American Constitutional Law

Introductory Essays and Selected Cases

Donald Grier Stephenson Jr., Alpheus Thomas Mason
Princeton University

This book is a collection of comprehensive background essays coupled with carefully edited Supreme Court case excerpts designed to explore constitutional law and the role of the Supreme Court in its development and interpretation. Well-grounded in both theory and politics, the book endeavors to heighten students' understanding of this critical part of the American political system.

Peace in Latin America

Shifting Paradigms in the Studies of Culture, Society and Politics

David Díaz Arias, Christine Hatzky, Werner Mackenbach, Joachim Michael Bleifeld University, Germany, Sebastián Martínez Fernández, Hinnerk Onken

Series: Coping with Crisis - Latin American Perspectives

This volume shifts the focus from violence to peace studies in Latin America, and sheds light on how social groups and individuals strive to create peaceful or at least less violent conditions of conviviality. Drawing on social sciences, history, and anthropology, the book examines the responses to the crisis of violence which the state is unable or unwilling to address. Peace Studies in Latin America is written for a wide and diverse audience that includes researchers, professors, specialists, students, civil society activists, and political actors not only from Latin America but from all over the world.

Dominican American Politics

Immigrants, Activists, and Politicians

Jacqueline Jiménez Polanco
Bronx Community College, USA

Series: Routledge Research in American Politics and Governance

In this book, Jacqueline Jiménez Polanco examines the politics of empowerment of Dominican Americans in the United States. Covering the first two decades of the twenty-first century, Jiménez Polanco provides a new perspective on the political development of an ethnic community that has been neglected in the studies of Latinx political development and whose characteristics represent a paradigmatic case that debunks theories about immigrant communities' participation and representation in U.S. electoral politics. Dominican American Politics: Immigrants, Activists, and Politicians serves as a perfect companion for courses on Latinx and Dominican studies, and U.S. ethnic politics.

Social Policies in Times of Austerity and Populism

Lessons from Brazil

Edited by Natália Sátyro

Featuring the latest research by Brazilian-based scholars previously inaccessible to an English-speaking audience, this book is a timely, authoritative, multidisciplinary overview of social policies in Brazil during the Bolsonaro populist presidency. The breadth of policies studied herein provides clues on the political agenda, preferences, and strategies during this tumultuous period in Brazil's history. Social Policies in Times of Populism and Austerity is unhesitatingly recommended to all those who teach welfare state politics, comparative public policy, development studies, Brazilian politics, and right-wing politics.

Pink Tides, Right Turns in Latin America

Edited by Charmain Levy
University of Quebec in Outaouais, Canada, Manuel Larrauribe
Bucknell University, USA

Series: Rethinking Globalizations

This book presents case studies around issues of national development, right wing populism and use of social media, left wing authoritarianism and popular uprisings as well as reflections on short and long term political and economic cycles in Latin America in the past 10 years. The chapters in this volume approach the topic of Latin American right and Left forces by attempting to determine whether a new and potentially long-term political cycle is unfolding in the region. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Globalizations.

Term Limits and the Modern Era of Municipal Reform

Douglas Cantor

Series: Routledge Research in Urban Politics and Policy

In this book, Douglas Cantor exposes the causes of term limits at the local level of government to shed light on how and why the movement to adopt term limits came to exist. Written to a common template and examining each case through the lens of Progressive values, Cantor argues that the institutional lineage of the Progressives, namely council-manager governments, at-large elections, and nonpartisanship are largely responsible for movements to implement term limits somewhere in the United States in almost every election.
The Architects of Toxic Politics in America
Venom and Vitriol

Kenneth T. Walsh
The Architects of Toxic Politics in America: Venom and Vitriol explains the history of poison politics in America by profiling some of the key political “attack dogs” who have shaped the modern landscape. Discussing the Trump and Biden presidencies and administrations of the past, the book demonstrates the toxicity of the current political moment and the forces that have created it. Additionally, the book also focuses quite extensively on “non-presidential” architects of toxic politics: other politicians, campaign strategists, activists, and media figures.

The Sources of Great Power Competition
Rising Powers, Grand Strategy, and System Dynamics

Edited by J. Patrick Rhamey Jr. Virginia Military Institute, USA, Spencer D. Bakich Virginia Military Institute, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in US Foreign Policy
This volume explores the determinants of state power, the strategic options of rising powers, the drivers of conflict in dynamic international systems, and American grand strategy past and present to achieve a more comprehensive understanding of the current era of great power competition. Leveraging insights from international relations, history, economics, and political demography, it offers rich perspectives on the competition among newly rising powers and long-dominant leaders in the international system. The book presents novel theories and innovative empirical investigations into the economic and demographic challenges confronting rising powers.

The Art of Populism in US Politics
Pro-Trump DIY Popular Culture

Justin Patch Vassar College, USA
Series: Popular Culture and World Politics
The Art of Populism in US Politics investigates connections between populist politics and artistic expressions in the US in the Trump era. This book is aimed at undergraduate and graduate students of political science, cultural studies, music studies, American studies, and art and media studies.

The Routledge Handbook of Political Communication in Ibero-America

Edited by Andreu Casero-Ripollés Universitat Jaume I of Castellón, Spain, Paulo Carlos López-López University of Santiago de Compostela, Spain
Series: Routledge International Handbooks
The Routledge Handbook of Political Communication in Ibero-America addresses the relationship between communication, politics and digital technologies in Latin American and the Iberian Peninsula, a geographical space linked by social, cultural and linguistic aspects. This Handbook will be of interest to academics, students and professionals in the fields of political science, communication, journalism, advertising, marketing, and sociology, as well as public opinion consulting. It will be of particular interest to undergraduate and postgraduate students from Latin America, Portugal and Spain.
China in the Mediterranean
An Arena of Strategic Competition?
Edited by Emile Tran
Hong Kong Metropolitan University
Yahia Zoubir
Rakke Business School, Marseille, France
Series: Routledge Studies in Mediterranean Politics
This scholarly book provides a timely examination of China’s growing influence in the Mediterranean region. It uses role theory as the theoretical framework throughout, exploring the escalating tensions in the Mediterranean, where a complex triangular relationship seems to have emerged, largely due to China’s expanding presence on both the Southern and Northern shores. The volume scrutinizes how the evolving interactions between China and the Mediterranean states elucidate the progression of Sino-Southern Mediterranean relations and Sino-Northern Mediterranean relations. The chapters in this book were initially published as a special issue of Mediterranean Politics.

