia
James W. Forgan Florida Atlantic University, USA, Noelle Balsamo Florida Gulf Coast University, USA
Parent’s Quick Start Guide to Dysgraphia provides parents and caregivers with an immediate overview of dysgraphia and steps they can take to support and encourage their child. Offering straightforward, easy to understand, and evidence-based information, this book is a go-to resource for caregivers parenting a child with dysgraphia.

Neurodiversity and the Twice-Exceptional Student
A Comprehensive Resource for Teachers
Rhonda Filmer
Written for busy teachers, this practical manual defines terms, shares examples, and provides evidence-based information and strategies to support the teaching of twice-exceptional students. This essential, practical resource will serve teachers and educators in both primary and secondary schooling, as well as pre-service educators. It will also be of interest to parents and carers.

Raising Girls With ADHD
Secrets for Parenting Healthy, Happy Daughters
Mary Anne Richey
The second edition of the best-selling Raising Girls with ADHD features the latest information on research and treatment for girls with ADHD presented in an easily accessible format. Full of tactics, resources, and tools, this book will provide the support you need to build a positive relationship with your daughters while seeking the most appropriate treatments and support.

The Secret Life of SENCOs
Practical Insights on Inclusion and Specialist Provision
Adam Boddison nasen, UK, Maxine O’Neill
Only two roles are statutorily required in maintained schools, the Headteacher and the SENCO, and of these, only the SENCO is required to be a qualified teacher, demonstrating just how vital SENCOs are. But being the SENCO can be a lonely role as there is typically only one per school, so it is not always easy to know how SENCOs in other schools are undertaking the role. The Secret Life of SENCOs will transform how you deliver the SENCO role by combining the benefit of hindsight with the luxury of insight, to provide the privilege of foresight. It is a valuable resource for both new and experienced SENCOs, as well those considering beginning in the role.

2ND EDITION
Choice Words
How Our Language Affects Children’s Learning

Peter Johnston
The first edition quickly became a bestseller and impacted countless educators and students. Peter Johnston provided educators with examples of language usage that are pivotal in the orchestration of the classroom: how and what we say (and don’t say) impact what children learn and for who they become. In the new edition, Peter Johnston returns to the message that teaching language is a powerful tool for improving children’s learning and classroom community. This book has much to offer to both new and first edition readers with updated research, new classroom examples, and additional chapters on social emotional learning and mindsets.

Powerful Thinking
Engaging readers, building knowledge, and nudging learning in elementary classrooms

Adrienne Gear
An inspiring book to help teachers shift their beliefs and “stretch” their thinking around reading comprehension, literacy instruction, and content-area learning. Using the key concepts and strategies introduced in her ground-breaking book, Reading Power, Adrienne Gear shows teachers practical ways to create a “culture of thinking” that can be integrated into all areas of learning. Using knowledge-rich texts as tools, Adrienne shares how read-alouds can be used in content areas to support literacy skills and build knowledge.

Teaching Higher-Order Thinking to Young Learners, K-3
How to Develop Sharp Minds for the Disinformation Age
Steffen Saifer
To be truly educated today, students need more than knowledge: they need higher-order thinking skills. Critical and creative thinking is required to recognize and counter disinformation, to overcome thinking errors, and for success in school and life. To effectively teach these skills, we must start early, when young minds are still forming. While K-3 students are capable of higher-order thinking, most lessons only engage their lower-order thinking. In this comprehensive book based on sound science, Dr. Saifer offers many practical and engaging ways to develop students’ logical, critical, and creative thinking skills in nearly every lesson, in all subject areas, throughout the day.

Improving Thinking About Thinking in the Classroom
What Works for Enhancing Metacognition
Keith J. Topping University of Dundee, UK
What are the best ways to enhance metacognition in classroom teaching? This research-to-practice book shows how to go beyond simple student reflection to use 19 different practical strategies. You will learn about programs within traditional curriculum subjects, across the traditional curriculum, focusing on self-regulation, for disabled and special needs students, and embedded in a digital environment. You will also be able to ultimately devise your own ways to develop metacognition and self-regulated learning. With the powerful practices in this book, students will develop a refined ability to think about how they think and learn, preparing them for their futures beyond school.

The Neural Teaching Guide
Authentic Strategies from Brain-Based Classrooms

Internationalisation of the Curriculum
A Comparative Perspective across Australian and Vietnamese Universities

Huong Le Thanh Phan RMIT University, Australia
Ly Thi Tran Deakin University, Australia
Jill Blackmore Blackmore

This book compares the nature and practice of internationalisation of the curriculum at the policy, institutional, and classroom levels in Vietnam and Australia: the former an Asian, developing, and sending country of international students, and the latter an Anglophone, developed country, and a major education export provider. Providing rich inputs for new ways of thinking and doing to enhance educational quality and the learning experiences of all students, the book is a valuable resource for researchers, academic staff, practitioners, leaders, and students in higher education and international and comparative education.

