Our history
Over two centuries ago, the foundations of the company were laid in pioneering fashion when in 1798 Richard Taylor launched the Philosophical Magazine, one of the first scientific journals produced by an independent company. It was the start of much close collaboration with scholarly societies. Dr William Francis, a chemist, joined Richard Taylor in 1852 and continued the tradition of the close links between the academic community and the company.

Today, we continue to be fully committed to the publication of academic and scholarly information of the highest quality and this remains our primary goal.

Taylor & Francis has grown rapidly to become a leading international, academic publisher. With offices across the globe, the Taylor & Francis Group now publishes more than 2,200 journals and over 5,200 new books each year; with a books backlist in excess of 110,000 specialist titles.

Prices featured are correct at time of going to press but are subject to change without notice.

Book orders should be addressed to the Taylor & Francis Customer Services Department at Hachette, or the appropriate overseas agent.

Can War Be Justified?
A Debate

Andrew Fiala and Jennifer Kling
Series: Little Debates about Big Questions
Can war be justified? Pacifists answer that it cannot; they oppose war and advocate for nonviolent alternatives to war. But defenders of just war theory argue that in some circumstances, when the effectiveness of nonviolence is limited, wars can be justified. In this book, two philosophers debate this question, drawing on contemporary scholarship and new developments in thinking about pacifism and just war theory. Andrew Fiala defends the pacifist position, while Jennifer Kling defends just war traditions.

Does Tomorrow Exist?
A Debate

Nikk Effingham, University of Birmingham, UK and Kristie Miller
Series: Little Debates about Big Questions
This book takes up the question of whether past and future events exist. Two very different views are explored. According to one of these views, presentism, the present is special: only the present things exist. According to the alternative view, eternalism, our world is a giant four-dimensional block of spacetime in which all things, past, present, and future, exist.

Why It’s OK to Not Be Monogamous
Justin L. Clardy
Series: Why It’s OK
This book rejects the claim that non-monogamy among honest, informed and consenting adults is morally impermissible. He shows instead how polyamorous relationships can actually be exemplars of moral virtue: it discusses how social and political forces sustain and reward monogamous relationships. Clardy argues, as some researchers have recently shown—nonmonogamy relies on continually demonizing non-monogamy to sustain its moral status. Finally, the book concludes with a focus on equality, asking what justice for polyamorous individuals might look like.

Aesthetics
50 Puzzles, Paradoxes, and Thought Experiments
Michel-Antoine Xhignesse
Series: Puzzles, Paradoxes, and Thought Experiments in Philosophy
A teaching-focused resource that highlights the contributions that imaginative scenarios—paradoxes, puzzles, and thought experiments alike—have made to the development of contemporary analytic aesthetics. The book is divided into sections pertaining to art-making, ontology, aesthetic judgements, appreciation and interpretation, and ethics and value, and offers an accessible summary of ten debates falling under each section. Each entry also features a detailed annotated bibliography, making it an ideal companion for courses surveying a broad collection of topics and readings in aesthetics.

Philosophy of Language
50 Puzzles, Paradoxes, and Thought Experiments
Michael P. Wolf
This book offers a collection of fifty short chapters on topics in the philosophy of language. Each addresses a paradox, a longstanding puzzle, or a major theme that has emerged in the field from the last 150 years, tracing overlap with issues in philosophy of mind, cognitive science, ethics, political philosophy, and literature. Each is written as a piece that can stand on its own, though useful connections to other entries are mentioned throughout the text. Readers can open the book and start with almost any of the entries, following themes of greatest interest to them. Each entry includes recommendations for further reading on the topic.

Philosophy through Computer Science
An Introduction
Daniel Lim
In providing an introduction to computer science (using Python), Daniel Lim presents in this book key philosophical issues, ranging from external world skepticism to the existence of God to the problem of induction. Issues are introduced through the use of critical computational concepts, ranging from image manipulation to recursive programming to elementary machine learning techniques. In illuminating some of the overlapping conceptual spaces of computer science and philosophy, Lim teaches the reader fundamental programming skills and allows them to develop the critical thinking skills essential for examining some of the enduring questions of philosophy.

After Life
Recent Philosophy and Death
Edited by Rona Cohen, Tel Aviv University, Israel and Ruth Ronen, Tel Aviv University, Israel
Series: Angelaki: New Work in the Theoretical Humanities
While death is often seen as the Muse of philosophy, what would it mean (philosophically and psychically) to live in a world where death is no longer necessary? After Life: Recent Philosophy and Death is a collection of 11 essays addressing the place of death and its denial from a philosophical, psychoanalytic, and literary perspectives. The collection offers contemporary and fresh insights on these timely questions. It was originally published as a special issue of Angelaki.

After Modernism
Women, Gender, Race
Edited by Pelagia Goulimari, University of Oxford, UK
Series: Angelaki: New Work in the Theoretical Humanities
The term “after modernism” includes a number of distinct terms. The meanings of “after” include periodisation, homage and critique. This book attends to neglected genealogies and intertexts—“high” and “low”—yet offering unacknowledged ontological, epistemological, conceptual and figurative resources. In between the public and the private, humans and the natural world, this book explores a multiple, relational modern subjectivity, collectivity and cosmic interconnectivity, whose space is indivisible, entangled, ever folding and unfolding. It was originally published as a special issue of the journal Angelaki.

On the Significance of Religion for Deliberative Democracy

Ruby Quantson Davis, Elizabeth Gish and Kudakwashe Chitsike

Series: Religion Matters

This exciting volume pioneers the study of the complex relationship between religion and deliberative democracy, a practice that places importance on the need for citizens to come together to identify shared concerns and issues, work through choices and options for action, weigh consequences and trade-offs, and possibly take collective action to influence policies. Combining innovative research with case studies and practical implications and recommendations for religious leaders, academics, policy makers, and practitioners, this book instructs on how religious and democratic institutions can symbiotically address community and national challenges.

The Routledge Handbook of Judaism in the 21st Century

Edited by Keren Eva Fraiman and Dean Phillip Bell, Spertus Institute, USA

The Routledge Handbook of Judaism in the 21st Century is a cutting-edge volume that addresses central questions and issues animating Judaism, Jewish identity, and Jewish society in a global, integrated, and forward-looking way, through the prism of three contemporary sets of issues: identities and geographies; structures and power; and knowledge and performances. It is essential reading for students and researchers in religious studies and Jewish studies and will also be useful for those in related fields, such as cultural studies, literature, sociology, anthropology, and history, as well as Jewish professionals and lay leaders.

Cosmopolitan Cultures and Oceanic Thought
Edited by Dilip M Menon and Nishat Zaidi, Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi, India
This book imagines the ocean as central to understanding the world and its connections in history, literature and the social sciences. Introducing the central conceptual category of ocean as method, it analyzes the histories of movement and traversing across connected spaces of water and land sedimented in literary texts, folklore, local histories, autobiographies, music and performance. It explores the constant flow of people, material and ideologies across the waters and how they make their presence felt in a cosmopolitan thinking of the connections of the world.

Falklands/Malvinas 1982
A War of Two Sides
Maria Inés Tato, Universidad de Buenos Aires, Argentina, Peter Stanley, Luis Esteban Dalla Fontana and Rob Mclaughlin
Series: Wars and Battles of the World
After many decades from the 1982 war between Britain and Argentina over possession of the Falklands/Malvinas islands in the South Atlantic Ocean, this book allows for a new and rounded reading of the causes, course, and consequences of the war. It provides a comprehensive overview of the Falkland/Malvinas War by integrating the military history of the conflict with the diplomatic, political, social and cultural aspects of the conflict. Including a substantial body of advocacy, chronicle, narrative, and analysis, the volume draws upon an extensive range of published sources, in English and Spanish, primary sources from both sides and unpublished testimonies.

History from Loss
A Global Introduction to Histories written from defeat, colonization, exile, and imprisonment
Edited by Marnie Hughes-Warrington, University of South Australia, Australia and Daniel Woolf, Queen’s University, Kingston, Ontario, Canada
History from Loss challenges the common thought that ‘history is written by the winners’ and explores how history makers in different times and places across the globe have written histories from loss, even when this has come at the threat to their own safety. It provides an invaluable resource for students, teachers, and general readers who wish to put current debates on bias, the politicization of history, and threats to history makers into a global and historical perspective.

Nazi Occultism
Between the SS and Esotericism
Stéphane François, Groupe Sociétés, Religions, Laïcités, France
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right
Nazi Occultism provides a serious scholarly study of a topic that is often marred by sensationalism and misinformation. The author, a historian specializing in neo-Nazism, looks back on this speculative construction, its origins, its ideological tinkering, and the practices which have succeeded in forming a sort of radical and sulphurous counterculture which has created a fascination with esotericism and Nazism and the SS. This book will appeal to scholars, researchers, and activists as well as general readers with an interest in the history of Nazism and the occult.

Zola
An Intellectual Quest for Justice
Ramin Jahanbegloo, Jindal Global University, Sonipat, India
Series: Peacemakers
This book examines the figure of the public intellectual through the work of Emile Zola in the Dreyfus Affair. It analyses Zola’s famous letter “Accuse” supporting Alfred Dreyfus and its philosophical and political consequences for the intellectual world, including Indian public intellectuals. The volume is an examination of the critical role which can be played by public intellectuals today by referring to the “Accuse” model and an homage to the ideal of living decently and truthfully through the exercise of critical reason and moral excellence.

Lebanese Historical Thought in the Eighteenth Century

Hayat El Eid Bualuan, American University of Beirut, Lebanon
Series: Routledge Approaches to History

This study of Lebanese historical thought and its role in national identity formation in the eighteenth century focuses on a sample of historians, mainly Christians, who lived and wrote during the Shihabi Emirate from 1697 till the Egyptian invasion in 1831. This book will be of interest to scholars of the history and historiography of Lebanon and the Middle East, with relevance for specialized courses in the fields of history and historiography at universities.

Nationalising the Crusades

Engaging the Crusades, Volume Eight

Edited by Mike Horswell, Royal Holloway, University of London, UK
Series: Engaging the Crusades

Despite their ‘innate internationalism’, the crusades have long been conscripted for nationalist ends. The last decade has seen an upsurge in usage of the crusades to justify and inspire violence played out within and across national contexts. This volume furthers study of nationalist uses of the crusades and crusading by broadening the focus of study beyond north-western Europe and by showcasing different approaches to illustrate how the memory of the crusades has been employed within and between nations.

Property Rights in Wartime

Sequestration, Confiscation and Restitution in Twentieth-Century Europe

Edited by Daniela Luigia Caglioti, Università di Napoli Federico II, Italy and Catherine Brice, Université Paris-Est Créteil, France

This book examines the violation of property rights in the two World Wars and in the interwar period centering on three keywords: sequestration, confiscation and restitution. Bringing together new historical research on Serbia, Italy, Belgium, Turkey, Holland, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Germany and Austria, the chapters address state violence, law and human rights, as well as the entanglement between citizenship, nationality and property. It will be of great interest to those who study minorities, borders, migration, social and economic history as well as European History. This book was originally published as a special issue of European Review of History.

The Historical Value of Myths

John Karabelas

This book explores the connection between history and mythology by engaging with myths not as allegories or falsehoods, but as representations of historical experience. The Historical Value of Myths is an illuminating read for advanced undergraduates, postgraduates and researchers in the fields of mythology, the philosophy of history and anthropology.

The Routledge History of Loneliness

Katie Barclay

Edited by Katie Barclay, University of Adelaide, Australia, Elaine Chalus, University of Liverpool, UK and Deborah Simonton, University of Southern Denmark, Denmark
Series: Routledge Histories

The Routledge History of Loneliness takes a multidisciplinary approach to the history of a modern emotion, exploring its form and development across cultures from the seventeenth century to the present. With wide appeal to students and researchers in a variety of subjects including the history of emotions, social sciences and literature, this volume brings a critical historical perspective to an emotion with contemporary significance.
Burton Dassett Southend, Warwickshire
A Medieval Market Village
Nicholas Palmer and Jonathan Parkhouse
Series: The Society for Medieval Archaeology Monographs
Burton Dassett Southend, Warwickshire investigates Southend, one of the five medieval settlements in Burton Dassett parish, Warwickshire. The summary narrative and thematic discussions (focused upon material culture, spatial organisation, buildings and economy) in this volume are supplemented by detailed stratigraphic description and specialist reports available online through the Archaeology Data Service.

Conservation of Books
Edited by Abigail Bainbridge
Series: Routledge Series in Conservation and Museology
This highly-anticipated reference work on global book structures and their conservation offers the first modern, comprehensive overview on this subject. Written by over 70 specialists in conservation and conservation science, its chapters cover traditional book structures from around the world, the materials from which they are made and how they degrade, and how to preserve and conserve them. It also examines the theoretical underpinnings of conservation: what and how to treat, and the ethical, cultural, and economic implications of treatment. A quintessential reference work for book conservators, students, and anyone working with books.

The Angkorian World
Edited by Mitch Hendrickson, Miriam T. Stark and Damian Evans
Series: Routledge Worlds
The Angkorian World explores the history of Southeast Asia’s largest ancient state from the first to mid-second millennium CE. Chapters by leading scholars combine evidence from archaeology, texts, and the natural sciences to introduce the Angkorian state, describe its structure, and explain its persistence over more than six centuries. The Angkorian World will satisfy students, researchers, academics, and the knowledgeable layperson who seeks to understand how this great Angkorian Empire arose and functioned in the premodern world.
The Gilgamesh Epic in Genesis 1-11

Peering into the Deep

Adam E. Miglio, Wheaton College, USA.

Series: Studies in the History of the Ancient Near East

This book provides a substantive, reliable, and accessible comparison of the Gilgamesh Epic and Genesis 1-11, investigating their presentation of humanistic themes. While these ancient literary masterpieces may seem unusual or challenging to modern readers, they are nonetheless familiar and relatable stories through their humanistic composition. Significant passages and narratives from both are translated into English and compared and contrasted in depth, in a lucid, concise fashion. Suitable for students and scholars of ancient Near Eastern literature, with broad appeal across religious studies, ancient history, and World Literature.

Citizenship in Antiquity

Civic Communities in the Ancient Mediterranean

Edited by Jakub Filonik, Christine Plastow and Rachel Zelnick-Abramovitz

This volume brings together scholars working on the multifaceted and changing dimensions of citizenship in the ancient Mediterranean and surrounding regions, from the second millennium BCE to the first millennium CE. Contributions adopt contemporary theories and demonstrate the manifold meanings and ways of defining the concept and practices of citizenship and belonging, and in turn non-citizenship and non-belonging. Suitable for students and scholars of citizenship, politics, and society in the ancient Mediterranean.

Inclusive Classics

Innovative Pedagogies in Museums and Schools

Edited by Arlene Holmes-Henderson, King’s College London, United Kingdom.

Series: Classics In and Out of the Academy

This volume explores innovative ways of opening up Classics to educational and museum audiences. Classics plays an important role within society, and the contributors in this volume demonstrate that classical subjects can be taught cost-effectively and inclusively by non-specialist teachers and in non-traditional settings. They highlight the need to rethink the role of Classics in our classrooms and communities and make recommendations for future development. Suitable for museum educators, teacher trainers, school leaders, and curriculum designers, as well as those teaching in primary and secondary education settings in the UK and beyond.
3D Printing For Product Designers
Innovative Strategies Using Additive Manufacturing
Jennifer Loy, James Novak and Olaf Diegel
This book closes the gap between the rhetoric of 3D printing in manufacturing and the reality for product designers. It provides practical strategies to support the adoption and integration of 3D printing into professional practice. The book can be followed chronologically to guide you to transform your process for a company, to meet the unique needs of a specific client, or to be used as a starting point for the product design entrepreneur. Written by experienced industry professionals and academics, this is a fundamental reference for product designers, industrial designers, design engineers, consultants and makers.

Collaborative Worldbuilding for Video Games
Kaitlin Tremblay
Worldbuilding Together is a book focused on providing a deep dive into worldbuilding for video games, but with an explicit focus on how narrative designers can collaborate with other job disciplines in doing so. The purpose of the book is two-fold: to tackle new craft and thought in worldbuilding (such as identity, responsibility, IP, as well as emerging tech), while also explicitly detailing how everyone on a team contributes, both directly and indirectly, to worldbuilding. The goal of the book is to encourage mutual respect and collaboration among teams and provide game writers and narrative designers tools for effectively incorporating other job roles.

Comics and Migration
Representation and Other Practices
Edited by Ralf Kauranen, Olli Löytty, University of Turku, Finland, Aura Nikkälä, University of Turku, Finland and Anna Vuorinne, University of Turku, Finland
Series: Global Perspectives in Comics Studies
Comics and human mobility have a long history of connections. This volume explores these entanglements with a focus on both how comics represent migration and what applied uses comics have in relation to migration. The volume examines both individual works of comic art and examples of practical applications of comics from across the world. Through analyses of various practices and representations, this book questions the uncritical belief in the capacity of comics and assesses their potential to represent stories of exile and immigration with compassion and discusses how xenophobia and nationalism are both reinforced and questioned in comics.

Publishing Contracts and the Post Negotiation Space
Lifting the Lid on Publishing’s Black Box of Aspirations, Laws and Money

Katherine Day, University of Melbourne, Australia

Many writers dream of having their work published by a respected publishing house, but don’t always understand publishing contract terms – what they mean for the contracting parties and how they inform book-publishing practice. In turn, publishers struggle to satisfy authors’ creative expectations against the industry’s commercial demands. This book challenges our perceptions of these author–publisher power imbalances by recasting the publishing contract as a cultural artefact capable of adapting to the industry’s changing landscape.

Radical Journalism
Resurgence, Reform, Reaction

Edited by Seamus Farrell, Eugenia Siapera and George Souvis

This edited volume offers a state-of-the-art synthesis of the historical role of radical journalism, its present iterations, and plans for the future of a journalism that is committed to liberatory movements and politics. At a time of profound crisis and stagnation for mainstream journalism, radical journalism seems to be riding a wave: Understanding the role and place of radical journalism becomes even more urgent given the current political climate in a (post) pandemic world with heightened inequalities and intensified pauperisation. Radical Journalism is recommended reading for advanced students and journalists working at the intersection of journalism, politics and sociology.

Virtual Presenting

_A Guide to Formats, Production and Authentic Delivery_

Jamie Cohen and Michael Sorrentino

Responding to the widespread and continued acceleration of virtual working practices in recent years, Virtual Presenting provides a clear guide to producing, presenting and broadcasting in a remote context.

Unlike traditional studio production where a presenter is surrounded by a crew and cameras, the virtual presenter is often isolated or connected to a remote crew. Virtual Presenting explains how to make an authentic connection across great spaces, linked only via Internet. Topics covered include how to build a virtual setup; how to appear on camera; how to appear confident and comfortable; and how to optimize your presentation voice.

Journalism, Technology and Cultural Practice
A History
Martin Conboy
Taking a contextual and historical approach, Journalism, Technology and Cultural Practice provides an accessible introduction to the various stages of journalism’s adoption and exploitation of technology from print to digital. This foundational text explains the cultural norms and practices that have developed within journalism, why the industry has evolved in the way it has, and what this may mean for the direction of journalistic practices in the future. Readers will examine key technological developments from printing, through radio and television, to contemporary digital developments, whilst also tracing the major cultural shifts empowered by these changes over time.

Consumer Society and Ecological Crisis

Leslie M. Meier

Consumer Society and Ecological Crisis advances a critique of consumer capitalism and its role in driving environmental degradation and climate crisis, placing a spotlight on how marketing and distribution activities help maintain unsustainable levels of consumption.

Rather than focusing on the most visible sites of promotional communication, Meier examines less conspicuous facets of marketing and logistics in distinct chapters on plastic packaging, e-commerce, and sustainability pledges in the fossil fuel sector. These three main chapters each explore links between ecological crisis and consumer capitalism, drawing on critical theory and Marxist thought.

Digital Journalism in Latin America

Edited by Eugenia Mitchelstein, University of San Andrés, Argentina and Pablo J. Boczowski, Northwestern University, USA

This volume showcases the vibrancy of the study of digital journalism in Latin America. It includes an inquiry into journalists’ perceptions of media companies’ policies regarding social media use, a survey of investigative reporters; an examination of the interaction with perceptions of media companies; research on modes of news consumption on Facebook and WhatsApp in social media use; a study of the institutionalization of independent journalism in Colombia; and a study of the institutionalization of independent journalism in Brazil. It was originally published as a special issue of the journal Digital Journalism.

Organizational Constitution in Entrepreneurship

Movable Type

Ryan S. Bisel, University of Oklahoma, USA and Deanna L. Bisel

This book presents the seven entrepreneurial activities (SEA) model of new organizational constitution, a prescriptive extension of the four flows model tradition of communication constitution of organizations (CCO) theory. It illustrates the model through autobiographical accounts from Deanna Bisel’s years of experience as an entrepreneur. The book also demonstrates how entrepreneurial efforts to create and maintain organizations involve interrelated activities, offering a vision for new organizational creation and maintenance. It will be a key reference for scholars of organizational communication, management, business studies, entrepreneurship, and communication studies.

Humanitarian Journalists

Covering Crises from a Boundary Zone

Martin Scott, University of East Anglia, UK, Kate Wright, University of Edinburgh, UK and Mel Bunce, City University London, UK

This book documents the unique reporting practices of humanitarian journalists - an influential group of journalists defying conventional approaches to covering humanitarian crises. Based on a 5-year study, involving over 150 in-depth interviews, this book examines the political, economic, and social forces that sustain and influence humanitarian journalists. It will interest students and scholars of journalism and communication studies, sociology, and humanitarian studies, as well as those interested in studies of news and media work as occupational identities.

Porn on the Couch
Sex, Psychoanalysis, and Screen Cultures/Memories
Edited by Ricky Varghese, Toronto Metropolitan University, Canada
This book explores pornography as a bridge between screen cultures and screen memories. The screen as a conceptual apparatus, in both pornographic production/viewership and psychoanalysis, becomes important to unpack as such—what does the screen hold in with respect to desire and pleasure? What does it keep out? Are sex and memory interconnected? And if so, what is the status of memory as it informs sexual choices, practices, and fantasies and, thereby, inform the use of porn? Reading McLuhan Reading
Edited by Paula McDowell, New York University, USA
McLuhan was one of the first academics to recognize new opportunities offered by radio and television to reach audiences beyond the readerships of scholarly journals. This book focuses not so much on his media theory per se as on the habits and practices that animated his reading, and on the larger questions of what reading and not reading mean. New resources offer us an unprecedented opportunity to revisit one fallible human reader whose texts and ideas are good to think with (and against). Secrecy in Public Relations, Mediation and News Cultures
The Shadow World of the Media Sphere
Anne M. Cronin, Lancaster University, UK
Series: Routledge Focus on Media and Cultural Studies
This book investigates the relationship of secrecy as a social practice to contemporary media, news cultures and public relations. Drawing on Georg Simmel’s theorisation of how secrecy produces a ‘second world’ alongside the ‘obvious world’ and creates and reshapes social relations, Anne Cronin argues for close analysis of the PR industry as a powerful vector of secrecy and an examination of its relationship to news cultures. This book will appeal to students of public relations, sociology, media studies, cultural studies and communication studies. It will also be of interest to scholars and practitioners working at the intersections of media, social relations and public trust.

The Humanities Reloaded
Addressing Crisis
Edited by Keyan G. Tomasetti, University of Johannesburg, South Africa and Pier Paulo Frassinelli, University of Johannesburg, South Africa
This volume examines the crisis of humanities narratives in the context of neoliberal capitalism and of the emergence and consolidation of the metrics-driven, corporate, managerial university. Do narratives of the crisis of the humanities mobilize specific notions of value and prestige? How are these notions classed, gendered and racialized? How do narratives of the crisis of the humanities relate to current debates and contestations surrounding decolonization? The aim is to provide a counter-narrative of the present and future of the humanities. The Outsiders
Adolescent Tenderness and Staying Gold
Ann M. Ciasullo, Gonzaga, USA
Series: Cinema and Youth Cultures
This volume traces the unique trajectory of The Outsiders, from beloved book to beloved movie. Based on S.E. Hinton’s landmark novel, Coppola’s film adaptation tells the story of the Greasers, a gang of working-class boys yearning for security, love, and acceptance in a world ruled by their rival gang, the rich Socs. The book fills a gap in existing scholarship on youth culture, and is ideal for scholars, students and teachers in youth cultures, Young Adult literature, film studies, cultural studies, and gender studies.

Violence, Silence, and Rhetorical Cultures of Champion-Building in Sports

Kathleen Sandell Hardesty, Florida Polytechnic University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Rhetoric and Communication

This book takes a close look at systems and rhetorics of silencing in sports training, using the Larry Nassar abuse scandal as a case study. The author foregrounds victims’ voices through an analysis of victim impact statements and interviews to understand the institutional behaviors and actions both before and after the case caught public attention. The book also discusses norms, values, ideologies, and expected behaviors of youth and college sports programs as institutions to help describe "rhetorical cultures of champion-building." It offers new perspectives to students and scholars of sport communication, rhetoric, organizational communication, criminology, and feminist theory.

Harry Potter and Resistance
Beth Sutton-Ramspeck
Although rule breaking in Harry Potter is sometimes dismissed as a distraction from Harry’s fight against Lord Voldemort, Harry Potter and Resistance makes the case that it is central to the battle against evil. The aim of this book is to explore issues that speak to our era of heightened political awareness and resistance to intolerance. Its interdisciplinary approach draws on political science, psychology, philosophy, history, race studies, and women’s studies, as well as newer interdisciplinary fields such as resistance studies, disgust studies, and creativity studies.

6th Edition - TEXTBOOK - NEW EDITION
An Introduction to Literature, Criticism and Theory
Andrew Bennett, University of Bristol, UK and Nicholas Royle
Lively, original and highly readable, An Introduction to Literature, Criticism and Theory is the essential guide to literary studies. Starting at ‘The Beginning’ and concluding with ‘The End’, chapters range from the familiar, such as ‘Character’, ‘Narrative’ and ‘The Author’, to the more unusual, such as ‘Secrets’, ‘Pleasure’ and ‘Ghosts’. The sixth edition has been revised and updated throughout and includes four new chapters – ‘Literature’, ‘Loss’, ‘Human’ and ‘Migrant’. As well as fully up-to-date further reading sections at the end of each chapter, the book contains a comprehensive bibliography and an invaluable glossary of key literary terms.

3rd Edition - NEW EDITION
Ecocriticism
Greg Garrard, Bath Spa University, UK
Ecocriticism explores the ways in which we imagine the relationship between humans and the environment across many areas of cultural production, including Romantic poetry, wildlife documentaries, climate models, the Hollywood blockbuster The Day After Tomorrow, and novels by Margaret Atwood, Kim Scott, Barbara Kingsolver and Octavia Butler. Revisited to reflect the diversity of twenty-first-century environmental writing and criticism, this edition addresses climate change and justice, and features a new chapter on indigeneity. Concise, clear, and authoritative, Ecocriticism offers the ideal introduction to this crucial subject for students of literary and cultural studies.

Fictionality
Karen Petrofski
Series: The New Critical Idiom
Does fiction enhance reality or threaten our sense of what is real? What is special about experiencing fictional works and worlds? Today we speak casually of parallel universes and virtual reality, how much do we really know about what these phenomena involve? Fictionality explains how philosophers and literary theorists have approached these questions in the Western literary tradition from Greek antiquity to the present day, offering an accessible and comprehensive introduction to this field of increasing interest. Bringing together theoretical insights from a variety of perspectives, it will be an essential resource for anyone studying fictionality.

Shakespeare on Consent
Amanda Bailey
Series: Spotlight on Shakespeare
As the #MeToo movement extends its legal, social, and political reach around the world, the topic of consent has come under scrutiny. Shakespeare on Consent examines crises of consent on the early modern stage and argues that these dramatizations provide a framework for understanding the complex boundaries between coercion, complicity, and choice. Shakespeare on Consent is a wakeup call for all implicated in the injurious outcomes of consent and a source of inspiration for ingenious workarounds, instances of dissent, and even opportunities for social and political transformation.
Autofiction and Cultural Memory

Hywel Dix

Series: New Literary Theory

Drawing on examples from Algeria, Ethiopia, the Caribbean, the Americas, India and Turkey, Dix presents autofiction as a form which combines the life stories of authors with the collective struggles of their societies to restore to view historical injustices that have been marginalised and forgotten. By contributing to new forms of cultural memory, autofiction raises important questions about what we choose to remember and what we value in the present. This book will be of interest to anyone working in postcolonial studies, world literature, trauma studies, autobiography, life writing or social justice.

Rilke’s Hands

An Essay on Gentleness

Harold Schweizer

Series: Routledge Focus on Literature

This is a book of meditative reading. Each of the sixty-one aphoristic entries aims to interpret Rilke’s poetry as a musician might play Debussy’s Clair de lune, to transpose into the key of language the song, the melody, and the refrain of Rilke’s gentle disposition: his recognition of the transience of things; his acknowledgment of the vulnerability and fragility of people, animals, and flowers; his empathy toward those who suffer. The purpose of this essay is to experience and to examine gentleness, how it shapes and pervades Rilke’s work, how his poetry might gently inspire us to become more gentle people.

Meaning
Semantics, Pragmatics, Cognition

Betty J. Birner, Northern Illinois University, USA

Meaning addresses the fundamental question of human language interaction: what is it to mean, and how do we communicate our meanings to others. Experienced textbook writer and eminent researcher Betty J. Birner gives balanced coverage to semantics and pragmatics, emphasizing interactions between the two, and discusses other fields of language study such as syntax, neurology, philosophy of language, and artificial intelligence in terms of their interfaces with linguistic meaning. Appropriate for both undergraduate and graduate-level courses in semantics, pragmatics, and general linguistics, Meaning is essential reading for all students of linguistic meaning.

An Introduction

Lewis Gebhardt

Series: Routledge Guides to Linguistics

The Study of Words introduces the study of word structure, also known as morphology, without assuming any prior knowledge of linguistics. Introducing concepts in an accessible way, Gebhardt illustrates how to understand and produce both existing and new words.

Aimed at students at undergraduate level with no background in linguistics, The Study of Words is essential reading for those studying morphology for the first time as part of linguistics, language and general education courses.

The Routledge Handbook of Latin American Literary Translation

Edited by Delfina Cabrera and Denise Kripper

The Routledge Handbook of Latin American Literary Translation offers an understanding of translation in Latin America both at a regional and transnational scale. Broad in scope, it is devoted primarily to thinking comprehensively and systematically about the intersection of literary translation and Latin American literature, with a curated selection of original essays that critically engage with translation theories and practices outside of hegemonic Anglo centers. In this introductory volume, through survey and case-study chapters, contributing authors cover literary and cultural translation in the region historically, geographically, and linguistically.

Text and Performance in Contemporary British Theatre
Catherine Love
Text and Performance in Contemporary British Theatre investigates the paradoxical nature of theatre texts, which have been understood both as separate literary objects in their own right and as material for performance. Drawing on analysis of contemporary practitioners who are working creatively with text, this book re-examines the relationship between text and performance within the specific context of British theatre. Written for scholars, students and practitioners alike, this book provides an original perspective on one of the most enduring problems to occupy theatre practice and scholarship.

The Tamil Padam
A Dance Music Genre of South India
Matthew Allen

This book is a study of the Bharata Natyam dance genre "padam" and focuses on its patrons and composers and its formal structure, texts, and music. It examines the "rewriting" of South Indian dance and the decades-long debates over the classicization and ownership of South Indian music. The book will find an enthusiastic readership with dance teachers who are actively training Bharata Natyam students and will also attract a scholarly audience, as it is an anthropological and historical study of an artistic form, which has a very high profile in South Asia and has become prominent in the growing fields of dance ethnography and "world dance."

While the importance of reading books with children aged from 3 to 5 years is widely recognised, the benefits of reading with much younger children are less well understood. This book will explore the seemingly simple practice of reading picture books with infants and toddlers aged 0-3 years. Not only do book-focused adult-child interactions support language and early literacy development in multiple ways, such interactions can also foster intellectual, social, emotional and spiritual growth. By weaving together insights from several different discipline areas, this book will explain how and why reading with infants and toddlers has such power to enrich their lives.
Supporting Early Mathematical Development
Practical Approaches to Play-Based Learning
Caroline McGrath, City of Bristol College, UK

This is an essential text, combining theory and practice to enable successful mathematical education for children from birth to twelve years. It considers how students, academics, parents and professionals can develop their mathematical thinking practice whilst acknowledging we will always be practising the craft of teaching mathematics. Charting the delivery of mathematical development in Playgroups, Children’s Centres, Nurseries and Primary Schools, the book promotes an effective pedagogy for mathematics and places a fresh emphasis on mathematical literacy to empower children.

Designed and written by the SEFDEY Professional Association and a team of new expert contributors, this text provides a balanced approach to the subjects discussed and encourages you to consider and challenge perceptions of early years and to promote good professional practice. The book is supported by a companion website containing online support for lecturers, including ideas for tasks and activities to use in class and the diagrams and images in the book available to download.

Children and Interculturality in Education
Andreas Jacobsson, Karlstad University, Sweden, Heidi Layne, University of Jyväskylä, Finland and Fred Dervin, University of Helsinki, Finland

This book presents new perspectives on how to introduce interculturality to children. It proposes a concrete model for introducing sensitive topics around culture, race and intersectionality. The book develops the reader’s criticality and reflexivity, providing original and concrete tools to introduce interculturality to children and to make children aware of how intercultural issues matter in their lives and in the world. It includes case studies of children’s realities from across the world, and provides insights into how to approach sensitive topics such as culturalism, discrimination, inequality, racism, wealth and health in relation to diversity in different contexts.
Developing Child-Centred Practice for Safeguarding and Child Protection Strategies for Every Early Years Setting
Rachel Buckler
Placing children at the centre of safeguarding principles and practices is vital for ensuring the best child-protection. This resource provides early years practitioners with all that they need to be confident and competent as they fulfil their roles and obligations to safeguard children. It explores the main factors that impact on the lives of young children in the current safeguarding climate, and is a starting point for understanding the risks and categories of abuse and neglect. Grounded in best practice at every level, it gives practitioners encouragement and advice to help shape and drive practice forward with child-centred motives, practices, and perspectives.

Mathematics Lessons to Look Forward To!
20 favourite activities and themes for teaching ages 9 to 16
Jim Noble
This book is essential for anyone involved or thinking about being involved in teaching and learning mathematics at school. It is packed full of practical and fun lesson ideas and activities, combining the author’s infectious enthusiasm for school mathematics with the challenge of engaging students with the nature of the subject. Using humor, enthusiasm, and years of teaching expertise, Jim Noble presents the features and potential of ideas and experiments he has used in his classroom. Without preaching anything other than the joy of mathematics, this intelligent, humorous, and practical book will act as a catalyst for teachers looking to develop their own understanding and practice.

Drama and Writing Ages 5-11
A Practical Book of Ideas for Primary Teachers
Larraine S. Harrison
This book is a practical guide for teachers to develop and inspire writing through using drama in the classroom. Each of the chapters provides step-by-step guidance and creative prompts for writing that apply to both Key Stage One and Key Stage Two, enabling teachers to motivate their pupils through creating meaningful contexts, audiences, and purposes to encourage writing. Drama and Writing Ages 5-11 is an essential read for any primary school teacher seeking practical strategies to incorporate drama into the classroom, teaching the craft of writing in a creative, fun and meaningful way.

Measuring and Visualizing Space in Elementary Mathematics Learning
Richard Lehrer and Leona Schauble
This book explores the development of elementary students’ understanding of the mathematics of measure, a frequently overlooked topic in elementary mathematics education, and demonstrates how measurement can serve as an anchor for supporting a deeper understanding of number operations and rational numbers. Authors Lehrer and Schauble offer a unique, research-driven resource for helping students develop a deep understanding of measurement to further enhance mathematical understanding, as well as further learning in other STEM disciplines; the book will be relevant for scholars, teacher educators, and specialists in math education.

Handbook of Research on Science Education, Volume III
Edited by Norman G. Lederman, Dana L. Zeidler and Judith S. Lederman
Volume III of this landmark synthesis of research offers a comprehensive, state-of-the-art survey highlighting new and emerging research perspectives in science education. Building on the foundations set in Volumes I and II, Volume III provides a globally-minded, up-to-the-minute survey of the science education research community, and represents the diversity of the field. Each chapter has been updated with new research and new content, and Volume III has been further developed to include new and expanded coverage on astronomy and space education, college-level science teaching, design-based research, interdisciplinary and STEM education, and inclusive science education, among much more.

Parent Partnership in the Primary School
A practical guide for school leaders and other key staff
Nigel Bishop
Parent Partnership in the Primary School will enable you to evaluate your current practice in this crucial area of school life and provides practical, easy-to-follow steps to plan and deliver improvements successfully. The book explores five key principles for leaders, managers, teachers, support staff, volunteers and governors to focus on in their drive to engage all parents and carers as genuine partners in their child’s learning. Detailed case studies from six carefully selected schools, with which Bishop has worked as a consultant, exemplify some of the most successful techniques and programmes currently in use to facilitate parent partnership.
Re-imagining the Teaching of European History
Promoting Civic Education and Historical Consciousness
Edited by Cosme Jesús Gómez Carrasco, University of Murcia, Spain
This book explores the challenges of teaching European history in the 21st century and provides research-informed approaches to history teaching that combine civic education, historical consciousness and the teaching of controversial social issues. Ultimately, this volume promotes criticality, civic engagement, and reflection on social issues, thereby prompting methodological change in the teaching of history as we know it. It will appeal to researchers and students of history education, democratic education and citizenship education, as well as teacher educators and trainee teachers in history.

A Critical Introduction to Mathematics Education
Human Diversity and Equitable Instruction
Mark Wolfmeyer, Kutztown University of Pennsylvania
Series: Critical Introductions in Education
The second edition of Mark Wolfmeyer’s award-winning primer offers future and current math teachers an introduction to the connections that exist between mathematics and a critical orientation to education, one that accounts for race, social class, gender, sexuality, language diversity, and ability. Featuring concrete strategies and examples in both formal and informal educational settings, as well as discussion questions for teachers and students and suggestions for further reading, Wolfmeyer shows how critical mathematics education can be put into practice, relevant for undergraduate and graduate students in education, current teachers, and teacher educators.

So... What Does an Outstanding Teacher Do?
A Visible Learning Evidence Based Approach
Cat Chowdhary
What distinguishes an Outstanding Teacher? Many teachers will admit they don’t know what ‘Outstanding’ looks like. It isn’t something that can be achieved in a single lesson. It is a craft that needs to be developed. This guide expands on previous works by discussing long-term development, the benefits of embedding skills, learner attributes and the impact of COVID. Chowdhary provides teachers with guidance for enhancing practice that easily applies to any classroom. This book is a practical and accessible guide for any practising teacher, ECT or PGCE student who aspires to maximise their positive impact and become truly outstanding.