Japan’s Historical Disputes with Neighboring States
Russian Perspectives
Edited by Dmitry Streltsov
Series: Rethinking Asia and International Relations
This book examines Japan’s relationships with China, Russia, the states of the Korean Peninsula, and Taiwan. Analyzing key points of conflict, their roots, and current relations, it highlights their significance for each country. Avoiding a focus on sensitive issues of the historical past per se, it provides a Russian perspective on their impact in Japan and neighboring states, their place in the broader political discourse, the image of modern Japan in the eyes of political elites and the public and assesses the prospects for improving unfavorable mutual perceptions.

China, Pakistan and the Belt and Road Initiative
The Experience of an Early Adopter State
Edited by Pascal Abb, Filippo Boni, Hasan H. Karrar
Lahore Univ. of Management Sciences, Pakistan
Series: Rethinking Asia and International Relations
This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC)’s impact on Pakistan’s economy, politics, and society, covering its developmental benefits as well as resulting controversies. It will be of interest to scholars of area studies, regionalization, international relations and development studies, as well as China studies and South Asia studies focused on the most important and far-reaching national-level implementation of the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) to date.

Issues of Political Marketing
East European Perspective
Edited by Milos Gregor, Otto Eibl, Bruce I. Newman
DePaul University, USA
Examining the evolution of political marketing in Central and Eastern Europe, this book delivers a snapshot into both the sophistication of campaign strategies and the triumphs and trials facing democratic progress in this increasingly complex political landscape. It focuses on political campaign professionalization in general and in TV spots, celebration, struggles of opposition in authoritarian regimes, if Facebook can serve as an effective political marketing tool in an illiberal context, and the communication and campaigning of authoritarian presidents in a hybrid regime. The chapters were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Political Marketing.
Is There Such a Thing as Populism?
3 Provocations and 5 1/2 Proposals

Benjamin Arditi
Series: Conceptualising Comparative Politics

Is There Such a Thing as Populism? calls into question our common understanding of populism. Structured as a set of polemical interventions and theoretical proposals, Arditi addresses key theoretical, methodological, and comparative questions in the study of populism. Five subject experts, Nadia Urbinati, José Luis Vilacañas, Carlos de la Torre, Anthoula Malkopoulou, and Anthony Spanakos, react to Arditi’s theses in captivating conversations on how to study populism and the way in which populism has been used in contemporary comparative analysis. Refreshing and thought-provoking, this book is the ideal departure for the exploration of this diverse and fascinating political movement.

Pandemic-Era Civil Disorder in Post-Communist EU Member States

Joanna Rak
Adam Mickiewicz University, Poland
Series: Routledge Research in Comparative Politics

In this book, Joanna Rak advances a middle-range theory to better explain the sources of civil disorder in one of the pandemic-ridden regions of the European Union, the post-communist states. Supported by systematic empirical evidence of protest policing in the region, Rak delves analytically into conditions of civil disorder in each state to test the hypotheses and offer an explanation. Pandemic-Era Civil Disorder in Post-Communist EU Member States offers a thought-provoking understanding of civil order and democratic struggles in the region and will interest students and researchers of comparative politics, contentious politics, democratic theory, civil society, and post-communism.

The Making of China’s Working Class
A World to Lose

Marc Blecher
Series: Conceptualising Comparative Politics

The Making of China’s Working Class: A World to Lose asks these three questions: what kind of class is the Chinese working class?, what are the historical forces and processes that have formed it?, and how does the pattern of class formation help explain the working class’s reactions historically, presently, and even prospectively? Blecher offers a contribution not just to scholarship on Chinese labor politics, but on the country’s politics and the state’s hegemony more widely. The Making of China’s Working Class is an outstanding resource for educators and students to understand Chinese politics and comparative working-class politics.

British and American Electoral Politics in the Age of Neoliberalism: Parallel Trajectories

Gerald Sussman, Portland State University, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Comparative Politics

This book employs a political economic approach in exploring the underlying neoliberal foundations of politics and electoratizing in both the USA and United Kingdom that have widened the divide among voters and, over time, led to a deep distrust of state institutions, including electoral politics and system of political representation. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of electoral politics, political parties, political behaviour, British politics, U.S. politics and more broadly to readers interested in political economy and comparative politics.

Democratic Backsliding in Post-Mubarak Egypt

Arshad, Indian council of world affairs, India

Arshad examines the phenomenon of ‘democratic backsliding’ in post-2011 Egypt. Capturing a critical juncture in Egyptian politics, this book explains the failure of Egypt’s nascent democratic experiment and its relapse into authoritarianism. Egypt is the crucial playbook to understand the reversal of a country towards an authoritarian regime and what measures state and non-state actors should employ to prevent backsliding. A valuable resource for scholars who are interested in democratization, authoritarian regimes, military leadership, political protests, and political leadership.

From ‘Carbon Democracy’ to ‘Climate Democracy’?

Edited by James Goodman, University of Technology Sydney, Australia, Tom Morton, Martin Luther University Halle-Wittenberg, Germany

Series: Rethinking Globalizations

Liberal democracies emerged on the back of fossil fuels, creating what Tim Mitchell called ‘carbon democracy’. Today we face a very clear democratic question, of whether the fossil fuel sector has the right to determine the planet’s future. This book debates the political constituencies, agendas and institutions that are emerging from climate crisis, comparing evidence of emergent themes. New claims are emerging, for ‘green deals’, ‘climate justice’, ‘energy justice’, ‘climate democracy’ and ‘de-growth’, reflecting a new intensity of contestation as climate change impacts deepen. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Globalizations.

Political Parties and the State in the Global South: State-Building, Corruption and Party System Change

Albertus Schoeman, University of Technology Sydney

Series: Routledge Research in Comparative Politics

This book introduces a new framework for understanding how the relationship between political parties and the state shapes the development of political parties, party systems, and democratic consolidation. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of democratic development, comparative politics, party politics, and institutional development in the Global South.