Pursuing Social Justice Agendas in Caribbean Higher Education
Perspectives and Prospects for Small Island Developing States

Edited by Talia R. Ennard The University of the West Indies, West Indies

This book offers a treatment of social justice and higher education within small island developing states like the Caribbean. This is a timely exploration of some of the global-local, structure-actor, policy-practice debates that connect directly to the promise and the challenges of pursuing social justice agendas within and beyond Caribbean institutions of higher education. It will be vital reading for scholars and educational researchers with interests in higher education, social justice, and small island developing states (SIDS).

Lifeworlds and Change in Palestinian Education
Liberating Learning

Bill Williamson Durham University, UK

This timely volume critically assesses the state of education in Palestine, reframing the discourse on Israel-Palestine through the lens of education, and arguing for a paradigm shift in the way education in the region is studied, managed, and experienced. Ultimately challenging western educators to rethink their approaches to education and learning in order to build a stronger global platform for human rights, democratic engagement and justice, this book will be of value to scholars, researchers, and postgraduate students in international and comparative education, multicultural education, and educational change and reform more broadly.

Fluency Doesn't Just Happen in Multiplication and Division

Strategies and Models for Teaching the Basic Facts

Nicki Newton, Ann Elise Record, Alison J. Mello

Fluency in math doesn't just happen! It is a well-planned journey. In this book, you'll find practical strategies and activities for teaching your elementary students basic multiplication and division facts. The authors lay out a framework for building math fluency using a cycle of engagement (concrete, pictorial, abstract) and provide a multitude of examples illustrating the strategies in action. A final chapter devoted to action plans will help you put these strategies into practice in your classroom right away. Most importantly, you'll open the door to deep and lasting math fluency.

Asian American Racialization and the Politics of U.S. Education

Wayne Au University of Washington, USA
Series: Critical Social Thought
Asian American Racialization and the Politics of U.S. Education explores issues surrounding Asian American education in the U.S. and how they relate to educational theory, policy, and practice. The book challenges stereotypes and assumptions, restores absent histories of Asian American people, provides actions and policies that enable anti-racist educational work, and argues that understanding Asian American racialization is essential to fighting white supremacy. It is important reading for those interested in anti-racist, liberatory, and abolitionist educational work, or in Asian American Education, Multicultural Education, Social Justice Education, and Critical Education.

Critical Race Theory and Classroom Practice

Edited by Daniella Ann Cook University of South Carolina, USA Nathanial Bryan The University of Texas at Austin, USA
This edited book shows how Critical Race Theory (CRT) can shape teacher practices in ways that improve educational outcomes for all children, especially those most marginalized in PreK-20 classrooms. Written for pre- and in-service teachers, teacher educators, and anti-racist community stakeholders, the text addresses the timely applicability of CRT as a pedagogical practice for PreK-20 educators seeking to meaningfully combat intersectional racial injustice and to create a more just democracy.

Deculturalization and the Struggle for Equality

A Brief History of the Education of Dominated Cultures in the United States

Joel Spring Queens College, USA
Series: Sociocultural, Political, and Historical Studies in Education
Joel Spring's history of school policies imposed on dominated groups in the United States examines the concept of deculturalization—the use of schools to strip away family languages and cultures and replace them with those of the dominant group. Revised throughout to reflect the national events and shifts in the field since the prior edition, the 10th edition includes updated discussion around race and its impacts on college campuses, exploration of the refugee crises, new material on Native American, Alaskan, and Hawaiian boarding schools, and expanded discussion of debates over cultural and racial identity.

Dismantling Orientalist Representations in US Education

Schooling and Otherness in the Social Studies Classroom

Daniel Osborn Boston University, USA
Series: Routledge Research in Decolonizing Education
This book examines the evolving role played by the social studies classroom in shaping national identity and contributing to Orientalism, which depicts the peoples of the Middle East as “the Other” relative to those of the United States and Europe. A novel and unique exploration of knowledge construction, and presenting a vision for a more nuanced and multifaceted portrayal of the Middle East that corrects for the deleterious aspects of Orientalism while avoiding a romanticized apologetic, it will appeal to scholars, researchers, and educators with interests in decolonizing education, social studies education, the history of education, and race and ethnicity studies.