Visible Learning: The Sequel
A Synthesis of Over 2,100 Meta-Analyses Relating to Achievement
John Hattie, University of Melbourne
When the original Visible Learning published in 2008 it instantly became a publishing sensation. Interest in the book was unparalleled; it sold out in days and was described by the TES as revealing ‘teaching’s Holy Grail’. Now John Hattie returns to this ground-breaking work. The research underlying this book is now informed by more than 2,100 meta-analyses (more than double that of the original), drawn from more than 130,000 studies and involving more than 400 million students from all around the world. Building upon the success of original, this highly anticipated sequel expands Hattie's model of teaching and learning based on evidence of impact and is essential reading.

Disability as Meta Curriculum
Epistemologies, Ontologies, and Transformative Praxis
Edited by Gillian Paredes, York University, Canada, Elizabeth J. Grace, Independent Scholar and Nirmala Erevelles, University of Alabama, USA
This edited book makes an epistemic claim that disability studies approach to curriculum are doing more than merely critiquing how privileged knowledge excludes disability from curriculum theory and praxis. The scholars, in this volume, argue, instead, that Disability Studies embodies an epistemic space that not only demonstrates its difference from the normative curriculum, it exceeds curriculum’s confining boundaries. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal Curriculum Inquiry.

Creating Global Bonds, Grade 12

STEM Road Map for High School

Edited by Carla C. Johnson, Purdue University, USA; Janet B. Walton, North Carolina State University, USA and Erin E. Peters-Burton

Series: STEM Road Map Curriculum Series

What if you could challenge your twelfth-grade students to explore energy consumption and climate change in their own communities, and connect that information with other communities around the world? With Creating Global Bonds, you can! This interdisciplinary, three-lesson module uses project- and problem-based learning to help students create an action plan to address issues of energy consumption and climate change. Students will gather data on energy consumption and climate change in their communities, partnering with international students to undertake problem-solving activities that examine issues that are both common and unique to each community.

Working with Boys
Creating Cultures of Mutual Respect in Schools

Andrew Hampton

When peer-on-peer sexual abuse becomes commonplace in schools, society has a problem. The toxic attitudes and behaviour some boys display towards girls and women begin with the way those boys relate to each other, especially in school. This book offers an in-depth analysis of the problems facing boys and gives teachers the tools to help boys create relational cultures that are mutually respectful. Working with Boys is a whole-school, iterative programme of study: it is essential reading for school leaders and teachers who want to promote a school environment in which boys are consistently principled, honourable, noble, trustworthy, upright and dignified.

Guiding Kids Through the Tough Moments
Techniques to Build a Space Where Children Can Thrive

Mark Le Messurier, Education consultant, Australia

This book centres around those moments when we must get involved, or call a child out on an unsafe, careless, or selfish action. It provides guidance for navigating the commotion and the processes, as well as the grit required in the tougher moments. It’s these moments that reveal what is really happening between children and their parents, educators, or carers. The book outlines a special set of attitudes and skills described as using our ‘soft eyes and warm hearts’. In this space, we hold a child or teen accountable using an almost counterculture mindset. One that connects leadership and strength, directly with kindness.

Assessment for Inclusion in Higher Education
Promoting Equity and Social Justice in Assessment
Edited by Rola Ajaw, Deakin University, Australia, Joanna Tai, David Boud and Trina Jarre de St Jarre
Bringing together international authors to examine how diversity and inclusion impact assessment in higher education, this book provides educators with the knowledge and understanding required to transform practices so that they are more equitable and inclusive of diverse learners.
This book is essential reading for those in higher education who design and deliver assessment, as well as researchers and postgraduate students exploring assessment, equity and inclusive pedagogy.

Be Visible Or Vanish
Engage, Influence, and Ensure Your Research Has Impact
Inger Mewburn, ANU, Australia and Simon Clews
Series: Insider Guides to Success in Academia
In this insightful book, the authors look at some of the most common presentation scenarios that researchers will face when talking about their work. Starting in academia with the deceptively simple art of writing a good email and working through lectures, conference presentations and lightening talks, the book then moves ‘off campus’ and explores talking to the media, making elevator pitches, and creating an effective digital presence on social media.
This text will be invaluable for students, academics and researchers hoping to effectively communicate complex information in a way that can be understood and appreciated by their peers, colleagues and the wider world.

Equitable Adult Learning
Four Transformative Organizations Serving Diverse Communities
Edited by Bob Hughes, Seattle University, Deanna Iceman Sands, Seattle University and Ted Kalmus, Seattle University
This book provides case studies written by practitioners from four organizations serving diverse adult learners in equitable, inclusive, and just ways. Their work employs an adapted version of the Education Deans for Justice and Equity Framework for Assessment and Transformation, a comprehensive tool grounded in research on equity and justice. The editors situate this book in the history and need for increased equity and justice in adult education. This book will appeal to academics in adult education, social justice education, qualitative research methods, and organizational development.

Inclusive College Classrooms
Teaching Methods for Diverse Learners
Edited by Anna M. Kelly, Lisa Padden and Bairbre Fleming
Revealing higher education inclusive practice in action, this key title showcases a range of international case studies from a number of universities in order to highlight approaches to developing a culture of access and inclusion. It provides detailed information on how to transform institutional commitment to access and diversity into systemic change and the creation of a university for all. Providing a whole-institution perspective of student access and inclusion, citing case studies and sharing real world experience, this book appeals to academic leaders, faculty and professionals in higher education, as well as policy makers.

Mindfulness-Based Teaching and Learning
Preparing Mindfulness Specialists in Education and Clinical Care
Seonagh MacPherson, University of the Fraser Valley, British Columbia, Canada and Patricia Rockman, University of Toronto, Ontario, Canada
Mindfulness-Based Teaching and Learning is the first comprehensive survey text exploring the history, research, theory, and best practices of secular-scientific mindfulness. With a focus on how mindfulness is taught and learned, this book is an invaluable resource for aspiring or expert mindfulness specialists. Chapters provide curriculum design and teaching tips, explore the expert-validated MBTL-TCF competency framework, and reveal insights into the ways self-awareness can evolve into ecological awareness through intensive retreats.
Practising Compassion in Higher Education
Caring for Self and Others Through Challenging Times
Edited by Narelle Lemon, Swinburne University of Technology, Australia, Heidi Harju-Luukkainen, University of Helsinki, Finland and Susanne Garvis, Swinburne University of Tech, Australia
Series: Wellbeing and Self-care in Higher Education
This book presents an opportunity to learn through story and by taking proactive action for our wellbeing. It highlights the need to protect and maintain the wellbeing of staff and students, positioning the Covid-19 pandemic as a major catalyst of disruption. The chapters connect theory with lived experience, exploring self-compassion in work and research, compassion in teaching practice and within the personal/professional blur. The book’s contributors bring a range of theoretical and personal perspectives from various global contexts, sharing their own approaches to self-care and how compassion has become a central and crucial element of this practice.

Women Practicing Resilience, Self-care and Wellbeing in Academia
International Stories from Lived Experience
Edited by Ida Fatimawati Adi Radiozaman, Swinburne University of Technology Sarawak Campus, Malaysia, Voon Mung Ling, Swinburne University of Technology Sarawak Campus, Malaysia and Kiran deep Sandhu
Series: Wellbeing and Self-care in Higher Education
Through a lens of self-care and wellbeing, this book shares stories of struggle and success from a diverse range of women in academia. Each story highlights how these women mitigated and overcame various barriers as part of their academic trajectory and provides practical strategies for maintaining self-care and wellbeing. Taken from lived experience, the autoethnographic narrative approach provides a deeper, personal understanding of the obstacles faced by women throughout an academic career and guidance on how these might be navigated in a way that avoids self-sacrificing.

Workplace Learning for Changing Social and Economic Circumstances
Edited by Helen Bound, Centre for Work and Learning at the Institute for Adult Learning, Singapore, Anne Edwards, Oxford University, United Kingdom, Karen Evans, University College London, United Kingdom and Arthur Chia, Institute of Adult Learning, Singapore
Series: Routledge-IAL Series on Adult Learning for Emergent Jobs and Skills
At the heart of this book is the rapid pace of change, the need to invest in and create good jobs and support the learning that this entails. It brings together a range of socio-cultural perspectives to examine the hard issues in relation to digitalisation, identity, work design, and affordances for learning, mediated by the ecosystems within which work, and the workplace is positioned. It uncovers assumptions about where the responsibility for workplace learning lies, and explains what it means for both practitioners and researchers. An appealing resource to graduate and post-graduate students, academics and practitioners such as adult educators, and human resource personnel.

Non-Linear Perspectives on Teacher Development
Complexity in Professional Learning and Practice
Edited by Kathryn J. Strom, California State University East Bay, USA, Tammy Mills, University of Maine, USA and Linda Abrams, New Jersey City University, USA

Despite the multifaceted complexity of teaching, dominant perspectives conceptualize teacher development in linear, dualistic, transactional, human-centric ways. The authors in this book offer non-linear alternatives by drawing on a continuum of complex perspectives, including CHAT, complexity theory, actor network theory, indigenous studies, rhizomatics, and posthuman/neomaterialisms. This book provides conceptual, theoretical, and methodological tools to understand current educational conditions in late capitalism and imagine otherwise. Creating Third Spaces of Learning for Post-Capitalism
Lessons from Educators and Activists

Gary L. Anderson, New York University, Dipti Desai, New York University, USA, Ana Inés Heras and Carol Anne Spreen

Series: Critical Social Thought

In this book, the authors’ postcapitalist approach to change focuses less on what we need to dismantle, and more on what educators and activists are building in its place. Studying schools and other social organizations in the global north and south, the authors identify and examine some of the most interesting counterhegemonic spaces in both formal and informal education today. This book is well suited to graduate and upper-level undergraduate courses in politics of education, sociology of education, education policy, as well as the humanities, sociology, political science and the arts.

Pedagogy of Global Events
Insights from Concerts, Film Festivals and Social Network Happenings

Timothy J. Patterson, Temple University, USA and William Gaudelli, Lehigh University, USA

Pedagogy of Global Events explores a relatively new phenomenon of cultural events designed to bring attention to global problems and spark action. This case-based analysis addresses a range of events to consider questions about what it means to educate the wider public about significant global challenges, the meaning and limits of these efforts, and how media refracts these experiences. By offering rare empirical analyses of global events, this book is valuable reading for organizers and attendees alike.

Possibilities and Complexities of Decolonising Higher Education
Critical Perspectives on Praxis

Edited by Aneta Hayes, Keele University, UK, Kathy L叔叔t, University of Cape Town, South Africa and Greg William Misiaszek, Beijing Normal University, China

This book highlights the possibilities and complexities of putting decolonial theory to work in higher education in Northern and Southern contexts across the globe. It looks at decolonial work as praxis involving transformation at a range of levels from theoretical development, national policy, institutional policy and culture, academic discipline, programme, course, classroom, student and the self. The approach offered in this book emphasises the connection between significant personal change as a pre-condition for concrete transformative teaching strategies, resources and practices. It was originally published as a special issue of the journal Teaching in Higher Education.

The Impact of Extreme Weather on School Education
Protecting School Communities

Edited by Brendan Hyndman and Jennifer Vanos

This book introduces an emerging area of research exploring the influence of extreme weather events on school systems. Chapters explore a range of extreme weather events such as snowstorms, bushfires, extreme winds, heavy rainfall and prolonged heat waves, and their potentially widespread impacts. It also covers key challenges faced by schools, including how to protect students, levels of teacher preparation to counter extreme weather conditions and how students’ learning is impacted by extreme weather patterns. Drawing on a broad range of research in this field, this book will appeal to environmental and educational researchers.

Educational Necropolitics
A Sonic Ethnography of Everyday Racisms in U.S. Schools
Boni Wozolek, Penn State, Abington, USA

Educational Necropolitics details the capacity for schools and systems of schooling to dictate whose ways of being can survive and to what degree they may remain intact. Drawing from this important framework, the book uses stories, sounds, and powerful images collected through a sonic ethnographic study with students of color to understand how they negotiated overwhelmingly white high school spaces. Chapters follow the heartbreaking journeys that are the daily lives of youth as they encounter forms of violence through what schools intend to teach, what is left out, what is learned through everyday interactions, and what is valued through the broader emergent cultural contexts.

The Behavioural Learning Classroom
Making Schools More Effective and Compassionate
Graham Mallard, University of Bath, UK

Teachers are virtually never taught how learners make decisions about studying, concentration and participation, and are not able to find this in education literature. The Behavioural Learning Classroom breaks new ground, allowing teachers to harness their students’ traits and quirks to produce a more effective and compassionate classroom. Supported by fundamental findings in behavioural science, this book provides practical, accessible, tried and tested techniques to improve the mental wellbeing of pupils and teachers alike. It is an enjoyable and accessible read for any teacher or school leader who wants to enhance their pupils’ experience of learning.

Foundations of Education
Essential Texts and New Directions
Edited by Susan F. Semel, The City College of New York and The Graduate Center of CUNY, USA, Molly Vollman Makris, Guttman Community College - City University of New York and Cara Kronen, Borough of Manhattan Community College - City University of New York

This book helps aspiring teachers interpret the craft of teaching within the historical, philosophical, cultural, and social contexts of education, inside and outside of schools. As a traditional social foundations reader, it focuses on the origins of the social foundations’ disciplines, but it also includes contemporary pieces that directly impact students’ lives today. Through these carefully curated readings, students will grasp the complexity and connection between contemporary issues in education. By addressing the past, present, and future of social foundations, this volume contends skillfully with ever-shifting education policies and school demographics.

A Leadership Playbook for Addressing Rapid Change in Education
Empowered for Success

Teresa L. San Martin

A Leadership Playbook for Addressing Rapid Change in Education provides educational leaders with a simple, step-by-step approach for addressing rapid change. Detailed examples are provided that show how school administrators are able to solve relevant, problems of practice such as how to create productive and focused high school teacher teams, how educational leaders can increase teacher retention, and how district administrators can provide innovative and meaningful staff development opportunities. This timely book equips school administrators with the tools necessary to confront perpetual change occurring in today's complex educational environment.

School Leaders Matter
Preventing Burnout, Managing Stress, and Improving Wellbeing

Helen Kelly

This book outlines practical steps that both government and schools can implement to significantly reduce the demands placed upon school leaders. It also provides highly effective tools and strategies to enable school leaders to reflect upon and improve their own wellbeing. Packed full of research-led approaches this book examines school leader burnout, what causes it, how to recognise it and how to prevent it. The book reflects on why school leaders fail to prioritise their own needs and how this can be addressed. A must-read book for all school leaders and those looking to support and improve school leader wellbeing.

Sensory Affect, Learning Spaces and Design Education Strategies for Reflective Teaching and Student Engagement in Higher Education

Lorraine Marshalsey

Through the lens of sensory affect, this book offers a new way of thinking about day-to-day teaching and student engagement within learning spaces in design education. The book examines the definitions, concepts, ideas and overlaps of a repertoire of learning spaces prevalent in higher education and addresses the pedagogical gap that exists between broader learning structures and spaces, and the requirements of specialist design education. This book will be of interest to educators, researchers and post graduate students immersed in design education, pedagogy and learning spaces more broadly.
Constructing Online Work-Based Learning Placements
Approaches to Pedagogy, Design, Planning and Implementation
Lisa Taylor

This text offers a step-by-step approach to understanding and applying the principles of design and delivery in online work-based learning (WBL) placements for students. This evidence-based book explores the emergent properties and additional value that online WBL placements provide to student learning and employability prospects, focusing on effective pedagogy, design, planning, and implementation. It also presents the Peer Enhanced e-Placement (PEEP), which has been adapted and adopted by numerous higher education teams organizing online WBL placements, and the case example included in these pages will guide readers through their own implementation and collaborations.

Anti-Black Literacy Laws and Policies

Arlette Ingram Willis, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

This groundbreaking book uncovers how anti-Black racism has informed and perpetuated anti-literacy laws, policies, and customs from the colonial period to the present day. A counter-narrative of the history of Black literacy in the United States, the book’s historical lens reveals the interlocking political and social structures that have repeatedly failed to support equity in literacy for Black students. A definitive history of the instructional and legal structures that have harmed generations of Black people, this text is essential for scholars, students, and policymakers in literacy education, reading research, history of education, and social justice education.

English Language Teacher Education in Changing Times

Perspectives, Strategies, and New Ways of Teaching and Learning

Edited by Liz England, Shenandoah University, USA, Lia D. Kamhi-Stein and Georgios Kompas

This volume addresses challenges that the field of English language teacher education has faced in the past several years. The global pandemic has caused extreme stress and has also served as a catalyst for new ways of teaching, learning, and leading. Educators have relied on their creativity and resiliency to identify innovative teaching practices and insights that inform the profession going forward. Contributors describe how teacher educators have responded to the specific needs and difficulties of educators through and teaching second language learners in challenging circumstances around the world and how these innovations can transform education going forward into the future.

In Pursuit of a Multilingual Equity Agenda
SFL Teacher Action Research

Edited by Meg Gebhard and Kathryn Accurso
Series: Language, Culture, and Teaching Series

This critical volume provides accessible examples of how K-12 teachers use systemic functional linguistics (SFL) and action research to support the disciplinary literacy development of diverse learners in the context of high stakes school reform. This volume – intended for pre- and in-service teachers – aims to improve educators’ professional development through critical SFL pedagogy, and helps teachers combat racism and anti-immigrant rhetoric by contributing to an equity agenda in their schools.

Clarity and Coherence in Academic Writing
Using Language as a Resource

David Nunan and Julie Choi, University of Melbourne, Australia

This book presents a lively, rich, and concise introduction to the key concepts and tools for developing clarity and coherence in academic writing. Well-known authors and linguists David Nunan and Julie Choi provide examples of the linguistic procedures that writers can draw on to enhance clarity and coherence for their readers. This resource makes complex concepts accessible to the emergent writer and illustrates how these concepts can be applied to their own writing. In-text projects and tasks invite you, the reader, to experiment with principles and ideas in developing your identity and voice as a writer.

Innovations in Literacy Professional Learning
Strengthening Equity, Access, and Sustainability

Edited by Heather Hanney Aiken and Steve Amendum

Too often, professional learning (PL) efforts fail to help teachers develop and deeply engage with their work. This book describes keys to providing effective, sustainable literacy PL that values teachers over test scores and capitalizes on social networks and communities. The volume presents case studies of transformational initiatives tailored to culturally and linguistically diverse populations of teachers and students, varying school resources, and key factors. Issues of access and equity are emphasized throughout the discussions of in-person, hybrid, and remote PL models. The companion website features brief videos in which chapter authors comment on their respective topics.

Canadian Conservative Political Thought
Edited by Lee Trepapier and Richard Avramenko

This book corrects an imbalance in Canadian political literature through offering a conservative account of Canadian political thought. Across 15 chronologically organized chapters, the book offers an investigation of the defining features and characteristics of Canadian conservative political thought. Rather than its culmination, Canadian Conservative Political Thought will be the beginning of conservative political thought's recovery and will spark debates and future research. The book will be a great resource for courses on Canadian politics, history, political philosophy and conservatism, Canadian Studies, and political theory.

Conventional Military Strategy in the Third Nuclear Age
Joy Mitra

Series: International Politics in the Age of Disruption

This volume delves into the way conventional deterrence operates between nuclear-armed states in the third nuclear age. Unlike the first and second ages the advent of this new age has witnessed greater strain on the principles of mutual vulnerability and survivability that may result in increased risks of adventurist or inadvertent escalation and horizontal nuclear proliferation. It looks at the sum of three key simultaneous developments in the third nuclear age that merit attention. These include the emergence of asymmetric strategies, introduction of unmanned platforms and the expansion of nuclear arsenals.

Examining US-China-Russia Foreign Relations
Gregory O. Hall, University of Kentucky, USA

Examining US-China-Russia Foreign Relations explores the changing nature of the US-China-Russia strategic triangle from the end of the Cold War up to the present. It uses neoclassical realist international relations theory to argue that since the mid-2000s, the politics of the strategic triangle are increasingly influenced by factors related to the Big3 countries' respective domestic environments. Incorporating both theoretical and empirical data to offer a fresh and timely look at the myriad challenges facing the three powers, this book provides an excellent companion to students of foreign policy, international security, and post-Cold War international politics.

Fixing Broken Cities
John Kromer, University of Pennsylvania, USA

Fixing Broken Cities explores the planning, execution, and impact of urban repopulation and investment strategies that were launched in the wake of two crises: late twentieth-century economic disinvestment and the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic. Based on the author's experience as a policymaker and practitioner, this book provides detailed insights into the origins and outcomes of these high-risk strategies, along with an explanation of why they succeeded or failed. This new edition will be of great use to planning, housing and community development professionals, both regionally and nationally, as well as to students on Urban Politics and Planning courses.

Government Contracting

Ethical Promises and Perils in Public Procurement

William Sims Curry, WSC Consulting, Chico, California, USA

Series: ASPA Series in Public Administration and Public Policy

This third edition incorporates the results of a new nationwide study into best public procurement practice, as well as recent examples of real-world procurement fraud cases, offering recommendations for procurement practices to deter fraud. Public procurement tools such as requests for proposals, proposal evaluation forms, sole source justification and approval forms, and other useful tools including PowerPoint presentations are provided on a website to accompany the book. This textbook is aimed at postgraduate students and academics working in the fields of public administration, policy and procurement, along with public procurement professionals.

How Realist Is India’s National Security Policy?

Edited by Kanti Bajpai

In managing national security, how Realist is India in terms of cultivating and using power and especially military power? A conventional view of India is that it has been uncomfortable with Realism or ‘power politics’ as a guide to policy. This volume shows that been more Realist than is generally recognized and that it has increasingly become comfortable with power in the service of its interests. It will be indispensable to researchers of politics and international relations, defence and strategic studies, and South Asian studies and to government officials, journalists, and readers interested in the external dimensions of India’s national security.

Racial Equity, COVID-19, and Public Policy

The Triple Pandemic

Edited by Elsie L. Harper-Anderson, Virginia Commonwealth University, USA, Jay S. Albanese, Virginia Commonwealth University, USA and Susan T. Gooden, Virginia Commonwealth University, USA

This book focuses on the health, economic, and justice impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on racial equity. It does not simply document the problems made worse by the pandemic, but it provides historical context for issues that rose to the surface in new ways, the existing inequities revealed during COVID-19, and policy responses to those issues. This book responds to audiences seeking a better understanding of the events that occurred, the conditions that set the stage for their eruption into wider public view, and what might be done to prevent social and racial inequities in the future.

Amos Oz’s Two Pens
Between Literature and Politics
Edited by Arie M. Dubnov, The George Washington University, USA
This volume revisits Amos Oz’s two pens: he is a parable of various disciplines who ask Amos Oz’s dual role in Israeli culture and society as an immensely popular novelist and a leading public intellectual. Next to offering an intellectual portrait, the chapters in this book highlight some of Oz’s seminal works, examine their reception, evaluate key political and literary debates he was involved in, as well as trace some of the connections between the two realms of his activity. These chapters were originally published as special issues of Journal of Israeli History. This book comes with a new afterword by Lilach Nethanel.

Judicial Activism in an Age of Populism
Edited by Sonja Grover, Lakehead University, Canada
This book explores the range of meanings attributed to the terms ‘judicial activism’ and ‘populism’ in contemporary times and examines the potential interplay between these two phenomena. Drawing upon various political examples, it discusses the implications of populist movements for democratic institutions, policies, and processes.

Judicial Activism in an Age of Populism will be a beneficial read for students of Politics, Sociology, Public Administration and Management, and Law and Society. It was originally published as a special issue of The International Journal of Human Rights.

Making and Unmaking Refugees
Geopolitics of Social Ordering and Struggle within the Global Refugee Regime
Edited by Kara E. Dempsey, Appalachian State University, USA and Orhon Myadar
This book examines the politics of making and unmaking refugees at various scales by probing the contradictions between the principles of international statecraft, which focus on the national/state level approach in regulating global forced displacement, and the forces that defy this state-based approach. It explores the ways by which the current global refugee categorizes and excludes millions of people who need protection.

This highly engaging and informative volume will be of interest to policymakers, academics and students concerned with global migration, refugee governance and crises. The chapters were originally published as a special issue of Geopolitics.

Resilience of Democracy
Responses to Illiberal and Authoritarian Challenges
Edited by Anna Lührmann, University of Gothenburg, Sweden and Wolfgang Merkel
Illiberalism and authoritarianism have become major threats to democracy across the world. In response to this development, research on the causes and processes of democratic declines has blossomed. Much less scholarly attention has been devoted to the issue of democratic resilience. Why are some democracies more resilient than others to the current trend of autocratization? What role do institutions, actors and structural factors play in this regard? What options do democratic actors have to address illiberal and authoritarian challenges? This book addresses all these questions. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Democratization.

Resilient Communities of Central Eurasia
Responding to Change, Complexity and the Visions of ‘The Good Life’
Edited by Elena Korosteleva and Irina Petrova
This book argues for the need to rethink governance through the lens of ‘resilience as self-governance’. Building on complexity-thinking, it contends that in the context of change and complex life, challenges are most efficiently dealt with, at the source, ‘locally’, to make ‘the global’ more responsive and sustainable. This book will be of great value to students and scholars in the fields of Politics including Eurasian politics and the various aspects of Governance. Most of the chapters in this book were published as a special issue of Cambridge Review of International Affairs.

The Nature of Japanese Governance and Seikai-Tensin in Postwar Japan
Nara Park, Yonsei University, Republic of Korea
Series: Routledge Focus on Public Governance in Asia
What shapes characteristics and types of state governance in a specific country? How do they change over time? More importantly, what will they look like in the near and far future? This book addresses these fundamental yet timely questions by introducing and analysing a distinctive group of Japanese statesmen: Seikai-Tensin which means one’s transformation into politicians in Japanese. It looks at the Japanese developmental state through a time-series analysis on historical data to determine the dynamic pattern of a prototype developmental state. It will interest those researching on governance, comparative politics, government bureaucracy and public policy.

The Routledge International Handbook of Critical Philanthropy and Humanitarianism

Edited by Katharyne Mitchell and Polly Pallister-Wilkins, University of Amsterdam, Netherlands

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This handbook builds a shared understanding of the troubling politics of philanthropy and the disturbing history and practices of humanitarianism. In this book, contributors link the long history of colonial philanthropy to current foundations and their programs in education, health, migrant care and other social initiatives. Discussing philanthropy and humanitarianism together, combining both historical scope and contemporary iterations, highlights continuities and convergences—making the volume a unique introduction and critical overview of critical work in these sister-fields.

Women of Color Political Elites in the U.S.

Intersectional Political Experiences

Edited by Nadia E. Brown, Perdue University, USA, Christopher J. Clark and Anna Mitchell Mahoney

This volume presents a detailed and in-depth examination of women of color political elites in the United States in varying levels of office and non-elected positions. Through innovative data, novel theoretical frameworks, and compelling arguments, the chapters explore how women of color political elites are changing, challenging, or upending the status quo in American politics. Beyond an additive approach of either race or gender the authors employ an intersectional lens to explore the complexities of governing, running for office, adjudicating, in a diversifying America. This book was originally published as a special issue of Journal of Women, Politics, and Policy.

Negotiating Resilience with Hard and Soft City

Edited by Binti Singh, KRVA, Mumbai, India, Tania Berger and Manoj Parmar, KRVA, Mumbai, India
Series: Urban Futures

This book explores how cities are shaped by the lived experiences of inhabitants and examines the ways they develop strategies to cope with daily and unexpected challenges. It argues that migration, livelihood, and public health challenges result from inadequacies in the hard city—urban assets, such as land, infrastructure and housing—and asserts that these challenges and escalating vulnerabilities are best negotiated using the soft city—social capital and community networks.

African Epistemology
Essays on Being and Knowledge
Edited by Peter Aghonog Ikhane and Isaac E. Ulkpokolo
Series: Routledge Studies in African Philosophy
This book investigates how knowledge is conceived and explored within the African context. Epistemology, or the philosophical theory of knowledge, has historically been dominated by Western philosophers, but this book shines a much-needed spotlight on knowledge systems originating within the African continent. This important guide to the connections between knowledge and being, in African philosophical thought, will be an important resource for researchers and students of philosophy and African Studies.

United Nations Peace Operations in Africa
Civil-Military Coordination and State-Building
Saleem Ahmad Khan, Dhaka, Bangladesh

<td>Inland Waterway Transport: The European Legal Framework</td> <td>Massimiliano Grimaldi</td>
<td>This book analyses the European legal framework on inland water transport in light of the most recent legislation adopted and how the main Member States of Central Western Europe have implemented it. Specifically, the book provides an innovative tool of analytical and systematic study of the various legislative EU measures that regulate the inland waterways transport sector, as well as for the comparative study and analysis of the relevant measures of implementation adopted by the afore-mentioned Member States. Furthermore, the book is very useful for policy-makers of countries that are not members of the European Union.</td>

<tr>
<td>Judicial Responsibility and Coups d’État: Judging Against Unconstitutional Upsumption of Power</td>
<td>Kiangsak Kittichaisaree</td>
<td>This book examines the responsibility of judges of domestic courts following unconstitutional usurpation of power of government (coups d’état). It explores judges’ liability for failing to discharge their judicial duty independently and impartially, and the criminality of usurpers and their accomplices and collaborators for their violation of fundamental rights and freedoms. The book will be essential reading for legal professionals, and students and researchers in constitutional law, law and political science, public international law, international human rights law, international criminal law, regime changes, transitional justice and international organizations.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knock-for-Knock Indemnities and the Law: Contractual Limitation and Delictual Liability</td>
<td>Edited by Kristoffer Svendsen, Endre Stavang and Greg Gordon</td>
<td>This book examines contractual limitation, principles and practice through the use of knock-for-knock indemnity clauses. In using such clauses, the parties agree that for certain forms of potential liability – typically property damage, personal injury to employees, and sometimes other heads of claim such as consequential loss – any loss arising will be absorbed by the party who suffers it: “you look after your losses, I’ll look after mine.” It is an apparently simple, pragmatic and neat solution to the question of who bears liability: a risk allocation model so straightforward that it was described by one experienced English judge, Honorable Mr. Justice Morris, as “crude.”</td>

<tr>
<td>Managing International Trade Risk: Customs, Revenue and VAT Compliance</td>
<td>Mark Rowbotham</td>
<td>This book provides readers with an expert guide to measure, quantify and address customs, VAT and international trade risk, especially with a view to maximising the efficiency of both trade practice and the governance and collection of national revenue associated with the regulation and control of cross-border trade. Introduction to Customs, VAT and International Trade Risk Management is written for customs and VAT practitioners, lawyers, policy-makers, industry and financial professionals (international trade, tax and finance), scholars, lecturers, quasi-government organisations and Government departments (Treasury, Tax), as well as Chambers of Commerce.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Merchant Ship’s Seaworthiness: Law and Practice</td>
<td>Xiankai Zhan and Pengfei Zhang</td>
<td>The seaworthiness of merchant ships plays a critical role in ensuring the safety of life and property and the prevention of marine pollution. It deals with the fitness and readiness of a ship and its fundamental ability to sail safely to its destination. The standards of seaworthiness extend to literally all aspects of a ship, including the human element, physical structure, documentation, cargo worthiness and so on. It is one of the most complicated concepts in the maritime regulatory regime, and it takes many forms. The book is written to meet the needs of lawyers, maritime professionals and academics, to thoroughly explain the concept of seaworthiness and the relevant legal issues.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Digital Rights Delusion: Humans, Machines and the Technology of Freedom</td>
<td>Andrea Monti, Gabriele d’Annunzio University of Chieti, Italy</td>
<td>This book examines the ever-increasing impact of technology on our lives and explores a range of legal and constitutional questions that this raises. It considers the extent to which concepts such as ‘cyberspace’ and ‘digital rights’ advance or undermine our understanding of this development and proposes a number of novel approaches to the effective protection of our rights in this rapidly evolving environment. Finally, it shows how the abuse of the adjective digital has demoted legal rights into subjective and individual claims. The work will be of particular interest to scholars of privacy, artificial intelligence, free speech, as well as policymakers and the general reader.</td>

Maritime Salvage Operations and Environmental Protection

Durand Martin Cupido

Series: Routledge Research on the Law of the Sea

This book questions the use of salvage law as legal regulatory framework for the remuneration of environmental services in salvage operations, proposing that such services should be based on direct contracting between commercial salvors and coastal States. Adopting an environment-first approach, it argues that direct contracting better serves and promotes environmental protection outcomes. It also takes a functional view of the law as a tool to promote values and sought outcomes. Salvage operations are recognised as a first line of defence against pollution following shipping incidents.

Regulating the Metaverse

A Critical Assessment

Ignas Kalpokas, Vytautas Magnus University, Lithuania and Julija Kalpokiene

Series: Routledge Research in the Law of Emerging Technologies

The metaverse seems to be on everybody’s lips – and yet, very few people can actually explain what it means or why it is important. This book aims to fill the gap from an interdisciplinary perspective informed by law and media and communications studies. Going beyond the optimism emanating from technology companies and venture capitalists, the authors critically evaluate the antecedents and the building blocks of the metaverse, the design and regulatory challenges that need to be solved, and commercial opportunities that are yet to be fully realised.

International Responses to Gendered-Based Domestic Violence
Gender-Specific and Socio-Cultural Approaches
Edited by Dongling Zhang, Webster University, Missouri and Diana Scharff Peterson
This book represents a joint effort by international experts to analyze the prevalence and nature of gender-based domestic violence across the globe and how it is dealt with at both national and international levels. With studies being conducted in 20 different countries and four distinct regions, the contributors to this volume shed light on the ways in which contextual particularities shape the practices and strategies of addressing the socio-cultural and legal problem of gender-based domestic violence in the countries or regions where they do research. The book is intended for a wide range of scholars (both professors and students) and practitioners in a large number of areas.

Sexual Violence Policies and Sexual Consent Education at Canadian Post-Secondary Institution

D. Scharie Tavcer, Scharie Tavcer teaches at Mount Royal University, and Vicky Dobkins

This book is the culmination of three years of research into sexual violence policies and sexual consent education at post-secondary institutions across Canada. The prevalence of sexual violence has not changed in more than 30 years, and its reporting to police or school authorities has only waxed and waned over those years. In response, this book asks what can be done differently to reduce the number of victims and potential perpetrators? The book provides an environmental scan of over 120 post-secondary institutions (PSIs) across Canada as well as a deeper analysis of 7 PSIs that also include student and staff experiences and opinions.

Women of Piracy

Brittany VandeBerg, The University of Alabama, USA

Series: Feminist Criminology

Drawing from an interdisciplinary body of research and data, Women of Piracy employs a criminological lens to explore how women have been involved in, and impacted by, maritime piracy operations from the 16th century to present day piracy off the coast of Somalia. The book challenges and resists popular understandings of women as peripheral to the criminal enterprise of piracy by presenting and analyzing their roles and experiences as victims, perpetrators, and criminal justice actors, showing that women have been, and continue to be, central figures in maritime piracy.

Bankers Like Us
Dispatches from an Industry in Transition
Leda Glyptis
The world is going digital. And so is banking. In fits, starts and circles. Why is it so hard? Why is the industry constantly getting in the way of its own technological progress and what can we do about it all? This book looks at the human and structural obstacles to innovation-driven transformation and at the change in habits, mindsets and leadership needed for the next stage of the digital journey and argues that this change will be brought about, not by external heroes and saviours, but by a generation yet to be born, but people just like us. People who understand the industry and its quirks. Bankers who have the grit, determination and energy to drive change. Bankers like us.

De-Stress at Work
Understanding and Combating Chronic Stress
Simon L. Dolan
Burn-out, excessive hours, office politics, handling complaints, isolated remote working, complex and inefficient processes – this book addresses the full complexities of chronic stress at work. It explains the potential for emotional and physical illness resulting from work, and importantly, presents ways in which occupational health and worker wellbeing can be enhanced through strengthening chronic stress diagnosis and promoting resilience. Drawing on 40 years of research in collaboration with some of the best-known occupational stress gurus, Simon L. Dolan translates abstract concepts of chronic stress into practical guidance for enhancing resilience in a VUCA world.

Interpersonal Communication in the Diverse Workplace Get Along, Get It Done, Get Ahead
Geraldine Hynes
Foregrounding the vital importance of interpersonal communication and cultural competence in the workplace, this book offers concise, practical strategies for daily communication in a global business environment. The workplace is steadily becoming more diverse, and cultural competence is widely recognized as a key to success, in terms of revenue, profit, market share, and workforce productivity. This and diversity appreciation are the two cornerstones for effective interpersonal communication, facilitating relationship development, improving job satisfaction, commitment, loyalty, and trust, and leading to performance and organizational success.

Leading and Transforming Organizations
Navigating the Future
Kumaran Rajaram, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore
Businesses must stay agile and be responsive to the complexities and disruptions brought about by digital transformation. The recent pandemic has also accelerated business digitization. Packed with insights and strategies, this book breaks down the roadmaps to organizational success into core areas. It explains how companies can adapt, prepare and optimise their business performance through strategic positioning, business sustainability and crisis management. It will be an excellent, essential guide for leaders, practitioners and anyone who is formulating effective organizational strategies.

Managing and Strategising Global Business in Crisis
Resolve, Resilience, Return, Re-imagination and Reform
Edited by Asish Gupta, Jitender Kumar and Suraksha Gupta, University of Newcastle London, UK
Global business has been affected by several unprecedented and significant problems and threats in the recent past. This book offers comprehensive strategies for managing the crises and disruptions to reinvigorate productivity and performance. It discusses themes and issues like crisis management; consumer behaviour during crisis; emerging business models and trends in global business; and risks, impacts and mitigation strategies. The book provides an overview of business processes highlighting the unique challenges that the COVID-19 pandemic and other recent developments have brought on businesses.

Powering Social Enterprise with Profit and Purpose
The Tandem Hybrid
Scott Boyer, Jeremy Gudauskas and Mike Hamel
Trail-blazing social entrepreneurs are tackling the world’s most pressing problems that government, business, or charity have failed to solve. They are creating businesses with a primary mission of social change. Scott Boyer is one such social entrepreneur. This 28-year veteran of Big Pharma left a six-figure salary to start OWP Pharmaceuticals and the ROW Foundation. This commercial business and non-profit organization exist in a symbiotic relationship we call a “tandem hybrid social enterprise.”

Sentient Strategy
How to Create Market-Dominating Strategies in Turbulent Economies
Alan Weiss
Alan Weiss equips the reader to consider using this approach independently. These are new times – new reality, a “no normal” – hence, it’s ridiculous to use old approaches to strategy.