Surges in Party Membership

The SNP and Scottish Greens after the Independence Referendum

Lynn Bennie, University of Aberdeen, UK, James Mitchell, University of Edinburgh, UK, Robert Johns, University of Southampton, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in British Politics

This book presents a comprehensive analysis of a remarkable and unexpected outcome of the 2014 referendum on Scottish independence. It will be of key interest to scholars, students and observers of electoral politics, political participation, social and political movements, and political parties and their members, and more broadly to those interested in the debate on Scottish independence, British politics, and comparative politics.

The Australian Horn of Plenty

How Britain’s Australian Colonies Began Democracy

Reg Hamilton, Central Queensland University, Australia

Hamilton explores in a short history how all men gained the vote, self-government and the secret ballot in South Australia (1856), Victoria (1857) and New South Wales (1858). Australia permanently democratized without a violent revolution, and at a very early time. This book examines the Legislative Council debates which led to these radical democracies, which include covered voting eligibility, the upper house of parliament, and separation of Church and State. A vital text for scholars of democracy as well as those interested in Australian Studies, Australian History, Political Science, Constitutional Law, and about the building blocks of first world prosperity.
Transversal Democracy Projection in the Mediterranean
A De-Centred Practice Analysis

Edited by Anna Khakee, University of Malta, Malta, Sarah Wolff, Leiden University, Netherlands
Series: Routledge Studies in Mediterranean Politics

This book expands on the existing literature on the international dimension of democratization by introducing the concept of democracy projection. Democracy projection is defined as the projection of (democratic) norms through the every-day practice of interactions - beyond any donor-recipient relationship - between states and foreign civil society actors on issue areas where both sides have interests to defend. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Mediterranean Politics.
‘Just Like Us?: The Politics of Ministerial Promotion in UK Government

Bill Jones Liverpool Hope University, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in British Politics

Informed by interviews with key political figures and commentators, this entertaining and enlightening book examines the influences, processes, and motivations behind ministerial promotion in British Government. It will be of key interest to scholars, students and anyone interested in British political history, biography and the politics of executive government.

Activism in Hard Times in Central and Eastern Europe

People Power

Edited by Patrice C. McMahon University of Nebraska-Lincoln, USA, Paula M. Pickering William & Mary, USA, Dorota Pietrzyk-Reeves Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland
Series: Innovations in International Affairs

Activism in Hard Times in Central and Eastern Europe (CEE) and analyzes a wealth of information to generate new insights into how activism in the region manages to be vibrant, diverse, and consequential. The book is well-suited for a variety of undergraduate and graduate courses, such as comparative politics, human rights, global governance, social movements, Central and East European politics, and contemporary world politics. This timely and readable book, co-authored by academics and activists and written in a conversational tone, will also be of interest to the interested public and practitioners.

Anti-Europeanism, Populism and European Integration in a Historical Perspective

Edited by Andrea Guiso Sapienza University of Rome, Italy, Daniele Pasquinucci University of Siena, Italy
Series: Critical European Studies

This book explores the long-term origins of populist Euroscepticism. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of European History, European Politics and Studies and more broadly to Political Science, International Relations, the Humanities and Social Sciences.

Civic and Uncivic Values in Hungary

Value Transformation, Politics, and Religion

Edited by Sabrina P. Ramet Norwegian University of Science & Technology, Norway, László Kürti University of Miskolc, Hungary
Series: Routledge Advances in European Politics

This book offers an analysis of values in Hungary, examining the extent to which these values are respected and practised in a number of policy spheres. It will prove to be of great use to scholars and students of democracy, East Central Europe, minorities, Hungarian contemporary history and politics, civic culture, gender studies, nationalism, human rights and more broadly the social sciences.

Educating Europe

EU government, knowledge and legitimation

Sotiria Grek University of Edinburgh, UK
Series: Routledge Studies on Government and the European Union

The book will examine the ways in which an education policy field has been constructed in Europe since the early 1970s and will explore how this field has never really been peripheral or ‘secondary’ as, perhaps its silencing from mainstream EU integration studies and political science has rendered it to be. Rather, it will show the ways that governing education has been integral in the processes of creating a European home market, at the heart of the neo-mercantilist project in the 1980s, as well as during the later dominance of the neo-liberal ideology in the 1990s-2000s and the efforts to create a competitive supra-state.

EU Energy and Climate Policy after Covid-19 and the Invasion of Ukraine

Decarbonisation and Security in Transition

Edited by Matúš Mislík Comenius University in Bratislava, Slovakia, Andrea Figulová Comenius University in Bratislava, Slovakia
Series: Routledge Studies on the Governance of Sustainability in Europe

This book discusses the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic and the Russian invasion of Ukraine on the European Union’s climate and energy policy. It will be of key interest to scholars, students and practitioners of climate and energy policy, energy security, EU policy, and more broadly to energy politics, European integration and European Union governance.
Exploring Party Switching in East-Central European Legislatures

Party Drifters, Mavericks, and Chameleons

Andrzej Antoszewski, University of Wrocław, Poland,
Przemysław Żukiewicz, University of Wrocław, Poland

Series: Routledge Studies on Political Parties and Party Systems

This book challenges the approach of relying on election outcomes to analyse party systems, contending that changes can be also identified and documented beyond the scope of parliamentary elections through legislative party switching. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of legislative studies, party politics, Central and East European Politics and more broadly to comparative politics and government.

How Europeans Understand Solidarity, Reciprocity and Fairness in the EU

Insights from Conversations Among Citizens

Edited by Björn Egner, TU Darmstadt, Germany, Hubert Heinelt, TU Darmstadt, Germany, Jens Steffek, TU Darmstadt, Germany

Series: Routledge/UACES Contemporary European Studies

This edited book sheds new light on the understanding of solidarity, reciprocity and fairness from the perspective of European Union (EU) citizens and with this, how cohesion in the EU can be achieved. It will be of key interest to scholars and students in European studies/politics, and more broadly to comparative politics, international relations, civil society organisations, and the wider social sciences.

Intangible Cultural Heritage and Reconciliation in the Western Balkans

An Anthropological Perspective

Miloš Milenković, University of Belgrade, Serbia

Series: Southeast European Studies

This book considers the sensitive heritage elements linked to the very issue of the origins of nations. Beliefs, rituals, and traditional knowledge are examples of intangible cultural heritage (ICH), which communities globally regard as the core of their cultural identity. When it is unclear which element of heritage ‘belong’ to whom, like in the Western Balkans, where majority of heritage elements is shared, ICH disputes exacerbate conflict.