Environmental Liberation Education

Diversity, Mindfulness, and Sustainability Tools for Teachers and Students

Micaela Rubalcava
Environmental Liberation Education offers an easy-to-use, culturally informed, and student-centered teaching approach to promote academic engagement and systemic change. It presents three Transformative Tools: Diversity Circles, Multicultural Mindfulness, and Approach-in-Dimension for assessment. The Tools assist educators at all levels across disciplines to reduce bias and make sustainable decisions daily. They empower teachers to bring peace and academic concentration into classrooms through a holistic understanding of body, mind, culture, and environment. This book is a vital resource that synthesizes multicultural and sustainability education through mindfulness practices.
Identity Construction as a Spatiotemporal Phenomenon within Doctoral Students’ Intellectual and Academic Identities
Contradictions, Contestations and Convergences

Rudo F. Hwami
Rhodes University, South Africa
Series: Routledge Research in Higher Education

Investigating the interplay between space, time and identity construction, this book brings together how spatiality and temporality have been largely overlooked in the study and theorisation of identity construction. Providing a space to continue and progress the foregrounding of narratives from marginalised voices and groups in higher education, the book will be of interest to scholars, researchers and academics in the fields of sociology of education, multicultural education, higher education, and philosophy of education.

Storytelling and Improvisation as Anti-Racist Pedagogies
Challenging White Supremacy in Elementary Education

Samuel Jaye Tanner, Erin T. Miller

This book theorizes and describes the concept of transformative critical whiteness pedagogies that are rooted in theories and practices of improvisation. It shows how these pedagogies invite people, especially white people, into the urgent work of resisting the ongoing production and affirmation of white supremacy.

Making Space for Cultural Equality in Educational Leadership
School Ethos and Postcolonial Pedagogy

Mathew Barnard
Keele University, UK
Series: Routledge Research in Decolonizing Education

This book foregrounds postcolonial theory as a lens through which to explore the concept of ‘global heritage’ and argues that the meso-level spaces of institutional ethos and cultural pedagogy must take an active role in the pursuit of cultural equality. This book will appeal to scholars, researchers, and post-graduate researchers in the fields of multicultural education, school leadership, management and administration, and education policy and politics more broadly. Those interested in social justice, ideas of cultural and racial equality, and the sociology of education more broadly will also benefit from the volume.

Enhancing Assessment, Instruction, and Curriculum with Chatbots

David A. Joyner
The Teacher’s Guide to Conversational AI explores the practical role that language-based artificial intelligence tools play in classroom teaching, learning experiences, and student assessment. Today's educators are well aware that conversational and generative AI—chatbots, intelligent tutoring systems, large language models, and more—represent a complex new factor in teaching and learning. This introductory primer offers comprehensive, novice-friendly guidance into the challenges and opportunities of incorporating AI into K-12 schools and college classes in ways that are appropriate, nourishing to students, and outcomes-driven.

ACCESS: Accessible Course Construction for Every Student’s Success

Cat Mahaffey University of North Carolina, USA/Ashlyn C. Walden University of North Carolina, USA
ACCESS: Accessible Course Construction for Every Student’s Success is a practical guide to digital course design that incorporates and exceeds current accessibility practices for disabled and non-disabled students in higher education. This book offers a wealth of learning design and delivery strategies that meaningfully address the notions of accessibility that move beyond compliance with the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA). Each chapter explores accessibility in a situated context, making this an ideal resource for instructional design students and professionals, learning scientists, disability support personnel, and faculty developing their own digital courses.

Artificial Intelligence Applications in Higher Education

Theories, Ethics, and Case Studies for Universities

Edited by Helen Crompton, Diane Burke
Artificial Intelligence Applications in Higher Education offers direct examples of how artificial intelligence systems can be applied in today’s higher education contexts. This valuable reference for researchers, designers, administrators, teaching faculty, and graduate students across various university programs offers fresh perspectives on generative AI, adaptive learning, intelligent tutoring systems, chatbots, predictive technologies, remote learning, and more.

Artificial Intelligence Applications in K-12

Theories, Ethics, and Case Studies for Schools

Edited by Helen Crompton, Diane Burke
Artificial Intelligence Applications in K-12 offers authentic instances of how AI systems can be integrated into K-12 education today. Researchers, faculty members of teacher and leadership preparation programs, curriculum and instruction specialists, school-based instructional designers, technology coaches, and other readers will gain fresh insights from diverse global perspectives on topics such as generative AI, adaptive learning, intelligent tutoring systems, chatbots, predictive technologies, facial recognition software, and more.