Research Methodologies for Business Management
Vanessa Ratten, La Trobe University, Australia
Most existing research methodologies texts take a more general approach or are edited books of previously published articles or chapters written by different authors. This book, written by a business management scholar, covers the fundamentals of business management research and its methodologies in a seamless, unified manner. It builds upon the knowledge by examining both qualitative and quantitative research methodologies in the context of business management. It will help business management students and junior researchers quickly build an essential base of knowledge and gain a strategic advantage in publishing and reviewing business related research.
Smart Career Moves for Smart Women: How to Succeed in Career Transitions

Susan Doering

Written for the professional woman, this book offers insights and guidance on making the right decisions about career paths, and shows ways to strategically prepare for a career transition, be it a promotion, change of sector, setting up one's own business or even changing careers altogether. This book provides a highly practical guide to navigating professional changes, as well as a toolkit to facilitate the practice of these new skills and approaches. This is an invaluable resource for professional women looking to navigate the transitional stages of their career, re-enter the workplace after a break, or who simply want to develop the tools and skills to make smart career moves.

Team Analytics: The Future of High-Performance Teams and Project Success

Bentzy Goldman and Peter Taylor, Head of Global PMO, Aptos Retail, UK

Written by authors who have real world experience of leading teams and major projects, this book explores a new approach to project success: the continuous process of enabling and empowering teams to reach the optimal levels of performance. PMO leaders, change executives, HR professionals, and project managers, program managers and portfolio managers – anyone who leads a team in the project world – will learn how to make this critical investment for any organization which wishes to thrive in the new normal project-based economy.

Strategic Negotiation: Building Organizational Excellence

A Roadmap to Harnessing The Power of Alignment

Joshua A. Gordon and Gary T. Furlong

Empowering organizations to thrive, this book provides a clear diagnostic framework, with specific approaches and processes that leaders can use to build a negotiation function that will succeed each and every time. Professionals in sales, procurement and supply chain, human resources, change management, mergers and acquisitions, contracts, start-ups, construction partnering, and more, as well as training consultants and students of business and law, will value a text that understands how to build negotiation skills and capability across the organization by aligning individual skills with an evidence-based approach that actually works.

The Cooperative Economy

Sustainable energy branding has become one of the hottest topics in business. As climate change has become the greatest societal and environmental challenge of our times, the world’s power companies are engaged in levels of industrial change that have never been experienced before and the eyes of the world are upon them. Fridrik Larsen, the world’s foremost expert on energy branding, looks at the role of branding and marketing in the energy transition through a series of interviews with senior energy-sector executives.

The Cooperative Economy: A Solution to Societal Grand Challenges

Dovev Lavie

Societal grand challenges have taken a toll on humanity. The concentration of wealth and economic inequality, the dominance of Big Tech firms, the loss of privacy and free choice, and the overconsumption and abuse of natural resources have been reinforced by globalization. This book identifies the root cause of these problems and offers a bold solution: a new economic system, free from the design flaws that have contributed to these societal grand challenges. The cooperative economy is a prosocial, community-driven system that first and foremost serves societal values, while accounting for natural resource constraints.

Digitalization and Asia-Pacific Business Models
At the Crossroads of Multiple Cultures, Innovation and Value Creation
Edited by Tachia Chin, Zhejiang Univ. of Technology, China, Chris Rowley, Cass Business School, Univ. of London, UK and Shouyang Wang, Univ. of the Chinese Academy of Sciences
Owing to the convergence of multiple cultures coupled with the unprecedented rapid development in the decades since the late 1990s, the value creation and innovation logic of Asia-Pacific business models (BMs) has been constantly altered by cultural heterogeneity. As a result, a more complex and diverse landscape relative to Western developed-economy BMs evolved. This book offers a more holistic picture and contemporary interpretations for identifying and characterizing unorthodox innovation patterns and the perplexing value-creating logic of Asia-Pacific BMs at the crossroads of diverse cultures. It was originally published as special issue of Asia Pacific Business Review.

Gender Diversity and Inclusion at Work
Divergent Views from Turkey
Zeynep Özsoy, Mustafa Şenyucel and Beyza Oba
Series: Routledge Focus on Business and Management
The purpose of this book is to investigate gender diversity practices and discourse developed by listed companies in Turkey. It pursues this aim by advancing knowledge about business relations affecting workplace gender diversity. Due to the conservative and patriarchal culture, authoritarian rule and neoliberal policies, gender diversity and inclusion are not seen as issues that should be resolved through the commitment and collaboration of a field. Consequently, diversity management practices are instrumentalized by the business community as a means for corporate communication and image building rather than actively building a diverse workforce.

Human Resource Management in Early Internationalised SMEs

Joanna Purgal-Popiela, Urban Pauli and Aleksy Pocztowski

Series: Routledge Focus on Business and Management

Until now, researchers investigating the accelerated internationalisation of SMEs have focused either on the human capital of decision-makers or selected attributes of employees, although these have only been at the pre-entry or entry stages. Thus, activities performed after entering foreign markets remain. This book attempts to reduce this gap and contribute to the body of knowledge concerning HR practices in early internationalised SMEs with an emphasis on the post-entry phase. It offers academic researchers, postgraduate students, and reflective practitioners a state-of-the-art overview of managing human resources in small and medium enterprises expanding internationally.

Law of One Price
A Chronicle of Dually-Listed Indian Stocks

Vinodh Madhavan and Partha Ray

Law of one price continues to be a central tenet of Financial Economics. This book is devoted towards examining law of one price in the context of dually-listed shares of Indian companies. The book undertakes concerted efforts to present facts in a manner that sensitize and meaningfully inform readers of the prevalent breadth and depth of dual-listing (cross-listing) landscape globally and more so, locally (India).

Management and Visualisation
Seeing Beyond the Strategic

Gordon Fletcher, University of Salford, UK

Series: Routledge Focus on Business and Management

In this book, the case is made for visual management as a method of communications, planning, learning, and reporting that connects the organisation in a single, meaningful and seamless way. Throughout this book, visual management is theorised around the position that all forms of management documentation are an artefact of human construction, and of the organisation itself, that reflect learned patterns of activity. The book places visual management as a more intuitive and seamless method of coordinating, learning and communicating across an organisation than more traditional formats of presenting management documents.

Technology Innovation
Models, Dynamics, and Processes

Angelo Bonomi

Technology Innovation discusses the fundamental aspects of processes and structures of technology innovation. It offers a new perspective concerning fundamentals aspects not directly involved in the complex relations existing between technology and the socio-economic system. The book is intended for academics, graduate students, technology developers who are involved in operations management and research, innovation, and technology development. By considering technology and its innovation from a scientific point of view, the book presents a novel definition of technology as a set of physical, chemical, and biological phenomena, producing an effect exploitable for human purposes.

Making Sense of China’s Economy
Tao Wang
This book reveals how factors such as demographics, the initial stage of development in 1978, the transition away from full state ownership and central planning, the dual urban-rural society, and a decentralised governance structure have combined to shape China’s economy, its development and its reforms. It is critical reading for business leaders, investors, policymakers, students, and anyone else hoping to understand China’s economy and its future evolution and impact, written by a specialist who has studied the country from both inside and out.

The Cultural Sector and Sustainable Economic Development
Innovation and the Creative Economy in European Cities Biljana Mickov
Series: Routledge Advances in Regional Economics, Science and Policy
This book offers both a theoretical and practical analysis of the contemporary approach to culture and innovation, with special emphasis on the relationship between culture, innovation and the economy. Its key theme is the role and possibility of culture as a laboratory, with a strong supporting subtext on innovative practice. It proposes and maps the European perspective of urban cultural development and suggests that the successes and challenges of the European cities under consideration may offer guidance on best practice for urban development in other distant cultural contexts.

An Introduction to Economic Dynamics
Modelling, Analysis and Simulation
Srinivas Raghavendra, NUI Galway, Ireland and Petri T. Piironen, NUI Galway, Ireland

An Introduction to Economic Dynamics provides a framework for students to appreciate and understand the basic intuition behind economic models and to experiment with those models using simulation techniques in MATLAB. Every chapter begins with an overview of the economic problem which the model is designed to help solve followed by an explanation of the mathematics of the model. The book is ideally suited for courses in economic dynamics, macroeconomic modelling and computational economics, as well as for students of finance, mathematics and engineering who are interested in economic models.

3rd Edition - TEXTBOOK - NEW EDITION
Foundations of Real-World Economics
What Every Economics Student Needs to Know
John Komlos, University of Munich, Germany

Foundations of Real-World Economics demonstrates how misleading it can be to apply oversimplified models of perfect competition to the real world. Bringing together the work of key scholars like Kahneman, Mirsky, and Schumpeter, this textbook takes into consideration the inefficiencies that arise when the perfectly competitive model is applied to the real world dominated by multinational oligopolies. The third edition has been updated throughout, bringing in new material on the financial crises, the rise of populism, racism, inequality, climate change and the COVID-19 pandemic.

International Trade and the Music Industry
Live Music Services from the Caribbean
Lisa Gordon

Live music events are synonymous with fun but seldom associated with international trade. This book serves to transform this mindset, through describing the economic value of live music and analysing the factors affecting international trade in Caribbean live music services. Race and ethnicity, unachieved regionalism within the Caribbean and perceived biases in international trade agreements are assessed in relation to their impact on this trade. Several topics presented in this book are based on empirical findings from a previous microeconomic study, dedicated entirely to international trade in live music.

Connected and Autonomous Vehicles
The challenges facing cities and regions
Stephen Parkes and Ed Ferrari

This book views developments around Connected and Autonomous Vehicles (CAVs) through the lens of local policymakers and the towns and cities they represent. The authors discuss levels of preparedness and the different challenges that CAVs will pose for the built environments of cities. They also explore how CAVs will interact with potentially competing policy agendas seeking to enhance the liveability of cities. Finally, they consider how responses to CAVs are being developed and what the implications of these are.

Harnessing Global Value Chains for regional development
How to upgrade through regional policy, FDI, and trade
Riccardo Crescenzi and Oliver Harman

This book views developments around the implementation of the “Global Value Chain (GVC)” concept in the context of regional policy. In doing so, it offers an application of the traction made by the GVC concept, and its potential to guide the process of development. It focuses on how sub-national regions can leverage their geography, markets and resources in order to build, embed and reshape GVCs to their local enhancement. It is based on leading academic literature but uses non-technical language throughout making it engaging for policymakers, researchers and students alike.

Market Distortions in Privatisation Processes
Shankar A. Singham, Institute of Economic Affairs

Drawing on a range of global case studies, Market Distortions in Privatisation Processes illustrates the ways in which market distortions damaged the ability of privatisation processes to yield concrete benefits to consumers.

Recent evidence suggests that macroeconomic outcomes are inferior in countries operating under presidential regimes compared with those with parliaments, with lower levels of economic growth, higher rates of inflation, and higher levels of income inequality in countries with presidential governments. Despite this, more heads of state look to consolidate and build their executive power. This book considers why presidential regimes, in particular, are so bad for the economy. This book marks a significant contribution to the literature on political economics, constitutional political economy, macroeconomics and forms of government.

This book discusses the role of digital technologies in the growth and development of cultural organizations and the creative sector. It includes contributions by authoritative scholars who address this topic through different perspectives, methodologies and approaches.

This edited volume will be of great value to scholars in the fields of Economics and Management including Economic Geography and Economic Development. Students and researchers interested in learning more about new technologies and their impact on cultural and creative sectors will also benefit from this book. This book was originally published as a special issue of European Planning Studies.

Edited by Luciana Lazzeretti, Stefania Oliva, Niccolò Innocenti and Francesco Capone

This book investigates the impetus, implementation strategy, initial results and theoretical underpinnings of the revolution, assessing its significance in perfecting China’s socialist market economic system. This title will appeal to scholars, students and policymakers interested in economics, macroeconomic control and the Chinese economy and economic system reform.

Child Rights in Humanitarian Crisis
Improving Action and Response
Edited by Rigmor Argren and Jessica Jonsson
Series: Routledge Humanitarian Studies
This book demonstrates how a focus on children’s rights can help practitioners to safeguard children during humanitarian crisis. The volume presents the reader with a clear focus on children from a range of backgrounds, including those most marginalised, such as children with disabilities. Drawing on expertise from the field as well as academia, this book is a treasure trove of advice from some of the humanitarian and development sector’s most experienced professionals. Combining insights from both research and practice, this book will be an essential read for humanitarian students and practitioners.

Understanding GIS through Sustainable Development Goals
Case Studies with QGIS
Paul Holloway, University College Cork, Ireland
This book applies a pedagogical shift to learning GIS as readers employ the concepts and methodologies on real-world problems. This book provides 16 case studies with step-by-step instructions using QGIS, an open-source software. Readers develop GIS skills while learning the fundamentals of spatial data models, projections, and spatial databases, different cartographic methods, such as graduated symbology, change maps, and dynamic visualization, as well as advanced spatial analysis like geoprocessing, multiple criteria analysis, and spatial statistics. The topics chosen are taught in secondary and tertiary education institutions making this a textbook for all students and educators.

Examining the COVID Crisis from a Geographical Perspective
Edited by Sara Beth Keough, Saginaw Valley State University, USA and David H. Kaplan
This book presents several perspectives on the COVID-19 crisis as it impacted the United States, focusing on policies, practices, and patterns. It considers the relationship between government policies and neo-liberalism, (anti)federalism, economies of scale, and material culture. This book will be of interest to students and researchers of Geography, Sociology, Political Science, and Economics with an interest in United States and the socio-political effects of the COVID-19 pandemic. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Geographical Review.

Geography Indivisible
How and Why Configuration Matters
Kevin R. Cox, Department of Geography, The Ohio State University
In a context of disciplinary division between human and physical geography, the book seeks to reassert the unity of the field. Through an emphasis on a shared focus on the geographic configuration of things and how and why configuration is important, it first examines previous approaches to re-establishing unity, and why they have failed, before moving on to an explanation of fundamental differences in what is being studied and how. The role of configuration looms large in both. This is in the sense of contingency and the idea of emergence, suggesting that reconstruction of unity can proceed through an exchange of models of understanding.

Reimagining Civil Society Collaborations in Development
Starting from the South
Edited by Margit van Wessel, Tiina Kontinen, University of Jyväskylä, Finland and Justice Nyigmah Bawole, University of Ghana, Ghana

This book will be an important contribution to researchers and practitioners working on innovation in development and civil society. It takes a transformative stance, reimagining roles, relations and processes. It does so from five complementary angles: 1) Southern CSOs reclaiming the lead, 2) displacement of the North–South dyad, 3) Southern-centred questions, 4) new roles for Northern actors, and 5) new starting points for collaboration. The book relativizes international collaboration, asking INGOs, Northern CSOs, and their donors to follow Southern CSOs’ leads, recognizing their contextually geared perspectives, agendas, resources, capacities, and ways of working.

Anthropological Optimism
Engaging the Power of What Could Go Right

Anna Willow

This book theorizes the role of optimism in anthropological thinking, research, writing, and practice. It sets out to explore optimism’s origins and implications, its conceptual and practical value, and its capacity to contribute to contemporary anthropological aims.

The COVID-19 pandemic underscored the larger, longer-term catastrophes of climate change, ecosystemic collapse, social injustice, and antipathy towards scientific knowledge and those who produce it. Discontent with the state of the world and cultural anthropology’s turn to increasingly positive and future-oriented work converge to unleash an optimistic anthropology.

COVID-19 in Brooklyn: Everyday Life During a Pandemic
Jerome Krase, Brooklyn College of The City University of New York, USA; and Judith N. DeSena, St. John’s University, New York City, USA.
Series: The COVID-19 Pandemic Series
COVID-19 in Brooklyn: Everyday Life during a Pandemic looks closely at the ways that the COVID-19 pandemic impacted the lives of ordinary people living in the super-gentrified Brooklyn neighborhoods of Park Slope and Greenpoint/Williamsburg, where the authors hunkered down during the 2020 lockdown.

Crisis in the Professions: The New Dark Age
Kevin T. Leicht, University of Iowa and Mary L. Fennell, University of Iowa
Crisis in the Professions presents a wide, panoramic view exploring the state of professional work in the 21st century. In their compelling analysis, the authors raise profound issues affecting traditional pathways to professional success and document recent critical trends that could hold large consequences for future generations of workers. With piercing insight and excellent theoretical and empirical grounding, this book is a versatile and valuable study for scholars and researchers, as well as advanced students, in the areas of work and organizations and economic sociology.

Innovation in Crisis Management
Edited by Chiara Fonio, Vrije Universiteit, The Netherlands, Adam Widera, University of Münster, Germany and Tomasz Zweginski
Series: Routledge Studies in Science, Technology and Society
This book deals with how to measure innovation in crisis management drawing on data, case studies and lessons learned from different European countries. The aim of this book is to tackle innovation in crisis management through lessons learned and experiences gained from the implementation of mixed methods through a practitioner driven approach in a large-scale demonstration project (DRIVER+). The book will be a valuable source of knowledge for scientists, practitioners, researchers as well as postgraduate students studying safety, crisis management and innovation.

Making Democratic Theory Democratic: Democracy, Law, and Administration after Weber and Kelsen
Stephen Turner, University of South Florida and George Mazur
This book addresses a timely and fundamental problematic: the gap between the aims that people attempt to realize democratically and the law and administrative practices that actually result. The chapters explain realities that administration poses for democratic theory. Topics include the political value of accountability, the antinomic character of political values, the relation between ultimate ends and the intermediate ends that are sought by constitutions, and a reconsideration of the meaning of the rule of law itself.

Political Anthropology as Method
Arpad Szakolczai, University College Cork, Ireland
Series: Contemporary Liminality
This book explores considerations of method in the field of political anthropology, rejecting the pretended stance of scientific neutrality that has dominated in the human and social sciences of late, and advancing a position that recognises the value of participation in developing a proper social and political understanding.

How Worlds Collapse
What History, Systems, and Complexity Can Teach Us About Our Modern World and Fragile Future
Edited by Miguel Centeno, Peter W. Callahan, Paul Larcey and Thayer Patterson

As our society confronts climate change, authoritarianism, and epidemics, what can examples from the past tell us about our present and future? This book offers case studies of societies that either collapsed or overcame cataclysmic adversity. The authors of this volume find commonalities between past civilizations and our current society, tracing patterns, strategies, and early warning signs that can inform decision making today. While today’s complex world presents unique challenges, many mechanisms, dynamics, and fundamental challenges to the foundations of civilization have been seen throughout history – highlighting essential lessons for the future.

New Feminist Research Ethics
Edited by Maryanne Dever, Australian National University in Canberra

New Feminist Research Ethics re-examines the place of the ethical in feminist research and identifies new ethical priorities for feminist researchers. As urgent social, political and environmental challenges demand new ethical sensibilities, contributors revisit the relationship between feminism and research to ask what it means to be an ethical feminist researcher now.

The volume brings together established and emerging scholars, and perspectives from sociology, history, gender studies, archival studies, cultural studies, and architecture. It was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Australian Feminist Studies.

New Theoretical Dialogues on Migration in China
Edited by Hong Zhu, Guangzhou University, China and Junxi Qian, The University of Hong Kong

Series: Research in Ethnic and Migration Studies

This book emerges from the observation that the current literatures on migration in China are constrained by a series of shortfalls, including a relative topical homogeneity centred on domestic labour migration; relatively narrowly conceived and institutionalist conceptions of migration and migrants; without adequate attention paid to identities, agencies and everyday experiences of migrants; and finally, a lack of engagement with theoretical models and paradigms in the broad discipline of migration studies. It was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies.

The Question of Skill in Cross-Border Labour Mobilities
Edited by Gracia Liu-Farrer, Waseda University, Japan, Brenda S.A. Yeoh, National University of Singapore and Michiel Baas, Max Planck Institute for Social Anthropology, Germany

Series: Research in Ethnic and Migration Studies

Taking the view that ‘skills’ are socially constructed categories and highly malleable concepts in practice, this edited volume centres the discussion on the following questions: Who are the arbiters of skill? What constitutes skill? And how is skill constructed in the migration process and in turn, how does skill affect the mobility? The empirical studies in this volume show that diverse actors are involved in the process of identifying, evaluating and shaping migrant skill. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies.

Running Events
Policies, Marketing and Impacts
Kostas Alexandris, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece, Vassil Girkinov, Brunel University London, UK and Jeroen Scheerder, KU Leuven, Belgium
This is the first book to critically examine the relationship between running events in local, national, and international welfare policy, their marketing and management, and the resulting social impacts. Running events are central to sport at all levels, from grassroots to professional, so this book is essential reading for any student, researcher or practitioner working in sport management, sport development, sport policy, the sociology of sport, or event studies.

The UEFA European Football Championships
Politics, Media Spectacle and Social Change
Jan Andre Lee Ludvigsen, Liverpool John Moores University, UK and Renan Petersen-Wagner, Leeds Beckett University, UK
This book explores social and political issues and trends emerging around the UEFA European Football Championships. It presents a contemporary sociology of the European Championship which, despite its significance as a mega-event, has been largely overshadowed by the Olympics and the FIFA World Cup in existing literature. It is a timely and ground-breaking text which will resonate with students, academics and readers who are interested in football, the sociology of sport, mega-events, digital sociology, European politics and culture or sports business.
Eco-Performance, Art, and Spatial Justice in the US

Courtney B. Ryan
Series: Routledge Environmental Humanities
In this book, Courtney B. Ryan traces how urban artists in the US from the 1970s until today contend with environmental domestication and spatial injustice through performance. In examining how urban eco-artists perform alternate ecologies that celebrate the interconnectedness of marginalized human, vegetal, and aquatic life, Ryan suggests that small environmental performances can expose spatial injustice and increase spatial mobility. Bringing a performance perspective to the environmental humanities, this interdisciplinary text will appeal to a wide range of students and academics in performance, film and media studies, urban geography, and environmental studies.

Handbook of Flood Risk Management in Developing Countries

Edited by Victor Oluwasina Oladokun, David Proverbs, Oluseye Adewale Adebimpe and Taiwo Adedeji
This new Handbook brings together various views and experiences of the impacts of flooding and its management in Africa, Asia and Latin America by drawing from traditional and modern approaches adopted by communities, homeowners, academics, project managers, institutions and policy makers. Key stakeholders provide insights and perspectives on flood hazards, flood impacts, flood control and adaptation strategies across these regions. The inclusion of policy makers, emergency responders, leaders of key organizations and managers of flood defence projects makes this volume a unique addition to the flood management literature.

Monitoring Biodiversity
Combining Environmental and Social Data

Edited by Anna Allard, E. Carina H. Keskitalo and Alan Brown
This book is an exciting reappraisal of the role and practice of biodiversity monitoring, showing how new technologies and software applications are rapidly maturing and can both complement and maintain continuity with the best practice in traditional field skills. With a focus on Europe, but with international relevance, Monitoring Biodiversity will be an essential resource for students at all levels of environmental monitoring, assessment and management.

Critical Questions in Sustainability and Hospitality
Edited by Willy Legrand, Henri Kuokkanen, Paul Bocuse, FRANCE and Jonathan Day, Purdue University, USA

This book examines the relationship between gender and sustainability in tourism. Whilst an extensive body of work exists in the areas of gender and sustainability, these two fields of knowledge are seldom combined to examine tourism phenomena. The aim of this book is to reflect on and rethink the intersection of gender and tourism sustainability through the lens of gender theory and feminist epistemology to stay with the trouble and devise pathways for sustainability gender knowledge. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Sustainable Tourism Geographies.

Affect and Emotion in Tourism
Edited by Dorina-Maria Buda, Nottingham Trent University, UK and Jennie Germann Møtzel

Bringing affect and emotion to the forefront of tourism studies, this book presents a new generation of scholars who consolidate emerging affective approaches and establish a route for scholarship that examines the roles of emotion and affect in tourism. Along with the contributors, the editors make a case for thinking about emotions and affects through collective and individual practices as interrelated shaping tourism encounters in and with places. That is, to break it down as doing, and as shared between bodies and places through the doing. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Tourism Geographies.

Gender and Tourism Sustainability
Edited by Claudia Eger, Copenhagen Business School, Denmark, Ana Maria Munar, Copenhagen Business School, Denmark and Cathy H.C. Hsu, PolyU, Hong Kong

This book examines the relationship between gender and sustainability in tourism. Whilst an extensive body of work exists in the areas of gender and sustainability, these two fields of knowledge are seldom combined to examine tourism phenomena. The aim of this book is to reflect on and rethink the intersection of gender and tourism sustainability through the lens of gender theory and feminist epistemology to stay with the trouble and devise pathways for sustainability gender knowledge. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Sustainable Tourism.

Migration, Tourism and Social Sustainability
Edited by Jaeyeon Choe and Peter Lugosi

The distinctions between tourism and migration are increasingly blurred. Tourism often drives various forms of mobility, and an international workforce is essential to maintaining functioning tourism economies. This book explores intersections of tourism and migration, considering their relationships with and impacts on social sustainability. This book will be of great value to students, academics, and researchers interested in tourism, geography, migration/diaspora studies and sociology. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Tourism Geographies.

The Routledge Handbook of Nature Based Tourism Development
Edited by Ante Mandić and Sandeep K Walia

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This handbook offers a comprehensive overview of the themes and concepts related to nature-based tourism development. Providing interdisciplinary insights from leading researchers, academics and practitioners across the globe, it delivers a critical and timely contribution to the knowledge around nature-based tourism. Nature-based tourism is currently the fastest growing tourism sector globally and for many destinations, the most significant tourism segment. Organized into five parts, this handbook provides contemporary and cutting-edge perspectives on core topics and explores their linkages.

Adolescent Use of Digital Media and Internet Technologies

Debating Risks and Opportunities in the Digital Age

Gordon P. D. Ingram

This book engages with contemporary, and often polarizing, debates surrounding the risks of adolescent use of digital media and internet technologies. By drawing on multiple research studies, the text synthesizes current understandings of the impacts of internet use to develop recommendations for the effective identification of at-risk youth, as well as strategies for informed communication about online risks and opportunities. It will be indispensable for researchers and clinicians interested in assessing levels of online risk, as well as scholars and educators with interests in cyberpsychology, social psychology, cyber culture, and adolescent development.

Myths and Lies about Dads
How they hurt us all
Linda Nielsen
This groundbreaking volume destroys the most damaging beliefs about fathers. Using the most recent research, it exposes these baseless beliefs and the toll they take on children’s relationships with their fathers, parents’ relationship with one another, and the physical and mental health of fathers and mothers.

It is not only a wake-up call for parents, but also for students and professionals in medicine and family law, social work, child development, education, and in the publishing, advertising, media, and entertainment industries. Above all, the book empowers parents to free themselves from the myths and lies about fathers that bind them.

Primatology, Ethics and Trauma
The Oklahoma Chimpanzee Studies
Robert Ingersoll and Antonina Anna Scarnà
Primateology, Ethics and Trauma offers an analytical re-examination of the research conducted into the linguistic abilities of the Oklahoma chimpanzees. It uncovers the historical reality of this research. It has been 50 years since the first language experiments on chimpanzees. Ingersoll and Scarnà discuss how this research failed to address the emotional needs of the animals. Research into trauma has made scientific advances since those studies. It is time to consider the research from a different perspective, examining the neglect and cruelty that was inflicted on those animals in the name of psychological science.

Behavior Analysis and Learning
A Biobehavioral Approach

Erin B. Rasmussen, Casey J. Clay, W. David Pierce, University of Alberta, Canada and Carl D. Cheney, Utah State University, USA

Using a behavioral perspective, Behavior Analysis and Learning provides an advanced introduction to the principles of behavior analysis and learned behaviors, covering a full range of principles from basic respondent and operant conditioning through applied behavior analysis into cultural design. The text uses Darwinian, neurophysiological, and biological theories and research to inform B. F. Skinner’s philosophy of radical behaviorism. This edition expands the focus on neurophysiological mechanisms and their relation to the experimental analysis of behavior, providing updated studies and references to reflect current expansions and changes in the field of behavior analysis.

Make Room for Baby
Perinatal Child-Parent Psychotherapy to Repair Trauma and Promote Attachment

Alicia F. Lieberman

This clinician’s guide describes Perinatal Child Parent Psychotherapy (P-CP), a treatment for pregnant women and their partners whose readiness to nurture a baby is compromised by traumatic stress and adverse life experiences. P-CP, an application to pregnancy of the widely disseminated, evidence-based Child Parent Psychotherapy, spans the prenatal period through the first 6 months of life. Extended cases illustrate ways to help parents understand how trauma has affected them, navigate the challenges of becoming parents, build caregiving competencies, and ensure the safety of their babies and themselves. Cultural considerations in working with diverse families are addressed through specific examples.

The Listening Book
How to Create a World of Rich Connections and Surprising Growth by Actually Hearing Each Other
Robin Ticic, Coherence Psychology Inst., North Rhine-Westphalia, Elise Kushnir, Coherence Psychology Inst., North Rhine-Westphalia and Bruce Ecker, Coherence Psychology Inst., NY
Satisfying, secure connection with others depends heavily on how well we listen to each other and respond to what we’ve heard. The Listening Book lays bare the key elements of both deeply attuned and badly misattuned listening in vivid scenes of real-life interactions that capture the emotional impact and give the reader an illuminating “aha” experience. Whether read solo, with a partner, or in a reading group, The Listening Book is for everyone who yearns for deeper emotional connection and closeness, everyone who is at a loss to understand what is interfering, and everyone who is fascinated by the subtle and manifold factors involved in interpersonal communication.

A Brief Apocalyptic History of Psychoanalysis

Carlo Bonomi, Institute of Psychoanalysis, Italy

Series: History of Psychoanalysis

A Brief Apocalyptic History of Psychoanalysis returns us to the birth of psychoanalysis and the trauma of castration that is its umbilicus. The story told in this book centers on the genital mutilation endured in her childhood by Emma Eckstein, Freud’s most important patient in his abandonment of the “seduction theory.” Bonomi’s “apocalyptic” narrative will expand the conceptual horizons of psychoanalysts and psychoanalytic psychotherapists, historians of psychoanalysis, and scholars of both gender studies and Jewish studies.

Finding Winnicott

Philosophical Encounters with the Psychoanalytic

Fadi Abou-Rihan

In Finding Winnicott: Philosophical Encounters with the Psychoanalytic, Fadi Abou-Rihan expands upon Winnicott’s category of the found object and argues that a genuine understanding of the analyst’s own thought requires that it be considered in relation to that of another. With clinical vignettes throughout, this book is vital reading for practicing analysts, as well as analysts in training and students of both philosophy and psychoanalysis.

Political Pathologies from The Sopranos to Succession

Prestige TV and the Contradictions of the “Liberal” Class

Robert Samuels, UC Santa Barbara, USA

Political Pathologies from The Sopranos to Succession argues that highly praised prestige TV shows reveal the underlying fantasies and contradictions of upper-middle class political centrists. It contributes to a greater understanding of the ways media and political ideology can circulate on a global level through the psychopathology of class consciousness. Political Pathologies from The Sopranos to Succession will be of great interest to academics and scholars considering intersections of psychoanalytic studies, television studies and politics.

Freud, Dora, and the Confusion of Tongues

Arnold W. Rachman and Paul Mattick

Series: Psychoanalytic Inquiry Book Series

Responding to growing interest in issues of gender and power as they arise within psychoanalysis, Freud, Dora, and the Confusion of Tongues re-examines Freud’s iconic case of Dora from the perspective of Sandor Ferenczi’s investigation of the sexual manipulation of children by adults.

Arguing that it is essential to understand linguistic and other representational systems of experience, and the interrelation between the reproduction and transformation of self, in a contemporary analysis of Dora’s case, this book will appeal to psychoanalysts, philosophers and all those interested in a new understanding of classical psychoanalysis.

Cost-Inclusive Evaluation
Planning It, Doing It, Using It

Nadini Persaud and Brian T. Yates

Evaluating the costs of a program can be the missing link between a superficial evaluation and one that will get changes made and funding delivered. In accessible language and without complex formulas, this book provides a roadmap for measuring program costs and outcomes and analyzing cost-effectiveness, cost–benefit, and cost–utility. Also explained are simplified ways to use economic appraisal methodologies, such as net present valuation, internal rate of return computation, and payback period determination. Examples span human services, education, and health care contexts. Other evaluator- and student-friendly features include helpful graphics, procedure steps, and discussion questions.

Ethnographic Explorations
Surrender and Resistance

Emilie Morwenna Whitaker, Salford University, UK and Paul Atkinson

In Ethnographic Explorations: Surrender and Resistance, Whitaker and Atkinson, two experienced ethnographers, explore the complexities of fieldwork, analysis and writing from new perspectives. It takes the opportunity to reflect on Ethnography not just as a methodological perspective, but at a fundamental level. The book is intended for researchers at postgraduate and postdoctoral levels and at experienced researchers who want to read a different, sometimes challenging, take on ethnographic research and its outcomes.

Understanding Research Methods
An Overview of the Essentials

Michelle Newhart and Mildred L. Patten

A perennial bestseller since 1997, this updated eleventh edition of Understanding Research Methods provides a detailed overview of all the important concepts traditionally covered in a research methods class. It covers the principles of both qualitative and quantitative research, and how to interpret statistics without computations, so is suitable for all students regardless of their math background. The book is organized so that each concept is treated independently and can be used in any order without resulting in gaps in knowledge—allowing it to be easily and precisely adapted to any course.

Eight Domains of Phenomenology and Research Methods

Henrik Gert Larsen

Eight Domains of Phenomenology and Research Methods is a unique text that explains how the foundational literature representing our lifeworld experience aligns theory with research methods. It is a must read for postgraduate students, dissertation students and qualitative researchers interested in conducting phenomenological research within social psychology, sociology, and education.

Handbook of Structural Equation Modeling

Edited by Rick H. Hoyle

The definitive one-stop resource on structural equation modeling (SEM) is now in a significantly revised second edition. New chapters cover bifactor models, item parceling, multitrait-multimethod models, exploratory SEM, mixture models, SEM with small samples, and more. The book moves from fundamental SEM topics (causality, visualization, assumptions, estimation, model fit, and managing missing data); to major model types focused on unobserved causes of covariance between observed variables; to more complex, specialized applications. The expanded companion website presents full datasets, code, and output for many of the chapters, as well as bonus selected chapters from the prior edition.

Supporting Physiological Birth Choices in Midwifery Practice

The Role of Workplace Culture, Politics and Ethics

Claire Feeley

Highlighting the experiences of midwives who provide care to women opting outside of guidelines in the pursuit of physiological birth, Claire Feeley looks at the impact on midwives themselves, and explores how teams and organisations can support or discourage the promotion of women’s birth choices. Discussing the invisible nature of midwifery work, what it means to deliver woman-centred care, and the challenges and benefits of doing so, this is a thought-provoking read for all midwives and future midwives. It is also an important contribution to interprofessional concerns around workforce development, sustainability, moral distress and compassion in health and social care.

Atlas of Clinical Dermatology in Coloured Skin
A Morphological Approach
Edited by P C Das and Piyush Kumar
This atlas of dermatology has a unique clinical orientation and lays emphasis on morphology. The disease entities are arranged according to the morphology of lesions, not etiologically. This pattern of placement is more useful for both teaching and learning and serves as an important aid in making a diagnosis as this approach is based on the way patients present themselves in out-patient departments. The key diagnostic clinical pointers too have been provided with images which helps one suspect the diagnosis and exclude clinical differentials. This atlas would serve as a ready reckoner for dermatologists, gynaecologists, and general physicians. Facilitates diagnosis and further management of vulvar disease in the skin of colour, thus optimizing patient care.

Atlas of Vulvovaginal Disease in Darker Skin Types
Edited by Nina Madnani, P.D. Hinduja National Hospital & MRC, India

Primary Health Care and Population Mortality

Richard Baker

Population health management is being increasingly adopted by health systems yet the importance of primary health care in influencing population mortality and the mechanisms that explain it are not well understood. Too often, primary health care is regarded as a service for minor health problems and for managing access to secondary care. This limited view is no longer tenable and it is time to be much more ambitious about the place of primary health care in health systems worldwide. Primary Health Care and Population Mortality fulfils this need.

2nd Edition - NEW EDITION
Rural Healthcare

Edited by Jim Cox, Christopher Clark, and Tim Sanders, Uni of Cent Lancashire
Westlakes Cam

Rural Healthcare was the first textbook of rural medicine in the UK. In this fully revised second edition it continues to fulfil the requirement for a resource dedicated to the particular needs of those living and practicing in rural areas. Offering an authoritative, informative, evidence-based, practical reference book, it is required reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students of rural healthcare, a foundation for rural healthcare curriculae and an inspirational read. It will be invaluable for both intending and established rural primary healthcare workers, including general practitioners, nurses, managers and administrators.

Imaging for Students

Craig Hacking, UQ School of Medicine, Australia and David Lisle, Consultant Radiologist at the Royal Children’s and Brisbane Private Hospitals; and Associate Professor of Medical Imaging, University of Queensland Medical School, Brisbane, Australia

Imaging for Students delivers step-by-step guidance to the range of imaging techniques available, providing a clear explanation of how each imaging modality actually works, and including information on the associated risks and hazards. Throughout, the importance of patient preparation and post-procedure observation is emphasized. Taking information from evidence-based studies and published guidelines, in line with current clinical practice, the book takes a highly logical approach to the investigation of clinical scenarios, where possible indicating the “best first test”—vital to both appropriate clinical and cost-effective decision-making.

Mosquito Gene Drives and the Malaria Eradication Agenda

Edited by Rebeca Carballar-Lejarazú

Genetic approaches that focus on the vector mosquitoes to prevent malaria parasite transmission have been considered for many decades. Genetic control strategies received a significant boost with the successful development of gene-drive systems, genetic methods for rapidly spreading beneficial genes and phenotypes through mosquito populations. This book reviews some concepts of gene drive systems and describes pioneering applications to control mosquito populations and prevent parasite transmission.

Non-Surgical Rhinoplasty

Edited by Dario Bertossi, Associate Professor in Maxillo Facial Surgery, Italy, Riccardo Nocini and Ali Pirayesh

Series: The PRIME Series

Plastic surgeons specializing in rhinoplasty will here find an essential resource bringing together the expertise they will need to offer non-invasive techniques in their practice.

Principles and Practicalities of ENT

Keshav Gupta, Divya Vatish, Karan Jolly, University Hospitals Birmingham NHS and Duncan Bowyer

A succinct guide for doctors of all levels ensuring that they are well equipped to approach common clinical scenarios encountered in ENT with confidence. Each section covers how to prepare for patients, includes key points in the history and examination, and how best to investigate and manage a wide variety of common ENT presentations and conditions. Suitable for use as a revision tool for medical students, doctors pursuing MRCS (ENT) examinations and higher surgical training in ENT and for primary care physicians in their everyday diagnostics and referral practices.

Higher FRCS

SBAs for Section 1 of the General Surgery FRCS Examination

Edited by Muhammad Rafay Sameem Siddiqui, Royal Devon & Exeter Hospital, UK

A new revision guide designed to help candidates prepare for the first part of the FRCS general surgery exam. This book bridges a gap, offering updated guidelines and information which will help candidates succeed. Using questions written by practicing surgeons, it offers contemporary revision materials. Readers will gain a familiarity with the style of the FRCS exam, as Higher FRCS uses a style reflective of the exam to enhance the candidate’s knowledge, confidence, and preparation. Suitable for general surgery trainees who are preparing for their higher exams (including FRCS), alongside surgical trainees taking the MRCS.
Aughey and Frye’s Comparative Veterinary Histology with Clinical Correlates

Francisco Javier Salguero Bodes, Public Health England and Francisco Jose Pallares Martinez, Murcia Univ.