Nordic Peace in Question

A Region of and for Peace

Edited by Christopher S. Browning, University of Warwick, UK, Marko Lehti, Tampere University, Finland, Johan Strang, University of Helsinki, Finland

Series: Nordic Studies in a Global Context

This book explores historically and theoretically Nordic peace as a marker of identification, ontological (in)security and regional branding. It emphasizes how conceptions of Nordic peace have been translated into policy practices and how it has maintained its relevance over time. The book will be of key interest to scholars and students of Peace Research, Nordic or Scandinavian Studies, History, Nationalism Studies, Critical Security Studies, and International Relations.

Politics, Democritisation and EU Identity

National EU Discourses in Germany and France

Claudia Wiesner, Series: Routledge Advances in European Politics

This book discusses and conceptualises key questions for the study of politisation and democratisation of the EU, as well as EU identity. Comparatively analysing two prototypical cases, namely the discourses related to the ratification of the EU Constitutional Treaty in 2005 in Germany and France, and will be of key interest to scholars and students of European Union studies/politics, democratic theory, discourse analysis and more broadly to comparative politics.

Portugal in the 21st Century

Edited by Nuno Monteiro, Yale University, USA, Patricia Silva, University of Aveiro, Portugal, Pedro C. Magalhães, University of Lisbon, Portugal

Portugal in the 21st Century provides a thorough yet accessible picture of contemporary Portugal in the first two decades of the twenty-first century. It provides a comprehensive, erudite yet accessible introduction to contemporary Portugal and is essential reading for students, scholars, and readers interested in Portugal, Portuguese and Southern European politics and culture, Iberian, or Iberian-American studies and more broadly to European and Comparative Politics.
Religion as Securitization in Central and Eastern Europe

Edited by András Máte-Tóth University of Szeged, Hungary, Kinga Povedák University of Szeged, Hungary
Series: Religion and International Security

Religion as Securitization in Central and Eastern Europe examines the significance of securitization theory as a reference point in understanding current religious, socio-cultural, and political processes in Central and Eastern Europe. The book will be of interest to scholars from a wide range of disciplines, including political science, history, anthropology, and religious studies. It will also function as an important introductory work for students to this specific area of research.

Small States of the European Union and Brexit

Edited by Laura C. Ferreira-Pereira University of Minho, Portugal

This book seeks to offer a better understanding of the strategic responses to Brexit from 10 small European Union member states: Croatia, Czech Republic, Estonia, Finland, Ireland, Latvia, Lithuania, Malta, Portugal and Slovakia. Inspired in an intersection of different streams of research, it examines the extent and ways Brexit has impacted these countries, analysing their coping strategies to deal with challenges raised by such a disruptive development, and considering the implications of their reactions to Brexit for patterns of national foreign policy Europeanization. The chapters were originally published as a special issue of Journal of Contemporary European Studies.

Routeledge Handbook on Cooperation, Interdependencies and Security in the Mediterranean

Edited by Elena Calandri Università di Padova, Italy, Karolina Golemo Jagiellonian University in Kraków, Poland, Jesús Ventura-Fernández Universidad de Sevilla, Spain

This Handbook provides an essential overview of the contemporary dynamics of the Mediterranean region. Conceptualising the Mediterranean as both a socio-cultural and a geopolitical entity, it considers the basin both as a whole and as a set of interacting subregions. Established scholars offer new perspectives and approaches from international law, postcolonial studies, migration studies, geography, private international law and public international law, environmental and tourism studies, to reappraise the long-term trends and ruptures that shape security, interdependence, and cooperation.

Russian Westernizers and Change in International Relations

The Promised West

Andrei P. Tsygankov San Francisco State University, USA
Series: Working Beyond the West

Russian Westernizers and Change in International Relations summarizes the Westernizing trend in Russian thought from the early nineteenth century to the present day. This book will appeal to students and scholars of Russian foreign policy, Russia–West relations, IR theory, diplomatic studies, political science, and European history including the history of ideas.

The European Parliament and Global Health

Polymorphic Actorness and Multiple Roles

Edited by Vincent Rollet Wenzao Ursline University of Languages, Taiwan
Series: Routledge Studies on Government and the European Union

This book examines the actorness of the European Parliament (EP) and its roles in global health. In doing so, it appreciates to what extent this democratically elected entity can be considered as a global health actor. It will be of key interest to students and scholars of European studies, global and regional health, legislative studies, and International Relations, but also to parliamentarians and (non-)governmental actors engaged in global health.

Structural Origins of Post-Yugoslav Regimes

Elites, Civil Society and the State

Valentina Petrović University of Zurich, Switzerland
Series: Southeast European Studies

This analysis of the Yugoslav democratization process explains the variation of the regime outcome within a structuralist framework. Focusing on the post-socialist world, it goes beyond ethnicity and elite agency to bring the role of class and the state into discussions of third wave democracies. Offering an in-depth study of four post-Yugoslav cases and relying on extensive field work into how civil society, state structures and the elite agency influence the trajectories of Croatia, North Macedonia, Serbia and Slovenia after end of socialism, the analysis also considers the impact of the European Union on domestic conditions.

The European Parliament and Global Health

Edited by Vincent Rollet Wenzao Ursline University of Languages, Taiwan
Series: Routledge Studies on Government and the European Union

This book examines the actorness of the European Parliament (EP) and its roles in global health. In doing so, it appreciates to what extent this democratically elected entity can be considered as a global health actor. It will be of key interest to students and scholars of European studies, global and regional health, legislative studies, and International Relations, but also to parliamentarians and (non-)governmental actors engaged in global health.
The Nordic Populist Radical Right
Voters, Ideology, and Political Interactions

Edited by Ann-Cathrine Jungar Södertörn University, Sweden
Series: Routledge Studies in Extremism and Democracy

This edited volume examines populist radical right parties in the Nordic region. In this book, the contributors analyse the electoral, ideological and organizational aspects of the radical right in the Nordic region: The Progress Party in Norway (Fremsekrittspartiet Frp), the Sweden Democrats (Sverigedemokraterna SD), Danish People’s Party (Dansk Folkeparti DF), and the Finns party (Perussuomalaiset PS). This book will be of interest to students and scholars of Scandinavian politics, populism, the radical right and comparative party politics.