Blended Learning Solutions in Higher Education

History, Theory and Practice

Neil Hughes
Blended Learning Solutions for Higher Education explores the origins, empirical foundations, and implementation of blended learning in colleges and universities. From demystified history and heuristics to digitized platforms and course content to reimagined governance and regulations, these insights provide a thoughtful exemplar of blended learning’s challenges and affordances along with a firm basis for integrating face-to-face and online learning, teaching, and assessment innovatively and creatively.
Co-Creating Digital Curricula in Higher Education: An Instructor’s Guide to Team-Based Online Learning Design

Alain A. Noghiu, Amy J. Hibelink, Stacey von Berger

Co-Creating Digital Curricula is a step-by-step guide to the collaborative design of online and blended curricula in higher education. This holistic, team-oriented approach, intended to ensure curricular cohesion within and between courses, certificates, and programs, is supported by workflows, checklists, workshop agendas, and other field-tested resources.

Evaluative Practice in Learning, Design, and Technology: Theory, Process, and Decision-Making in Context

Lauren M. Bagdy, Jill E. Stefaniak

Evaluative Practice in Learning, Design, and Technology provides learning, design, and technology stakeholders with comprehensive resources intended to support their engagement in evaluative activities. This book presents a thorough overview of the theoretical foundations that influence evaluation practices, identifies and distinguishes between numerous evaluative methods, and emphasizes the decision-making skills required of those leading and implementing evaluation. Graduate students and professionals will be better prepared to meet the expectation of competency in formative, summative, and program evaluations.

Engaging Critical Pedagogy in Education
Global Phenomenon, Local Praxis
Edited by Fida Sanjakdar
Monash University, Australia
Michael W. Apple
University of Wisconsin, USA
Series: Routledge Research in Education
Presenting cutting-edge research from around the world, this book demonstrates how critical pedagogy is shaped by social-political contexts and ideological constructions of knowledge and power. The edited collection brings together a global author team using critical pedagogy to synthesize political and theoretical ambitions with the complex realities of classroom practice. Spanning almost two decades of pedagogical thinking, practice, outreach, community development, and activism, this robust volume will be of great interest to researchers and postgraduate students investigating critical education, curriculum, creative thinking and pedagogies.

Unlocking the Potential of Relational Pedagogy
Reimagining Teaching, Learning and Policy for Contemporary Schooling
Stewart Riddle
University of Southern Queensland, Australia
Andrew Hickey
University of Southern Queensland, Australia
This book is a useful guide for educators who seek to better engage students in rich, meaningful learning, outlining a clear set of key concepts and principles for relational pedagogy in school classrooms. Building on scholarly work and school practices, this book argues that relational pedagogy should be at the centre of teaching and learning in schools, in order to drive positive educational change. Presenting a compelling new framework for relational pedagogy, this book will be of interest to teacher educators, postgraduate students of education, policy and school leaders.

Ludic Inquiries into Power and Pedagogy in Higher Education
How Games Play Us
Edited by Amelia Walker
University of South Australia, Australia
Helen Grimmett
Monash University, Australia
Alison L. Black
University of the Sunshine Coast, Australia
This book interrogates the roles games and playfulness bear in both formal education and informal social learning. Responsive to contemporary social and ecological challenges, this book especially explores games’ interactions with social power. Organised across four themes – ‘philosophical sparks’, ‘lived experiences’, ‘pedagogical perspectives’ and ‘the spirit of play’ – this book emphasises the radical egalitarian possibilities inherent in critical attention to games and how we play (or get played by) them. Its fresh insights will interest all readers interested in creatively remaking our worlds.

Teaching Your First Class
Research for the New Faculty Member
Edited by Bruce D. McDonald III
North Carolina State University, USA
William Hatcher
Augusta University, USA
Doctoral programs provide training and mentorship for engaging in research, but they rarely provide training on how to be effective in the classroom—leading to many graduates obtaining their first faculty position with little to no teaching. These new faculty need a resource to help them navigate such difficult terrain and be successful teachers. This book was crafted with them in mind and is a straightforward guide for the new instructor in a higher education classroom. It is a highly valuable reading for all those engaged in initial teacher education, professional development, and new faculty. The chapters were originally published in the Journal of Public Affairs Education.
Staying Well
Activity Book and Guide to Support Children whose Best Friend is Leaving

Claire Holmes

Being the one left behind can be hard. Written to help children aged 7-12 whose friend is moving away, this set contains a children’s activity book and a practical guide for the supporting adult. Based on the latest wellbeing research, the Staying Well set includes valuable strategies and fun activities to boost the child’s wellbeing, helping them to ‘stay well’. Top tips, example responses and the theory behind the activities will equip teachers, practitioners, and parents to respond effectively to common questions. The set is an invaluable resource to support children as they navigate the challenging experience of a friend moving away.