Organized by body system, the new edition of this highly illustrated textbook covers the normal histological appearance of tissues in a wide range of animals, with relevant clinical correlates emphasizing the need to appreciate the normal in order to recognize the abnormal. In this update by two experienced veterinary pathologists and histology lecturers, new species, such as other companion mammals, aquatic species and livestock, are introduced into each chapter along with a wealth of new high-quality images. A new chapter covers epithelial tissue and new techniques used in histology and histopathology are discussed throughout, including ISH and digital image analysis.

Concise Textbook of Equine Clinical Practice Book 1
Lameness

Antonio Cruz, Royal College of Vet. Surgeons, Graham Munroe, Cambridge Veterinary School and Michael Schramme, Royal College of Vet. Surgeons

This concise, practical text covers the essential information veterinary students need to succeed in Equine practice, focussing on lameness. Written for an international readership, the book conveys the core information in an easily digestible, precise form with extensive use of bullet-points, lists, protocols and extensive illustration (over 650 full colour, high quality photographs and radiographs). Part of a four-book series that extracts key information from Munroe’s Equine Surgery, Reproduction and Medicine, the book distills best practice in a logical clinical-based approach. The spiralbound format allows the book to lie open during practice.

Marine Decapod Crustacea
A Guide to Families and Genera of the World

Gary C. B. Poore, Australian Museum and Shane T. Ahyong, Australian Museum Sydney

Marine Decapod Crustacea explains the anatomical features necessary for differentiating taxa and includes diagnoses and identification keys to all 189 families and 2121 genera of marine Decapoda. Many decapods have vivid colours, which are showcased in a selection of spectacular photographs of many representative species. This volume provides an entry to the literature for taxonomists, naturalists, consultants, ecologists, teachers and students wanting to identify local faunas and understand this diverse group.

Plants as Medicine and Aromatics
Conservation, Ecology, and Pharmacognosy

Edited by Mohd Kafeel Ahmad Ansari, Bengu Turkyilmaz Unal, Nigde Omer Halisdemir University, Turkey, Munir Ozturk, Ege University, Retired Professor. and Gary Owens, University of South Australia, Australia

Series: Exploring Medicinal Plants

The demand for herbal medicines has threatened many species. Current information on the conservation, ecology and pharmacognosy of herbal medicinal plants is limited. This book critically examines and reviews the current status of these aspects and includes several case studies of representative plant species. Currently almost two-thirds of the world’s population depend on phytomedicine for their primary health care, as unlike modern medicines, herbal medicines have consistently demonstrated several major advantages, including a lack of serious adverse side effects, long-lasting curative impact, and an overall cost-effectiveness.

3rd Edition • NEW EDITION

The Laboratory Mouse

Mark A. Suckow, University of Kentucky, Sara Hashway, Colorado Univ., Boulder and Kathleen R. Pritchett-Corning, FAS, Harvard Univ.

Revised to reflect advances since the second edition, The Laboratory Mouse continues to be the most accessible reference on the biology and care of the mouse in research settings. This guide presents basic information and common procedures in detail to provide a quick reference source for investigators, technicians, and caretakers in the human care and use of the mouse. The new edition adds information on novel technologies such as CRISPR-Cas, on housing systems and management practices, and concepts such as pain assessment by facial expression and nest-building as an assessment tool of well-being, with expanded sections on anesthesia and analgesia, behavior, and enrichment.

Transdisciplinary Marine Research
Bridging Science and Society
Edited by Silvia Gómez and Vera Köpsel
Series: Earthscan Oceans
Drawing on the expertise of marine researchers from both the natural and social sciences, this book examines how we, as both scientists and societies, can return to a sustainable co-existence with the ocean and use the tools of transdisciplinarity to bring together the diverse forms of knowledge needed to achieve this important task. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars studying marine science and ocean research across a wide range of disciplines, including marine biology, environmental governance and policy, ocean resource management, oceanography, environmental anthropology, human geography and sustainability.

5th Edition - TEXTBOOK - NEW EDITION
Genomes 5
Terry A. Brown
Genomes 5 has been rigorously updated. It is a thoroughly modern textbook about genomes and how they are investigated. As with previous editions, techniques come first, then genome anatomies, followed by genome function, and finally genome evolution. The genomes of all types of organism are covered: viruses, bacteria, fungi, plants, and animals including humans.
Genome sequencing and assembly methods have been thoroughly revised including a survey of four genome projects: human, Neanderthal, giant panda, and barley to include new developments in long-read DNA sequencing.
This is the ideal text for upper-level courses focused on genomes and genomics.

Molecular Biology
Structure and Dynamics of Genomes and Proteomes
Jordanka Zlatanova, Department of Molecular Biology, University of Wyoming
Molecular Biology: Structure and Dynamics of Genomes and Proteomes 2nd edition illustrates the essential principles behind the transmission and expression of genetic information at the level of DNA, RNA, and proteins. Emphasis is on the experimental basis of discovery and the most recent advances in the field while presenting a rigorous, yet concise, summary of the structural mechanisms of molecular biology. Topics new to this edition include the CRISPR-Cas gene editing system, coronaviruses, and newly-recognised mechanisms for transcription termination. The text is written for advanced undergraduate or graduate-level courses in molecular biology.

Advances in Fish Processing Technologies
Preservation, Waste Utilization, and Safety Assurance
Edited by Ranendra K. Majumder and Amjad K. Balage
Covers advancements in fish processing technology, green technologies for extracting nutraceuticals, the role of endogenous enzymes in the quality of fish/shellfish and their products, disruptive technologies, and restructured product-based technologies. The chapters introduce improved techniques for handling, transportation, product development, packaging, preservation, and storage of fish. It addresses technology to reduce undesirable changes in fish due to processing. The technologies discussed include high-pressure processing, irradiation, pulsed light technology, microwave processing, ultrasound, and more.

Applications of Machine Learning and Deep Learning on Biological Data
Edited by Faheem Masoodi, Mohammad Quasim, Syed Bukhari, Sarvottam Dixit and Shadab Alam
Series: Advances in Computational Collective Intelligence
Machine Learning and Deep Learning applied to biological and neuroimaging data opens up new frontiers for biomedical engineering, such as refining our understanding of complex diseases such as neurodegenerative and psychiatric disorders or cancer. This book strives to provide readers a comprehensive understanding of the application of Machine Learning and Deep Learning in proteomics, genomics, microarrays, text mining, systems biology, and related fields. The key objective is to provide Machine Learning applications to biological science problems, especially problems related to bioinformatics.

Bio-Nano Filtration in Industrial Effluent Treatment
Advanced and Innovative Approaches
Edited by Maulin P. Shah, Environmental Microbiology Lab Bharuch, India
Series: Wastewater Treatment and Research
Bio-nanofiltration is a relatively emerging new technology applied to the treatment of wastewater and other toxic compounds. In the last two decades, this technology has begun to emerge as an economically viable process to treat the great variety of recalcitrant pollutants discharged into the environment. Thus, the US biofiltration market is speculated to reach over $100 million by 2020. This book aims to present how innovation in bio nanofiltration can provide effective solutions to overcome the serious problem of water pollution worldwide.

Evolution and Speciation in Protozoa

Edited by T.J. Pandian

The polyphyletic Protozoa have explored the possibility of performing almost all metazoan functions with a few subcellular organelles. Their unicellularity and structural simplicity have (i) limited diversity to 32,950 species, (ii) restricted spatial distribution to aquatic habitats (94%), against 15% in Metazoa), (iii) demonstrated the ubiquitous dominance of clonality, (iv) limited sexualization in 50% species, (v) facilitated the use of vegetative gametes in 40% species and (vi) secondary loss of sex in 10% species.

Hox Modules in Evolution and Development

Edited by David E. K. Ferrier

Few, if any, genes have had the same level of impact on the field of evolutionary-developmental biology (evo-devo) as the Hox genes. These genes are renowned for their roles in patterning the body plans and development of the animal kingdom. This is complemented by the distinctive organisation of these genes in the genome, with them frequently being found as clusters in which gene position is linked to when and where the individual genes are expressed, particularly during embryogenesis. This book provides the latest overviews of Hox gene organisation and function for major clades of animals from across the animal kingdom.

Handbook of Cell and Gene Therapy

From Proof-of-Concept through Manufacturing to Commercialization

Edited by Hazel Aranha, GAEA Resources, Inc., USA and Humberto Vega-Mercado

This handbook provides an in-depth review of information across the developmental spectrum of gene and cell therapy products. From introductory information to state-of-the-art technologies and concepts, the book provides insights into upstream processes such as vector design and construction, purification, formulation and fill/finish as well as delivery options. Planning steps for compliance with current good manufacturing practice (CGMP) to readiness for chemistry, manufacturing, and controls (CMC) are also discussed. This book wraps up with examples of successes and pitfalls addressed by experts who have navigated the multiple challenges that are part of any innovative endeavor.

Integrated Pest Management in Diverse Cropping Systems

Edited by Devendra Pal Singh

Takes the unique approach that insect pest management based on specific cropping systems, rather than on specific crops, is more efficient, resulting in reduced cultivation costs, increased yield and profitability, and decreased residue from crop produce and products. It provides in-depth knowledge on integrated pest management in conjunction with an array of specific cropping systems, taking into consideration all the elements, including the crops, crop sequences, spatial and temporal aspects of managing an agricultural system, and other aspects.

Learning from the Covid-19 Pandemic
Implications for Science, Health And Healthcare
Edited by RC Sobti and Aastha Sobti, Lund University, Sweden
The present book highlights the impact of Covid 19 on science, health, and health care system. The book discusses emergence of various strains of virus focusing on description of evolution, structure, and mode of infection by virus as well as strategies to attack various organs in the body. It also emphasis hospital and health care workers preparedness to face the challenges posed by virus, highlighting new techniques to detect and control the virus.

Microbial Bioprocessing of Agri-food Wastes
Bioactive Molecules
Edited by Gustavo Molina, Minaxi Sharma, Rachid Benhida, Ramesh Chander Kuhad and Vijai Kumar Gupta
This book gives a comprehensive overview of recent advances in the valorization of agri-food waste and discusses the main process conditions needed to overcome the difficulties of using waste as alternative raw materials. The authors provide technical concepts on the production of various bio-products and their commercial interest including agri-food waste utilization in the microbial synthesis of proteins, as well as other food and pharmaceutical applications. This book is intended for bioengineers, biologists, biochemists, biotechnologists, microbiologists, food technologists, enzymologists, and related professionals and researchers.

Marketing Analytics
A Machine Learning Approach
Edited by A. Mansur Ali, PSG Institute of Management, India and P. Mary Jeyanthi, Jaipuria Institute of Management, India
Enlightens readers on the application of analytics in marketing and the process of analytics. The book simplifies analytics for businesses and explains its uses in different aspects of marketing, giving them tools to make better business decisions. It gives a comprehensive overview of marketing analytics, incorporating machine learning methods of data analysis that automates analytical model building. It covers segmentation and targeting analysis, statistics for marketing, marketing metrics, consumer buying behavior, neuromarketing techniques for consumer analytics, new product development, forecasting sales and price, and much more.

Microbial Systematics
Biomolecules and Natural Macromolecules Applications
Edited by Bhagwan Narayan Rekawad, Yenepoya Research Centre, India
Microbial species isolated from extreme and pristine habitats are always diverse, which indicates biomolecules secreted by these species might have importance. A cure for disease is a desire considering the catastrophic situations that threaten the lives of humans and animals. Currently, the world is facing the health, social and economic, and diplomatic impacts of infectious communicable diseases caused by bacteria and viruses. It is a necessity to understand the huge microbial diversity residing everywhere with us in this world.

Mood Dysregulation
Beyond the Bipolar Spectrum
Deborah A. Deliyannides
Reflexing the author’s vast clinical experience as a psychiatrist, it explains why so many people with treatment-resistant depression respond to medication used to treat individuals with bipolar disorder while helping to minimize the bipolar stigma by introducing the concept of “mood dysregulation.” It aims to help mental health professionals and patients more accurately recognize negative mood symptoms, dysphoria in particular, and arrive at more appropriate interventions to improve treatment outcomes for depression.

Nanotechnology Horizons in Food Process Engineering
3-volume set
Edited by Megh R. Goyal
Series: Innovations in Agricultural & Biological Engineering
Addresses new developments the application of nanotechnology in food processing. Vol 1 focuses food preservation, food packaging, and sustainable agriculture, while Vol 2 looks at nanotechnology in food process engineering, applications of biomaterials in food products, and modern nanotechnology for human health. Vol 3 explores trends in nanotechnology for food applications and for improving food delivery systems.

Edited by Megh R. Goyal, Junaid Ahmad Malik, Government Degree College, India, Satish Kumar, Dr. Y.S. Parmar University of Horticulture and Forestry, India and Ritesh B. Watharkar, MIT-ADT University, India
Series: Innovations in Agricultural & Biological Engineering
Volume 1 discusses emerging nanotechnological applications in food processing, packaging, and preservation. It focuses on using nanoparticles for safe and nutritional food production, protecting crops from pests, increasing nutritional value, and providing solutions for various environmental issues. This book especially deals with nanotechnology for controlling plant pathogens, food packaging and preservation, agricultural productivity, wastewater treatment, and bioenergy production.

Neurochemical Systems and Signaling
From Molecules to Networks
Edited by Ghulam Md Ashraf
The main purpose of this book is to give the comprehensive overview of the neurological diseases associated with neurochemical imbalances. This book will be very effective for readers to get complete idea about neuronal signaling and linked neurological disorders as well as current status and future opportunities and challenges. It will provide a brief account of neurotransmission, as either a study or high-yield revision aid.

Parasitoids in Pest Management
Edited by Omkar, University of Lucknow, India
This book covers information on one of the most important biocontrol agents that are effective in controlling insect pests of crops. It deals with important insect parasitic groups followed by specific group of parasitoids. The book addresses unique and modern aspects of why insect-pest management is necessary and what are different parasitoids (Parasitic Insect Groups) helpful in the pest management, reduce the crop yield losses and ultimately increase the crop productivity. The proposed book presents a comprehensive account of beneficial insect parasitoids that would be useful for researchers in the area of entomology, agricultural and zoology.

Novel Processing Methods for Plant-Based Health Foods
Extraction, Encapsulation, and Health Benefits of Bioactive Compounds
Edited by Megh R. Goyal, Ritesh B. Watharkar and N. Veena
Series: Innovations in Agricultural & Biological Engineering
Presents new and emerging techniques in the food processing sector, focusing on the extraction, encapsulation, and health benefits of bioactive compounds. It illustrates applications of novel food processing extraction and encapsulation techniques along with the health and safety aspects of plant-derived bioactive compounds and functional foods. Some of the sustainable and green extraction techniques discussed include novel extraction techniques, such as microwave-assisted extraction (MAE), ultrasonic assisted extraction (UAE), supercritical fluid extraction (SFE), accelerated solvent extraction (ASE), and rapid solid-liquid extraction (RSL).

Phyto-Oxylipins
Metabolism, Physiological Roles, and Profiling Techniques
Series: Current Developments in Agricultural Biotechnology and Food Security
Plant Oxylipins: Metabolism, Physiological Roles, and Profiling Techniques address the mechanism, metabolism, and roles of oxylipins in plant resistance to various biotic and abiotic stimuli in detail. This book covers fundamental ideas in oxylipin production, metabolism, structural biochemistry, and signaling pathways. It also discusses cutting-edge methodologies for oxylipin metabolic profiling, with an emphasis on computing applications. This book is an excellent resource for Plant scientists, Plant biochemists, biotechnologists, botanists, phytochemists, toxicologists, chemical ecologists, taxonomists, and other scholars in those subjects.

Organisms Amplify Diversity
An Autocatalytic Hypothesis
David Seaborg
This book presents a hypothesis and evidence that organisms promote and ecosystems maximize biodiversity. All species have a net positive effect on their environment, other species, and diversity. No species evolves in isolation, and most evolution is coevolution. The nature and number of links between species are as important as species number. Eukaryotes coevolve with complex ecosystems of microbes with which they exchange genes. Genomes and intraspecific interactions both act to promote evolution and diversification. Viruses increase diversity of their hosts and cause macroevolutionary transitions.

Plant Genetic Resources for the 21st Century
The OMICS Era
Edited by Koumars Ghamkhar, Warren M. Williams, AgResearch Grasslands Research Centre, New Zealand and Anthony Hugh Dean Brown, Bioversity International, Italy
Presents the practical advancements in genomics, epigenetics, metabolomics, and in phenomics from researchers in genebanks, genetics resources, and germplasm for enabling plant breeding and adaptation to a changing climate. It highlights the importance of genebanks as centers of innovation for crop and forage improvement and discusses database solutions for collections. It looks at plant genetic resources and their values and investigates several genomic technologies for plant improvement, conservation, and better adaptation to changing climates.

Plant Metabolites under Environmental Stress: Mechanisms, Responses, and Adaptation Strategies
Edited by Nivas M. Desai, Manasi Patil and Umesh R. Pawar

Provides a timely update on the knowledge of plant responses to various environmental stresses such as salinity, waterlogging, drought, pollution, heat, temperature, oxidative stress, and mineral deficiencies. Chapters focus on physiological and biochemical mechanisms identified in plants that are crucial for them to adapt to biotic and abiotic stress and the methods for improving plant tolerance mechanisms. The book also throws light on plant secondary metabolites such as phenolic compounds and plant growth regulators in ameliorating the stressful conditions in plants.

Quality Control in Fruit and Vegetable Processing: Methods and Strategies
Edited by Megh R. Goyal and Faizan Ahmad, Aligarh Muslim University, India
Series: Innovations in Agricultural & Biological Engineering

Illustrates the use of nonthermal technologies for improving the quality and safety of fruits and vegetables, such as microwave, ultrasound, gamma irradiation, pulsed light, and hurdle technology. Also looks at strategies (osmotic dehydration, ultrasound and ultrasound-assisted osmotic dehydration, nanoemulsions, engineered nanomaterials) for the preservation of produce. It emphasizes nondestructive techniques that have been widely used for the quality assessment of fruits and vegetables during storage, including image analysis, x-ray tomography, magnetic resonance imaging, nonmagnetic resonance imaging, near-infrared spectroscopy, and computerized tomography.

The Caribbean Coral Reef: A Record of an Ecosystem Under Threat
William K. Sacco, Retd., Yale University

This book is a visual tour of Caribbean coral reefs between 1968 and 1978, the world’s second largest coral reef community and the most threatened. It offers a priceless historical record by a photographer who set out to document all the major reef species when those reefs were at their prime. Sadly, most of what is shown in his photographs is now gone forever. It is only by comparing the images in this book with what we see now that we are able to fully recognize what we have lost. With its stunning photography and precise, accurate scientific information, this book offers students of coral reefs a wealth of information about this rich, fragile ecosystem.

The Species Problem
A Conceptual History
Igor Ya. Pavlinov
The general notion of species is one of the most fundamental in biology. But an idea of species is also one of the most persistent unresolved obsessions of biologists, philosophers and theoreticians. This new book investigates the multifaceted problem species as a "conceptual envelope" of that notion. Contemporary conceptualists and evolutionary epistemology allow for a fresh look by analyzing the framework of history viewed as changes ordered by changing philosophical-scientific contexts. In this analysis, the species problem is characterized in a pluralistic non-trivial manner, in contrast to a more monistic "accepted view."

Topical and Transdermal Drug Delivery Systems
Applications and Future Prospects
Edited by Nayan A. Gujarathi, Juliana Palma Abriata, Raj Kumar Keservani and Anil K. Sharma
Topical and transdermal drug delivery systems have several advantages over traditional drug delivery methods. This volume presents case studies, research, and theories on their diversity and the novel approaches of transdermal and topical drug delivery. It provides an abundance of information and state-of-the-art research and addresses the basics of drug delivery systems, strategies to enhance permeation across membranes, and formulation and evaluation of diverse dosage forms. The volume presents an evaluation of the pros and cons of various drug delivery systems and discusses the nuances of micro- and nano-systems in TDDs.

Introduction to Toxicology

John Timbrell and Frank A. Barile

The book begins with basic toxicological principles, including an historical summary, dose-response relationships (NEW chapter), exposure-response relationships (NEW chapter), disposition, and metabolism of xenobiotic toxic substances. Other important new chapters include target organ toxicity, toxicity of carcinogenic agents and new and updated concepts in toxicity testing, and antidotes and treatment of poisonings. This latest edition is an invaluable resource for undergraduate and graduate toxicology students, as well as an introductory text for other health care students and professionals. It also functions as a comprehensive introductory reference text.

Biotic Resources
Circular Bioeconomy Perspective
Edited by Thallada Bhaskar, Sunita Varjani, Bhavya B Krishna and Ashok Pandey
This reference book provides advanced knowledge on sustainable biogenic waste management. It covers innovative waste processing technologies to produce biofuels, energy products, and biochemicals. To create a circular bioeconomy, it is imperative to develop processes where the waste generated through one process acts as a feedstock for the other. The book discusses the latest developments in biochemical and thermo-chemical methods of conversion and covers the potential of different kinds of biomass in more decentralized biorefineries. The book is meant for microbiologists, chemists, and biotechnologists.

Emerging Drug Delivery and Biomedical Engineering Technologies
Transforming Therapy
Edited by Dimitrios Lamprou
Series: Drugs and the Pharmaceutical Sciences
This book details the advances in drug discovery and delivery and the present need for emerging technologies. Throughout the text new micro and nanofabrication techniques are described, including methods like electrohydrodynamic processes, additive manufacturing, and microfluidics, which have the potential to produce drug delivery systems that were not possible a few years ago. This book is of great use to both entry-level and experienced researchers in the field of emerging technologies for the manufacturing of drug delivery devices.

PHARMACEUTICAL SCIENCES

Ethnobotany
From the Traditional to Ethnopharmacology
Edited by José L. Martínez, Universidad de Santiago de Chile, Chile, Alfred Maroyi, University of Fort Hare, South Africa and Marcelo Luis Wagner, Universidad de Buenos Aires, Argentina
In this book we present recent studies that have been carried out on some widely used medicinal plants. The need for new and alternative treatments stem from the lack of efficiency of existing remedies for certain illnesses. We have compiled information that may be useful to researchers in their quest to develop new drugs.

Nanochemistry
Synthesis, Characterization and Applications
Edited by Ashutosh Sharma, Tecnologico de Monterrey, Mexico and Goldie Harikrishna Oza, Centro de Investigación y Desarrollo Tecnológico en Electroquímica, Mexico
This book encompasses the fundamental concepts of Nanochemistry that involve the self-assembly of nanostructures, surface stabilization, and functionalization of nanoparticles. It’s a review of the work of world-renowned scientists and is the first of its kind that gives a detailed fundamental understanding of physical, chemical, and biological methods of nanoparticle synthesis. There is a comprehension of different characterization techniques of nanoparticles.

Which Treatment Is Best? Spoof or Proof?
Teddy Bader, University of Oklahoma, USA
Which Medical Treatment is Best? Spoof or Proof? explains the best scientific evidence for any treatment - the randomized controlled trial. This book begins with rotten humors as the source for all diseases. The reader is guided through serious attempts in history to treat disease, but which now seem amusing. The story ends with the randomized controlled trial and how to interpret it. The text will help students and clinicians understand this universal language of clinical research worldwide.

Police Intelligence

Totality of Circumstances

Wayne S. Davis, Paul J. Leslie and Ashley B. Davis

This book takes a unique approach to police procedure and communication, providing an essential overview to the importance of written and spoken communication. An officer cannot effectively enforce the law if they do not understand math and English—and how laws are written in English logical statements. Laws need to be converted into mathematical logical statements in order to determine the true-values of the laws, police reports, and the actions of police officers. This book provides an overview for officers and criminal justice students to more effectively understand laws, their roles, and to more effectively communicate and carry out their duties.

Artificial Intelligence and Blockchain in Digital Forensics
Edited by P. Karthikeyan, Hari Mohan Pande and Velliangiri Sarveshwaran Series: River Publishers Series in Digital Security and Forensics

Digital forensics is the science of detecting evidence from digital media like a computer, smart phone, server, or network. It provides the forensic team with the most beneficial methods to solve confused digital-related cases. AI and blockchain can be applied to solve online predatory chat cases and photo forensics cases, provide network service evidence, custody of digital files in forensic medicine, and identify roots of data scavenging. This book can provide a wide-ranging overview of how AI and blockchain can be used to solve problems in digital forensics using advanced tools and applications available on the market.

Anthocyanins in Sub-Tropical Fruits
Chemical Properties, Processing, and Health Benefits
Edited by M. Selvanathukumaran, Institute of Technology, Haramaya University
Series: Functional Foods and Nutraceuticals
Anthocyanins, water soluble pigments that exhibit different colors like purple, red, blue depending upon the pH value, are powerful antioxidants known for alleviating several lifestyle diseases. This book describes various anthocyanins sourced from tropical fruits of various continents, addressing their chemical properties, classification and stability during processing and storage. It describes the benefits of using both thermal and non-thermal processing methods for extraction of anthocyanins from various sub-tropical fruits. Further it delves into commercial production methodologies for manufacturing anthocyanins from various sub-tropical fruits. It also addresses regulatory issues.

Applications of Functional Foods and Nutraceuticals for Chronic Diseases
Volume I
Edited by Syam Mohan, Substance Abuse & Toxicology Research Centre, Jaiwan University, Shima Abdulali and Yashwant Pathak, University of South Florida College of Pharmacy, USA
Series: Nutraceuticals
This volume collects information on the association between functional and chronic diseases. The burden of growing chronic diseases is discussed in the first chapters, and the remaining chapters summarize the effect of functional foods on a range of chronic diseases. Contributors hail from different geographical locations around the world and possess many years of research and scholarly experience in functional foods, nutraceuticals, and biology. This book is a great reference for practitioners, scientists and, clinicians in the management of chronic diseases.

Cereal Grains
Composition, Nutritional Attributes, and Potential Applications
Edited by Gulzar Ahmad Nayik, Govt. Degree College, Dept. of Food Science & Technology, India, Tabassum Tufail, The University of Lahore, Pakistan, Faqir Muhammad Anjum and Mohammad Javed Ansari, Department of Botany, Hindu College Moradabad Moradabad, India
Cereal processing represents an important part of the food production chain, but the contribution of cereals to the non-food sector is also significant. Covering both cereal science & technology, this book provides a general view of cereals including their properties, chemical composition, applications, phytochemical profiles, postharvest losses, storage, and quality. Rather than covering the 9 specific grains, the various chapters cover cereals role in food security, allergens in grains, phytochemical profile, industrial applications, health benefits, global standard of cereals, post harvest losses, and recent advances in cereal processing.

Craft Beers
Fortification, Processing, and Production
Edited by Manju Nehra, Suresh Kumar Gahlawat and Nishant Grover, Chaudhary Devi Lal University
This book covers the history of beer, compositional analysis, different beer styles, brewing process of craft beers, fortification patterns and nutritional analysis including antioxidant profiles. It explains the fortification of beers, emphasising raw materials, processes and compositional aspects. This book presents detailed literature and our research into selective improvisation of the most popular alcoholic beverage—beer. The alcohol industry continues to grow quickly worldwide – this book provides relevant research literature about the recent studies and experimentation about beers which will be helpful to students, researchers, industrialists, producers, and many others.

Essential Oils as Antimicrobial Agents in Food Preservation
Jian Ju
The book discusses how a natural antimicrobial and antioxidant, essential oil has great potential to be used in the food industry to combat the growth of foodborne pathogens and spoilage microorganisms. But because the essential oil itself has obvious smell and is sensitive to light and heat, it cannot be directly added to the food matrix and thus the application strategies presented in this book explain how to alleviate those issues.

Flavonoids and Anti-Aging
The Role of Transcription Factor Nuclear Erythroid 2-Related Factor 2
Edited by Karam F.A. Soliman, Florida A&M University, USA and Yashwant Pathak, Sullivan University, Louisville, Kentucky, USA

Series: Nutraceuticals
Because of their anti-oxidative, anti-inflammatory, anti-mutagenic and anti-carcinogenic properties, flavonoids are an important ingredient in nutraceuticals and functional foods as well as pharmaceuticals. This book is focused on interaction between Nrf2 and flavonoids and their applications in various conditions such as aging, osteoporosis, cardiovascular diseases and neurodegenerative disease and many other areas. This will be a first of its kind approach to understand the flavonoid activation of the transcription of factor Nrf2 which is responsible for many different disease conditions due to increase in Reactive oxidative species in the body due to some physiological triggers.

Edited by Sajad Ahmad Wani, Islamic University of Science and Technology, Kashmir, Jasmeet Kour, Raees-Ul Haq and Mohamed S. Elshikh
Adequate intake of fruits has been linked with the reduction in the risk of chronic diseases and maintenance of body weight. Fruits are the mature ovary and other allied parts and they possess lot of health promoting bioactive compounds. This book covers recent research related to the bioactive compounds present in the fruits. It presents information concerning the role of fruits in nutraceuticals and functional foods. Novel techniques and methodologies used in the extraction, isolation and identification of bioactive compounds of functional fruits. Covered in this book are apple, pear, mango, pomegranate, papaya, watermelon, pineapple, banana, and orange, among others.

Latin-American Seeds
Agronomic, Processing and Health Aspects
Edited by Claudia M. Haros, María Reguera, Universidad Autonoma de Madrid, Norma Sammán, Facultad de Ingenieria Universidad Nacional de Jujuy and Octavio Paredes-López
In the last few years, the Latin-American seeds have gained increased importance (also due to the increased demand for gluten-free foods). Worldwide demand for Latin-American seeds and grains has risen in a high proportion. In parallel, seeds and grains’ research from this region in all relevant fields has been intensified. Latin-American Seeds: Agronomic, Processing and Health Aspects summarizes the recent research on Latin-American crops regarding agronomic and botanical characteristics, composition, structure, use, production, technology, and impact on human health.

Microbial Enzymes in Production of Functional Foods and Nutraceuticals
Edited by Amit Kumar Rai, Ranjna Sirohi, Luciana Porto de Souza Vandenbergh and Binod Parameswaran
Microbial Enzymes in Production of Functional Foods And Nutraceuticals is a valuable reference that discusses green technologies like enzyme technologies, to meet the ever-growing demand of nutraceuticals and functional foods. Microorganisms like bacteria (lactic acid bacteria, Bacillus species), yeasts and filamentous fungi have been exploited for food preparations globally. This book discusses how to use them commercially. Chapters include enzyme sources, processing and health benefits of microbial enzyme. The book is useful for students, academicians, industry experts in food science and applied microbiology.

Architect: The evolving story of a profession

Eleanor Jolliffe and Paul Crosby

The architect’s role is constantly adapting. Throughout history it has shifted significantly, shaped by social, cultural, technological and economic forces. The very definition of what an architect is and does has evolved over time from lead builder or master mason to principal designer. A collaborative and reactive profession, it is inextricably linked to the power of the patron, whether the client is an influential and affluent individual or a political, commercial, civic or religious organisation.

RIBA Climate Guide

Mina Hasman

Climate change is a threat to humankind, which requires immediate action. The built environment has a vital role to play in responding to the climate emergency. There is a pressing need for architects to acquire the requisite skills and knowledge to design buildings that deliver sustainable outcomes, meeting the RIBA 2030 Climate Challenge and mandatory environmental targets.

Drawing Attention

Architecture in the Age of Social Media

Edited by Hamza Shaikh

How did you do that drawing? What software did you use? What’s your process? You may have found yourself asking these questions about a striking architectural drawing. In recent years, social media has become a primary source of expression for architects and designers, yet there isn’t always the means to find out how their works became reality. Giving you a peek behind the illustrative curtain, this book demystifies the process and technique that created some of the most outstanding drawings in your feed.

Big Little Hotel

Small Hotels Designed by Architects

Donna Kacmar

This book showcases twenty different small hotels, all located in the US, designed by architects who use light and materials in interesting and intentional ways. The designs also deliberately connect to their local history, context, or land – in many cases all three. A condensed history of lodging helps to place the many typologies and histories of hospitality in relationship to world events and includes the many factors that influence hotel development such as business practices, technology, and even politics. Hotels are influenced by larger trends and innovations in hospitality such as the emergence of a variety of creative possibilities for future travel.

Building Children's Worlds
The Representation of Architecture and Modernity in Picturebooks
Edited by Torsten Schmiedeckruch, Jill Rudd and Emma Hayward
Children are the future architects, clients and users of our buildings. The kinds of architectural worlds they are exposed to in picture books during their formative years may be assumed to influence how they regard such architecture as adults.
Contemporary urban environments the world over represent the various stages of modernism in architecture. This book reads that history through picturebooks and considers the kinds of national identities and histories they construct.
This book reveals what stories are told about modern architecture and shows how those stories affect future attitudes towards and expectations of the built environment.

Designing the Forest and other Mass Timber Futures
Lindsey Wikstrom
This book positions the supply chain of mass timber as a design project, critiquing sourcing today and proposing a species-based methodology. It first interrogates why these relationships are difficult to cultivate across landscapes and industrial frameworks, and then identifies gaps that are preventing the transition towards a fully mass timber built environment. It will be an important read for any architect, urban designer or landscape architect working with timber, as well as students of architecture and design interested in the generative nature of materials.

Political Postmodernisms
Architecture in Chile and Poland, 1970–1990
Lidia Klein, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA
Series: Architect
Political Postmodernisms shows how sites outside of Western Europe and North America undermine an established narrative of architecture theory and history. It focuses specifically on postmodern architecture, which is traditionally understood as embodying the flippant and apolitical aesthetics of capitalist affluence. By investigating postmodern architecture's manifestations in the unlikely settings of Chile during the neoliberal dictatorship of Augusto Pinochet and Poland during the late socialist Polish People’s Republic, the book argues for a new account that incorporates the political roles it plays when seen in a global perspective.

The Deck Access Housing Design Guide
A Return to Streets in the Sky
Andrew Beharrell and Rory Olcayto
This book is the first practical design guide to deck access housing. It focuses on the contemporary use of deck access housing, sharing practical guidance and providing in-depth case studies, while also presenting historical context about this flexible and evolving housing type. Good architectural practice flows from an informed understanding of cultural and design history coupled with practical guidance and clear analysis of case studies. That is what this book provides for anyone interested in, or involved in the design and delivery of, deck access housing.

The Ocean as a Creative Experience
Architecture, Art, and Music
Juergen Claus
The new book by artist, diver and editor-in-chief of an underwater magazine Jürgen Claus is a milestone among the books dedicated to the planet sea. It is the knowledgeable overview, created from facts and experiences, of three creative areas that have never before been described in context. A special attention is paid by Prof. Claus on a post-disaster architecture. Younger readers are encouraged to design such metabolic buildings themselves.

The Routledge Companion to Contemporary Architectural History
Edited by Duanfang Lu, The University of Sydney, Australia
The Routledge Companion to Contemporary Architectural History features twenty-nine chapters written by leading architectural historians that define and shape future research, practice, and education.
The diverse contributions recognize multiple spatial rationalities and incorporate cross-cultural frameworks in studying the competing claims of architectural modernity. Illustrated with over 125 black and white images, this volume offers scholars, students and practitioners an evaluation of current and emerging approaches to architecture.

Towards a Critique of Architecture’s Contemporaneity
4 Essays
Gevork Hartoonian

Pursuing historical analogies between nineteenth-century theories and the current practices captivated by digital reproducibility, this book offers a critical take on architecture’s contemporaneity through four essays: tectonics, materiality, cladding, and labor.

Burrowing through the invisible tie between technique and work, asymptomatic of architecture’s predicament in global capitalism, this book advances the scope of architectural criticism beyond the exhausted formalism and architecture’s turn to philosophy circa the 1980s and the present tendencies for presentism. It will therefore be of interest to researchers and students of architectural history and theory.

Biophilic Connections and Environmental Encounters in the Urban Age Frameworks and Interdisciplinary Practice in the Built Environment
Richard Coles, Birmingham City University, UK and Sandra Costa, Birmingham City University, UK
This book takes a multi-disciplinary approach, drawing on the authors’ wide range of experience, to provide a greater understanding of the different dimensions of environmental engagement. The authors present a comprehensive account of how people negotiate and use the urban landscape with real world examples and applications through illustrated case studies in the UK, USA and across Europe. This is essential reading for students, researchers, and practitioners of architecture, landscape architecture, urban planning, design and health sciences, interested in the future of our cities and the importance of green spaces.

Property, Planning and Protest: The Contentious Politics of Housing Supply
Quintin Bradley
Property, Planning and Protest is a compelling new investigation into public opposition to housing and real estate development. Its innovative materialist approach is grounded in the political economy of land value and it recognises conflict between communities and real estate capital as a struggle over land and property rights. The amenity groups it describes champion a democratic plan-led system that allocates land for social and environmental goals. Situating this movement in a history of land reform and common rights, this book sets out a persuasive new vision of democratic planning and contributes a powerful insight into the global affordability crisis in housing.

The Corruption of Co-Design
Political and Social Conflicts in Participatory Design Thinking
Otto von Busch and Karl Palmås
This book presents emerging design-inspired practices, pointing to some of the threats and detrimental effects that may arise from their adoption. Departing from the idealism that tends to dominate the Scandinavian tradition on design, it instead proposes that concepts like participative design, social design and design thinking need to be analysed through a realist lens. Using the notion of Real Design, as a parallel to Realpolitik, the authors aim to highlight political, social and methodological obstacles when designers turn to design thinking, participation and “living labs”, with the hope of changing the world for the better.

Cultural Mega-Events and Heritage
Challenges for European Cities
Edited by Davide Ponzini, Politecnico di Milano, Italy
This book analyses case studies of heritage-rich cities that hosted mega-events to discuss emerging challenges, controversies, and accomplishments. The future of mega-events has never been more uncertain. The ongoing COVID-19 pandemic has introduced an unparalleled level of doubt regarding the kind of mega-events that will take place in the coming years. The chapters in this book provide a new theoretical framework, critical questions, and relevant case studies to argue that the nexus between mega-events and heritage is a key challenge for many cities in Europe and beyond. This book was originally published as a special issue of European Planning Studies.

Political Economy of Housing in Chile
Vergara-Perucich Francisco, Carlos Aguirre-Nunez, Felipe Encinas, Rodrigo Hidalgo-Dattwyler, Ricardo Truffello and Felipe Ladrón de Guevara
This book provides insights on the articulation between real estate development, housing provision and social inequality. It does so drawing on rich empirical evidence from the case of the Chilean housing market. This book provides insights on the articulation between real estate development, housing provision and social inequality based on applied urban economics analyses that illustrate the contradictions of neoliberal urbanism through the case of Chile. For neoliberal urbanism, the good city is not equal for all, it is based on the principle of profitability and benefits from segregation to make capital investment more efficient.