‘Balkanization’ and the Euro-Atlantic Processes of the (Western) Balkans
Back to the Future
Liridona Veliu Ashiku Dublin City University, Ireland
Series: Southeast European Studies
This book explores how ‘balkanization’ as a discourse underpins the policies of the European Union (EU) and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) towards the Western Balkans. It shows how EU and NATO policies have emerged from, and led to, the constant reinvention of the unity of the West through ‘balkanizing’ the region and illustrates how this dynamic is maintained by and instrumentalized for the political elites.

City Diplomacy
An Introduction
Antonios M. Karvounis
This book examines the theoretical, historical, and practical dimensions of how a city operates internationally. It explores the various approaches of the contentious term ‘city diplomacy’, its impact and follows examples throughout history, the origins of city diplomacy and its evolution through traditional town-twinning, city networks and smart cities.

The Performance of Regionalism in the Global South
A Multi-level Analysis
Edited by Johannes Muntschick, Johannes Gutenberg-University Mainz, Germany, Friedrich Plank Johannes Gutenberg-University Mainz, Germany
Series: New Regionalisms Series
This volume collects and combines research on regional integration projects beyond Europe and in the Global South across a wide range of policy issues. Given the plurality and diversity of regional organisations, there is a growing need to systematically analyse, assess and explain the performance of regionalism. Acknowledging the considerable differences in settings, institutional design, and politico-economic environment of regional organisations, the expert contributors move beyond EU-centric notions to offer a profound overview and propose new dimensions of innovative performance research.

The Soft Power of Non-Western Small States
The Cases of Bhutan and Qatar
Sarina Theys
The University of the South Pacific, Fiji
Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics
This book critically engages with the concepts of small states and soft power and advances a new approach to defining small states, a new conceptualisation of soft power, and a method for empirically analysing the exercise of soft power. It revisits the concepts of small states and soft power with a focus on Bhutan and Qatar and their approach to exercise soft power to achieve their foreign policy goals. Aimed at a multidisciplinary audience, this book will be of particular interest to practitioners, scholars, and students of International Relations, Political Power, Small States, and Area Studies.

The United States, China, and the Competition for Control
Melanie W. Sisson
Brookings Institution, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in US Foreign Policy
This book considers whether the United States and the People’s Republic of China have irreconcilable visions of world order. It evaluates the twin claims that China seeks to dismantle the post-World War II international order and that the United States seeks to defend it. The book will be of interest to foreign policy practitioners, commentators, and analysts as well as students and scholars of security studies, international relations, and geopolitics.

Interstate Conflicts and the International Civil Aviation Organization
Depoliticization in Multilateral Diplomacy

Michal M. Kobierccki

Series: Global Institutions

This book investigates the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) and politicized debates held there. The author explores how participants have employed depoliticization as a defensive diplomatic technique in a multilateral forum. Analysing cases such as the ICAO membership/statehood of Spain, Taiwan, Cyprus and South Africa; various instances of the Arab-Israeli conflict; shootdowns of the Korean aircraft by the USSR and Iranian aircraft by the US; and the 21st Century tensions between Russia and Western countries, the book focuses on how states under criticism defended themselves and used depoliticization rhetoric to weaken ICAO decisions.

Wilfrid Laurier University, Canada

Series: Interventions

This book discusses the ways civil society initiatives open communities to newcomers and why, how, and under what circumstances fostering more welcoming than hostile, exploring the importance of transgressive cosmopolitanism as a basis for creating more inclusive and pluralistic societies. The question of how to live together in increasingly multicultural, multi-ethnic, and multireligious societies is a pressing political and policy issue, particularly as we witness a rise in right-wing populism and anti-immigrant sentiments.

Responding to Violent and Hateful Extremism
Contributions of Humanitarian and Development NGOs

Edited by Anthony Ware, Leanne M. Kelly, Greg Barton

This book surveys the state of knowledge regarding development and humanitarian non-government organisation (NGO) responses to preventing and countering violent extremism (P/CVE). It delineates the nexus and shared objectives between P/CVE and development/humanitarian NGO frameworks and outlines a reframing of the concept of CVE into violent and hateful extremism (VHE) as a shift to a more nuanced understanding which addresses inherent complexities and entanglements more deeply. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Conflict, Security & Development.

South American Policy Regionalism
Drivers and Barriers to International Problem Solving

Edited by Leslie Elliott Armijo, Markus Fraundorfer, Sybil D. Rhodes

Contrasting three major schools of thought in international relations, this book introduces the idea of international policy regionalism as a framework for informed debate about international policy-sector interactions in a regional space. An international group of contributors construct rich narratives of the politics of Latin American policy sector evolution since the Cold War. South American Policy Regionalism equips readers from various academic disciplines and policy to understand the relevance of international relations theory for the analysis of policy sectors that cross national borders, both within Latin America and elsewhere.

The Colony of Humanitarian Intervention
Patrick J. Vernon
King's College London, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in Gender and Global Politics
This book scrutinises the practice of humanitarian intervention to explore the extent to which racism and heteronormativity, rooted in colonial understandings of time and space, are enacted through the UK’s responses, failed responses, and non-responses to atrocity crimes. Taking humanitarian intervention as its central focus, the book uses queer international relations scholarship to draw the ongoing coloniality of the Western state into stark relief.

The Enduring Legacies of the Global Financial Crisis in East Asia
A Quiet Transformation
Iain Pirie
University of Warwick, UK
Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics
The Enduring Legacies of the Global Financial Crisis in East Asia challenges the assumption that the global financial crisis had a limited structural impact on East Asian political economies, arguing that the crisis has led to a significant, if uneven, reorganization of major national political economies within the region where, in response to the crisis, states have promoted domestic processes of financialization as a means of stimulating their economies. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of Political Economy and Asian Studies.

The Far-Right in World Politics

Cover Image
Not Available

Edited by Alexander Anievas
University of Connecticut, USA, and Richard Saul
University of London, UK
Series: Rethinking Globalizations
This book addresses the reasons why the contemporary far-right has gained political resonance in a variety of states across both the Global North and South. The rise of far-right forms of politics in recent years throughout a range of geopolitical locales suggests the emergence of a distinct conjuncture in world politics, indicating a common set of enabling conditions and characteristics. It is this unprecedented context in the history of the post-war liberal international order that this edited volume aims to address. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Globalizations and are accompanied by a new epilogue.