Staying Well Activity Book
Practical Activities to Support Children Aged 7-12 whose Best Friend is Leaving

Claire Holmes

Series: Staying Well

Coping when a friend moves away is hard. This book is designed for children aged 7-12 and is packed full of activities that invite the reader to use their creativity by annotating and illustrating the pages. This makes the book unique to each child, helping them feel a greater sense of agency and control at a time of change. The text acknowledges change is stressful and the child is encouraged to think about their own responses to change and build their coping repertoire. Best introduced 8-weeks before the friend leaves, this is a must-have resource to help children ‘stay well’. Grounded in wellbeing and transition research, this activity book contains much wisdom for adults, too.

Staying Well Facilitator’s Guide
How to Support Children whose Best Friend is Leaving

Claire Holmes

Series: Staying Well

This book contains guidance, prompts and bonus material that helps the facilitator bring out the best experience for the child using the Staying Well Activity Book. It can be used to support one child or a group of children by parents, class teachers, learning support teachers and counsellors. Every page in the activity book has a corresponding page in the Staying Well Facilitator’s Guide for the user to refer to when delivering the material as well as additional support material. Grounded in research, this guide is an invaluable companion to the Staying Well Activity Book, helping a lead adult support children whose best friend is moving away.

Sexual Trauma among Girls in Educational Settings
Intersectional Identities and Trauma-Informed Care

Jennifer Etesse Herring

Series: Routledge Research in Education

This book uses an intersectional lens to explore the lived experiences of sexually traumatized girls in school. It provides a deep understanding of the students’ experiences, viewed through the prism of their multiple identities. The author employs a qualitative phenomenological study to investigate the psychological, social, and academic impacts of such trauma. This book is a valuable resource for scholars, educators, educational leaders, post-graduate students and policymakers.

Teaching Physical Education to Children with Autism
Stories from the Field

Bill Mokin

This book is an essential guide for how to teach fun and engaging physical education classes tailored to include the needs of autistic children and children with learning disabilities. Detailing a myriad of solutions to try, along with flexible frameworks that can be applied to a myriad of physical education goals, this book is essential reading for any physical education teacher, special education teacher, and anyone wishing to create more equitable learning environments for children with varying learning needs.
A New Education for a New Economy: From Human Capital to Human Flourishing

Tal Gilead
The Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Israel
Series: Routledge International Studies in the Philosophy of Education
Providing an in-depth, novel analysis of education’s role in today’s economy by scrutinizing its theoretical underpinnings, this volume critiques the suitability of the current, dominant economic framework for education and for shaping educational policymaking worldwide. Ultimately providing a platform to entirely reconsider the idea that the primary aim of education is to serve the economic system, this book will appeal to scholars, researchers and postgraduate students studying educational policy, the philosophy of education, and the history of education more broadly. Education policymakers and academics studying education and the economy may also find this book of interest.

Education at the Edge of Experience
Navigating the Unassimilable

Marla Morris
Georgia Southern University
Series: Studies in Curriculum Theory Series
Presenting a unique exploration of education as “the edge of experience,” this book investigates how unassimilable concepts can help reconceptualize education so that we might resolve that which is beyond understanding. Working at the intersection of curriculum theory, philosophy and psychoanalysis, Morris examines how each of these “unassimilable” concepts point toward currere as the edge of experience. Identifying an understanding of our largely “unassimilable” concepts as central to the concept of currere, this book will appeal to curriculum theorists, education philosophers, psychoanalysts, and those with interests in the philosophy and theory of education.

The Connected University
A Space and a Place for Knowledge

Paul Temple
UCL Institute of Education, UK
Series: World Issues in the Philosophy and Theory of Higher Education
Universities are primarily social institutions, but they are also physical, material structures. This book bridges this divide by examining the links between the two and explores how good connectivity can result in a more effective university. This book will be of interest to academics, students, and researchers interested in higher education theory and practice, the philosophy of higher education and those working at the interface between higher education studies and architecture and design.

Intelligence, Sapience and Learning
Concepts, Framings and Practices

David Scott
University College London, UK
Sandra Leaton Gray
University College London, UK
Series: Routledge International Studies in the Philosophy of Education
Examining the idea of intelligence in its diverse sociological and philosophical formations, Intelligence, Sapience and Learning explores the multiple and often complex meanings associated with the concept of intelligence, and its relationships with learning, curriculum and sapience. Scott and Leaton Gray argue for a re-framing of the concept and practice of intelligence, with profound consequences for how modern societies should be organised and how people should live their lives. This book will appeal to curriculum theorists and those with an interest in curriculum and learning matters, as well as those working in the philosophy and sociology of education.