Routledge Handbook of Cultural Landscape Practice
Edited by Steve Brown, University of Sydney, Australia and Cari Goetcheus, University of Georgia, USA
Series: Routledge International Handbooks
This book centers on cultural landscapes, which in the field of heritage studies and practice relates to caring for and safeguarding heritage landscapes, a concept embedded in contemporary conservation. The aim of the Handbook is to strike a balance between theory and practice, which we see as inseparable, while also seeking to achieve a geographical spread, disciplinary diversity and perspectives, and a mix of authors from academic, practitioner, management, and community backgrounds.

Routledge Handbook of Urban Public Space
Use, Design, and Management

Edited by Karen A. Franck and Te-Sheng Huang
Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This handbook presents evidence that there has not been an end of public space and its varied use. In cities in different parts of the world people still use public space to pursue activities of their choice, including for recreation, commerce, protest, living and celebration. Each section of the book is international in scope, presenting cases of activities in Brazil, China, Colombia, DR Congo, Egypt, Finland, Germany, Libya, Taiwan, Turkey and the U.S. Graduate students, faculty members and researchers in social science, architecture, landscape architecture, geography, and urban design will find the book useful for understanding, studying, and designing urban public space.

Analysis of Pavement Structures
Animesh Das, Department of Civil Engineering, IIT Kanpur, India.
Analysis of Pavement Structures brings together current research and existing knowledge on the analysis and design of pavements and introduces load and thermal stress analyses of asphalt and concrete pavement structures in a simple and step-by-step manner. For the second edition of this book, new chapter on numerical implementation of pavement analysis is added along with topics as mechanical modeling of granular materials, applications of convolution theorems in visco-elasticity, visco-elastic Poisson’s ratio, concepts of fracture mechanics in relation to fatigue of asphalt mix, solution of semi-infinite and so forth. New solved examples and schematic diagrams are also added.

Intumescent Coating and Fire Protection of Steel Structures
Guo-Qiong Li, Tongji University, China, Ling-Ling Wang, Huqiao University, China, Qing Xu, Tongji University, China and Jun-Wei Ge, Akoz Nobel Marine, Protective & Yacht Coatings, China
Intumescent coating insulates structural steel from fire damage. This book for fire and structural engineers shows how to predict the temperature elevation of steel structures in fire, how the state and thickness of the porous char formed change, and how the coating’s organic ingredients age as its components are dissolved by moisture in the air and affect the design life of the structure. The constant effective thermal conductivity is defined. Hydrothermal aging, along with the influence of topcoat on insulation and aging, are presented, with a practical method for calculating the temperature of the protected steel structures and the fire safety of a structure.

Innovation in TBM Traffic Tunnels
Silvino Pompeu-Santos
Innovation in TBM Traffic Tunnels presents three innovative concepts in the field of construction of TBM rail and road tunnels: the TSB concept that improves the structural safety of those built on soft soil in seismic areas, and the TMG and TMF concepts, for rail and road tunnels, respectively, that allow for significant reduction of their cost and the improvement of safety during operation. Examples of the application of these new concepts in the conceptual design of specific tunnel cases are presented and compared with solutions based on common approaches, demonstrating the additional benefits of these concepts.

Laboratory Tests for Unsaturated Soils
Eng-Choong Leong, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore and Martin Wijaya, Parahyangan Catholic University, Indonesia
Testing of unsaturated soils is particularly difficult and time-consuming, and guidance for engineers is minimal. This is the first book to systematically collate the various laboratory tests. It covers general background and theory along with test procedures and the interpretation of test results. Test procedures are broken down into simple stages, and the pitfalls are described. Test data and calculation methods are provided along with several numerical examples. It serves for students and researchers who are new to the field as well as for established professionals.

Water Projects and Technologies in Asia

Historical Perspectives
Edited by Hyoseop Woo, Gwangju Institute of Science and Technology, Korea; Hitoshi Tanaka, Tohoku University, Japan, Gregory De Costa, Open Polytechnic of New Zealand, New Zealand and Juan Lu. Water History Department, IWH, China
Series: IAHR Books
This book is a collection of a highly refined articles on historical water projects and traditional water technologies of international interest in the Asian region addressing information on past water projects (mostly before the 20th century) in the Asian regions that are technically and culturally of interest and educationally valuable. This book will enable the reader to understand historical water projects and technologies in the Asian region and can be used as a one-stop resource to source notable Asian water projects and their relevance to modern-day technology.

Essentials of Mechanical Stress Analysis

Amir Javidinejad, Zodiac Aerospace, Garden Grove, California, USA
The second edition adds new topics and updates research to follow current advances in the field. New sections on material properties, composite materials and finite element analysis enable the reader to further establish the fundamental theory behind material behaviour, and the causes of stress and strain. Also covering beams, plates, columns and elastic instability, the book discusses fatigue, life cycle, energy methods and MathCAD sample code.

SYSTEM DYNAMICS FOR COMPLEX PROBLEMS IN PAVEMENT ENGINEERING

Rajib Mallick, Worcester Polytechnic Institute, USA
Most, if not all, civil engineering problems are those involving interdependency, and hence segmented approaches of learning one individual topic at a time makes it difficult for students to learn, understand, and apply rational concepts for the design, construction, and maintenance of larger infrastructure components. System Dynamics for Complex Problems in Pavement Engineering presents an introduction to a systems approach to help readers evolve and develop their capabilities of learning, communicating, and researching through system dynamics modeling and experimentation.

Behaviour and Design of Steel and Composite Connections in Fire

Mostafa Jafarian, Warringtonfire, UK and Yong Wang, University of Manchester, UK
This is the only dedicated book on fire performance of connections in steel and composite structures. Recent experimental and numerical studies, from individual elements to whole, real scale structures, have indicated that connections are among the most vulnerable and critical parts of these structures. This book synthesises the research findings on this important subject and explains the essential features in an accessible way in one single source. The book is ideal for researchers, structural engineers, and fire protection engineers in their applications of performance-based fire engineering.

Establishing a Performance Index for Construction Project Managers

Virendra Kumar Paul, School of Planning and Architecture, New Delhi, Sushil Kumar Solanki, School of Planning and Architecture, India, Abhijit Rastogi and Parnika Singh Yadav

This book presents a brand new, comprehensive, and reliable quantitative tool to assess the performance of a construction project manager. It can be used by aspiring and practicing project managers for measuring their own performance and assessing their relative strengths and weaknesses. Organisations can use the tool as a benchmark to select the best of their human resources for their projects, and training institutions can use the tool to set a baseline, highlight areas for intervention and indicate the readiness of trainees to face real world projects.

Driving Automation

A Human Factors Perspective

Mark S. Young, Loughborough University, UK and Neville A. Stanton, Professor, Transportation Research Group, University of Southampton, UK

Series: Human Factors, Simulation and Performance Assessment
Driving Automation: A Human Factors Perspective addresses a range of issues related to vehicle autonomous vehicle automation beyond the “how” or “can we” to “what will be the implications”. It covers important topics including mental workload and malleable resources theory, effects of adaptive cruise control on mental workload, in-vehicle interface design, driver modeling and monitoring, eco-driving, responses to automation failure, and brake reaction time with automation.

Occupational Exposures

Chemical Carcinogens and Mutagens

Frances Alston, Oregon State University, USA and Onwuka Okorie, Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory (LLNL), USA

Series: Sustainable Improvements in Environment Safety and Health
The text provides a comprehensive list of carcinogens and mutagens, preventative measures, and controls for carcinogens and mutagens. It will be used as a resource in assisting organizations to prevent illnesses as a result of cancers caused by occupational exposures. It will be a valuable resource for professionals and graduate students in the fields of occupational health and safety, industrial engineering, and chemical engineering.

Visual Ergonomics for Communication Design

A Layperson's Approach

Prabir Mukhopadhyay, Indian Institute of Information Technology Design and Manufacturing, Jabalpur, India

Visual Ergonomics for Communication Design: A Layperson’s Approach introduces the application of ergonomics principles in visual communication design. It enables the visual designer to look at different aspects of visual design from the point of view of the user to ensure that their designs are more user-friendly.

The title allows the reader to apply the principles of ergonomics in different facets of communication design such as pictograms, icons, logo design, product labeling, information system in space, and visual ergonomics in simple map design. Each chapter features “key points”, practice sections and exercises, allowing the reader to consolidate what they have learned.

Oceans and Society
An Introduction to Marine Studies

Edited by Ana K. Spalding and Daniel O. Suman

This unique textbook presents an introduction to the interdisciplinary field of marine studies, exploring the dynamic relationship between people and the marine environment. Oceans and Society is essential reading for students on marine studies courses, as well as those studying marine governance, policy, conservation and law more broadly. It will also be of great interest to students, researchers and professionals interested in applying interdisciplinary approaches to environmental challenges.

Applications of Advanced Nanomaterials in Water Treatment

Edited by Dinesh Kumar, Central University of Gujarat, India and Meena Nemiwal, MNIT Jaipur

Many research groups worldwide have been working for thriving remediation technologies based on nanomaterials in the recent two decades. Water and wastewater treatment by nanomaterial-based technologies has become a beneficial aid in finding possible solutions for contaminated wastewater released from various water sources. Nanoscale materials are seen to take on unique and unpredictable properties that make them more robust, flexible, lighter, and faster, and the specific material used for the formation of devices and systems.

Emerging Technologies in Wastewater Treatment

Edited by Maulin P. Shah, Environmental Microbiology Lab Bharuch, India

Emerging Technologies in wastewater treatment plant is an ecological, profitable and natural technology designed to eliminate heavy metals, radionuclides, xenobiotic compounds, organic waste, pesticides, etc. from contaminated sites or industrial downloads through biological means. Since this technology is used in conditions on site, it does not physically disturb the site unlike conventional methods, that is, chemical or mechanical methods.

Groundwater
Recent Advances in Interdisciplinary Knowledge

Edited by Raya Marina Stephan, James E. Nickum, International Water Resources Association, Japan and Philippus Wester

Series: Routledge Special Issues on Water Policy and Governance
This book contributes to UN Water Groundwater year (2022), and to the effort of “making the invisible, visible”. Through worldwide case studies ranging from the Americas (California, Brazil), to Asia (India, Iran, Lao PDR, Nepal), Africa (Malawi, Tanzania, South Africa) and the MENA region (Lebanon, Morocco, Yemen), including cases of transboundary aquifers, the chapters in this edited volume reflect important recent advances in interdisciplinary knowledge on the governance, management, practice and science-policy interfaces of groundwater.

Membrane and Membrane-Based Processes for Wastewater Treatment

Edited by Maulin P. Shah, Environmental Microbiology Lab Bharuch, India

Series: Wastewater Treatment and Research

This book gives an insight about recent developments in membrane technology for wastewater treatment. Industrial wastewater contains a large variety of compounds, such as heavy metals, salts and nutrients, which makes its treatment challenging. Thus, the use of conventional water treatment methods is not always effective. In this sense, membrane-based hybrid processes have emerged as a promising technology to treat complex industrial wastewater.

The Lithium Legacy

Ihor Kunasz

While lithium has been the subject of many specific publications, no comprehensive book, covering all aspects of lithium from its discovery to the use in batteries, has been published. This book explores the original discovery of lithium and its development from a mineral, geological occurrences, and various applications that culminate in the present use in the ever-expanding electromotive industry. The author's wonderful and exciting experiences of his long lithium career shared in this book will satisfy the readers' curiosity about this expanding industry.

2nd Edition - NEW EDITION
Handbook of Environmental Engineering
Frank R. Spellman, Spellman Environmental Consultants, Norfolk, Virginia, USA
This new edition provides a practical view of pollution and its impact on the natural environment. Driven by the hope of a sustainable future, it stresses the importance of environmental law and resource sustainability, and offers a wealth of information based on real-world observations and expert experience. It presents a basic overview of environmental pollution, emphasizes key terms, and addresses specific concepts in advanced algebra, fundamental engineering, and statistics.

Multiaxial Notch Fracture and Fatigue
Xianggiao Yan, Harbin Institute of Technology, China
The book enables the reader to tackle the failure problem of notched components and presents a new type of S-N equation. Detailing material intensity parameters, which are dependent on both the uniaxial material strength and the stress multiaxial parameter, the book then looks at the failure condition of these materials. Covering the Wöhler Curve Method, which is most suited to low-cycle fatigue life analysis of metallic materials, the book also includes chapters on mechanical quantities, linear-elastic stress analysis and multiaxial fatigue.

Nanomedicine
Panacea or Pandora’s Box?
Jonathan Simon and Bertrand Rihn
This is an introduction to nanomedicine informed by a philosophical reflection about the domain and recent developments. The authors present some case-studies illustrating the different areas of research (nanopharmacy, theranostics and patient monitoring) as well as reflecting on the risks that accompany it, such as unanticipated impacts on human health and environmental toxicity. This introduction is of great interest to researchers working in many disciplines as well as the general public. In addition to an overview of the work currently ongoing, the authors critically assess these projects from an ethical and philosophical perspective.

Optics of the Human Eye
David Atchison
This book describes the optical structure and optical properties of the human eye. It is divided into a number of short chapters with each chapter dedicated to a single theme. For ease of reference, the most commonly useful topics are at the beginning and topics with narrower appeal, such as ocular aberrations, are placed towards the end. This will be an invaluable resource for optometrists, ophthalmologists, vision scientists, optical physicists/ engineers as well as students of visual optics. An understanding of the optics of the human eye is also particularly important to designers of ophthalmic diagnostic equipment and visual optical systems such as telescopes.

Spark Ignition Engine Modeling and Control System Design
A Guide to Model-in-the-Loop Hierarchical Control Methodology

Amir-Mohammad Shamekhi, K. N. Toosi University of Technology, Iran and Amir Hosein Shamekh, K. N. Toosi University of Technology, Iran

Control system improvement is one of the major priorities for engineers seeking to enhance an engine. Often possible on a low budget, substantial improvements can be made through applying cutting-edge methods, such as artificial intelligence. Chapters on low level control discuss adaptive model predictive control and adaptive variable functioning. At mid-level control, engine calibration maps are discussed, with consideration of constraints such as limits on pollutant emissions. Finally, high-level control methodology is detailed in relation to transient torque control of SI engines. This comprehensive guide to control system improvement is an essential read for automotive engineers.

Experiment Design for Civil Engineering
Methods and Examples

Francis J. Hopcroft and Abigail Charest, Wentworth Institute of Technology, MA, USA

This textbook provides guidance to students and practicing civil engineers on how to design a civil engineering experiment that will produce useful and unassailable results. It includes a long list of complete experiment designs that students can perform in the laboratory at most universities and that many consulting engineers can do in corporate laboratories. These experiments also provide a way to evaluate a new design against an existing experiment to determine what information is most appropriate in each section and how to format the data for the most effective outcome.

Flight Mechanics Modeling and Analysis

Jitendra R. Rao, Ramaiah Institute of Technology, India and Jatinder Singh, CSIR-NAL, India

Flight Mechanics Modeling and Analysis comprehensively covers flight mechanics and flight dynamics using a systems approach. The book focuses on applied mathematics and control theory in its discussion of flight mechanics to build a strong foundation for solving design and control problems. The book is intended for senior undergraduate aerospace students taking Aircraft Mechanics, Flight Dynamics & Controls, and Flight Mechanics courses. The second edition includes two new chapters and coverage of aerovisual fatigue, including concepts, control, and estimation. It also features end-of-chapter exercises and examples with a MATLAB® based approach.

Maritime Cargo Operations

Alexander Arnfinn Olsen, RINA Consulting Defence, UK

Maritime Cargo Operations introduces the core concepts of cargo work for marine engineering students and cadets. It provides enough detail to provide a sound basis for a future career, and it is built around the essential principles of the maritime profession. Each subject area begins with a learning outcome and ends with self-test questions. It also offers a general overview for deck officers.

Kinematics and Dynamics of Mechanical Systems

Kevin Russell, New Jersey Institute of Technology, USA, John Q. Shen, Softalkin LLC, USA and Raj S. Sodhi, New Jersey Institute of Technology, USA

Updated throughout for the third edition, Kinematics and Dynamics of Mechanical Systems: Implementation in MATLAB® and Simscape Multibody™ offers step-by-step instruction on the fundamentals of mechanism kinematics, synthesis, statics and dynamics, alongside demonstrating its real-world applications. Following updates made by MATLAB®, replacing Simmechanics with new system Simscape Multibody, this textbook provides updated instructions and example problems to fully enable the reader to use this new and improved system. New features includes enhanced rendering, 3D geometry in animations of user-generated solutions for planar linkages, spatial linkages and robotic systems.

Process Intensification

Ramamurthy Nagarajan, Dept of Chemical Engineering, IIT Madras

Process Intensification: Faster, Better, Cheaper presents basic concepts and applications of Process Intensification (PI) and links their common effects across processes. It defines two fundamental parameters, PI factor, and Cost Impact (CI) factor, and uses these to analyze various applications where PI has been carried out. The book is intended for senior undergraduate chemical and mechanical engineering students taking courses in Process Design, Process Optimization, Process Synthesis, and Process Intensification. Each chapter investigates a specific application, discusses the key PI principles, and includes problem sets and examples.

Thermal Radiation
An Introduction
John R. Howell, The University of Texas at Austin, Austin, USA, M. Pinar Menguc, Ozyegin Universities, Istanbul, Turkey and Kyle Daun
This book is a complete text for a one-semester introductory graduate course on radiative energy transfer. It bridges the gap between a basic introduction and comprehensive coverage of thermal radiation, focusing on insight into radiative transfer as practiced by engineers. The textbook is intended for instructors and graduate students in a first-year course on radiative heat transfer or advanced heat transfer. Covering radiative transfer among surfaces, with an introduction to the effects of participating media between surfaces, the book includes surface and medium property characteristics and solution of the radiative transfer equation in simple geometries.

Advances in Microwave Processing for Engineering Materials
Edited by Amit Bansal, Gujrat Punjab Technical University, India and Hitesh Vasudev, LPU, India
This text discusses recent research techniques in the field of microwave processing of engineering materials by utilizing microwave radiation in the form of microwave hybrid heating (MHH). It is useful for industrial and household applications including the joining of materials, casting of bulk metal alloy material, drilling of borosilicate glass materials, development of cladding of different materials for friction, wear, and corrosion. It will serve as an ideal reference text for graduate students and academic researchers in the fields of materials science, manufacturing engineering, industrial engineering, mechanical engineering, and production engineering.

Air Turbulence and its Methods of Detection
Leonardo Di G. Sagolotti, Autonomous Metropolitan University, Azcapotzalco Unit, Mexico, Fidel Cruz Peregrino, Universidad Autonoma Metropolitana, Mexico and Alejandro Ramirez-Rojas
Air Turbulence and its Methods of Detection provides an up-to-date description of the latest advances in the understanding of air turbulence generation and offers a concise presentation of the more recent clear air turbulence detection and warning methods along with the new technologies for reducing aviation weather-related accidents. The text provides a background into the nature and causes of atmospheric turbulence that affects aircraft motion and ends with a full description of future challenges in clear air turbulence detection and prediction. The book is a valuable tool for researchers and engineers working in the detection and forecasting of air turbulence.

Analysis of Structures by Matrix Methods
Fathi Al-Shawi, Sheffield-Hallam University, United Kingdom
This book deals with the analysis of engineering structures that are made of skeletal members and covers the types of structures that are commonly used in practice. It comprises 12 chapters, with a chapter on matrix algebra included in the beginning of the book to show the various types of computations that are relevant to the content in the subsequent chapters. Other chapters deal with the analysis of bar elements, pin-connected, rigid-plane, and 3D frames, special forms of members, and stability and vibration of structures.

Bionanotechnology Towards Green Energy
Innovative and Sustainable Approach
Edited by Shubha Dwivedi, IMT University, India and Naveen Dwivedi, S. D. College of Engineering & Technology, India
Series: Advances in Bionanotechnology
This book explains the role of bionanotechnology in the next generation technologies of green energy. With a focus on interdisciplinary sustainability perspective, chapters cover different roles of bionanotechnology, as applications of bio-nano-enabled materials/coatings, scaling-up of green energy production, and design and synthesis of bio-inspired nanomaterials and their applications. Bio-nanofluids based photovoltaic thermal systems, use of bio-template and biomimetic materials, and so forth. It focuses on the waste to energy conversion and fix the intricate environmental issues. This book aims at researchers and professionals in bionanotechnology, energy sciences, and environmental engineering.

Biowaste and Biomass in Biofuel Applications
Edited by Yashvir Singh, Graphic Era Uni, India, Vladimir Strezov, Macquarie University, Sydney, Australia and Prateek Negi, Graphic Era University, Uttarakhand, India
Series: Mathematical Engineering, Manufacturing, and Management Sciences
This book reflects the new dimension of biofuel production from its introductory principles to the advancements in its future prospective. It summarizes the rationale for changes in traditional fuel utilization and selection of new technologies with an aim to make biofuel cost-effective to move towards a carbon-neutral approach. This includes the evidence-based outline of how additives and nanotechnology chemically change the quality and effectiveness of biofuels including new and innovative approaches such as nanomaterials and various nano-additives. This book is aimed at students, graduates, and researchers in bioprocessing, chemical engineering, and biotechnology.

Carbon-Based Conductive Polymer Composites
Processing, Properties, and Applications in Flexible Strain Sensors
Dong Xiang
Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies
Conductive polymer composites based on carbon nanomaterials are finding increasing applications in aerospace, automotive and electronic industries where flexibility or light weight is required. This book summarizes recent remarkable achievements in the processing-structure-property relationship of conductive polymer composites based on carbon nanomaterials. It also discusses research developments for their application in flexible strain sensors and novel processing methods like additive manufacturing. This work is written for materials scientists and engineers researching and applying these advanced materials.
Colloidal Gold Nanorods
Science and Technology
Nikhil Ranjan Jana, Indian Association for the Cultivation of Science, India
This book covers synthesis and applications of colloidal gold nanorods including their properties, approaches for various chemical synthesis, and different gold nanorod-based nanocomposites with their properties and application potentials. Further, it covers surface chemistry and functionalization of gold nanorod for various biomedical applications. Various applications of gold nanorods including optical probe, dark filed contrast agent, photothermal therapy agent, plasmonic photocatalyst are covered, along with the toxicological aspects. This shortform book is aimed at graduate students and researchers interested in nanotechnology and gold nanoparticles.

Computational Techniques for Text Summarization based on Cognitive Intelligence
V. Priya and K. Umamaheswari
The book is concerned with contemporary methodologies used for automatic text summarization. It proposes interesting approaches to solve well-known problems on text-summarization using computational intelligence (CI) techniques including cognitive approaches. The book is not to make readers understand what text summarization is, but for people to perform text summarization using various approaches. The new approach for text summarization based on cognitive intelligence is presented for further exploration in the field.

Data Driven Strategies
Theory and Applications
Ricardo A. Ramirez-Mendoza, Technologico De Monterrey, Mexico, Wang Jianhong, Jiangxi University of Science and Technology, China and Ruben Morales-Menendez
Finding exciting and efficient ways to integrate data into control theory has been a problem of great interest. As most of the classical contributions in control strategy rely on model description, the issue of finding such a model from measured data, i.e., system identification, has become mature research filed. More recently, data-driven control directly from measured data has received increasing interest, so systematic theoretical analysis and engineering applications have been addressed here.

DC/AC Electrical Fundamentals
Dale R. Patrick, Stephen W. Fardo, Ray Richardson and Vigyan (Vigs) Chandra
This book explores many essential topics in a basic and easy-to-understand manner. This book, and the accompanying Electronic Devices and Circuit Fundamentals, have been modified with significant updates in content. The books are developed using a classic textbook – Electricity and Electronics: A Survey (5th Edition) – as a framework. Both new books have been structured using a similar sequence and organization as previous editions. This book has been expanded to include 19 chapters, further simplifying content, and providing a more comprehensive coverage of the content.

Deep Eutectic Solvents in Liquid-Liquid Extraction
Correlation and Molecular Dynamics Simulation
Deep Eutectic Solvents (DES) are new class of green solvents that opens a whole new world of opportunities for separation challenges. This book comprehensively provides a detailed discussion of their application as an extractive solvent in separation processes, adopting Molecular Dynamics (MD) simulations for atomistic insight into the solute transfer across bi-phasic systems. Further, it explains ternary and quaternary mixtures, including molecular dynamics simulation of relevant DES systems. This book is aimed at researchers, graduate students, and professionals in chemistry, separation science, chromatography, chemical processing, and design.

Digital Twin
A Dynamic System and Computing Perspective
Ranjani Ganguli, Viast Inc., Phoenix, USA, Sondipon Adhikari, Swansea University, UK, Souvik Chakraborty, IIT Delhi, India and Mrittika Ganguli
The digital twin of a physical system is an adaptive computer analog which exists in the cloud and adapts to changes in the physical system dynamically. This book introduces the computing, mathematical and engineering background to understand and develop the concept of the digital twin. It provides background in modeling/simulation, computing technology, sensor/actuators, and so forth, needed to develop the next generation of digital twins. Concepts on cloud computing, big data, IoT, wireless communications, high performance computing, and blockchain are also discussed. This book aims at graduate students and researchers in electrical, mechanical, computer, and production engineering.

Wenyi Zhao, Jacobus Pharmaceutical Company, Princeton, New Jersey, USA
This fully updated second edition reflects significant changes in process chemistry since the first edition and includes more common process issues such as safety, cost, robustness, and environmental impact. Some areas have made notable progress such as process safety, stereochemistry, new reagents and reagent surrogates. Forty years ago there were few process research and development activities in the pharmaceutical industry, partly due to the simplicity of drug molecules. With increasing structural complexity especially the introduction of chiral centers into drug molecules and stricter regulations, process R&D has become one of the critical departments for pharmaceutical companies.

Edited by Ajay, SGT University, India, Parveen, Rawal Institute of Engineering and Technology, India, Sharif Ahmad, Jamia Millia Islamia Central University, India, Jyotsna Sharma, Arity University Haryana, India and Victor Gambhir
Handbook of Sustainable Materials presents recent developments in sustainable materials and how these materials interact with the environment. It highlights the recent and advancements involved in proper utilization of sustainable materials, including chemical and biological approaches. The book will be useful to graduate students, researchers, and professionals working with sustainable materials. It considers applications in sectors such as aerospace, automobile, and biomedical for rapid prototyping and customized production without negative environmental impacts. Lévy Statistics and Spin Glass Behavior in Random Lasers

Edited by Anderson S. L. Gomes, André L. Moura, Cid B. de Araujo and Ernesto P. Raposo

The scope of the book relies on the description of the already vast literature starting in 2006, but with an experimental explosion since 2015. The book describes the basis of random lasers and random fibres, theoretical background and connection between magnetism and photonics related to RSB, and theoretical backgrounds for experiments in Lévy statistics, turbulence, and Floquet states. The contributors are from three of the groups with most contributions in the field.

Liquid Crystals with Nano/Micro Particles and Their Applications

Jayeeta Chattopadhyay, Amity University Jharkhand, India and Rohit Srivastava, Pandit Deendayal Petroleum University, India

LCs are self-organized anisotropic fluids that are thermodynamically located between the isotropic liquid and the crystalline phase, exhibiting the fluidity of liquids as well as the long-range lattice order that can only be found in crystalline solids. The addition of nanomaterials to a LC material produces a composite or colloidal dispersion and results into a revolutionary change in their applications. This book will discuss the remarkable performances of nano-particle aided liquid crystals in metamaterials, photonics, functionalized polymer fibres, sensing, and medical diagnostics.

Machine Learning and Artificial Intelligence in Healthcare Systems

Tools and Techniques

Edited by Tawseef Ayoub Shaik, Baba Ghulam Shah Badshah University, Saqib Hakak, Canadian Institute for Cybersecurity, Fredericton, Tabasum Rasool, Indian Institute of Science Bangalore and Mohammed Wasiud, Government Engineering College, Bhopal

This book discusses AI-based smart paradigms for reliable prediction of infectious disease dynamics which can help or prevent disease transmission. It highlights the different aspects of using extended reality for diverse healthcare applications and aggregates the current state of research. The book offers intelligent models of the smart recommender system for personal well-being services and computer-aided drug discovery and design methods. Case studies illustrating the business processes that underlie the use of big data and health analytics to improve healthcare delivery are center stage.

Metal Matrix Composites

Advances in Processing Methods, Machinability Studies and Applications

Edited by Jayakrishna Kandasamy, VT University Vellore, Rajyalakshmi G, VIT Vellore, India and Mohamed Thaib Bin Hameed Sultan, Universiti Putra, Malaysia

With a focus on advances in metal matrix composite (MMC) fabrications from a theoretical and experimental perspective, this book describes the recent development for the manufacturing of MMCs, various processing methods and parameters, mechanical properties, and synthesis of MMCs composites. It deals with several multi-criteria decision-making techniques suggested to choose the best materials for application and the effects of reinforcement on chip formation, tool wear and part quality during the machining. This book aims at Graduate students, researchers and professionals in Micro/Nano science & Technology, Mechanical Engineering, Industrial Engineering, Metallurgy, and Composites.

Mathematical Gnostics

Advanced Data Analysis for Research and Engineering Practice

Pavel Kovanic, Zdenek Wagner, Magdalena Bendova and Jan Rotrek

This book describes the theoretical principles of nonstatistical methods of data analysis but without going deep into complex mathematics. The emphasis is laid on presentation of solved examples of real data either from authors’ laboratories or from open literature. The examples cover wide range of applications such as quality assurance and quality control, critical analysis of experimental data, comparison of data samples from various sources, robust linear and nonlinear regression as well as various tasks from financial analysis. The examples are useful primarily for chemical engineers including analytical/quality laboratories in industry, designers of chemical and biological processes.

Series: Computers in Engineering Design and Manufacturing

This book introduces the applications of Industry 4.0 in machine tools through an overview of the latest available digital technologies. It focuses on the digital twinning of machine tools which improves the life of the machines and provides a method of operating a factory during times of complete lockdown. It presents an overview of the communication between industrial controls, motion, and input/output devices through standardized digital interfaces such as SERCOS and USB. It discusses industrial cybersecurity systems applicable to discrete manufacturing which includes cyberattacks and human errors and addresses the security aspects related to software, hardware, and data.

Micro to Quantum Supercapacitor Devices
Abha Misra, Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore, India
Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies
Super capacitors have established their role as high power density device capable of storing energy for multiple cycles that are much higher in number compared to the batteries. This book outlines the fundamentals of charge storage mechanisms in different configurations of super capacitor. It describes the super capacitor related phenomena, state of art supercapacitor technologies, design and fabrication of electrodes, materials for the supercapacitor, macro-super capacitor, planar super capacitor, significance of electrode design, merits, demerits of current technologies and future directions. It also details related physics including prospective materials and electrode parameters.

Microbiology of Green Fuels
Edited by Abu Yousuf, Shahjalal University of Science and Technology, Bangladesh and Elia Tomás Pejo, IMDEA Energy, Biotechnological Processes Unit, Spain
Biological biofuel production processes require conversion microorganisms capable of both efficiently assimilating renewable low-cost carbon sources and diverting their metabolisms towards the specific biofuel. Exploring the wide diversity of microorganisms available on Earth will surely aid to make the production of green fuels a reality. This book gives a wide overview of different microbial-based processes for green fuels production. The book also includes techno-economic analysis and highlights strategic, commercial and environmental interests in promoting green fuels.

Multifunctional Polymeric Foams
Advancements and Innovative Approaches
Edited by Soney C. George, Amal Jyothi College of Engineering, Kerala, India, and Resmi B. P., TKM Institute of Technology, India
Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies
Nanotechnology provides an innovative platform for drug delivery and antiviral actions. This book discusses the utilization of nano-based formulations for control of viral agents. Antiviral potential of green synthesized silver, chitosan nanoparticles encapsulating curcumin, photoinduced antiviral carbon nanohorns, and role of carbon-based materials like fullerences, and carbon nanotubes in repression of viral antigens are explained. It covers nanomaterial-based solutions for SARS-COV-2 and other viral infections. This book is aimed at researchers, graduate students in materials science, microbiology and virology, and pharmaceutical sciences.

Myconanotechnology
Emerging Trends and Applications
Edited by Mahendra Rai, Nicolaus Copernicus University, Poland and Patrycja Golinska, Nicolaus Copernicus University, Poland
Myconanotechnology is a highly interdisciplinary science emerging at a fast pace and has garnered the attention of nanotechnologists, mycologists, biomedical experts, and agriculture scientists, among others. For the last decade, there has been tremendous progress in this field owing to its wider and more effective applications. In this book, the authors have attempted to discuss different evolving trends in medicine, food, agriculture, veterinary, environment, and textiles.

Nanocarbons
Preparation, Assessments, and Applications
Ashwini P. Alegaonkar, Savitribai Phule Pune University, Pune, India and Prashant S. Alegaonkar, Central University of Punjab, India
Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies
This book provides practical platform to the readers for facile preparation of various forms of carbons in its nano format, investigate their structure-property relationship and finally realize them for a variety of applications taking the route of application engineering. It covers preparation and evaluation of nanocarbons, variety of carbon nanotubes, graphene, graphite, and additively manufactured 3D carbon fibres, their properties and various factors associated with them. Summary and outlook of the nanocarbon filed is included in the appendices. The book is aimed at Researchers and graduate students in Materials science and Materials Engineering, nanomaterials, and Physics.

Nanomaterials from Renewable Resources for Emerging Applications
Edited by Sandeep S. Ahankari, Amar K. Mohanty and Manjusri Misra
Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies
Nanomaterials from Renewable Resources for Emerging Applications details developments in nanomaterials produced from renewable materials and their usage in food and packaging, energy conservation, and environmental applications. Equally beneficial to researchers and professionals, this book is aimed at readers across materials science and engineering, chemical engineering, chemistry, and related fields interested in sustainable engineering.

Next Generation Solar Cells

Principles and Materials

Yoon-Bong Hahn, Tahmineh Mahmoudi and Yousheng Wang

This book addresses the principles and materials for the development of next-generation solar cells for a sustainable global society. It reviews the structures, working principles, and limitations of solar cells as well as the improvement methods of their power-conversion efficiency. It introduces generations of cells as photovoltaic devices, including third-generation solar cells such as organic solar cells, quantum dots solar cells, and organic–inorganic hybrid solar cells. It focuses on the emerging perovskite solar cells (PSCs) and deals with their cell configuration, transport materials, and fabrication processes in detail.

Edited by Zdzislaw Polkowski, Jan Wyzewko University, Poland, Samarjeet Borah, Professor, Sikkim Manipal Institute of Technology, India, Sambit Kumar Mishra, Gandhi Inst. for Educ. and Tech., India and Darshana Desai, Indira College of Engineering & Management

This book discusses the newest approach to online learning systems in higher education. As e-learning platforms change their mechanisms for data processing and storage, there is a need to move these systems towards being more efficient and smarter.

Online Learning Systems discusses the efficiency measurement and environmental impact of online education. The book offers a parametric evaluation and categorization of online learning systems and provides an exploration into big-data ecosystems in cloud computing. Descriptive analytical methods to assist in finding solutions for big data challenges are also covered within the book.

Wind and Solar Energy Applications
Technological Challenges and Advances
Edited by Satish Kumar Peddapelli, Osmania University, India and Peter Virtic, University of Maribor, Slovenia

This book examines the recent advances, from the theoretical and applied perspectives addressing the major issues associated with renewable energy systems with each chapter covering fundamental issues and latest developments. This book covers important themes including solar energy equipment, wind energy systems, solar energy systems, energy storage and bioenergy applications, hybrid renewable energy systems, energy as well as the measurement techniques that are used for these systems. Further, it focusses on original research outcomes on various technological developments and provides insights to taxonomy of challenges, issues and research directions in renewable energy applications.

3D Printing of Sensors, Actuators, and Antennas for Low-Cost Product Manufacturing
Edited by Rupinder Singh, NITTR, Chandigarh, India, Balwinder Singh Dhaival, National Institute of Technical Teachers Training and Research, Chandigarh, and Shyam Sundar Pattnaik
Series: Sustainable Manufacturing Technologies
Offering the most recent developments in 3D printing of sensors, actuators, and antennas for low-cost product manufacturing, this book highlights some of the commercially available low-cost 3D printing processes that have higher efficiency and accuracy. Fundamental principles and working methodologies are presented with a critical review of the past work involved and current trends with future predictions. It covers composite and polymeric materials widely used and specifically focusing on the low-cost element. Recent breakthroughs and advantages in product manufacturing when printing smart materials are also discussed.

Additive Manufacturing
Advanced Materials and Design Techniques
Edited by Pulak Mohan Pandey, Indian Institute of Technology Delhi, Nishant K. Singh, Hindustan College of Science and Technology, Mathura and Yashvir Singh, Graphic Era Uni, India
Series: Mathematical Engineering, Manufacturing, and Management Sciences
This text covers recent developments in manufacturing technology, such as additive manufacturing, 3D printing, rapid prototyping, production process operations, and manufacturing sustainability. It covers applications of additive manufacturing in diverse areas including the healthcare sector, electronics industry, production, and manufacturing sectors. The text further emphasizes the use of additive manufacturing for biocomposites and functionally graded materials.

Continuous Improvement in Organizations
José Dinis Carvalho
This book presents what you need to know to really implement continuous improvement in companies or other organizations. In addition to all the support needed for this to make sense, the importance of the right direction to guide it is unveiled. This book was written with the aim of helping engineering students in courses related to operations management to develop skills in this area, as well as businessmen with curiosity about this subject, production directors, people responsible for continuous improvement and all professionals working in companies or other organizations with responsibility for their performance and their future.

Decision Support System
Susmita Bandyopadhyay, University of Burdwan, WB, India
This book presents different tools and techniques used for Decision Support Systems (DSS) including decision tree and table, and their modifications, multi-criteria decision analysis techniques, network tools of decision support and various case-based reasoning methods supported by examples and case studies. Latest developments for each of the techniques have been discussed separately and possible future research areas are duly identified as intelligent and spatial DSS. This book aims at researchers and graduate students in information systems, data analytics, operation research including management and computer science areas.

Smart and Sustainable Operations and Supply Chain Management in Industry 4.0
Edited by Turan Paksoy, Konya Technical University and Muhammet Deveci, National Defence University, Tuza
Series: Smart and Sustainable Operations and Supply Chain Management
Smart and Sustainable Operations and Supply Chain Management in Industry 4.0 discusses smart and sustainable supply chain management concepts that are analyzed within the Industry 4.0 perspective. It also highlights green systems and smart applications within an Industry 4.0 setting and presents the latest technological developments, including disruptive technologies and their impact on smart and sustainable supply chains under the triple-bottom-line approach. Sustainable Materials and Manufacturing Technologies
Edited by Navneet Khanna, IITRAM, India, Kishor Kumar Gajrani, IIIT DM, India, Khaled Giasin, University of Portsmouth, UK and J. Paulo Davim, Univ. of Aveiro
Series: Science, Technology, and Management

Materials and manufacturing techniques are a few of the vital processes in production industries. Most of the materials processing and manufacturing techniques currently used in industries are a major cause of environmental pollution and are hence unsustainable. This book provides in-depth knowledge about challenges faced during the processing of advanced materials and discuss possible ways to achieve sustainability in manufacturing.