The Impact of UNESCO on States' Cultural Policies
The 2005 Convention on Diversity of Cultural Expressions

Civil Society
Ideas, Interpretations, Transgressions

Edyta B. Pietrzak
Lodz University of Technology, Poland
Civil Society: Ideas, Interpretations, Transgressions is essential to learning about the place and importance of civilization to creating and maintaining a liberal democracy. Edyta B. Pietrzak takes us on a journey of interpretation, addressing the critical role the idea of a civil society has for our world and how it has evolved over time. She uncovers the meanings of theories, clarifies ways of thinking that are sensitive to peculiarities, intermittences, contrasts, or unique things.

Facts and Explanations in International Studies...and beyond

Patrick Thaddeus Jackson
American University, Washington DC, USA
The politicizing of facts and factual claims has led some to abandon all talk of a meaningful distinction between a fact and a strongly held political commitment. This book argues that what we need, instead, are better accounts of facts and their relationship to explanation—ones that take seriously the dependence of facts on communities of practice and on consensus procedures of measurement, but do not abandon the epistemic distinctiveness of facts.
Neo-Nazi Terrorism and Countercultural Fascism
The Origins and Afterlife of James Mason’s Siege

Spencer Sunshine Independent Scholar, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right
A new wave of aspiring neo-Nazi terrorists has arisen—including the infamous Atomwaffen Division. And they have a bible: James Mason’s Siege, which praises terrorism, serial killers, and Charles Manson. Neo-Nazi Terrorism and Countercultural Fascism, based on years of archival work and interviews, documents for the first time the origins of Siege. It is obligatory reading for those interested in contemporary terrorism, postwar countercultures, and the history of the U.S. Far Right and neo-Nazism.

Oil and Climate Change in the Guyana-Suriname Basin

Edited by Ivelaw Lloyd Griffith
Series: New Regionalisms Series
This book is about oil and gas dynamics in the world’s newest petro-powers-in-the-making, and the attempts to balance this against the impact of climate change. The known oil reserves in the Guyana-Suriname Basin total some 30 billion barrels equivalent, and the gas reserves exceed 30 trillion cubic feet. This massive offshore discovery amounts to 10 percent of the world’s conventional oil, but Guyana and Suriname are also in a wet neighbourhood, where the impact of climate change stands to wreak havoc on the area and undermine some of the oil gains.

Race in the Anthropocene
Coloniality, Disavowal and the Black Horizon

Farai Chipato University of Westminster, United Kingdom, David Chandler University of Westminster, UK
Series: Interventions
Race in the Anthropocene provides a radical new perspective on the importance of race and coloniality in the Anthropocene. It forwards the Black Horizon as a critical lens which places at its heart the importance of ontological concerns fundamental to problematising the violence and exclusions of the antible world. This book is essential reading for students of international politics, particularly those interested in international politics, security, and development. It is also of relevance for those interested in contemporary social, political, and environmental debates and policy practices.

Rethinking Property
Drive Theory, Fanon, and Environmental Philosophy

Elliott Schwebach
Series: Psychoanalytic Political Theory
In this eye-opening study at the intersection of psychoanalytic theory and political organization and thought, Elliott Schwebach explores why property can be understood to be oppressive and how political theory overlooks its unique significance as a pillar of social violence. This unique perspective validates creative expressions of decolonial resistance and offers fruitful alternatives to customary positions in psychoanalytic and environmental political philosophy. The book will be an indispensable resource for scholars of property, Freudian psychology, political ecology, and the visionary thought of Frantz Fanon.

The Magma of War
An Ontology of the Global

Edgar Illas
War defines the most extreme and contradictory expression of the global world. In this fascinating exploration on the history of the thinking of conflict, Edgar Illas departs from military and sociological analyses to propose a theoretical exploration of war as the ontological force that produces political orders. Divided into two parts, Illas’ study begins by surveying of some of the most important thinkers of war, moving from classical antiquity to the 20th century. The second part turns to a theorization of the 21st century to claim that conflictive relations between capital, state power, political movements, and social life in globalization culminate.

The Making of a Marxist Philosopher

Sean Sayers
Series: Marx and Marxisms

The Making of a Marxist Philosopher is a revealing and beautifully written memoir and family history from renowned Marxist philosopher Sean Sayers. As one of the founders of the journal Radical Philosophy and the creator of the Marx and Philosophy Review of Books, Sayers has been at the centre of the development of philosophy on the left in the English-speaking world during the past fifty years. Reflecting on the fate of Marxism in an engaging, thoughtful way, The Making of a Marxist Philosopher is filled with revealing family photographs which Sayers uses to craft an original must-read on left-wing thought and politics.

The New Reformism and the Revival of Karl Kautsky

Douglas Greene
Series: Marx and Marxisms

This text offers an authoritative historiography of German socialist theorist Karl Kautsky and the Russian Revolution. Douglas Greene examines the totality of Kautsky’s political career and dissects the fundamental opportunism and passive radicalism that defined his Marxism. Greene explores the most substantive Marxist critics of Kautsky, namely Rosa Luxemburg, V. I. Lenin, and Leon Trotsky while offering a critical assessment of the work produced by scholars and activists seeking to revive Kautsky.

Theories of Change in Reality

Edited by Andrew Koleros, Marie-Hélène Adrien, Tony Tyrrell
Series: Comparative Policy Evaluation

For over fifty years, evaluators have used theories of change to articulate the causal logic underpinning how intervention is intended to bring about change. From its origins, the approach has been adopted more widely from programme design to programme management. As theories of change continue to be used for multiple purposes, it is an opportune moment for the evaluation community – where the approach originated - to provide their perspective on the strengths and limitations of the approach and its future directions. By sharing these diverse perspectives, the book aims to both provide evaluators and emerging programme theorists with critical perspectives to inform future practice.