Listen: How Child and Student Voice Can Change the World

Siobhán Keenan Fitzgerald

Article 12 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC, 1989) articulates every child’s right to have their voice heard in matters that affect them. This vitally important book aims to accelerate acceptance of this right by bridging the gap between theory and practice, empowering adults to act as advocates and facilitators of children using their voices within our homes, schools, and wider communities. An essential read for parents, teachers, teaching assistants and senior leaders, Listen proposes a pedagogical approach to supporting student voice that is backed by current research yet firmly rooted in practical application.

All the Things They Never Told You About Teaching
Facilitating Conversations Around Sensitive Topics With Our Learners

Marie Greenhalgh, Poppy Gibson

Many teachers do not feel confident in their role, particularly as they are increasingly expected to address topics with their pupils that they feel ill-equipped to deal with. Co-authored by two highly experienced educators, All The Things They Never Told You About Teaching is an essential guide, supporting teachers in navigating those tricky, taboo subjects that sit outside of the national curriculum and may not have been fully explored during their teacher training. A must-read for anyone working in education, this book guides educators through sensitively addressing difficult topics within the classroom, creating a more compassionate and supportive learning environment for all.

Becoming an Autism-Affirming Primary School

Melanie Cunningham

This accessible guide explores what makes an autism-affirming primary school, introducing a tool to gather pupil voice and sharing a toolbox of practical strategies informed and requested by autistic children themselves. Chapters focus on common themes, from developing a shared, positive understanding of autism within the school, to the classroom environment, hidden support and homework. By identifying and making simple adjustments, schools can create a more positive experience for autistic children, building self-advocacy and helping to alleviate feelings of anxiety. With quotes from autistic children woven throughout, it is a valuable read for teachers, SENCOs and senior leaders.

Authentic School Improvement for Authentic Leaders

Victoria Carr

Authentic School Improvement for Authentic Leaders charts a full improvement journey of a school from a ‘Requires Improvement’ Ofsted rating, through a second, to a resounding ‘Good’. It reveals the impact that a school leader can have on the motivation and engagement of teachers, parents and pupils and how this translates not just to their overall happiness, but on academic standards and systemic, long-lasting school improvement whilst maintaining their own well-being. Including a Foreword by Ross Morrison McGill, this is essential reading for all Head Teachers and Senior Leaders in primary and secondary, mainstream and specialist, maintained and academy schools.
Equity Audits and School Resource Allocation

Applying Critical Resource Theory to Increase Equal Opportunity in Schools

William A. Owings Old Dominion University, USA
Leslie S. Kaplan Old Dominion University, USA

This book explores how to apply Critical Resource Theory (CRT) to conduct school equity audits, ultimately preparing educational leaders to find equity disparities, engage in more equitable resource allocation in their schools, and to improve equal educational opportunity for every student. With case study scenarios woven throughout the book, the authors explore key equity factors and walk through the process of implementing the 5-step CRT equity audit within a school district or school at any level. This important book is designed for course use in leadership preparation programs, for practicing principals and superintendents, and for educational leadership scholars.

2ND EDITION

Rebuilding Support for Higher Education
Practical Strategies for Principled Leaders

Paul L. Gaston

This book provides a palette of practical strategies that higher education leaders—administrators, faculty members, academic advisors, and the like—can apply to the task of rebuilding support. Once closely associated with the common good, higher education is now regarded principally as a benefit for individuals. As a consequence, support for colleges and universities has declined dramatically over the past 50 years, having serious implications for both public and private institutions. Offering a clear-eyed account of this widely lamented issue and innovative approaches for addressing it, this book is essential reading for new, seasoned, and aspiring leaders in higher education.

Strategic Planning for University Colleges and Departments
A Step-by-Step Guide to Developing, Refining, and Implementing Effective Strategy

Jayme L. Renfro

This practical guide contains everything higher education leaders and administrators need to know in order to write simple, effective plans for their colleges and departments. Debunking the traditional notion that intricate, drawn-out planning automatically translates to effective strategy, this book calls for a paradigm shift, urging a move away from mere procedural planning and toward strategic thinking and action. An invaluable resource on writing and maintaining strategic plans for university subunits, this book should have a place on every dean, provost, department head, and program director’s shelf.