Deep Learning and Scientific Computing with R torch

Sigrid Keydana

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC. The R Series

This book aims to be useful to (almost) everyone. Its purposes are threefold: to provide a thorough introduction to torch basics – by explaining underlying concepts and ideas, and showing enough examples for the reader to become “fluent” in torch. By focusing on conceptual explanation, show how to use torch in deep-learning applications, ranging from image recognition over time series prediction to audio classification, and provide a concepts-first, reader-friendly introduction to selected scientific-computation topics (namely, matrix computations, the Discrete Fourier Transform, and wavelets), all accompanied by torch code you can play with.

Hands-On Data Science for Librarians

Sarah Lin, R Studio and Dorris Scott

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Data Science Series

This book focuses on teaching R through relevant examples and skills that librarians need in their day-to-day lives that includes visualizations but goes much further to include web scraping, working with maps, creating interactive reports and machine learning. By walking through each skill and its application to library work before walking the reader through each line of code, this book will support librarians who want to apply data science in their daily work.

The Energy of Data and Distance Correlation

Gabor J. Szekely, National Science Foundation, Arlington, Virginia, USA and Maria L. Rizzo, Bowling Green State University, Ohio, USA

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Monographs on Statistics and Applied Probability

Energy distance is a statistical distance between the distributions of random vectors, which characterizes equality of distributions. The name energy derives from Newton’s gravitational potential energy, and there is an elegant relation to the notion of potential energy between statistical observations. Energy statistics are functions of distances between statistical observations in metric spaces. The Energy of Data and Distance Correlation is intended for teachers and students looking for dedicated material on energy statistics but can serve as a supplement to a wide range of courses and areas, and provides an overview of the development of energy statistics.

The Language of Symmetry

Edited by Benedict Rattigan, Denis Noble and Afiq Hatta

This book is a re-assessment of the structure and reach of symmetry, by an interdisciplinary group of specialists from the arts, humanities, and sciences at Oxford University. It explores, amongst other topics order and chaos in the formation of planetary systems and entropy and symmetry in particle physics group theory, fractals and self-similarly symmetrical structures in Western classical music how biological systems harness disorder to create order.

Mathematical Puzzle Tales from Mount Olympus

Andy Liu, University of Alberta, Canada

Series: AK Peters/CRC Recreational Mathematics Series

Mathematical Puzzle Tales from Mount Olympus uses fascinating tales from Greek Mythology as the background for introducing mathematics puzzles to the general public. A background in high school mathematics will be ample preparation for using this book, and it should appeal to anyone who enjoys puzzles and recreational mathematics.

Features:
- Combines the arts and science, and emphasizes the fact that mathematics straddles both domains.
- Great resource for students preparing for mathematics competitions, and the trainers of such students.

The Stieltjes Integral

Gregory Convertito and David Cruz-Uribe

The Stieltjes integral provides a detailed, rigorous treatment of the Stieltjes integral. It offers an accessible treatment of the subject to students who have had a one semester course in analysis. This book is suitable for a second semester course in analysis, and also for independent study or as the foundation for a senior thesis or Masters project.

Features:
- Written to be rigorous without sacrificing readability. Accessible to undergraduate students who have taken a one-semester course on real analysis. Contains a large number of exercises from routine to challenging.

Computational Linear Algebra with Applications and MATLAB® Computations

Robert E. White, North Carolina State University, Raleigh, USA
Series: Textbooks in Mathematics

Courses on linear algebra and numerical analysis need each other. Often NA courses have some linear algebra topics, and LA courses mention some topics from numerical analysis/scientific computing. This text merges these two areas into one introductory undergraduate course. It assumes students have had multivariable calculus. The text has a number of applications. These are to motivate the student to study the linear algebra topics. Also, the text has a number of computations. MATLAB is used, but one could modify these codes to other programming languages. These are to either simplify some linear algebra computation, or to model a particular application.

Computational Optimization

Success in Practice

Vladislav Bukhtynov
Series: Textbooks in Mathematics

This textbook offers a guided tutorial reviewing the theoretical fundamentals while going through the practical examples used for constructing the computational frame, applied to various real-life models.

This book will lead the readers through the entire process. They will start from the simple calculus examples of fitting data and basics of optimal control methods and end up by constructing a multi-component framework for running PDE-constrained optimization. This framework will be assembled piece by piece; the readers may apply this process at the level of complexity matching their current projects or research needs.

Mark Hunacek
Series: Textbooks in Mathematics

Introduction to Environmental Data Science focuses on data science methods in the R environment. The book employs a versatile approach to the use of algebraic ideas. Instructors who wish to put this material into a broader context may do so, though the author introduces these concepts in a non-essential way.

This book offers a case study approach where each case will be presented first, and then the algebraic concepts will be introduced, with accompanying computer code for constructing the computational frame. The text can be considered in two different but overlapping general data analytics categories: clustering and interpolation. Also, the text has a number of applications. These are to motivate the student to study the linear algebra of some data analytics and data mining. The book offers a case study approach where each case will be grounded in a real-world application.

Linear Algebra With Machine Learning and Data

Crasta Arangala, Elon University, North Carolina, USA

This book takes a deep dive into several key linear algebra subjects as they apply to data analytics and data mining. The book offers a case study approach where each case will be grounded in a real-world application.

This text is meant to be used for a second course in applications of Linear Algebra to Data Analytics, with a supplemental chapter on Decision Trees and their applications in regression analysis. The text can be considered in two different but overlapping general data analytics categories: clustering and interpolation.

Quantum Computation

Helmut Bez and Tony Croft

Series: Advances in Applied Mathematics

This book presents the mathematics of quantum computation. The purpose is to introduce the topic of quantum computing to students in computer science, physics and mathematics, who have no prior knowledge of this field.

The book is written in two parts. The primary mathematical topics required for an initial understanding of quantum computation are with in Part I: sets, functions, complex numbers and other relevant mathematical structures from linear and abstract algebra. Part II discusses quantum information, quantum measurement, and quantum algorithms. These topics provide foundations upon which more advanced topics may be approached with confidence.

Infinite Groups

A Roadmap to Selected Classical Areas

This book covers a broad swath of the theory of infinite groups, without giving proofs, but with all the concepts and auxiliary results necessary for understanding such results. In other words, this book is an extended directory, or a guide, to some of the more established areas of infinite groups.

Features

An excellent resource for a subject formerly lacking an accessible and in-depth reference suitable for graduate students, PhD students, and researchers working in group theory.

Statistical Analytics for Health Data Science with SAS and R

Jeffrey Wilson, Ding-Geng Chen and Karl E. Peace. Georgia Southern University, USA

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Biostatistics Series

This book is aimed to compile typical fundamental to advanced statistical methods to be used for health data science. This book promotes the applications to health sciences. The book includes case studies for graduate research and for practitioners in public health, academic researchers, and graduate students in statistics and biostatistics. The secondary readers would be R&D professionals/practitioners in industry and governmental agencies. This book can be used for both teaching and applied research.

Tidy Finance with R

Stefan Voigt, Patrick Weiss and Christoph Scheuch

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC The R Series

This textbook shows how to bring theoretical concepts from finance and econometrics to the data. Focusing on coding and data analysis with R, we show how to conduct research in empirical finance from scratch. We start by introducing the concepts of tidy data and coding principles using the tidyverse family of R packages. The empirical applications range from key concepts of empirical asset pricing to modeling and machine learning applications (fixed effects estimation, clustering standard errors, difference-in-difference estimators, ridge regression, Lasso, Elastic net, random forests, neural networks) and portfolio optimization techniques.

G Families of Probability Distributions

Theory and Practices

Edited by Mir Masoom Ali, Irfan Ali, Aligarh Muslim University, India, Haitham M. Yousof, Benha University, Egypt and Mohamed Ibrahim Mohamed Ahmed, Damietta University, Egypt

Statistical distributions are important tools to model the characteristics of data sets observed in different applied sciences such as engineering, medicine, and finance, among others. In the last decade researchers focused on the more complex and flexible distributions, referred to as Generalized or simply families of continuous distributions to increase the modeling ability of these distributions by adding one or more shape parameters. This book will help future and current researchers in the field of families of probability distributions.

A Practical Guide to Level Design

From Theory to Practice, Diplomacy and Production

Benjamin Bauer

Written by a AAA industry expert with over twenty years of experience, this book gives a realistic and practical insight into the complex work of being a level designer. It covers everything from practical production skills to the social and soft skills needed to become a successful level designer in the games industry. This book will be of great interest to all level designers, content leads and directors looking to enhance their skillset. It will also appeal to students of level and game design looking for tips on how to break into the industry.

Data Science for Water Utilities

Data as a Source of Value

Peter Prevos

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Data Science Series

This addition to the Data Science Series introduces the principles of data science and R to the singular needs of water professionals. The book provides unique data and examples relevant to managing water utility and is sourced from the author’s extensive experience. The book is an applied, practical guide that shows water professionals how to use data science to solve urban water management problems. Readers will be familiar with analysing data but do not need coding experience to use this book. The title will be essential reading for anyone seeking a practical introduction to data science and creating value with R.

Digital Blood on Their Hands

The Ukraine Cyberwar Attack

A. J. Jenkinson

The barrage of cyberattacks against Ukraine constitutes the first Cyberwar by one Nation upon another and crossed a very thin red line, a line that until now often had the hallmarks of a Nation State, but was confined to criminal activity, immaterial of whom the perpetrators were. The cyberwar was simply a precursor, the softening of a county that would precede a kinetic war and tens of thousands of people would lose their lives. This war was the first for nearly 80 years that rang out deathly klaxons across Europe and the world.

Digital Blood on Their Hands tells a side to the world’s first ever cyberwar that you would never otherwise see, or possibly hear about.

Hidden in White Sight

How AI Empowers and Deepens Systemic Racism

Calvin D. Lawrence

Artificial Intelligence was meant to be the great social equalizer that helps promote fairness by removing human bias from the equation, but is this true? Given that the policing and judicial systems can display human bias, this book explores how the technology they use can also reflect these prejudices. This book advises readers on what they can do to fight against it, including the introduction of a proposed AI Bill of Rights, whilst also providing specific recommendations for AI developers and technologists.

Through personal stories from an esteemed Black Data Scientist and AI expert, this book attempts to demystify the algorithmic black box.

PKI Implementation and Infrastructures

Julian Ashbourn

This book explores all the aspects of implementing and maintaining a PKI that the other books on the subject seem to miss. It reflects decades of hard won experience, not only in PKI, IT, electronics, but in business, government agencies and academia alike. The book also explores the existence of a PKI alongside other technologies, such as biometrics, and against an ever changing world of development methodologies. Consequently, this is the ONE book on PKI that you have to have on your shelf, whether you be a company director, IT Manager, Government Minister or teacher of IT. It is the book which fills all the gaps left in the literature and treads paths which others fear to tread.

The Adventurous and Practical Journey to a Large-Scale Enterprise Solution

Threading the Way to Implementing an ERP through MIDRP Practice

Vahid Hajipour, Sajjad Jalali, Mohammad Amini and Ali Gharei

This book narrates the story of implementing a real large-scale enterprise solution. The story has an adventurous tone to illustrate the way of resolving challenges in practice whereas following a scholarly context to demonstrate the underlying contributions. The book covers analyzing, designing, developing, integrating, and deploying a large-scale enterprise solution. For academicians and practitioners, the book is a comprehensive, best-practice guide to navigating the tortuous path to achieving an enterprise solution.

Privacy in Practice

Establish and Operationalize a Holistic Data Privacy Program

Alan Tang

Privacy is not just the right to be left alone, but also the right to autonomy, control, and access to your personal data. This book aims at helping organizations in establishing a unified, integrated, enterprise-wide privacy program. This book is aiming to help privacy leaders and professionals to bridge the privacy program and business strategies, transform legal terms and dead text to live and easy-to-understand essential requirements which organizations can easily implement, identify and prioritize privacy program gap initiatives, and promote awareness and embed privacy into the everyday work of the agency and its staff.

Quick Recursion

David Matuszek

Series: Quick Programming

Recursion is the best tool for working with trees and graphs. But perhaps you've studied recursion and decided it's too complicated. You just can't think that way. That limits the kind of programming you can do.

This book will show you how you can write recursive programs. Once you understand a few simple rules, you will wonder why you ever thought recursion was complicated. You'll be able to write recursive programs quickly and easily.

An Introduction to ANSYS Fluent 2022

John E. Matsson

The chapters in this book can be used in any order and are suitable for beginners with little or no previous experience using ANSYS. Intermediate users, already familiar with the basics of ANSYS Fluent, will still find new areas to explore and learn. An Introduction to ANSYS Fluent 2022 is designed to be used as a supplement to undergraduate courses in Aerodynamics, Finite Element Methods and Fluid Mechanics and is suitable for graduate level courses such as Viscous Fluid Flows and Hydrodynamic Stability. This book is a valuable tool that will help you master ANSYS Fluent and better understand the underlying theory.

Introduction to Computational Engineering with MATLAB®

Timothy Bower, Kansas State University, USA
This book aims to teach readers how to use MATLAB programming to solve numerical engineering problems. The book focuses on computational engineering with the objective of helping engineering students improve their numerical problem-solving skills. Although this book covers some advanced topics, readers do not need prior computer programming experience or an advanced mathematical background. Instead, the focus is on learning how to leverage the computer and software environment to do the hard work. The problem areas discussed are related to data-driven engineering, statistics, linear algebra, and numerical methods.

5G Cyber Risks and Mitigation

Sahyarta Soni, University Institute of Engineering and Technology(UIET), Panjab University 5G networks will use new technologies that include massive MIMO (multiple input, multiple output), that use more antennas than traditional cellular networks, and millimeter wave (mmWave), which uses higher frequencies than traditional cellular networks. Thus, making it easier for attackers to intercept data or disrupt service. To address these concerns, security mechanisms must be included in the design of 5G networks and updated as new threats are identified. Fortunately, artificial intelligence can play a key role in mitigating these risks. AI can help by identifying patterns in data that would otherwise be undetectable to humans.

5G, Cybersecurity and Privacy in Developing Countries
Edited by Knud Erik Skouby, Prashant Dhotre, Iqonseems Williams and Kamal Hiran
5G, the emerging technology in mobile communication, is expected to deliver an important and decisive impact on several of the UN’s Sustainable Development Goals where universal accessibility to ICTs remains a serious concern. However, cybersecurity has emerged as a serious challenge, not least because of the increased accessibility and broader usage with associated vulnerability. Developing countries have additional challenges associated with both the expected faster build-up of accessibility and lack of qualified competencies within cybersecurity. Discussion of these challenges is the overall theme and motivation for this book.

Software Security Concepts & Practices

Suhel Ahmad Khan, IGNTU, India, Rajeev Kumar, Administrative Staff College of India, Hyderabad and Raees Ahmad Khan, BBA Uni., Lucknow
This book is designed as a textbook and explores fundamental security theories that govern common software security technical issues. It will teach readers how to implement security solutions using the most popular software packages. It’s not limited to any specific cybersecurity subtopics and the chapters touch upon a wide range of cybersecurity domains, ranging from malware to biometrics and more. It also provides comprehensible knowledge about security, risk, protection, estimation, knowledge and governance. Various emerging standards, models, metrics, continuous updates and tools are described to understand security principals and mitigation mechanism for higher security.

A Brief History of Cyberspace
Huansheng Ning
With the Internet, a new space, cyberspace, has formed, been rapidly integrated into daily life, and become the fourth living space for human beings. Cyberspace is the digital world created based on traditional physical, social, and thinking spaces (PST). The book explores the history of cyberspace in terms of philosophy, science, and technology. The book not only presents cyberspace and cyber-enabled spaces from an academic perspective, but also discusses a wide variety of topics related to cyberspace and its governance from the aspects of individual, society, and country, so as to help people better adapt to cyberspace.

A Selection of Image Understanding Techniques
From Fundamentals to Research Frontiers
Yu-Jin Zhang
This book offers a comprehensive introduction to seven commonly used image understanding techniques in modern information technology. It covers camera model and calibration, stereo vision, generalized matching, scene analysis and semantic interpretation, multi-sensor image information fusion, content-based visual information retrieval, and understanding spatial-temporal behavior. This is an excellent read for those who do not have a subject background in image technology but need to use these techniques to complete specific tasks. These essential information will also be useful for their further study in the relevant fields.

Edited by Joanna Rosak-Szyrocka, Czestochowa University of Technology, Poland, Justyna Zywiolek, Czestochowa University Of Technology, Anand Nayyar, Duy Tan University, Viet Nam and Mohd Naved, Amity Uni., Noida, India
The book is devoted to the issues and challenges faced by universities in the field of distance learning in covid times. It elaborates issues regarding distance learning, its challenges, assessment by students and their expectations, the use of tools to improve distance learning, and the functioning of e-learning in the industry 4.0 and society 5.0 eras. The book also devotes a lot of space to the issues of Web 3.0 in University e-learning, quality assurance, and knowledge management. The aim is to draw a holistic picture of ongoing online teaching-activities before and during the lockdown period and present the meaning and future of e-learning from students’ points of view.

Artificial Intelligence for Disease Diagnosis and Prognosis in Smart Healthcare
Edited by Ghita Kouadri Mostefauui, S. M. Riazul Islam and Faisal Tariq

Tools and Applications
Edited by Sita Rani, GNDEC, Ludhiana, Pankaj Bhamri, GNDEC, Ludhiana, Aman Kataria, CSIR-Central Scientific Instruments Organization, Alex Khang and Arun Kumar Sivaraman, VIT, Chennai
This book discusses Big Data, Cloud Computing, and IoT, with a focus on the benefits and implementation problems. In addition, it examines the many structures and applications pertinent to these disciplines. Also, Big Data, Cloud Computing, and IoT are proposed as possible study avenues. It informs about cloud computing, IoT & big data, including theoretical foundations and the most recent empirical findings. It also provides essential research on the relationship between various technologies and the aggregate influence they have on solving real-world problems.
Blockchain in Supply Chain Digital Transformation

Edited by Trevor Clohessy

Blockchain and distributed ledger technology (DLT) have been identified as emerging technologies that can enhance global supply chain management processes. Given the embryonic nature of the technology, use cases pertaining to how it can be adopted and deployed in supply chain contexts is scarce. This book shares blockchain supply chain use cases across a range of industries including smart cities, food imports, product traceability, decentralized finance, procurement, energy management, consensus mechanism security, and industry 4.0.

Current Applications of Deep Learning in Cancer Diagnostics

Edited by Jyotismita Chaki and Aysegul Ucar

Deep learning is being used by researchers to train algorithms to spot malignant tissue at a level equivalent to that of trained doctors. In contrast to numerous domain experts, deep learning has demonstrated the ability to achieve greater diagnostic accuracy results. While this may be a point of disagreement among physicians, many potential victims can’t wait for the technology to arrive. This book demonstrates the core concepts of deep learning algorithms that, using diagrams, data tables, and examples, are especially useful for deep learning based human cancer diagnostics.

Edited by Anupam Balyan, Chandigarh University, Punjab, Kuldeep Singh Kaswan, Galgotias Univ., Naresh Kumar, Galgotias Univ., Kamal Uperti, IEC, Ghaziabad and Ramani Kannan, Universiti Teknologi PETRONAS, Malaysia

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Cyber-Physical Systems

Cyber Physical System (CPS) is an integration of computation, networking, and physical processes: the combination of several different nature whose main purpose is to control a physical process and, through feedback, adapt itself to new conditions, in real time. Cyber Physical System: Concepts and Applications includes an in-depth coverage of the latest models and theories that unify perspectives. It expresses the interacting dynamics of the computational and physical components of a system in a dynamic environment.

This book is primarily aimed at advanced undergraduates, graduates of computer science. Engineers will also find this book useful.

Elementary Cluster Analysis

Four Basic Methods that (Usually) Work

James C. Bezdek

Cluster analysis is a vast topic. The overall picture in clustering is quite overwhelming, so any attempt to swim at the deep end of the pool in even a very specialized subfield requires a lot of training. But we all start out at the shallow end (or at least that’s where we should start!), and this book is aimed squarely at teaching toddlers not to be afraid of the water. There is no section of this book that, if explored in real depth, cannot be expanded into its own volume.

Edited by Niranjani Lal, SRM IST, Chennai, India, Shaminul Qamar, King Khalid University, Abha, Saudi Arabia, Sanyam Agarwal, AEM, Agra, India, Ambuj Kumar Agarwal, Sharda University, Gr. Noida, India and Sourabh Singh Verma, Manipal University, Jaipur
Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Internet of Things
This book will be a compendium of various applications and current progress in IoT. It will throw light on recent developments in the field and will be of great interest to know various applications for the sustainable development. This book mainly issue focuses on state of art including protocol design and low-cost sensor design for sustainable development of society using Internet of Things. This book will offer strong support as a reference book for Students, Practitioners, Researchers, Scientific investigators around the world and anyone who wants to set up IoT enabled industries and provides pertinent industries with new ideas and innovations to visionaries.

Industrial Artificial Intelligence Technologies and Application
Edited by Ovidiu Vermesan, Franz Wotawa, Mario Diaz Nava and Bjorn Debalille
This book overview the latest research results and activities in industrial artificial intelligence technologies and applications based on the innovative research, developments and ideas generated by the ECSEL JU AI4DI, ANDANTE and TEMPO projects. The authors describe the industrial AI's challenges, the approaches adopted, and the main industrial systems and applications to give the reader a good insight into the technical essence of the field. The articles provide insightful material on industrial AI technologies and applications.

Nordic Animation
Balancing the East and the West
Liisa Vähäkylä
Series: Focus Animation
Nordic Animation examines the state of the animation industry within the Nordic countries. It looks at the success of popular brands such as the Moomins and Angry Birds, studios such as Anima Vitea and Qvisten, and individuals from the Nordics that have made their mark on the global animation industry. This book will be of great interest to those in the fields of animation and film studies, as well as those with a general interest in Nordic animation.

Edited by Durgesh Srivastava, Chandigarh University, Punjab, India, Neha Sharma, Chandigarh University, Punjab, India, Deepak Sinwar, Manipal University Jaipur, India, Jabar H. Yousif, Sohar University, Oman and Hari Prabhat Gupta, IIT (BHU) Varanasi, India
Series: Advances in Smart Healthcare Technologies
The book focuses on developments in AI and IoT integration for smart healthcare, with an emphasis on current methodologies and frameworks for the design, growth, implementation, and creative use of such convergence technologies to provide insight into smart healthcare service demands. Concepts like signal recognition, computation, internet of health stuff, and so forth and their applications are covered. Development in connectivity and intelligent networks allowing for social adoption of ambient intelligence are also included. This book aims at Researchers, professionals and graduate students in intelligent system, big data, cloud computing, information security, and healthcare systems.

Research Advances in Intelligent Computing
Edited by Anshul Verma, Banaras Hindu University, India, Pradeepika Verma, DEPARTMENT OF COMPUTER SCIENCE & ENGINEERING, IIT (BHU), India, Kiran Kumar Pattanaik, Atal Bihari Vajpayee Indian Institute of Information, India and Lalit Garg, University of Malta Faculty of Information and Communications Technology, Malta

Artificial Intelligence came up as a way of making a computer think in the similar manner the intelligent humans think. The outcomes of this study are the basis of developing intelligent softwares and systems or Intelligent Computing (IC). An IC system has the capability of reasoning, learning, problem solving, perception, and linguistic intelligence. This book presents the advances in AI techniques, under the umbrella of IC. In this context, the book includes the recent research works have been done in the areas of machine learning, neural networks, deep learning, evolutionary algorithms, genetic algorithms, swarm intelligence, fuzzy systems and so on.

The network technologies provide efficient, flexible and seamless communication while maximizing productivity and resources for our day-to-day life and business operations. To improve the user experience, emerging cellular network technologies like LTE, VoLTE and 5G have been invented. Due to its demand and importance, numerous efforts have been done in the networking domain by the researchers. Therefore, there is a need to keep track of advancements and further investigate several research challenges to overcome for the ease of users. With this goal, the book provides most recent and prominent research works have been done related to the network technologies.

Smart Embedded Systems and Applications
Edited by Saad Motahhir
This book covers a wide range of challenges, technologies and state-of-the-art for the design, development and realization of smart and complex embedded systems and their applications; i.e., software and hardware development, with the use of digital technologies, and quality assurance for critical applications. This book starts with automotive safety systems which is one of the major functional domains. It discusses the importance of software in automotive systems followed by an insight into Automotive Software Standards, ISO26262, and Autosar.

Teaching Cybersecurity
A Handbook for Teaching the Cybersecurity Body of Knowledge in a Conventional Classroom
Daniel Shoemaker, Ken Sigler, Oakland Community College, Auburn Hills, Michigan, USA and Tamara Shoemaker

Let’s be realistic here. Ordinary K-12 educators don’t know what “cybersecurity” is and could probably care less about incorporating it into their lesson plans. Yet, teaching cybersecurity is a critical national priority. So, this book aims to cut through the usual roadblocks of confusing technical jargon and industry stovepipes and give you, the classroom teacher, a unified understanding of what must be taught. The eight component areas, herein, are standalone in that they can be taught separately. But the real value lies in the comprehensive but easy-to-understand picture that the reader will get of a complicated field.
Ground Support Technology for Highly Stressed Excavations Integrated Theoretical, Laboratory, and Field Research

Ernesto Villaescusa, WA School of Mines, Australia, Alan Thompson, WA School of Mines, Australia, Christopher R Windsor and John Player, MineGeoTech, Perth, Australia

The performance of ground support as a scheme is essential to constrain failures occurring at the rock surfaces of deep or highly stressed excavations. This book covers laboratory and theoretical developments coupled with field experiments and observations with implementation of the methodology at mines. It explains the energy dissipation capabilities of reinforcement and support systems leading to the design of complete ground support schemes that can maintain integrity following dynamic ejection of a mass of rock from an excavation boundary. This book is aimed at professionals in Mining Engineering including civil, geological Engineering, and geotechnical engineering.

The Quantum Nature of Things

How Counting Leads to the Quantum World

This book offers readers an entirely original and unconventional view of quantum mechanics. It is a view that accepts quantum mechanics as the natural way to think about the way nature works, rather than the view commonly expressed, especially in books on quantum physics, that quantum theory is weird and counterintuitive. It is based on the concept of itemization. From this simple premise, quantities like energy and momentum, both linear and angular emerge naturally, as do configuration space, potentials, the electromagnetic field, many-body dynamics, special relativity and relativistic wave mechanics.

A Practical Guide to Scientific Writing in Chemistry

Scientific Papers, Research Grants and Book Proposals

Andrew T. Tyowua, Benue State University, Dept. of Chemistry

Successful completion of postgraduate studies, especially PhD, and career advancement in academia strongly depends on the ability to publish scientific papers or books and research grant proposals. However, many chemical scientists find preparing scientific papers, research grant and book proposals difficult; partly because of insufficient training in writing and partly because there are few practical books to enable them to learn the art. This step-by-step practical guide is intended mainly for postgraduate students and early career researchers in chemical science and the libraries that serve them but will also be useful to other scientists.

Feynman Lectures on Computation

Anniversary Edition

Edited by Tony Hey, Microsoft Research

Series: Frontiers in Physics

The last lecture course that Nobel Prize winner Richard P. Feynman gave at Caltech from 1983 to 1986 was not on physics but on computer science. The first edition of this book published in 1996 and provided an overview of standard and not-so-standard topics in computer science given in Feynman’s inimitable style. The material is still relevant and interesting, and Feynman’s unique philosophy of learning and discovery shines through. For this new edition, editor Tony Hey has updated the lectures with invited chapters from preeminent scholars. This exciting and important work provides key reading for students and scholars in the fields of computer science and computational physics.

Antimicrobials in Pharmaceutical and Medicinal Research
Edited by Arti Gupta and Ram Prasad
Series: Current Trends in Antimicrobial Research
This book deliberates recent developments in microbial science in combating infectious diseases and explores advances in antimicrobial constituents and their applications in the fight against bacteria. In addition, it also provides a variety of photographs, diagrams, and tables to help illustrate the material. In this book, the novel strategies to combat antimicrobial resistance are described, emphasizing collaborative measures of control. We describe the concerted efforts undertaken by global communities to combat antimicrobial resistance in detail.

Specialty Polymers
Fundamentals, Properties, Applications and Advances
Edited by Ram K. Gupta
The main purpose of this book is to provide current, state-of-the-art knowledge of specialty polymers that can be used for many advanced applications. This book will cover the fundamentals of specialty polymers, synthetic approaches, and chemistries to modify their properties to meet the requirement for special applications, along with current challenges and prospects. Chapters will be written by global experts making this a suitable textbook for students and one-stop resource for researchers and industry.

Spectrophotometric Determination of Palladium & Platinum
Methods & Reagents
Ajay Kumar Goswami
This versatile resource consolidates available methods for the determination of palladium and platinum and serves as a practical ready-to-use guide for those researching palladium and platinum and for those working in the field of medicinal metal complexes of the two metals. The beauty of spectrophotometric methods lies in their simplicity, convenience, and ease of operation not to mention their cost effectiveness. They can be automated easily and are thus the most affordable methods. Addresses analysts from all areas of industry, research labs and post-graduate students of analytical or medicinal chemistry as well as material science.

Artificial Intelligence and Modeling for Water Sustainability
Global Challenges
Edited by Alaa El Din Mahmoud, Manal Fawzy and Nadeem Khan
Artificial intelligence and the use of computational methods to extract information from data are providing adequate tools to monitor and predict water pollutants and water quality issues faster and more accurately. With contributions from experts in academia and industries, who give a unified treatment of AI methods and their applications in water science, this book helps governments, industries, and homeowners not only address water pollution problems more quickly and efficiently, but also gain better insight into the implementation of more effective remedial measures.

Phytoremediation of Domestic Wastewater with the Internet of Things and Machine Learning Techniques
Hauwa Mohammed Mustafa, Kaduna State University, Nigeria and Gasim Hayder, Universiti Tenaga Nasional, Malaysia
Phytoremediation of Domestic Wastewater with the Internet of Things and Machine Learning Techniques highlights the most recent advances in phytoremediation of wastewater using the latest technologies. It discusses practical applications and experiences utilizing phytoremediation methods for environmental sustainability and the remediation of wastewater. It also examines the various interrelated disciplines relating to phytoremediation technologies and plots industry's best practices to share this technology widely, as well as the latest findings and strategies.

Management of Wastewater and Sludge: New Approaches
Edited by Izharul Haq Farooqi, Department of Civil Engineering, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh, India and Saif Ullah Khan
Series: Science and Engineering of Air Pollution and Waste Management
Management of micropollutants and disinfection of by-products in municipal wastewater and extraction of energy from the sludge produced in wastewater treatment plants is under constant focus. This book presents a detailed know-how regarding sustainable management of wastes produced in municipal and industrial activities through novel state-of-the-art techniques used for the treatment of toxic industrial wastes and municipal wastewater. It deals with management of municipal sludges and solid wastes including leachates produced from landfill sites. It also provides detailed information for achieving the stringent standards set by regulatory bodies for municipal and industrial effluents.

Accommodating Inequality

Gender and Housing

Sophie Watson

Originally published in 1988, Accommodating Inequality provides a basis for a radical re-think of housing policy and provision in Australia from a gender perspective. It explores the way that housing in Australia helped to produce patriarchal family structures and simultaneously contributed to the dependence of women on men. At the time the book was originally published housing policy at a theoretical or research level was less explored. Issues such as marginalisation, poverty and low income, domestic responsibility are discussed in relation to housing.

Economic Equality in the Co-operative Commonwealth

H. Stanley Jevons

Originally published in 1933 in the midst of the Great Depression, this book discussed the possibility of a new and orderly economic system to realize social justice. The author argued that nothing but the complete equality of reward could ensure a stable order. Although utopian in its outlook, the book addressed many of the concerns of the [then] existing order. The book explains the origin of differences between different people, give a brief account of the economic theory of the capitalist system and investigates the economics of the growing demand for social and economic equality.

Education, Equality and Society

Edited by Bryan Wilson

Originally published in 1975, the essays in this book explore a particular level at which the concept of equality must be applied if educational equality is to be realised. Whilst each stands independently of the others, there are points of convergence and overlap in the perspectives of the writers, each of whom represents a different discipline: education, sociology, psychology, philosophy and politics. The relationship between equality and unity, uniformity and justice are discussed, and at every level false assumptions are revealed.

Equality and Social Policy

Albert Weale

Originally published in 1978, this book presents a philosophical analysis of the principle of equality, and is also a study of the institutional implications of that principle in the field of social policy. The author distinguishes between a ‘procedural’ and a ‘substantive’ version of the principle of equality and considers the implications of both. Procedural equality is identified with the concept of equity and includes the recommendation that like cases should be treated as like. The application of this principle to some political argument in the area of social policy, such as family allowances, is discussed.

Health and Deprivation

Inequality and the North

Peter Townsend, Peter Phillimore and Alastair Beattie

When originally published in 1988, this book presented new evidence of inequalities in health found among communities in different areas of the North of England. It relates this evidence to long-term trends taking place in patterns of health in Britain as a whole and explores how far health inequalities can be explained by variations in material deprivation. The book provides a detailed examination of the correlation between health and wealth, or ill-health and deprivation in Britain in the 20th century but the book has an enduring relevance as the Covid Pandemic has once again shown that regional disparities in wealth have profound outcomes for health.

The Inheritance of Inequality

Leonard Broom, F. L. Jones, Patrick McDonnell and Trevor Williams

Originally published in 1980, The Inheritance of Inequality is an important contribution to the study of social mobility in Australia. The book is based on findings from a survey of nearly 5,000 Australians were interviewed about their family backgrounds and occupational careers. In its scope and sample size, the survey was unique among non-governmental Australian studies. It went beyond the findings of earlier surveys, giving broader understanding of social mobility and stratification. The book sets out the processes by which Australians have found their place in the world of work in the 20th Century.

Middle-Class Couples

A Study of Segregation, Domination and Inequality in Marriage

Stephen Edgell

When this book was originally published in 1980, sociologists had long held the view that the middle-class marriage in contemporary Britain was characterised by role desegregation and marital equality. Middle-Class Couples reported on research which provided a critical re-analysis of this orthodoxy. The book is a theoretically informed, empirical study which largely debunks many of the myths associated with this alleged movement towards ‘equal marriage’ among professional couples. The author analysed the sexual division of labour among a group of professional workers and their wives at the child-rearing stage of their family cycle.

Poverty and Social Inequality in Wales

Edited by Gareth Rees and Teresa Rees

Originally published in 1980, this book presents a detailed empirical analysis of the key dimensions of inequality and poverty in Wales, discussing such aspects as the distribution of income and wealth, the housing situation, the functioning of the NHS and urban deprivation. Wales emerges as a country severely disadvantaged in relation to much of the rest of Britain. Moreover, the extent of inequalities within Wales is also striking. In the second part of the book each contributor applies a particular theoretical perspective to an aspect of the situation discussed in the first part.

Reflections on Inequality

Stanislav Andreski

Originally published in 1975, this anthology of essays focuses on the historical dimension of class inequality which has long concerned both sociologists and social philosophers but has often been neglected in literature. Although Marx is the first name to come to mind when social inequality and class struggles are mentioned, most of the authors included here preceede him. Each analyses and discusses the problems of class conflict as they understood them in the light of their own times.

Retrieving Democracy

In Search of Civic Equality

Philip Green

Originally published in 1985, Retrieving Democracy offers a systematic answer to the familiar objection that genuine democracy is utopian. The book outlines an imaginary, yet imaginable, society that would be non-racist, non-sexist, and sufficiently classless to support true civic equality. Moving beyond previous discussions of re-industrialization and economic democracy, the book proposes the social control of corporations; a democratic division of labour that would maximize equality of citizenship rather than merely the production of commodities; the democratization of trade unions and the equalization of wages and job opportunities.

Various
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
This 25-volume set has titles originally published between 1951 and 1995. It explores several different aspects of the police and their approaches to policing over the years. Many of the titles are from the 1980s, where the police were beginning to come under increasing scrutiny and their relationship with the public was under pressure. Topics include: accountability, community policing, police work, policy, training, along with international comparisons. Ongoing debates of police accountability and police race relations today mean this collection is a timely resource for those interested in criminology, particularly the recent history of the police and their role in society.

The British Police
Jenifer M. Hart
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
First published in 1951, this title describes the different types of police force, the powers and functions of local police authorities, the ways in which control from the centre is exercised, and the effect of the Local Government Boundary Commission’s proposals on police areas. Special emphasis is placed on what happens in practice and not only in theory, and on developments during and after the second world war. Chapters are included on: the special position of the Metropolitan Police Force, emphasizing the independence of the ‘Yard’ from the Home Secretary’s control; on recruitment, training, promotion, and the police college; pay and conditions of service, and policewomen.

The Case Against Paramilitary Policing
Tony Jefferson
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
The philosophy behind the paramilitary response to outbreaks of disorder at public events, conventional wisdom in the late 1980s, suggested that the training, discipline and specialization entailed ensured that the response was maximally effective and most in line with the tradition of ‘impartial policing by consent’. The argument of this book, first published in 1990, demonstrates the reverse: not only that police impartiality was chimerical and policing by consent was a viewpoint that did not include the consent of the routinely policed: but that paramilitarism, far from being maximally effective, substantially contributed to the very problem it claimed to minimize.

Community Policing
Evelyn B. Schaffer
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
Originally published in 1980, Community Policing is a view of the relationship between the police and the community, written by Evelyn B. Schaffer, an outsider who had worked very closely with the police. It covers many forces and projects, particularly in Scotland who pioneered community policing. It explores the various means that police forces were using to get closer to the community at the time, including work with schools and specialist work with juveniles and their families. It also includes a chapter on police training and its effect on community policing.

Community, Policing and Accountability
Eugene McLaughlin
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
Originally published in 1994, this work examines the different models of police accountability that were implemented in the 1980s. Based on research carried out in Manchester, the work discusses local government efforts to construct a new social contract between the police and the community. The research is considered within the wider theoretical debates about the nature of participatory democracy. The conclusion argues that there is an urgent need to confront the complexities of constructing satisfactory police-community relations in Britain’s inner cities. It evaluates whether the reorganization of policing at the time would lead to a more accountable police service.

Coming to Terms with Policing
Perspectives on Policy
Edited by Rod Morgan and David J. Smith
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
In the late 1980s, the role of the police and their accountability to the community had been at the centre of much debate. Originally published in 1989, this important collection of original essays from the leading independent academic researchers on the police in Britain addresses the major issues in this debate. How far police behaviour is shaped by law; what the public expect of the police; how the police handle race relations; and how the police effectiveness can best be measured, are discussed in the light of the latest research. The central focus of the volume is the notion of ‘policing by consent’ and the way this is interpreted in practice.