It examines the provenance of the Jew-hatred, from English history to Palestinian Islamism; from toxic 19th century ‘Jewish Question’ rhetoric to the perversion of the Trotskyist tradition that allowed parts of the left to embrace antisemitism. There is discussion from Britain, Germany, Poland and Norway; and a linguistic account of responses. Explaining Support for Populism in Contemporary Latin America

Dinorah Azpuru  Wichita State University, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics

Explaining Support for Populism in Contemporary Latin America investigates the stronghold that populism exerts on citizens in the developing world. More specifically, relying on regional surveys this book explores why many citizens consistently supported eight populist presidents who were elected in contemporary Latin America. Unique to this approach is a strong emphasis on the demand-side of populism and the use of country-specific survey data across the years.

Weaponizing Conspiracy Theories

Eirikur Bergmann  Bifrost University, Iceland
Series: Conspiracy Theories

This book analyses the discursive weaponization of conspiracy theories. In an era where truth and fiction converge, nativist populist leaders wield conspiracy theories as political weapons. This text examines the interplay between populism and conspiracism, probing their impact on democratic processes and exploring their broader political implications. The work dissects three predominant conspiracy theories: the Eurasia theory in Europe, the Deep State in the United States, and anti-Western narratives in Russia. It will be of interest to students and scholars of conspiracy theories, populism and contemporary politics.

Populism and Conspiracy Theory
Case Studies and Theoretical Perspectives

Edited by Michael Butter  University of Tübingen, Germany, Katerina Hatzikidi  University of Tübingen, Germany, Constanze Jeitler  University of Tübingen, Germany, Giacomo Loperfido  University of Tübingen, Germany, Lili Turza  University of Tübingen, Germany
Series: Conspiracy Theories

This book explores the close connections between populism and conspiracy theory. It contributes to filling the gap in the research in this area. The individual contributions in Part I provide in-depth analyses of specific configurations of populism and conspiracy theory. Part II includes nuanced considerations of more theoretical issues. It will appeal to those interested in politics, specifically conspiracy theory, populism, democracy, and leadership.

The Ideational Approach to Populism, Volume II
Consequences and Mitigation

Edited by Angelos Chryssogelos  London Metropolitan University, UK, Eliza Tanner Hawkins  Brigham Young University, USA, Kirk A. Hawkins  Brigham Young University, USA, Levente Littvay  HUN-REN Centre for Social Sciences, Hungary, Nina Wiesehomeier  IE University, Spain
Series: Routledge Studies in Extremism and Democracy

This book provides a series of specific predictions about the distinct impact of populist ideas. In this sequel to the first volume, the ideational approach to populism is extended, providing a robust theoretical framework for understanding populism’s consequences and for identifying policies that mitigate its most negative effects. It reaffirms that ideas matter, arguing that an ideational definition of populism leads to more accurate and sometimes surprising predictions about the impact of populism at multiple levels of analysis. It will be of interest to students and scholars of politics, international relations, social psychology, and political communication.

Liberty, Governance and Resistance
Competing Discourses in John Locke's Political Philosophy

John William Tate  The University of Newcastle, Australia
Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought
John Locke is widely perceived as a foundational figure within the liberal tradition. This book investigates the competing purposes that informed Locke's political philosophy, not all of which resulted in outcomes consistent with what we today understand as "liberal" ideals. Liberty, Governance and Resistance will be of interest to researchers studying Locke, liberalism, and the history of ideas.

Walter Benjamin and Antonio Gramsci
A Missed Encounter

Edited by Dario Gentili, Elettra Stimilli, Gabriele Guerra
Series: Marx and Marxisms
This book marks a missed encounter between two of the most influential Marxists thinkers of our age, Walter Benjamin, and Antonio Gramsci, studied here for the first-time side by side. Two Marxists sui generis, they radically changed Marxism's themes and vocabulary, profoundly influencing the most significant analyses and debates. These two philosophers' posthumous fortune depended on the transmission of their thought. Editors, Dario Gentili, Elettra Stimilli, Gabriele Guerra explore with leading voices on Benjamin and Gramsci the most relevant and topical issues today. An indispensable new perspective in Marxism for students and researchers alike.

Theories of Alienation
From Rousseau to the Present

Christoph Henning  Erfurt University, Germany
Series: Marx and Marxisms
Henning tracks theories of alienation from three different traditions: a conservative approach from Rousseau to Hartmut Rosa explains alienation with change and is based on nostalgia; a liberal approach from Simmel to Rahel Jaeggi relies on individual autonomy and explains it as a loss of control; and a third, Aristotelian approach from Humboldt to Marx or British idealism, relies on a perfectionist anthropology and critical social theory. Theories of Alienation: From Rousseau to the Present shines important new light on this important field of contemporary social philosophy and is very approachable to the general reader.

Municipal Corruption

From Policies to People

Kimberly L. Nelson University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, USA, Whitney B. Afonso University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, USA

This book represents the most comprehensive exploration of corruption in U.S. municipal governments written to date. It uses both quantitative research and case study analysis to answer the question of why some municipalities fall victim to corrupt acts, while others do not. Municipal Corruption is ideal supplemental reading for courses on ethics, public affairs, local government, and urban affairs, and it will be immeasurably useful to municipalities considering how to better insulate themselves and their constituents from corrupt acts.

Political Management in Practice

Lessons from around the Globe

Edited by Jennifer Lees-Marschment University of Dundee, UK

All organisations manage people, and politics is no different. This comprehensive volume offers a wide range of in-depth empirical research from different disciplinary perspectives and countries. With authors from political management programmes, political marketing, management, political psychology, and public administration, the book seeks not just to survey a topic or existing literature, but to stimulate research in the area. This book will be highly useful for graduate students, researchers, and professionals in a variety of areas including political management, political marketing, applied politics, political science, management, political psychology, and public administration.
Working with Data in the Public Sector
From Fear to Enthusiasm

Anne McIntyre-Lahner University of Connecticut, USA,
Ronald W. Schack University of Connecticut, USA

Working with Data in the Public Sector: From Fear to Enthusiasm is the first book designed for practicing and future public administration professionals to help overcome any anxiety about using data effectively in their roles. Authors Anne McIntyre-Lahner and Ronald Schack explore different types and degrees of data fear (a data fear/data comfort continuum) and provide a tool-box of fear-fighting techniques. It is important reading for both practicing and future public servants, including those enrolled in Public Administration, Public Policy, and Nonprofit Management programs.