Metacognition and Study Skills: A Guide for Teachers

Jonathan Firth

Pupils often make poor choices when it comes to independent learning because they don’t intuitively understand how to learn. This book reveals how a metacognitive approach to teaching can support pupils and help them overcome the challenges they face with independent learning. Drawing on key research from cognitive science, it explores how metacognition works in practice and argues that it is a complex skill best developed over months and years at school. Full of practical strategies and case studies, this is essential reading for all teachers that want to help their pupils become successful learners in school as well as independent learners for their exam revision and beyond.

Join Mindy and Mo as they speed on a sledge to a spring festival. Can Mindy and Mo help Sal cheer up Prince Sim and do his favourite dance together before it’s time to leave? Support your child’s practice of the ‘s’ sound by sharing Mindy and Mo’s adventure in Sal and Sim’s town and encouraging them to join in with the festival’s ‘soop, soop, soola’. This book supports speech development through engaging characters and plot, supported by a rhythmic and rhyming structure. It introduces new words and provides opportunities for developing literacy skills, as well as exploring the themes of kindness and resilience. It also includes a word list and suggested extension activities.

The Adventures of Mindy and Mo: Stories to Promote Speech Sound Development
Rebecca Skinner, Emily Kempster, Lucy Cannon
Series: The Adventures of Mindy and Mo
This set comprises 8 entertaining and engaging books which are written with a target sound at their core. The books expose the child to their target sound through natural rhythm and rhyme, enabling children to join in with repeated phrases which include their target sound and also to hear their target sound repeated and spoken accurately by an adult. The stories follow the adventures of two children who are transported by their imaginations to exciting settings in which they encounter a challenge which they help to solve. These books also explore growth mindset, empathy, kindness and resilience. They are the perfect addition to any classroom, SLT toolkit, or bedroom bookcase.
Heart at the Center
An Educator’s Guide to Sustaining Love, Hope, and Community Through Nonviolence Pedagogy

Mike Tinoco
In Heart at the Center: An Educator’s Guide to Sustaining Love, Hope, and Community Through Nonviolence Pedagogy, high school teacher Mike Tinoco examines what it means to reimagine classrooms and schools as spaces that humanize, resist violence and injustice, and center love. Offering both a framework and a set of practices that are grounded in different nonviolence traditions, Heart at the Center asks readers to consider what a pedagogy of nonviolence looks like, sounds like, and feels like in the 6-12 classroom.

Power, Politics, and the Playground
Perspectives on Power and Authority in Education

Don Carter University of Technology Sydney, Austrailia
Adrian Piccoli UNSW, Australia
Presented as a series of case studies, this book offers the reader an insider’s account of the power dynamics in Australian education and how the application of that power influences education policy making. Written for teachers, school leaders and other education professionals, this book presents rare insight into power and authority in the Australian education system.

Dispositions Are a Teacher’s Greatest Strength
Mindful Pedagogical Practices to Develop Self-Awareness to Flourish in the Classroom

Michelle C. Hughes
Focusing on 13 teaching dispositions, Dispositions are a Teacher’s Greatest Strength encourages educators to identify, reflect, and develop their dispositions, attitudes, and self-awareness in order to flourish in the profession. Emphasizing pedagogical knowledge and skills, this text serves as affirmation of a teacher’s commitment to challenging, complex, and rewarding work. This book is a love letter to educators and administrators in K-12, higher education faculty, and pre-service programs and students that reminds teachers of the significant work they do, and that puts dispositions at the forefront of their daily work.

Project Based Learning in Real World U.S. History Classrooms
Engaging Diverse Learners

Diana B. Turk New York University School of Culture, Education, and Human Development, US
Stacie Brensiver Berman
Project Based Learning in Real World U.S. History Classrooms demonstrates how a project based learning approach can enrich and enliven the learning and teaching of U.S. history for middle and secondary level students. It offers rich, pedagogically innovative, and academically rigorous project based learning units that can help students connect with and deeply understand key events and trends in U.S. history. This book is essential reading for pre-service and practicing teachers in Social Studies Education, History Education, and Secondary Education.

The No-Nonsense Guide to Mental Health in Schools
What Every Teacher Can Do to Make a Difference

Education and Upward Social Mobility in China
Imagining Positive Sociology with Bourdieu

Jin Jin

East China Normal University, China

Series: Bourdieu and Education of Asia Pacific

Based on a three-year life story study of students from working-class backgrounds at four elite universities in China, this book offers a new way to understand and be inspired by Bourdieu. It shows how Bourdieu’s ideas can be used to go beyond the analysis of domination and imagine a positive sociology of emancipation. This book highlights a relational perspective of understanding class and class struggles, which in turn introduces a relational perspective of (re)imagining reflexivity and transcendence. It will appeal to students and scholars of Bourdieu, sociology of education, and education in China.