Comparative Policing Issues
The British and American Experience in International Perspective
R.I. Mawby
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
First published in 1990, this title was the first introductory text to consider key issues in the policing of modern societies from an international, comparative perspective. The author begins with a discussion of policing itself and considers how the modern police force has emerged. Sections then focus on France and the Netherlands as examples of Western European societies: Canada and Hong Kong as influenced by the colonial tradition; Japan as an Eastern communist society; and the USSR, China and Cuba as contrasting examples of communist police systems. These and other countries are then considered in terms of the relationship between the police and the communities they serve.

The Framework of Criminal Justice
Michael King
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
In this title, originally published in 1981, the criminal justice process is analysed by using six models, each of which expresses a different justification for criminal justice and punishment. The study examines the formal rules and procedures of the magistrates court system within the context of these models and also discusses the roles of the actors (police, defendant, magistrate, court clerks, and lawyers). Next, the study depicts eight scenes that occur from the defendant’s arrest through a court hearing to sentencing. It assesses how closely the activity and behaviour within the system follow the formal protections granted by the British system of justice.

Interpreting Policework
Policy and Practice in Forms of Beat Policing
Roger Grimshaw and Tony Jefferson
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
Interpreting policework requires a rounded conception of policing, based on both a thorough critique of the main theoretical trends in police sociology, and close familiarity with actual patterns of policing, on the streets, in the stations, and inside the police headquarters where key policies are formulated. Originally published in 1987, the achievement of this book is that it combines rigorous theoretical analysis with a wealth of descriptive material drawn from first-hand observation of policing and decision making at all levels, and thus relates sociological theory to practice and political debate at the time.

Introducing Policework
Mike Brogden, Tony Jefferson and Sandra Walklate
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
First published in 1988, this is a concise overview of the controversial subject of policework at the time. The authors provide critical evaluations of the contributions made by psychologists, social psychologists, historians, sociologists, and political scientists, and an assessment of how these fit within an overall understanding of policework. Considered are: the process of socialization that lead to a ‘cop culture’, historical evolution of police working practices and their impact upon the social divisions of age, gender, race and class; problems with the present system of accountability; prospects for success of recent (post-Scarman) initiatives, such as community consultation.

Innovations in Policing
Mollie Weatheritt
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
Modern police forces are large and complex organisations, expected to perform a diversity of tasks and are under pressure to account for their activities in ways which satisfy a variety of constituencies. First published in 1986, this book documents some of the changing demands and pressures on the police at the time. It shows how the police were responding and assesses the extent to which they were open-minded and receptive to change. The book brings together in one place and critically reviews information on a number of police operational and management initiatives. It describes and assesses recent innovations and experiments in two main areas: patrol and crime prevention.

Joining Forces
Police Training, Socialization and Occupational Competence
Nigel G. Fielding, University of Surrey, Guildford, UK
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
The police, their methods, and their relations with the community had been the focus of considerable criticism and debate in the 1980s. While there were few books available on police training, it was widely recognised that training lay at the heart of many initiatives for police reform. Originally published in 1988, this book, based on a five-year study, provides a detailed picture of the training of police recruits in Britain at the time.
The Police, Public Order, and Civil Liberties

Legacies of the Miners’ Strike
Sarah McCabe, Peter Wallington, John Alderson, Larry Gostin and Christopher Mason

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
What role should the police have in an industrial dispute? How were they led into a partisan role in assisting the defeat of the 1984-5 miners’ strike? Widespread concern over police road-blocks, allegations of police and pithead violence, and the huge numbers of police used to maintain order and access to work led the National Council for Civil Liberties to set up an inquiry into the policing. Originally published in 1988, this book is the report. It describes the policing of the strike in detail from a range of published, unpublished, and eyewitness sources. The strike is set in the context of developments in law and policing before and since.

Police Research

Some Future Prospects
Edited by Mollie Weatheritt

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
The 1980s saw an enormous growth of research on the police and on policing. Originally published in 1989, the chapters in this book stand as evidence both of the growth of police research in those years and its variety: Contributors were asked to take stock of research in their respective fields and to assess where policing research had got to and how it had arrived there. The resulting contributions range from broad conceptual reviews, to concentration on specific pieces of empirical work. Other papers were concerned with the relationship between research and policy, yet others on charting and accounting for developments in policing policy and speculating about their likely effects.

Policing a Perplexed Society

Sir Robert Mark

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
Should policemen be armed? Do they want to be? How fair is police interrogation? Are the police too tough on demonstrators? How often are the guilty acquitted? Do we get the police force we deserve? Originally published in 1977, Sir Robert Mark considers these and many other issues. His period as Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police Force would mark something of an epoch, not only because of the challenge of brutal terrorism or his success as a leader, but because he was a bold innovator, thoughtful and articulate, whose work could be readily assessed because he believed in ‘telling the public all you can’ (the official memorandum on this appears here as an appendix).

The Police Revolution

Peter Evans
Where are the police going? Originally published in 1974, Peter Evans argues that their traditional relationship with the public was being dangerously threatened, a situation neither the police themselves nor the public wanted to see worsen. Mr Evans concludes that successive governments are to blame for not giving the police the sort of backing they deserve – finance, for example, and not merely pious expressions of support. This failure has widened the gap between police and public because of shortage of men, has left London in particular dangerously under-patrolled, and has contributed towards those pressures that tempt some officers to err.

Police by the Public

Joanna Shapland, University of Sheffield, UK and Jon Vagg

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Police and Policing
First published in 1988, Policing by the Public opened up an entirely new field within criminology and the sociology of deviance. The authors focus on the nature of informal social control in both villages and urban centres to show the kinds of policing people do for themselves, within their communities, in an endeavour to curb crime and deviance. Taking as the basis for their study both a rural and an urban community, the authors are able to counter many of the existing myths about these areas. This study sheds important light on the nature of concern and fear about crime and disorder, the use people want to make of the police and, significantly, the kind of policing they get.

Series: Among the Victorians and Modernists
The law holds up a mirror to society and reflects that society and its ongoing preoccupations. This book establishes legal interpretation as a mode of literary interpretation, contextualising the opinions and sociological background of literature within the context of the law of its period and examines the inherent role of the law in its contribution to the narrative in the literature of the nineteenth century.

2nd Edition - NEW EDITION
Women and Monastic Buddhism in Early South Asia
Rediscovering the invisible believers
Garima Kaushik
Series: Archaeology and Religion in South Asia
This book presents gender as a framework to offer unique insights into the sociocultural foundations of Buddhism. It highlights the multiple roles played by women as patrons, practitioners, lay and monastic members and the like within Buddhism. This new edition draws on recent archaeological data from ancient Buddhist sites in Sri Lanka and recently compiled ethnographic data from convents in Sittip valley in Himachal Pradesh, India. It assesses if the working model formulated for the identification of gendered structures at sites in India holds good for sites across South Asia and highlights the presence of women within the monastic circles.

Religion, Landscape and Material Culture in Pre-modern South Asia
Edited by Tilottama Mukherjee, University of Calcutta, India and Nupur Dasgupta, Jadavpur University, Kolkata, India.
This book highlights emerging trends and new themes in South Asian history. It covers issues broadly related to religion, materiality and nature from differing perspectives and methods to offer a kaleidoscopic view of Indian history until the late eighteenth century. The essays in the volume focus on understanding questions of premodern religion, material culture processes and their spatial and environmental contexts through a study of networks of commodities and cultural and religious landscapes.

The Archaeology of the Natha Sampradaya in Western India, 12th to 15th CE
Vijay Sarde
This book studies Natha Sampradaya through archaeological evidence for the first time. Drawing on a pioneering approach to the study of ascetic traditions, it investigates not only the nature of the Sampradaya’s religious architecture but also examines the extent to which they shared space with other religious groups — such as the devotees of Siva and Sakti, Buddhism, and Islam, especially with the Sufi tradition. Breaking new ground, this volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of religion, especially Hinduism, history, archaeology, and South Asian studies.

Anthropology and Responsibility
Edited by Melissa Demian, University of St Andrews, UK, Christos Lyteris and Mattia Fumanti
Series: ASA Monographs
This book explores the role and implications of responsibility for anthropology, asking how responsibility is recognised and invoked in the world, what relations it draws upon, and how it comes to define notions of the person, institutional practices, ways of knowing and modes of evaluation.

Electro Swing
Resurrection, Recontextualisation, and Remix
Chris Inglis
Series: Ashgate Popular and Folk Music Series
Electro swing is a relatively recent musical style and scene which combines the music of the swing era with that of the age of electronic dance music. Chris Inglis considers key questions about electro swing’s place in contemporary society, including what it may mean for a contemporary genre to be so reliant upon the influences of the past; the different ways in which jazz may be presented to a modern audience; how one may go about defining jazz in today’s postmodern world; and how this emergent genre may be analysed in terms of the wider issues of race and class consumption.

Literature After Fukushima
From Marginalized Voices to Nuclear Futurity

Edited by Linda Flores and Barbara Geilhorn
Series: Asia’s Transformations
Literature after Fukushima examines how aesthetic representation contributes to a critical understanding of the 3.11 triple disaster – the Great East Japan earthquake, tsunami, and multiple meltdowns at the Fukushima Daiichi Nuclear Power Plant. Contributing to a more comprehensive understanding of the post-disaster climate of Japanese society and adding new perspectives through literary analysis, this book will be of interest to scholars and students of Japanese and Asian Studies, Literary Studies, Environmental Humanities, as well as Cultural and Transcultural Studies.

Regional Security in South Asia and the Gulf

Edited by Umer Karim, University of Birmingham, UK, and Saloni Kapur
Series: Changing Dynamics in Asia-Middle East Relations
As we move towards a world without superpowers, the dynamics within and between regions are of growing significance. Against this backdrop, this book explores the links between South Asia and the Gulf, which have existed for centuries but are undergoing important shifts in the transition to multipolarity. With a special focus on India, Pakistan, Iran, Bangladesh, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Sri Lanka and Oman, this volume brings together scholars from across these regions to investigate what the decenring world order means for the relationship between South Asia and the Gulf.

Next-Generation Memory and Ukrainian Canadian Children’s Historical Fiction

The Seeds of Memory

Mateusz Świętlicki
Series: Children’s Literature and Culture

This is the first book monograph devoted to Anglophone Ukrainian Canadian children’s historical fiction published between 1991 and 2021. It consists of five chapters offering cross-sectional and interdisciplinary readings of almost forty books—novels, novellas, picturebooks, short stories, and a graphic novel. This volume argues that reading, imagining, and reimagining history can lead to the formation of beyond-textual next-generation memory. Such memory created through reading is multi-dimensional as it involves the interpretation of both the present and the past by an individual whose reality has been directly or indirectly shaped by the past over which they have no influence.

The Rhetorical Construction of Vegetarianism
Edited by Cristina Hanganu-Bresch
This book explores themes in the rhetoric of vegetarian discourse. A vegan practice may help mitigate crises such as climate change, global health challenges, and sharpening socioeconomic disparities, by ensuring both fairness in the treatment of animals and food justice for marginalized populations. How the message is spread is crucial for these aims. Vegan practices thus uncover tensions between individual dietary choices and social justice activism, between ego and eco, between human and animal, between capitalism and environmentalism, and within the larger universe of theoretical and practical ethics.

Power and Paranoia in Syria-Iraq Relations
The Impact of Hafez Assad and Saddam Hussein
Amjed Rasheed. Queen’s University Belfast, Northern Ireland
Series: Durham Modern Middle East and Islamic World Series
This book examines the perplexing twists and turns in Syria-Iraq relations which since the establishment of modern Syria and Iraq after the First World War have zigzagged between cooperation and hostility countless times. It questions why both countries switched regional and international alliances, but never formed one of their own, and assesses the role played by structural forces such as geopolitics, ideology, and regime survival.

Design, Philosophy and Making Things Happen
Brian S. Dixon, Ulster University, UK
Series: Design Research for Change
Drawing from the work of Dewey, Wittgenstein, and Heidegger, this book aims to relate a series of philosophic insights to the practice of engaging in design research for change. These insights are explored and presented as a set of potential strategies for grounding transformative design research within an intellectual context which both embraces and celebrates experience, process, and uncertainty. Chapter by chapter, through theory, practical examples, and case studies an accessible narrative opens up around the coupled themes of existence and experience, language and meaning, and knowing and truth.

Stringers and the Journalistic Field
Marginalities and Precarious News Labour in Small-town India
Nimmalaguda Bhargav, Manipal Institute of Communication, Manipal Academy of Higher Education, India
This book is one of the first ethnographic works on small-town stringers and informal news workers in Indian journalism. It explores existing practices and cultures in the field of local journalism and the roles and spaces stringers occupy. The book outlines the caste, gender, class, and region-based biases in the production in Indian-language journalism with a specific focus on stringers working in Telugu dailies in small towns or ‘mofussil’ areas of Andhra Pradesh and Telangana, states in south India. Further, it captures their daily work and processes of news production, and precarious lives they often lead while working in small towns or ‘mofussils’.

Handbook of Civil Society and Social Movements in Small States
Edited by Lino Briguglio, University of Malta, Michael Briguglio, Sheila Bunwaree, University of Mauritius and Claire Slatter, University of the South Pacific
Series: Europa International Perspectives
Handbook of Civil Society and Social Movements in Small States depicts the way civil society encompasses social movements, which are considered to be loosely organized collective campaigns in pursuit of social goals. It deals with particular characteristics of small states, including limited ability to reap the benefits of economies of scale, high degree of exposure to forces outside their control, and the proximity of politicians to the voters, often leading to clientelistic relationships and patronage networks.

The Hysteric
Outline of a Figure
Eleanor Bowen, University of the Arts London, UK and Laura González, Royal Conservatoire of Scotland, UK
Series: Gender, Bodies and Transformation
Examining historical, clinical and artistic material, in both written and visual form, this book traces the figure of the contemporary hysteric as she rebels against the impossible demands made upon her. Exploring five traits that commonly characterise the hysteric as an archetype, the authors shed light on what it means to be hysterical, as a form of rebellion and resistance. This is important reading for scholars of sociology, gender studies, cultural studies and visual studies with interests in psychoanalysis, art and the characterisation of mental illness.

Can Human Rights and National Sovereignty Coexist?

Edited by Tetsu Sakurai, Kobe University, Japan and Mauro Zamboni, Stockholm University, Sweden

Looking at two of the key paradigms of the post-Cold War era – national sovereignty, and human rights – this book examines the possibilities for their reconciliation from a global perspective. The contributors to this book explore the meaning of, and possible solutions to, the key dilemma using a wide range of approaches and seek appropriate ways of dealing with these normative predicaments shared by many developed societies. Scholars and students of human rights, migration, nationalism and multiculturalism will find this a very valuable resource.

Advocacy Networks and the Responsibility to Protect

The Politics of Norm Circulation

Sarka Kolmasova, Metropolitan University Prague, Czech Republic

Series: Global Politics and the Responsibility to Protect

This book contributes to existing debates on the Responsibility to Protect (R2P) by demonstrating new advocacy strategies and the greater inter-connectedness of various R2P proponents.

Social Justice, Decoloniality, and Southern Epistemologies within Language Education

Theories, Knowledges, and Practices on TESOL from Brazil

Edited by Vander Tavares, Inland Norway University of Applied Sciences, Norway

Series: Global South Perspectives on TESOL

With a strong focus on decoloniality and social justice, this volume brings together critical theories, concepts, and practices on TESOL from multiple Brazilian perspectives. Ideology and Form in Yan Lianke’s Fiction
Mythorealism as Method

Haiyan Xie
Series: Interdisciplinary and Transcultural Approaches to Chinese Literature

Xie analyses three novels by the international award-winning Chinese writer Yan Lianke and investigates how his signature “mythorealism” form produces textual meanings that subvert the totalizing reality prescribed by literary realism.

The term mythorealism, which Yan coined to describe his own writing style, refers to a set of literary devices that incorporate both Chinese and Western literary elements while remaining primarily grounded in Chinese folk culture and literary tradition. A groundbreaking study of one of contemporary China’s most important authors, that will be of great value to students and scholars of Chinese literature.

The New Logic of Sexual Violence in Enlightenment France
Rationalizing Rape

Mary McAlpin, University of Tennessee Knoxville, USA
Series: Interdisciplinary Research in Gender

This book argues that rape as we know it was invented in the eighteenth century, examining texts as diverse as medical treatises, socio-political essays, and popular novels to demonstrate how cultural assumptions of gendered sexual desire eroded rape by making a women’s non-consent a logical impossibility. This intervention will be essential reading to students and scholars in gender studies, literature, cultural studies, visual studies, and the history of sexuality.

Untaming Girlhoods
Storytelling Female Adolescence

Cristina Santos, Brock University, USA
Series: Interdisciplinary Research in Gender

This is an interdisciplinary examination of female adolescent sexual becoming through a comparative study of foundational fairy tales revised in popular narrative, film and television adaptations. The success of franchises such as The Hunger Games, Twilight and Divergent have re-presented the young heroine as an empowered female, and often an action figure in her own right. Through a selection of popular culture touchstones this empowerment is questioned as a manipulation of feminist ideals of equality and a continuation of the traditional vision of female awakening centering on issues of personal choice, physical violence and, purity and beauty.

Conquest and Reclamation in the Transatlantic Imagination
The Amerindian Adventures of Henty, Haggard, and Griffith
Luz Elena Ramirez
Series: Literary Criticism and Cultural Theory
It examines the imperial spectacles and startling reversals of fortune related in History of the Conquest of Mexico (1843) and History of the Conquest of Peru (1847), and investigates how Prescott’s histories inspired fictional adaptations by George A. Henty, H. Rider Haggard, and George Griffith. The revision of history in the Amerindian adventure, entertained young transatlantic audiences, was a vehicle to attract tourism and investment in countries such as Mexico and Peru; and a way to impart British values. Such values compel the characters and narrators of novels discussed to act as cultural mediators, to acquire indigenous languages and adopt native ways of being.

Democracy, Religion, and Commerce
Private Markets and the Public Regulation of Religion
Edited by Kathleen Flake, University of Virginia, USA and Nathan B. Oman, William & Mary Law School, USA
Series: Law and Religion
This collection considers the relationship between religion, state, and market. In so doing, it also illustrates that the market is a powerful site for the cultural work of secularizing religious conflict. It seeks to productively complicate and invite further analysis of the easy conflation of democracy, religion and the market. It invites scholars from a variety of disciplines to consider more intentionally the extent to which markets are implicated in and illuminate the place of religion in public life. The book will be a valuable resource for researchers and academics working in the areas of law and religion, ethics and economics.

Japanese Film and the Challenge of Video

Tom Mes
Series: Media, Culture and Social Change in Asia
This book explores the phenomenon of V-Cinema, founded in Japan in 1989 as a distribution system for direct-to-video movies which film companies began making having failed to recoup their investment in big-budget films. It examines how studios and directors worked quickly to capitalize on niche markets or upcoming and current trends, and how as a result this period of history in Japanese cinema was an exceptionally diverse and vibrant film scene. It highlights how, although the V-Cinema industry declined from around 1995, the explosion in quantity and variety of such movies established and cemented many specific genres of Japanese film.

Practices of Ephemera in Early Modern England

Edited by Callan Davies, Hannah Lilley and Catherine Richardson
This collection is the first to historicise the term ephemera and its meanings for early modern England and considers its relationship to time, matter, and place. It asks: how do we conceive of ephemera in a period before it was routinely employed (from the eighteenth century) to describe ostensibly disposable print? The studies here therefore look beyond static records to think about moments of process and transmutation and accordingly get closer to early modern experiences, identities, and practices.

Global Art in Local Art Worlds

Changing Hierarchies of Value
Edited by Oscar Salemkir, Copenhagen University, Denmark, Amélia Siegel Corrêa, Jens Sejrup and Vibe Nielsen
This book explores the attribution and local negotiation of cultural valuations of artistic and art-institutional practices around the world, and considers the diverse ways in which these value attributions intersect with claims of universalism and cosmopolitanism. Including reflections by a number of senior scholars, the chapters demonstrate that the question of valuation lies at the heart of artistic and art-institutional practices writ large— including museum practices, museum architecture, galleries, auction houses, art fairs and biennales

Active Rheology Control of Cementitious Materials

Geert De Schutter, University of Ghent, Belgium and Karel Lesage, Ghent University, Belgium
Series: Modern Concrete Technology

This Open Access book details the different routes available for handling self-compacting concrete, which is still very largely labour-dependent and susceptible to placement problems such as pump failure and formwork leakage. The SmartCast (ERC Advanced Grant) Project, has developed Active Rheology Control and Active Stiffening Control methods for actively controlling the rheological and stiffening behaviour of fresh concrete during casting operations by modifying the concrete with responsive superplasticizer and/magneto-responsive mineral additions. This allows enhancement of the target properties during the placement process and increased speed and placement reliability.

Human-Horse Relations and the Ethics of Knowing

Rosalie Jones McVey
Series: Multispecies Anthropology

This book explores how equestrians are highly invested in the idea of profound connection between horse and human and focuses on the ethical problem of knowing horses. It raises the question of whether, and how, the concept of truth should matter to multispecies ethnographers in the ethnographic representations of animals.

Cosmopolitan Strangers in US Latinx Literature and Culture

Building Bridges, Not Walls
Edited by Esther Álvarez López, Universidad de Oviedo, Spain and Andrea Fernández-García
Series: Narrative Theory and Culture

This book presents a study of the figure of the stranger in US Latinx literary and cultural forms, ranging from contemporary novels through essays to film and transborder art activism. Through an engagement with these theoretical tenets, the goal of this book is to showcase the role of the Latinx stranger as a cosmopolitan mediator that transforms walls into bridges.

This book brings rarely voiced lives and experiences of women in Nepal to light and combines rich ethnography with discourse analysis. The book will be invaluable for researchers and students of gender studies, global south studies, development studies, cultural anthropology/ethnography, Nepal studies, and feminist geography. It will also be of interest to political geographers, anthropologists, sociologists, policymakers, and those with an interest in global gender issues.

Crimmigration under International Protection

Constructing Criminal Law as Governmentality
Rottem Rosenberg-Rubins, Tel Aviv University, and Minerva Center for the Rule of Law under Extreme Conditions, University of Haifa, Israel
Series: New Advances in Crime and Social Harm

The convergence of criminal law and immigration law, known as crimmigration, has become perhaps the paradigmatic model for governing migration in the age of globalization. This book offers a unique way of understanding crimmigration as a system of governmentality, the primary target of which is the population, its principal form of knowledge being political economy, and its essential mechanism being the apparatus of security. It does so by characterizing a particular model of crimmigration, termed crimmigration under international protection, which targets refugees and asylum-seekers who are principally undeporable under international law.

National Brands and Global Markets

An Historical Perspective

Edited by Nikolas Glover and David M. Higgins, Newcastle University, UK
Series: Perspectives in Economic and Social History

Between Brexit, efforts to ‘Make America great again’ and ongoing appeals for patriotic consumption to boost economies, the intersection between national identity, marketing campaigns, and consumer choices has been brought to the fore. This book maps out this terrain and provides a framework for how research on ‘Made in’ campaigns and programmes in individual countries can be placed into a broader historical context. The book argues that the history of ‘Made in’ can be used to shed light on society at large. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of economic history, business history and marketing.

Two-Track Democracy in South Korea

The Interplay Between Institutional Politics and Contentious Politics
Seongyi Yun, Kyung Hee University, Korea

This book examines three ironic phenomena of South Korean democracy that have developed after its democratic transition in 1987. Why is South Korean democracy witnessing ironic phenomena that cannot be succinctly explained by existing theories of political development or democracy? This book seeks these answers within the framework of a two-track democracy, that is, the interplay between institutional and contentious politics. A model of democracy that combines contentious politics with formal politics can shed light on this phenomenon. Yun proposed that the traditional hierarchal and elite-centered political system is no longer sustainable.

Sport, Physical Activity, and Anti-Colonial Autoethnography Stories and Ways of Being
Jason Laurendeau, University of Lethbridge, Canada
This book offers a brief history of how autoethnography has been employed in studies of sport and physical (in)activity to date and makes an explicit call for anti-colonial approaches - challenging scholars of physical culture to interrogate and write against the colonial assumptions at work in so many cultural and academic spaces. Drawing on cutting-edge research and presenting innovative theoretical perspectives, this book is fascinating reading for anybody with an interest in physical cultural studies, sport studies, outdoor studies, sociology, cultural studies, or qualitative research methods in the social sciences.

The Rise of Green Extractivism
Extractivism, Rural Livelihoods and Accumulation in a Climate-Smart World
Natacha Bruna, Observatório do Meio Rural, Mozambique
Series: Rethinking Globalizations
The Rise of Green Extractivism tackles the understudied interconnections between extractivism and climate-smart policies and their implications for rural livelihoods, both theoretically and empirically. This book will be of great interest to students, scholars and researchers of political economy, globalisation, development studies, economics, political ecology, agrarian studies and environmental studies. It will also inform and provide policymakers with evidence-based insights into their decision-making process when designing and implementing climate change mitigation and adaptation policies, especially in developing countries.

Politics, Ethics and Emotions in ’New India’
Ajay Gudavarthy, Jawaharlal Nehru University, India
Series: Rethinking India
‘Analyzing cultural hegemony independently from material domination, Gudavarthy’s intellectual achievement in this book is remarkable. Drawing on new theorizing about meaning and emotion, he develops a subtle new take on India’s rightward turn, even as he provides critical commentary on contemporary events.’

Ethical Dilemmas in International Criminological Research

Edited by Michael Adorjan, University of Calgary, Canada and Rosemary Ricciardelli, Memorial University of Newfoundland, Canada

This new book brings together a fresh collection of leading international scholars tackling ethical dilemmas in criminological research. Contributors address how they have experienced and addressed ethical issues in their research, and how they have balanced the benefits and harms of doing such research for both the researcher and the researched. This book is essential reading for junior scholars just starting out with original research, as well as more seasoned researchers looking to gain insights into the challenges of criminological research in other cultural contexts. It is also instructive reading for students taking courses in criminological and social research methods.

Narratives of Unsettlement
Being out-of-joint as a Generative Human Condition

Madina Tlostanova, Linköping University, Sweden
Series: Routledge Advances in Feminist Studies and Intersectionality

This book uses an interdisciplinary, inter-medial approach to reflect on the relational complexity of unsettlement as a predominant sensibility of the present èpoupe. It tackles interrelated aspects of unsettlement including temporality, the desconcerting effects of the Anthropocene, the biomedical facets of unsettlement and the post-pandemic futures. It will be of interest to scholars and undergraduate and graduate students, as well as the general public, interested in critical global and future perspectives, in decolonial research, gender studies and posthumanities.

Corporate Compliance and Conformity
A Convenience Theory Approach to Executive Deviance

Petter Gottschalk, BI Norwegian Business School, Oslo, Norway

Traditionally, control in organizations is concerned with top-down approaches, where executives attempt to direct their employees’ attention, behaviors, and performance to align with the organization’s goals and objectives. This book takes a new approach by turning the problem of control upside down as it focuses on control of executives who find white-collar crime convenient. The bottom-up approach to executive compliance focuses on organizational measures to make white-collar crime less convenient for potential offenders.

Responding To Domestic Violence

Kate Seymour, Sarah Wendt and Kristin Natalier

This book reflects on the problem of domestic violence by thinking critically about policy and practice responses. Moving beyond accounts of men’s violence embedded in metaphors of ‘good’ and ‘bad men’, or as the expressions of particular structures and practices, it initiates challenging conversations concerning the ways in which our embeddedness in gendered discourses shapes the responses we imagine are possible and desirable. It will be of interest to scholars and students of gender studies, sociology, health, and social care.

Seeking Truth in International TV News
China, CGTN and the BBC

Vivien Marsh, University of Westminster, UK
Series: Routledge Advances in Internationalizing Media Studies

This book puts CGTN (formerly CCTV-News) and the BBC’s international television news head-to-head, interrogating competing ‘truths’ in the exacting business of news reporting. Written by a media scholar and former long-serving BBC News journalist, the book asks if China’s English-language television news programmes are nothing but state propaganda, and if the BBC is a universal news standard to which all other broadcasters should aspire. This book will interest scholars of global media, journalism, international relations and public diplomacy, as well as those in academia, the media and international affairs who want to examine the nature of news and ‘soft power’ in a comparative context.

The Rural to Urban Transition in Developing Countries
Urbanisation and Peri-Urban Land Markets

Amrutha Mary Varkey
Series: Routledge Advances in Regional Economics, Science and Policy

This book addresses urbanisation and peri-urban land markets, with a special focus on Bangalore, one of the fastest growing cities in South Asia. It contributes to historic perspectives on the spatial transformation of peri-urban locales, as well as providing much-needed institutional change. The steep rise in land prices of the periphery, rapid changes in the land use pattern, active land transactions, growth of the real estate market and the challenge to implement efficient land use regulations are explored with the help of field evidence.

Evolutionary Urban Development
Lessons from Central and Eastern Europe

Katarzyna Sadowy

Drawing on a range of disciplinary approaches, this monograph explores the drivers of urban development. Through an evolutionary lens, cities are shown to find a development path amidst an ever-changing landscape, sometimes facing extreme externalities such as wars and economic crises. Key themes covered include urban growth, decentralization, path dependence, institutional change, governance, entrepreneurship and culture. Detailed case studies of the history-rich metropolises of Berlin, Budapest and Warsaw allow the author to examine the adaptive abilities of cities in flux, and draw conclusions with broader international relevance.

Voluntary Consent
Theory and Practice

Maximilian Kiener, University of Oxford, UK
Series: Routledge Annals of Bioethics
This book presents a novel view on the voluntariness of medical consent, which the author calls Interpersonal Consent-Consentee Justice (ICJ). According to this view, consent is voluntary only if the process by which it has been obtained aligns with principles of interpersonal justice. ICJ explains the voluntariness of consent as an interpersonal concept requiring the absence of illegitimate control within the interaction between the person giving consent and the person receiving it. ICJ further develops the notion of interpersonal justification, known from contractualist theories in moral philosophy, and introduces it to the debate on consent.

Contemporary Second- and Third-Person Autobiographical Writing

Narrating the Male Self

Christina Schönberger-Stepien

Series: Routledge Auto/Biography Studies

This book explores 21st-century uses of the second- and third-person perspective in Anglophone autobiographical narratives by canonical male writers. Through detailed readings of contemporary autobiographical works by Paul Auster, Julian Barnes, J.M. Coetzee, and Salman Rushdie, the study demonstrates the multiple aesthetic, rhetorical, and un/ethical implications of the choice of narrative perspective as well as the uncommon step of articulating the self from a perspective which is not.

Indigenous Peacebuilding in South Sudan

Delivering Sustainable Peace Through Traditional Institutions, Customs and Practices

Winnifred Bedigen, University of Leeds, UK

This book explores the indigenous peace cultures of the major ethnic groups in South Sudan (Dinka, Nuer, Anuak and Acholi) and analyses their contribution to resolving the civil war. The book utilises qualitative narrative inquiry ethnographic methods to explore the indigenous institutions and customs (customary laws, beliefs and practices) employed in resolving ethnic conflicts and argues for their application in civil war resolution. This book contributes to the decolonial literature/knowledge by discussing the subtle norms, the role of youth, women, and elders, the concepts of resilience and proximity, and their significance in peacebuilding.

The East Asian Model

Transformation and Sustainability

Hyungkee Kim, Kyungpook National University, Republic of Korea

Series: Routledge Contemporary Asia Series

Hyungkee Kim analyses the model of East Asian development as it existed during periods of high growth and how it was transformed by pressures from both the Washington consensus and its own internal contradictions. He uses a Five Sector Model, which focuses on the state, corporate, financial, labour, and foreign sectors to identify the core of East Asian model and examine the variants in Korea, Japan and China. He also outlines the distinctions between the East Asian model and Western development models including the Anglo-American, Rhine, and Nordic models.

Deliberation with Chinese Characteristics

A Tale of Two Chinese Cities’ Participatory Budgeting Experiences

Su Yun Woo, Postdoctoral Researcher, Institute of Political Science, University of Zurich, Zurich

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

Woo investigates examples of the Chinese government using methods normally associated with deliberative democracy to involve their citizenry in decision-making at a sub-national level. The proliferation of deliberative democratic practices is motivated by the CCP’s strong governance logic, to strengthen regime legitimacy and stability. Woo examines deliberative participation through the lens of participatory budgeting in China, and investigates its impact on local governance. An intriguing read both for scholars of Chinese politics and for political scientists looking at comparative examples of deliberative governance.

Efficiency and Bureaucratization of Criminal Justice
Global Trends

Edited by Ed Johnston, Associate Professor, University of Northampton, UK and Anna Pivaty, Assistant Professor, Radboud University, Nijmegen, Netherlands

This book tackles the growing issues concerning the managerialism and bureaucratization of criminal justice systems. It explores the phenomenon of managerialism in selected national criminal legal systems, representing diverse socio-economic, political, cultural and legal traditions, and covers all stages of criminal case processing from arrest to the imposition of sanctions. It critically examines whether and to what extent the trend towards managerialism is discernible and its likely effects in the given national criminal legal systems. It will be of interest to students, researchers and practitioners in the areas of comparative criminal justice and procedure.

Civil Society and Pakistan’s Economy
Robber Barons and Meritocracy

Edited by Fayyaz Baqir, University of Ottawa, Canada

This book analyses the paradoxes of Pakistan’s economy, meritocratic domestic policy and the role of the state and civil society. It argues that the transition in the country’s foreign policy from geo-politics to geo-economic depends on a fundamental domestic policy transition from kleptocracy to meritocracy. A novel analysis depicting macro-micro linkages of encroachment of socio-economic space by the power elites and effective strategies used for its reappropriation by the people, the book will be of interest to academics researching South Asian Studies, in particular South Asian economics and politics.

Compensation for Wrongful Convictions
A Comparative Perspective

Edited by Wojciech Jasinski and Karolina Kremens

Series: Routledge Contemporary Issues in Criminal Justice and Procedure

This book presents a comparative analysis of the substantive and procedural aspects of compensation for wrongful convictions in European countries and the US, as well as the standard derived from the case law of the European Court of Human Rights. It considers similarities and differences between jurisdictions and assesses the effectiveness of the national compensation schemes. Exploring the minimum European standard as established in the case law of the European Court of Human Rights enables us to identify how the Strasbourg Court can contribute to strengthening the compensation scheme. It will be essential reading for students, academics and policymakers in criminal law and procedure.

Islam, Education and Radicalism in Indonesia
Instructing Piety

Edited by Tim Lindsay, Jamhari Makruf and Helen Pausacker

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

This book explores the connections between traditional Islamic education, rising religious intolerance, religious attitudes to gender, campaigns for curricula innovation and modernisation, and politics and society in Indonesia. Drawing on extensive original research and the deep experience of the authors, the book highlights tensions between traditional Islamic educators and modernisers, and between different understandings of Islam, emphasising the importance of these issues for the future of Indonesia.

Sexual Abuse and Education in Japan
In the (Inter)National Shadows

Robert O’Mochain, Associate Professor, College of International Relations at Ritsumeikan University, Kyoto, Japan and Yuki Ueno, University Lecturer, University of Montpellier Paul Valery and the University of Toulouse, France

Series: Routledge Contemporary Japan Series

Bringing together two voices, practice and theory, in a collaboration that emerges from lived experience and structured reflection upon that experience, Ueno and O’Mochain show how entrenched discursive forces exert immense influence in Japanese society and how they might be most effectively challenged. An insightful read for scholars of Japanese society, especially those concerned by its treatment of women.

Producing and Consuming the Craft Beer Movement

Wesley Shumar and Tyson Mitman

Producing and Consuming the Craft Beer Movement is an ethnographic analysis of the craft beer movement and its rapid development as an industry that articulated a different set of values: celebrating, quality, community, and good taste. This book will provide an excellent foundation for considering craft beer and an entrepreneurial practice that produces other forms of value beyond monetary value.

From Extractivism to Sustainability

Edited by Henry Veltmeyer, Research Professor in Development Studies, Universidad de Autónoma de Zacatecas, Mexico; Professor Emeritus in International Development Studies at Saint Mary’s University, Canada and Arturo Ezquerra-Carlete

Series: Routledge Critical Development Studies

This book investigates how extractive capitalism has developed over the past three decades, what dynamics of resistance have been deployed to combat it, and whether extractivism can ever be transformed into being a part of a progressive development path. Drawing on diverse forms of extractivism (mining, fossil fuels, agriculture), this book analyses the dynamics of both the forces of resistance and alternate scenarios for a more sustainable and liveable future. It will be of interest to researchers and students across development studies, economics, political economy, environmental studies, indigenous studies, and Latin American affairs.

Sexuality in the Swedish Police

From Gay Jokes to Pride Parades

Jens Rennstam, Lund University, Sweden

Series: Routledge Critical Studies in Crime, Diversity and Criminal Justice

Sexuality in the Swedish Police is based on the experiences of lesbian, gay and bisexual police officers and the author’s observations of police work. Written at the intersection of organizational, gender and police studies, the book analyses how processes of exclusion and inclusion of LGTB sexuality coexist in the Swedish police, how these processes are related to the culture and characteristics of police work, and how police management attempts to create an inclusive organisation. How and under what conditions does the exclusion and inclusion of LGTB officers and LGTB sexuality take place in the Swedish police?

The Respiratory Primacy of Being

Petri Berndtson

Series: Routledge Critical Perspectives on Breath and Breathing

This book studies the phenomenological ontology of breathing. It investigates breathing and air as a question of phenomenological philosophy and looks at phenomenological questions concerning respiratory methodology, ontological experience of respiration, respiratory spirituality and respiratory embodiment. Drawing on the ideas of Maurice Merleau-Ponty, Gaston Bachelard, Martin Heidegger, Edmund Husserl, Luce Irigaray and David Kleinberg-Levin, the book argues for the ontological primacy of breathing and develops a new principle of philosophy that the author calls “Silence of Breath, Abyss/Yawn of Air”.

Multilingual Texts and Practices in Early Modern Europe

Edited by Peter Auger, University of Birmingham, UK and Sheldon Bamman, University of Birmingham, UK

This collection offers a cross-disciplinary exploration of the ways in which multilingual practices were embedded in early modern European literary culture, opening up a dynamic dialogue between contemporary multilingual practices and scholarly work on early modern history and literature. The book draws on translation studies, literary history, transnational literatures, and contemporary sociolinguistic research to explore how multilingual practices manifested themselves across different social, cultural and institutional spaces. The volume will be of interest to scholars in sociolinguistics, early modern studies in history and literature, and comparative literature.

The Rise of Small-Scale Development Organisations
The Emergence, Positioning and Role of Citizen Aid Actors

Edited by Hanne Haaland, Sara Kinsbergen, Lau Schulpen and Hege Wallevik
Series: Routledge Explorations in Development Studies
This edited volume discusses the rise, positioning and role of small-scale, voluntary development organisations in the Global North. This book presents and reflects upon unique data and analyses of a growing global community of researchers involved in this field of study located in a diverse set of countries in the Global North and South. The first part of the book starts from a northern perspective and from an analysis of how and why citizens actively engage in the field of international development. Starting from this understanding of this particular development actor, the second part will delve into the role of these actors in the global south.