Geopolitics of Global Catholicism
Politics of Religion in Space and Time

Petr Kratochvíl
Institute of International Relations, the Czech Republic
Series: Routledge Studies in Religion and Politics

Geopolitics of Global Catholicism uncovers the key trends in today’s Catholicism, providing an incisive analysis of its deep entanglement with national, regional, as well as global politics. The book offers an exciting exploration of five versions of local Catholicism(s), and sheds light on the various theo-political constellations that differ widely across these national contexts but that also have global geopolitical consequences. The book is built around a novel theoretical argument showing that Catholic geopolitics contains not only a spatial dimension (as classic geopolitical studies would have it), but also a temporal one.

The Routledge Handbook of Politics and Religion in Contemporary America

Edited by Jeffrey Haynes
London Metropolitan University, UK
Series: Routledge International Handbooks

The Routledge Handbook of Politics and Religion in Contemporary America is a comprehensive reference source to this significant, controversial and consistent topic in America’s politics. It examines the copious research conducted to date, evaluates what we know, identifies what is less clear because of differing research findings, and pursues important but under-researched questions. This handbook will be essential reading for students and researchers of politics and religious studies. Professionals (policy-oriented, government, corporations) will also find the handbook useful, especially for research purposes.

Human Costs of War documents and analyses the direct and indirect toll that war takes on civilians and their livelihoods, taking a human security approach exploring personal, economic, political and community security in Afghanistan, Iraq and Ukraine, in the contexts of the War on Terror and the New Cold War. The book will be of interest to academics, the public, the media, security agencies and international organisations. It will be useful for undergraduate and postgraduate students of International Relations, International Law, Security, Politics, Policing, Human Rights, Ethics, Peace Studies, Eastern Europe, American Studies and the Middle East.

The Russian Invasion of Ukraine
Victims, Perpetrators, Justice, and the Question of Genocide

Edited by Diana Dumitru Georgetown University, USA, A. Dirk Moses CUNY, USA

This book examine crucial facets of the Russian invasion: among them, the Russian sexual violence against occupied Ukrainians, their “collaboration” and “filtration,” legal prosecutions especially relating to kidnapped Ukrainian children, the portrayal of events in Bucha on Russian social media, and the lessons learned from the Ukrainian refugee crisis in Poland during the initial weeks of the war, as well the potential pursuit of justice at the International Court of Justice, and the genocide claim more generally. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Journal of Genocide Research.
Armed Organizations and Political Elites in Civil Wars

Health Security Intelligence
Managing Emerging Threats and Risks in a Post-covid World
Edited by Patrick F. Walsh
Series: Studies in Intelligence
The book takes a multi-disciplinary approach to explore the role national security intelligence agencies played in supporting national governments’ response to COVID-19. Spanning the ‘Five Eyes’ intelligence countries (UK, USA, Canada, Australia and New Zealand), this book offers the first cross-comparative analysis of what intelligence agencies need to focus on in responding more effectively to future emerging health and biological security threats risks and hazards post-COVID-19. This book will be of much interest to students of intelligence studies, health security, public health and International Relations.

Israeli National Intelligence Culture
Problem-solving, Exceptionalism, and Pragmatism
Itai Shapira
Series: Studies in Intelligence
The book offers a novel conceptualization of Israeli national intelligence culture, describing the way in which Israelis perceive and practise intelligence. Written by a former senior intelligence officer, this is the first study dedicated to Israeli intelligence culture and the way it reflects Israeli strategic culture. Relying on over 30 elite interviews with acting and former Israeli practitioners, the book highlights the Israeli aversion to intelligence theory and scientific methods, as well as the management of the intelligence system at the national level. This book will interest students of intelligence studies, Israeli politics, strategic studies, and International Relations.

Understanding Biological Emergencies
From Bioterrorism to Pandemics

Paula Stamps Duston University of Massachusetts, Amherst, USA
This book investigates the links between the main sources of biological emergencies and presents a comprehensive policy framework that seeks to achieve the ultimate goal of biological security. The work offers a new interdisciplinary approach to analyse the linkages between the three main sources of biological emergencies: intentional attacks, natural zoonotic transmission, and lab accidents. In doing so, the text describes the history of using nature to create a weapon, focusing on dispersal methods.

Asia-Pacific Regional Security Assessment 2024
Key developments and trends
Edited by The International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS)

The Asia-Pacific Regional Security Assessment (APRSA) examines key regional security policies and challenges relevant to the proceedings of the IISS Shangri-La Dialogue, Asia’s premier defence summit convened by the International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS). This eleventh edition comes as the APRSA celebrates its first decade. Three themes materialise across six chapters: the pressure and constraints surrounding great-power competition, the enduring value of alliances and partnerships and the impact of advanced and emerging technology for regional security dynamics.

Space Warfare

Strategy, Principles and Policy

John J. Klein
Series: Space Power and Politics

This book examines military space strategy within the context of the land and naval strategies of the past. This second edition has been updated and revised, with several new chapters included. The book examines competition and conflict in the space domain, including the methods used and sound counterstrategies to thwart a competitor’s efforts. Contrary to many spacepower pundits, the book explains that the space domain is neither inherently offense-dominant, nor is there a first-mover advantage when incorporating a sound space strategy.

The Rule of Non-Law

Edited by Nicole Stremlau, Clara Voyvodic Casabó
Series: Routledge Studies in Conflict, Security and Technology

This book explores how information and communications technologies are adapted, governed, and reinterpreted in areas where the state has limited reach. The book brings together an eclectic collection of cases from around the world – from the favelas in Brazil, to the border regions of Ethiopia and Somalia, to markets in Thailand – to tease out the broader arguments and logics about how diverse enabling environments for technology and innovation may evolve and the wide range of public authorities that may be involved in providing governance and security for such innovation, beyond the state.

The Legacy of 9/11
Transformations of Policing, Intelligence, and Counter-Terrorism

Edited by Ryan Shaffer, Jeffrey Kaplan

This book is a retrospective about how policing, intelligence, and counter-terrorism have changed in the more than twenty years since the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks. Bringing together scholars and practitioners, it takes an interdisciplinary approach with fields including history, international relations, intelligence studies, law, and political science. It highlights how some challenges in policing, intelligence, and counter-terrorism brought about by the attacks have been resolved, how some persist and how others have been transformed. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Journal of Policing, Intelligence and Counter-Terrorism.