The Corporatization of Education
Selected Writings of Kenneth J. Saltman

Kenneth J. Saltman

University of Illinois-Chicago

Kenneth J. Saltman is a defining voice within Education, and for 25 years he has worked to uncover the ways in which public education has been impacted by corporatization and neoliberalism, and to demonstrate what educators and citizens can do to reclaim the democratic purpose of schooling. His work is unique in the way that it bridges a number of traditions, theoretical perspectives, and ranges in scope across the discipline, while at the same time translating crucial concepts in an accessible writing style. This important work will be crucial to researchers and graduate students in Education courses.

Towards a Queer and Trans Ethic of Care in Education
Beyond the Limitations of White, Cisheteropatriarchal, Colonial Care

Bishop Owis

Series: Routledge Critical Studies in Gender and Sexuality in Education

Synthesizing conversations from across gender and sexuality education, race and settler-colonialism studies, and care work literature, Towards a Queer and Trans Ethic of Care in Education explores how queer and trans teachers of colour understand and practice care. Owis challenges the embeddedness of white supremacy and settler-colonialism in K-12 classrooms, while offering a framework that can be applied in teaching, research, and personal relationships. This book will appeal to scholars of gender and sexuality studies, race and ethnicity in education, diversity and equity in education, and anyone interested in caring for or with QTBIPOC communities.

21 Visual Thinking Tools for the Classroom
Developing Real-World Problem Solvers in Grades 5-10

Meredith J. Harbord, Sara Riaz Khan

This resource is for any busy teacher looking to enrich their lesson planning and support the development of critical thinking, problem solving, and metacognition skills. Designed for use in grades 5-10, each of these 21 tools are paired with a real-world issue or ethical dilemma to guide students through complex social, emotional, and intellectual topics. Every chapter introduces a different visual thinking tool and a step-by-step approach for a range of topics from challenging bias and promoting self-awareness, to reflecting on social interactions. Stories from the classroom and world as well as student and educator examples illustrate how the tools can be used.

10 Mindframes for Visible Learning
Teaching for Success

John Hattie University of Melbourne
Klaus Zierer University of Augsburg, Germany

This new and updated edition of 10 Mindframes for Visible Learning revisits the ten behaviours or mindframes that teachers need to adopt in order to maximize student success. These powerful mindframes, which should underpin every action in schools, are founded on the principle that teachers are evaluators, change agents, learning experts, and seekers of feedback who are constantly engaged with dialogue and challenge. This updated essential guide, which includes questionnaires, scenarios, checklists, and exercises, will show any school exactly how to implement Hattie’s mindframes to maximize student success.

Care and Teachers in the Induction Years
Supporting Early Career Educators in Today’s Teaching Landscape

Edited by Angela W. Webb James Madison University, USA
Melanie Shoffner James Madison University, USA

This edited volume focuses on understandings and enforcements of care in teacher induction in a landscape reshaped by the recent pandemic, ongoing societal issues, and increased expectations of teachers. This volume extends considerations of care and teacher development into K-12 schools, aiming to explore how care is, should, and can be operationalized in teacher induction now. Ideal for faculty working with preservice educators and administrators supporting newly hired teachers, this book can also serve as recommended reading in undergraduate or graduate teacher education, curriculum and instruction, leadership, and educational administration courses.

Designing Learning with Digital Technologies
Perspectives from Multimodality in Education

Edited by Fei Victor Lim National Institute of Education, Singapore Mercedes Querol-Julían Universidad Internacional de La Rioja, Spain

Series: Routledge Research in Digital Education and Educational Technology

This book draws out the educational implications of digital technologies in teaching and learning through a discussion of their multimodal features and a reflection on the ways they can be used in the designs for learning. Essential reading for researchers and postgraduate students, this book offers state-of-the-art thinking on how educators can design new learning experiences for students through the meaningful and effective use of digital technologies.

Improving Equity in Data Science
Re-Imagining the Teaching and Learning of Data in K-16 Classrooms

Edited by Colby Tofel-Grehl, Emmanuel Schanzer

This book offers a comprehensive look at the ways in which data science can be conceptualized and engaged more equitably within the K-16 classroom setting. It makes the case for field wide definitions and learning that can be commonly discussed and used, and provides examples from research of these practices in action. Practitioners and teacher educators will be able to answer the question, “how can data science serve to move equity efforts in computing beyond basic inclusion to empowerment?” whether the goal is to simply improve approaches to research on data science or support teachers of data science in creating more equitable and inclusive environments within their classrooms.