Banking and Microfinance Institution Partnerships
A Comparative Analysis of Cambodia and Australia

Don Chandima Padmaperuma
Series: Routledge Explorations in Development Studies
This book examines partnerships between commercial banks and microfinance institutions (MFIs). It demonstrates that when set up properly, these partnerships have the potential to develop and enhance the financial inclusion agenda, and further support sustainable development. Through two distinct case studies, in Cambodia and Australia, the book discusses the motivations, objectives and operational dynamics of a partnership, as well as the challenges, success factors, and potential benefits, from the increase in outreach and sustainability, to the transference of knowledge and potential for capacity building.

An Economic History of the First German Unification
State Formation and Economic Development in a European Perspective

Edited by Ulrich Pfister and Nikolaus Wolf,
Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin, Germany
Series: Routledge Explorations in Economic History
There is a striking chronological parallel between Germany’s transition from a post-Malthusian regime to modern economic growth and the formation of a modern nation state between the late 1860s and the early 1880s, which culminated in the events of 1871. The central question of this book is whether and how such state formation did in fact contribute to economic development.

Hayekian Systems

Research into the Structure of Social Interaction

William N. Butos and Thomas J. McQuade
Series: Routledge Foundations of the Market Economy
The central theme in the work of F. A. Hayek was the problem of order in society, and his focus was epistemological: he was concerned with the constraints on knowledge, the problems associated with its distribution, the structures in which it inheres, and the implications of these issues for the understanding of social phenomena generally. But while his work has greatly improved our understanding of market processes, application to more complex social arrangements was not an unambiguous success. This book is essential reading for anyone interested in Hayekian Austrian economics, social theory, and the history of economic thought more broadly.

The Politics of Prison Crowding
A Critical Analysis of the Italian Prison System
Simone Santorso, University of Sussex, UK
The Politics of Prison Crowding investigates recent transformations in Italy’s penal system to make the key analytical observation that conditions of overcrowding have become the ‘new normal’ under which the modern prison system continues to operate and deliver punishment. Engaging with the politics of crowding thus entails a direct and pertinent engagement with the modern state’s politics of criminal justice and social control.

Disassembling Police Culture
Mike Rowe
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice
Drawing on six years of ethnographic research, this book critically examines police culture, exploring police behaviours, decision-making and actions. Rather than looking for culture or identifying how culture affects behaviours, this book identifies factors that influence the decisions and actions, including technology, targets, training, timing, intelligence, geography and supervision, thus reassembling police culture much as Bruno Latour sought to reassemble the social.
An accessible and compelling read, this book will appeal to students and scholars of policing, criminology, sociology, law, politics and all those interested in the day-to-day lives of police officers.

Innovation, Complexity and Economic Evolution
From Theory to Policy
Pier Paolo Saviotti
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy
If evolutionary economics is to compete with neoclassical economics as a general-purpose economic theory, it needs to incorporate new aspects of socioeconomic reality, such as institutions of all types, including technical, scientific, and political. Furthermore, evolutionary economics needs to be able to provide policy implications at least as interesting as those of neoclassical economics. Thus, as this book argues, evolutionary economics must become evolutionary political economy.

Robin Maialeh, Czech Technical University in Prague
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy
This book expands upon a range of economic insights within the overall context of critical theory, particularly with respect to the question of socio-economic inequalities, and presents an explanation of how critical theory provides a number of interesting perspectives for economists. The approach adopted by the author aims to uncover the way in which structurally-genetic market forces govern individual behaviour. This book will be of particular interest to scholars of the political economy, philosophy and the methodology of the social sciences, especially those concerned with inequality issues. This book includes a preface written by Professor Martin Jay.

Corporate Financialization
An Economic Sociology Perspective
Marcelo José do Carmo, Mário Sacamano Neto and Julio Cesar Donadone
Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy
The data demonstrates that what would once have been considered non-core business activities have become more profitable than core business activities in many of these companies. In some cases, these companies are responsible for large investment funds and financial-type institutions which already surpass the largest banks in terms of assets under management. Meanwhile, the average salaries at some of these companies have been falling in real terms due to the rise of outsourcing and the use of cheap or precarious labour. Adopting an economic sociology approach, this book marks a significant contribution to the literature on financialization in economics, sociology and business.

Pre-State Photographic Archives and the Zionist Movement
Rotem Rozental, University of Southern California, USA
Series: Routledge History of Photography
By entering and critically re-activating the Zionist photographic archive established by the Division of Journalism and Propaganda of the Jewish National Fund, this research examines its rippling impact on civil landscapes prior to 1948 in Palestine, and its lasting impact on the region to date.
The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history, photography history, visual culture, Jewish studies, Israel studies, and Middle East studies.

The Digital Revolution in Banking, Insurance and Capital Markets
Edited by Lech Gąsiorkiewicz and Jan Monikiewicz
Series: Routledge International Studies in Money and Banking
This book approaches the evolution of digital finance from a business perspective and in a holistic way, providing cutting-edge knowledge of how the digital financial system works in its three main domains: banking, insurance and capital markets. It offers a bird’s eye view of the major issues and developments in these individual sectors. The book has three key messages: that digital transformation changes fundamentally the way financial businesses operate; that individual players have their own digitalization agenda; and that the state with its regulatory powers and central banking and money has a particularly important role to play.

Interpreting Violence
Narrative, Ethics and Hermeneutics
Edited by Cassandra Falke, Victoria Fareld and Hanna Mereotja
Series: Routledge Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Literature
Interpreting Violence examines the ethics of engaging with representations of violence from a broad hermeneutic perspective. It offers multidisciplinary perspectives on the sense-making involved in interpreting violence in its various forms, from blatant physical violence to less visible forms that may inhere in words or in the social and political order of our societies.

Activist Retail Investors and the Future of Financial Markets
Understanding YOLO Capitalism
Edited by Usman W. Chohan and Sven Van Kerckhoven
Series: Routledge International Studies in Money and Banking
This book deploys many different subdisciplines to explore the recent ‘power grabbing’ of retail investors and the online environment that enables them to join the ranks of major financial players, and participate in contemporary capitalism. Drawing upon the insights of authors hailing from many different countries, the book frames YOLO capitalism through numerous angles that help to explain the context and the importance of activist retail investors in modern financial markets, and thereby explore the possibilities of a transformed financial future with much wider small-scale participation.
Selections from the Poems of Paulinus of Nola, including the Correspondence with Ausonius
Introduction, Translation, Commentary
Alex Dressler
This volume offers a broad introduction to the correspondence of Ausonius of Bordeaux and his protégé Paulinus of Nola. The first volume in English in over a century on these works, it also offers selections from Paulinus’ poetic output. Taken together, the correspondence with Ausonius and the selections from Paulinus epitomize the personal, political, and spiritual conflicts of their age, offering a lively and concentrated introduction to the life and thought of these two underappreciated contemporaries of Jerome and Augustine. Suitable for students and scholars of Classics, Late Antiquity, and Religious Studies.

Fittingness and Environmental Ethics
Philosophical, Theological and Applied Perspectives
Edited by Michael S. Northcott and Steven C. van den Heuvel
This volume focuses on ‘fittingness’ as an ethical-aesthetical idea, and in particular examines how the concept is beneficial for environmental ethics. Fittingness interacts powerfully with a whole cluster of relational and moral terms - such as appropriateness, prudence, temperance, mutuality - that the book suggests can be of great benefit in reframing human relationships to the non-human.

Studies in Ancient Greek Philosophy
In Honor of Professor Anthony Preus
D. M. Spitzer
Series: Routledge Monographs in Classical Studies
Spanning a wide range of texts, figures, and traditions from the ancient Mediterranean world, this volume gathers far-reaching, interdisciplinary papers on Greek philosophy from an international group of scholars. The book’s chapters address topics and themes extending from the formation of philosophy from its first stirrings in archaic Greek as well as Egyptian, Persian, Mesopotamian, and Indian sources, through central concepts in ancient Greek philosophy and literatures of the classical period and into the Hellenistic age. Of interest to students and scholars working on ancient Greek philosophy as well as ancient philosophy more broadly.

Transhumanism, Ethics and the Therapeutic Revolution
Agents of Change
Stephen Goundrey-Smith, University of Exeter, UK
Series: Routledge New Critical Thinking in Religion, Theology and Biblical Studies
This book explores the impact of developments in pharmacological medicine in the twentieth century on Christian ethical evaluation of transhumanism and future ‘hi tech’ medical enhancement technologies. It suggests that the Christian ethical assessment of proposed future radical transhumanist biomedical technologies should be conducted in the light of responses to past medical advances. Stressing the inadequacy of natural law alone, the author proposes an ethical framework for assessing novel biomedical technologies according to the effects on personal autonomy, embodiment and bodily life, and on the imago Dei.

The Aftermath of the Arab Uprisings
Reconstruction, National Peace and Democratic Change
Edited by Samir Makdissi, American University of Beirut, Lebanon and Raimundo Soto Series: Routledge Political Economy of the Middle East and North Africa
Unlike other books on the Arab uprisings of 2010-2011 which focus on why they occurred, this book looks instead towards the future of three countries – Syria, Libya and Yemen – where the violence and instability initiated by the uprisings persist. It additionally examines the case of Iraq which continues to suffer from a precarious political situation introduced by the US led invasion of 2003. The book investigates what should be done to achieve inclusive political and economic development and eventually a lasting peace.

A Maintenance Management Framework for Municipal Buildings in Developing Economies
Babatunde Fatai Ogunbayo, Clinton Aigbavboa, University of Johannesburg, South Africa and Wellington Didibhuku Thwala, University of Johannesburg, South Africa
Series: Routledge Research Collections for Construction in Developing Countries
This book takes a pragmatic approach in developing an effective maintenance management system for municipal buildings in developing economies using the South African education sector as a case study. It provides readers with two major practical insights. The first focuses on the theoretical underpinning of maintenance management and developing an integrated maintenance management framework for municipal buildings in developing economies. Secondly, it highlights and addresses theoretical gaps in existing maintenance management studies deemed essential for educational buildings maintenance management.

Othello and the Problem of Knowledge
Reading Shakespeare through Wittgenstein
Richard Gaskin, University of Liverpool, UK
Series: Routledge Research in Aesthetics
This book analyses the epistemological problems Shakespeare explores in Othello. Shakespeare presupposes a Wittgensteinian model of mind as revealed in behaviour, and communication as necessarily successful in general. Gaskin examines different epistemological models of the tragedy, and argues it is useful to apply materials from Wittgenstein’s On Certainty to the analysis of Othello’s loss of confidence in Desdemona’s fidelity. Othello treats Desdemona’s fidelity as a hinge certainty, something that is so fundamental to the language-game that abandoning it results in chaos and madness. The tragedy arises from treating the wrong kind of thing as a hinge certainty.

The Architecture of the Bight of Biafra
Spatial Entanglements
Joseph Godlewski
Series: Routledge Research in Architectural History
Intersected by small creeks, rivulets, and dotted with mangrove swamps, the interior of the Bight of Biafra is a region with a long history of decentralized political arrangements and intricate trading networks predating the emergence of the Atlantic World. In the relative absence of physical architectural documentation, this study draws from a close reading of written sources—traveler’s accounts, slave traders’ diaries, memoirs, colonial records, and oral histories—as well as contemporary field work to trace transformations in the region’s built environment from the sixteenth century to today.

Urban Enlightenment
Multistakeholder Engagement and the City
Shane Epting, Missouri University of Science and Technology, USA
Series: Routledge Research in Applied Ethics
This book applies the concept of moral ordering to urban affairs. It demonstrates how multi-stakeholder engagement can enhance the quality of city life while supporting ambitions such as ethical urban sustainability and human flourishing. The author argues for moral ordering, a process designed to address issues involving different stakeholder groups such as municipal officials and residents. By employing moral ordering, a view comes into focus, revealing that the attention that each group receives reflects their place in the process, providing the necessary degree of moral respect. Finally, the author shows how moral ordering can lead to urban enlightenment.

Colonialism, Uprising and the Urban Transformation of Nineteenth-Century Delhi
Jyoti Pandey Sharma
This book examines Delhi in the politically and culturally dynamic nineteenth century. Employing the built environment lens, the book traces the architectural trajectory of Delhi as it transformed from the seventeenth-century Mughal Badshahi Shahar (imperial city) first into a culturally hybrid Dilli-Delhi combine of the pre-uprising era and thereafter into a modern British city following the uprising. This transition is presented via four constructs that draw on the traditionalism-modernity binary of Mughal and British Delhi and include Marhoom Dilli (Insurgent Delhi), Pictoresque Delhi, Baaghi Dilli (Insurgent Delhi) and Tamed Delhi.

Architecture for Spain’s Recovered Democracy
Public Patronage, Regional Identity, and Civic Significance in 1980s Valencia
Manuel López Segura
The study brings forth the architectural incarnation of that threefold program as it deployed in the Valencian Country, a Catalan-speaking region on Spain’s Mediterranean shores. There, social democratic authorities mobilized architects, planners, and graphic artists to devise a newly open public sphere and to recover a local identity that Franco’s dictatorship had repressed for decades. The research follows the impetus of reform and its contradictions through urban projects, designs for cultural amenities, and the renovation of governmental and professional bodies.

Sverre Fehn and the City: Rethinking Architecture’s Urban Premises
Stephen M. Anderson
Series: Routledge Research in Architecture
The urban attentions of Pritzker Laureate Sverre Fehn (1924-2009) are extensive, but as yet virtually unexplored. This book examines ten select projects to illuminate Fehn’s approach to the city, the embodiment of that thinking in his designs, and the broader lessons those efforts offer for better understanding the relationship between architecture and urban life. Fehn’s writings, constructed buildings, competition entries, and lectures suggest opportunities for reinvigorating architecture’s engagement with the city, and provoke a rethinking of concepts foundational to its theorization.

Transgressive Design Strategies for Utopian Cities
Theories, Methodologies and Cases in Architecture and Urbanism
Bertug Ozarisoys and Hasim Altan
Series: Routledge Research in Architecture
This book critically examines the philosophy of the term ‘transgression’ and how it shapes the utopian vision of contemporary urban design scenarios.
The aim of this book is to provide scholarly yet accessible graphic novel illustrations to inform narratives of urban manifestos. Through four select case studies from the UK, Cyprus and Germany, the book highlights the paradoxes and contradictions in architecture. The book argues that the philosophical undermining of transgression is the result of a phenomenon from a different perspective — its philosophical background, its social construction, its experimental research process and its design implications on the city.

The Virtual Liturgy and Ritual Artifacts in Medieval and Early Modern Studies
Katharine D. Scherff, Texas Tech University, USA
Series: Routledge Research in Art History
Examining the history of altar decorations, this study of the visual liturgy grapples with many of the previous theoretical frameworks to reveal the evolution and function of these ritual objects.
Using an interdisciplinary approach, this book uses traditional art historical methodologies and media technology theory to re-examine ritual objects. Previous analysis has not considered the in-between nature of these objects as deliberate and virtual conduits to the divine. The liturgy, the altarpiece, the altar environment, relics, and their reliquaries are media. In a series of case studies, several objects tell a different story about culture and the divine.

Curating with Care
Edited by Elke Krasny and Lara Perry
Series: Routledge Research in Art Museums and Exhibitions
This book presents over twenty authors’ reflections on ‘curating care’ – and presents a call to give curatorial attention to the primacy of care for all life, and for more ‘caring curating’ that responds to the social, ecological and political analysis of curatorial caregiving.
Practicing curators, activists and theorists situate curatorial labour in the context of today’s general care crisis. This volume answers to the call to more fully understand how their transformative work allows for imagining the future of bodily, social, and environmental care and the ethics of interdependency differently.

Curating the Contemporary in the Art Museum
Edited by Malene Vest Hansen and Kristian Handberg, University of Copenhagen
Series: Routledge Research in Art Museums and Exhibitions
Curating the Contemporary in the Art Museum investigates the art museum as a space where the contemporary is staged – in exhibitions, collecting practices, communication, and policies. Curating the Contemporary in the Art Museum provides a historical perspective on the museum of contemporary art. It constitutes a step towards differencing the canon of modernist and contemporary art and a more complex understanding of the politics of curating the contemporary in the art museum: why it will be of interest to academics and students engaged in the study of museums, curating, exhibitions, and art history.

Ethos, Logos, and Perspective
Studies in Late Byzantine Rhetoric
Florin Leonte
Series: Routledge Research in Byzantine Studies
This book explores the extent to which local government in the UK is able to function effectively and democratically. It draws from local councillors’ views in analysing the state of local government under the current constitutional and governmental arrangements, discussing issues such as councils’ relationship with central government, finance and public services, and the impact of recent reforms. It contrasts and compares the different approaches adopted in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, and discusses possible reforms of local government in the United Kingdom. While the focus is on the UK, the work includes a comparison with other relevant jurisdictions.

Different Engines
Media Technologies From Latin America
Andrés Burbano
Series: Routledge Research in Design, Technology and Society
Different Engines investigates the emergence of technologies in Latin America to create images, sounds, video games, and physical interactions. The book contributes to the construction of a historiographical and theoretical framework for understanding the work of creators through the study of five exemplary and yet relatively unknown artifacts built by engineers, scientists, artists, and innovators. It offers a broad and detailed view of the complex and sometimes unlikely conditions under which technological innovation is possible and of the problematic logics under which these innovations may come to be devalued as historically irrelevant.

The Glocalization of Early Childhood Curriculum
Global Childhoods, Local Curricula
Philip Hui Li, Macquarie University, Australia and Jennifer J. Chen, Kean University, USA
Series: Routledge Research in Early Childhood Education
This book unravels the myths and debates (i.e., child-centeredness versus teacher-directedness) about early childhood curriculum, revealing their social, cultural and historical roots. Analyzing globally advocated early childhood curricula and ideologies, this book argues that the direct adoption of contextually-bound approaches in local contexts may be inappropriate if social and cultural compatibility is lacking. The authors then explore how they may be implemented in a hybrid form using case studies from American and Chinese contexts. A valuable resource for scholars and students of early childhood education and comparative education, as well as key education stakeholders.

International Perspectives on Educating for Democracy in Early Childhood
Recognizing Young Children as Citizens
Edited by Stacy Lee DeZutter, Millsaps College, Mississippi, USA
This book brings together established and emerging scholars from around the globe to highlight new directions for research on young children as active, engaged citizens of classrooms. It establishes citizenship enactment in early childhood education as a robust and growing research area with the potential to shape research, policy, and practice worldwide. As such, it will appeal to researchers and academics with an interest in citizenship education, democracy, and early childhood education, as well as postgraduate students of teacher education and those working across international and comparative education more broadly.

Apprenticeship, Work, Society in Early Modern Venice

Edited by Anna Bellavitis and Valentina Sapienza
Series: Routledge Research in Early Modern History
Apprenticeship in early modern Europe has been the subject of important research in the last decades, mostly by economic historians, but the majority of the research has dealt with cities or countries in Northern Europe. The organization, evolution and purpose of apprenticeship in Southern Europe are much less studied, especially for the early modern period. The research in this volume is based on a unique documentary source: more than 54,000 apprenticeship contracts registered from 1575 to 1772 by the Old Justice, a civil court of the Republic of Venice in charge of guilds and labour disputes.

Contemporary Global Perspectives on Cooperative Learning

Applications Across Educational Contexts

Edited by Robyn M. Gillies, University of Queensland, Australia, Barbara Mills, Educational Consultant, US and Neil Davidson, University of Maryland, US
Series: Routledge Research in Education
This volume captures contemporary global developments in cooperative learning (CL) across varied educational contexts, levels, and disciplines. It offers a wide-ranging perspective and addresses a range of cooperative learning pedagogies including relational, online, and peer learning, STAD, the Jigsaw model, and dialogic talk; appealing to scholars and researchers across a variety of subjects; as well as providing an additional benefit to in-service and pre-service educators who already practice cooperative learning in their classrooms, and those who are interested in implementing the model.

Disability, Diversity and Inclusive Education in Haiti

Learning, Exclusion and Educational Relationships in the Context of Crises

Edited by Rochambeau Lainy
Series: Routledge Research in Educational Psychology
This book examines disability, diversity and schooling exclusion in Haiti, demonstrating how the educational relationships built and practiced in school influence the perceptions of people with disabilities, with respect to both singular contexts and pedagogical practices. With contributions from linguists, educational sociologists, educational psychologists, educators and historians, chapters focus on a range of phenomena such as the balance of languages used for teaching, gender equity, associated disorders, and the experiences of left-handed and deaf students. As such, it represents a unique study of the relationship between school exclusion and disability in the context of crisis.

Culturally Sensitive Research Methods for Educational Administration and Leadership

Edited by Eugenie A. Samier, University of Strathclyde, UK and Eman S. Elkaleh, Zayed University, United Arab Emirates
This book explores the multicultural and non-Western contexts behind the approaches, problems, and issues that arise in research methodologies when used in relation to educational administration and leadership. A valuable resource for researchers, scholars and students with an interest in multicultural education, the book will also appeal to academics interested in race, ethics, and educational research methods more broadly.

Securitization and Financial Law

The New EU Regulation

Edited by Pierre de Giöia Carabelllese, Heriot-Watt University, Scotland and Camilla Della Giustina
The book "Law of Securitisations: from Crisis to Techno Sustainability" provides a full and detailed account of the EU legislation in the area of structured finance with the new legal rules dissected and discussed in their full extent. Securitisation transactions have been identified in the literature among the main reasons for the 2007/2008 financial crisis, alongside with derivative contracts. More than a decade later, the EU legislature passed in 2017 a legal framework comprehensively disciplining the area of the securitisations in the EU.

Mobile Payments, Consumer Policy and the Law

A Comparative Analysis

Edited by Nwanneka V. Ezechukwu
Mobile technology offers an innovative and cost-effective channel for delivering a range of financial services, including mobile payments. In some jurisdictions, mobile payments simply provide a convenient option for facilitating payment transactions. In other jurisdictions, mobile payments are viewed as potentially transformative because they present an opportunity to expand access to financial services. However, as with other innovations, mobile payments raise consumer protection concerns and require robust regulatory mechanisms to address such concerns.
Representations of the Academic

Challenging Assumptions in Higher Education

Edited by Jean McNiff, York St John University, UK
Series: Routledge Research in Higher Education
This thoughtful volume challenges widely accepted, traditionalist scientific notions of ‘the academic’ – prevalent in higher education institutions globally – in order to promote best practice, and redefine the field as accessible, inclusive, and forward thinking. The book will be of interest to students, academics and researchers in the fields of education, educational research, and higher and professional education more broadly. Those involved with interdisciplinary and intercultural studies, ethics and values in research will also benefit from this volume.

A Conversation Analytic Approach to Doctoral Supervision

Feedback, Advice and Guidance

Binh Thanh Ta
Series: Routledge Research in Higher Education
This book reports on an empirical study of oral feedback practices in doctoral supervision meetings, observing supervisors’ and students’ conduct to enable a new understanding of the social organisation of doctoral research supervision. Based on 25 video-recorded supervision meetings at an Australian university, the book invites the reader into the microworld of interactions between doctoral students and their supervisors. This book will be of interest to doctoral supervisors, postgraduate students and researchers working with conversation analysis and education, and those with an interest in feedback and advice as an integral part of their professions.

American Colonial Spaces in the Philippines

Insular Empire

Scott Kirsch
American Colonial Spaces in the Philippines tells the story of US colonialists who attempted, in the first decades of the twentieth century, to build an enduring American empire in the Philippines through the production of space. From concrete interventions in infrastructure, urban planning, and built environments to more abstract projects of mapping and territorialization, the book traces the efforts of US Insular Government agents to make space for empire in the Philippines through forms of territory, map, landscape, and road, and how these spaces were understood as solutions to problems of colonial rule.

Sports Investigations Law and the ECHR

Collection, Use and Exchange of Intelligence

Bjorn Hessert
Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law
This book focuses on the analysis of coercive measures that sports federations are permitted to use as part of their investigations to investigate rule violations. The legality of such coercive measures is measured against the legal regime of the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR). The book further explores if and to what extent sports organisations and law enforcement agencies may exchange intelligence in support of both internal sports investigation proceedings and criminal investigations. The work will be an invaluable resource for students, academics and policy-makers working in the area of Sports Law and Human Rights Law.

Innovations in Peace and Education Praxis

Transdisciplinary Reflections and Insights

Edited by David Tim Archer, University of Cambridge, UK, Basma Hajir, University of Cambridge, UK and William W. McInerney, University of Cambridge, UK
Series: Routledge Research in International and Comparative Education
Drawing on the work of the Cambridge Peace and Education Research Group as well as international scholars, this book responds to calls for transdisciplinary peace and education praxis and presents innovative examples of peace and education research practices, peace interventions in educational settings, and alternative ontologies in peace and education work. Foregrounding the concept of ‘second-order reflexivity’, the book prioritises the lived experiences and viewpoints of struggling populations regarding the worth of ‘peace’ as grounded within their contexts.

Justice and International Law in Meiji Japan

The María Luz Incident and the Dawn of Modernity

Giorgio Fabio Colombo, Graduate School of Law, Nagoya University. Ca’ Foscari University of Venice. Italian School of East Asian Studies.

Series: Routledge Research in Legal History

This book carries out a comprehensive analysis of the María Luz incident, a truly significant episode in Japanese and world history, from a legal perspective. While historians have written widely on the subject, the legal importance of this event has been relatively neglected. This book uses the case to explore the technical legal issues. Japan was facing in its transition from pre-modernity to modernity. Based on original documents, this book is an invaluable resource for researchers and academics in the fields of legal history, dispute resolution, international law, Japanese history and Asian studies.

Complex Governance Networks

Foundational Concepts and Practical Implications

Gökşüg Morçöl, Penn State University, USA

This book critically assesses traditional conceptual frameworks and proposes an alternative: A Complex Governance Networks (CGN) framework. Gökşüg Morçöl illustrates the applicability of the CGN concepts with examples from the Covid-19 pandemic and metropolitan governance. Morçöl concludes by discussing the implications of CGN for the convergence of public administration and public policy education and offering suggestions for future studies using the CGN conceptualization. Complex Governance Networks is essential reading for both scholars and advanced students of public policy, public administration, public affairs, and related areas.

Women in Convent Spaces and the Music Networks of Early Modern Barcelona

Ascensión Mazuela-Anguita

Series: Routledge Research in Music

This book presents the first study of music in convent life in a single Hispanic city, Barcelona, during the early modern era. Exploring how convents were involved in the musical networks operating in sixteenth-century Barcelona, it challenges the invisibility of women in music history and reveals the intrinsic role played by nuns and lay women in the city’s urban musical culture. This book is essential reading for scholars of early modern history, musicology, history of religion, and gender studies, as well as all those with an interest in urban history and the city of Barcelona.

Peaceful Management of Maritime Disputes
Edited by James Kraska and Hee Cheol Yang
Series: Routledge Research on the Law of the Sea
International law concerning maritime boundary dispute resolution reflects normative aspirations for peacefully managing some of the most intractable challenges in foreign affairs. Focusing on key international law issues relating to maritime boundary disputes, this book explores how international law and legal institutions facilitate these goals theoretically and practically. This process includes a balance of equities among states grounded in the Charter of the United Nations and the protection of sovereignty, territorial integrity, and political independence of Member States, while avoiding threats to the peace, breaches of the peace, and acts of aggression.

The Renaissance of Women Translators in 19th-Century Greece

Vasiliki Misiou, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece

Series: Routledge Research on Translation and Interpreting History

This volume offers an in-depth exploration of the translation activity of Greek women translators in the nineteenth-century, illuminating the role of translation as a means of resistance against sociocultural norms and the enduring impact of their work in the rise of feminism in Greece.

This book will be of particular interest to scholars in translation studies, particularly those with an interest in translation and gender, feminist translation studies, and translation history.

Conjunctive Explanations in Science and Religion

Edited by Diarmid A. Finnegan, David H. Glass, Mikael Leidenhag and David N. Livingstone

Series: Routledge Science and Religion Series

This book investigates the nature and relevance of conjunctive explanations in the context of science and religion. The contributions help to provide conceptual clarity on how scientific and religious explanations might or might not work together conjunctively as well as exploring how these ideas relate to specific topics in science and religion more generally.

Statutory Audits in Europe

Latest Reforms and Future Challenges

Michael Kend, Giulia Leoni, Cristina Florio and Silvia Gaia

Provides a timely picture of the audit sector and how it responds to regulatory and technological challenges. Analyses the impact of EU reforms on audit practices by comparing the U.K. and Italy, which, representing two very different regulatory and cultural contexts, will offer insight into how the efforts at standardising audit regulation may lead to very different organisational firm responses within Europe. Addresses issues relating to public policy work and the concerns faced by the market for audit assurance services, in promoting audit quality, better communication about the role of the auditor, capital market stability and confidence, and auditor independence.

Pragmatic Reason
Christopher Hookway and the American Philosophical Tradition

Edited by Robert B Talisse, Vanderbilt University, USA, Daniel Reyes Cárdenas, UPAEP, Mexico and Daniel Herbert, University of Sheffield, UK

Christopher Hookway has been influential in promoting engagement with pragmatist and naturalist perspectives from classical and contemporary American philosophy. This book reflects on Hookway's work on the American philosophical tradition and its significance for contemporary discussions of the understanding of mind, meaning, knowledge, and value. The chapters in this book—which include contributions from several of Hookway's former students and colleagues—include studies of Hookway's engagement with the works of Peirce, James, and Dewey, his contributions to virtue epistemology, and his discussions of hope and pragmatist metaphysics.

Forsaking the Fall
Original Sin and the Possibility of a Nonlapsarian Christianity

Daniel H. Spencer, University of St. Andrews, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in Analytic and Systematic Theology

Spencer argues that the doctrines of the Fall and Original Sin need not be understood as integral components of orthodox Christianity. It provides a comprehensive understanding of the important issues at play in the Original Sin debate, as well as a set of tools for helping readers to think critically about the essence of the Christian faith and its relation to Original Sin. Crucially, it lays the theoretical groundwork for an orthodox nonlapsarianism and advances a novel theory about the Fall and Original Sin in Christian theology.

Will be of interest to scholars of theology and philosophy, specifically analytic theologians and philosophers of religion.

State Liability and the Law

A Historical and Comparative Analysis

Bartłomiej Wróblewski, Assistant Professor of Law, SWPS University of Social Sciences and Humanities, Poland.
Series: Routledge Studies in Comparative Legal History

This book explores the historical foundations of holding public authorities accountable for their acts, and discusses how and why the idea that the state should or should not be held liable became established in the leading European legal systems: Germany, France and Great Britain. It shows that the lack of liability for law-making instruments was not an unassailable dogma, and that questions as to whether such liability was possible were being asked from the Middle Ages onwards. The work will be a valuable resource for academics and researchers in Constitutional Law, Public Law, History of Law, History of Legal and Political Thought, Philosophy of Law, and Comparative Legal Studies.

At Home with Ivan Vladislavić

An African Flaneur Greens the Postcolonial City

Gerald Gaylard
Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Literature

This book is the first comprehensive analysis of the works of Ivan Vladislavić. Bringing a flaneur’s "internal GPS" to postcolonial Johannesburg, Vladislavić established a critical sense of home via an intimate knowledge of geography and history. This sense of belonging can have positive ecological effects as we tend to protect what we know. The flaneur’s deep word hoard also helped him to develop a minimalist style, which was not only a means of living sustainably in the city, but in its humour and close attention to detail a way to make greening the city more of a joy than a duty. In this way, Vladislavić created a culture of sustainability.

The Nature and Practice of Trust

Marc A. Cohen, Seattle University, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

Across philosophy and the social sciences, trust is often characterized in terms of expectations and probabilities. This book defends an alternative conception of trust as a moral phenomenon. It argues that we have a moral obligation to build trust relationships to create a better society. In Part 1, the author defends a conception of trust that accounts for betrayal and engages, in a systematic way, with the social scientific and philosophical literature on trust. In Part 2, he addresses four themes about the practice of trust in economic systems, business, the moral community, and moral psychology.

The Ethics of Interpretation

From Charity as a Principle to Love as a Hermeneutic Imperative

Pol Vandevelde, Marquette University, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book discusses the ethical dimension of the interpretation of texts and events. Its purpose is not to address the neutrality or ideological biases of interpreters, but rather to discuss the underlying issue of the intervention of interpreters into the process of interpretation. The author examines three models of interpretation, all of which recognize the role that interpreters play in the process of interpretation. The critical discussion of these three models, which brings to the fore the different manners in which interpreters intervene in the process of interpretation as persons, lays the foundations for an ethics of interpretation.

Olga Tokarczuk

Comparative Perspectives

Edited by Lidia Wiśniewska and Jakub Lipski
Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Literature

Filling a significant gap in contemporary criticism of recent prose fiction, this book offers a provocative analysis of the work of Nobel Laureate Olga Tokarczuk, situating her output in comparative contexts. The chapters making up the volume range from myth-critical focused readings, to interdisciplinary and intercultural perspectives. Tokarczuk’s fiction is explored as mythopoetic and heterotopian experimentation, as well as being read alongside other arts and other authors of various national and linguistic backgrounds, including Daniel Kehlmann, Milorad Pavić, and Isaac Bashevis Singer. This wide-ranging collection is the first monograph on Tokarczuk in English.

Conservatism and Grace
The Conservative Case for Religion by Establishment
Sebastian Morello
Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy
This book offers a systematic examination of the conservative case for religion by establishment. It demonstrates that the conservative political tradition is rooted in an inescapably religious worldview. The author establishes a foundational argument for religion by establishment that unifies the diverse commitments and objections of conservatives. The author’s foundational argument incorporates findings from experimental psychology and themes from contemporary theology. The result is a convincing argument in favour of establishmentarian conservatism, as well as the role of religious ideas in our self-understanding as individuals and as a political community.

A Plea for Plausibility
Toward a Comparative Decision Theory
John R. Welch, St. Louis University - Madrid, Spain
Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy
This book develops an original theory of decision-making based on the concept of plausibility. It relies on a generalized concept of plausibility whose strength is its adaptability. Plausibility can be adapted to decisions informed by sharp probabilities and utilities as well as to decisions that must be made without them. It can aid in the rationally critical enterprise of discriminating good arguments from bad, and this can lead to philosophical progress. The author advocates plausible reasoning as a general philosophical method and demonstrates how it can be applied to problems in philosophy of science, risk management, ethics, law, economics, and epistemology.

Sport and the Pursuit of War and Peace from the Nineteenth Century to the Present War Minus the Shooting?
Edited by Martin Hurcombe, University of Bristol, UK and Philip Dine, National University of Ireland, Galway
Series: Routledge Studies in Cultural History
This volume of wide-ranging essays by sport historians and sociologists examines the complex relations of war, peace and sport through a series of case studies from South and North America, Europe, North Africa, Asia and New Zealand. Together, and through an introductory framing essay, these essays offer scholars of sport, conflict studies and cultural history more broadly a multinational analysis of the war-peace-sport nexus that has operated throughout the world since the late nineteenth century.

Journeys of Soviet Things
Cold War as Lived Experience in Cuba and India
Sudha Rajagopal, Universiteit van Amsterdam, The Netherlands
Journeys of Soviet Things is an oral history of socialist globalisation constructed around the journeys of Cold War material objects in India and Cuba. During the Cold War, Soviet banal objects meant to perpetuate ideals of modernisation and anti-imperialist solidarity were purchased, awarded and gifted for use in homes across the world. Based on oral accounts of Indians and Cubans, this book examines the itineraries of Soviet objects such as cars, washing machines, cameras, books, nesting dolls, porcelain, and other things. Explored this way, the Cold War is a matter of personal, affective, everyday experience.

The Political Economy of Poverty and Underdevelopment in Nepal
Sri Ram Poudyal
Series: Routledge Studies in Development Economics
The book presents a critical and radical analysis of factors that have kept Nepal in a state of underdevelopment and poverty, with huge section of the society in underprivileged and deprived socio-economic conditions, despite six decades of planning, seven decades of dependence on foreign aid, and numerous political regime changes, from the Rana regime for over a century from 1846-1950 through to the republic regime from 2007 onwards. To support this argument, the book delves into an exploration of growth performance in Nepal, government attempts at poverty alleviation, foreign aid and its effects in the economy and the nature of the state, with a focus on Maoists.

The Bioeconomy
Institutions, Innovation and Sustainability
Nicolas Béfort
The bioeconomy is steadily becoming important in regional, national and European public policies. As it encompasses the transformation of agricultural, marine and organic resources into food, fuels, energy and materials, the bioeconomy should become a new industry, outlining the possibility of a post-fossil future. This is the first attempt to depict the origins, formation and challenges of this new industry.

The book will be of interest to researchers interested in the development of the bioeconomy, and both researchers and students seeking to understand the role of heterodox economics in the ecological transition.

Adam Smith and Modernity
1723–2023
Edited by Alberto Burgio, University of Bologna, Italy
This volume features essays on Adam Smith's conception of modernity. The contributions demonstrate the relevance of Smith as the great interpreter of modernity 250 years after the publication of The Wealth of Nations. The chapters in Section 1 focus on structural aspects of Smith's work. Part 2 addresses the construction of modern subjectivity between Lectures on Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres, Theory of Moral Sentiments and Wealth of Nations. Part 3 deals with topics topics inherent to the functional dynamics and development process of the Smithian commercial society. Finally, the chapters in Part 4 explore themes related to work, freedom, and progress.

Epistemology of Modality and Philosophical Methodology

Edited by Anand Jayprakash Vaidya, San Jose State University, USA and Dusko Prelević, University of Belgrade, Serbia
Series: Routledge Studies in Epistemology
This book collects original essays on the epistemology of modality and related issues in modal metaphysics and philosophical methodology. The chapters on modal epistemology mostly focus on the problem of how we can gain knowledge of possibilities, which have never been actualized, or necessities which are not provable either by logico-mathematical reasoning or by linguistic competence alone. These issues are closely related to some of the central issues in philosophical methodology, notably: to what extent is the armchair methodology of philosophy a reliable guide for the formation of beliefs about what is possible and necessary.

Local Adaptation to Climate Change in South India
Challenges and the Future in the Tsunami-hit Coastal Regions

Devendar Raj Madhanagopal, Xavier University, India

This book critically discusses the vulnerabilities and local adaptation actions of the traditional marine fishers of the tsunami-hit coastal regions of South India to climate change and risks, with an emphasis on their local institutions. Thereby, it offers a comprehensive account of the ways in which marine fishers live and respond to climate change. The Coromandel coastal regions of South India are known for their rich sociocultural history and enormous marine resources, as well as their long history of vulnerability to climate change and disasters, including the 2004 tsunami.

The Post-Earthquake City
Disaster and Recovery in Christchurch, New Zealand

Paul Cloke, University of Exeter, UK, David Conradson, Eric Pawson, University of Canterbury, New Zealand and Harvey Perkins

This book critically assesses Christchurch, New Zealand as an evolving post-earthquake city. It examines the impact of the 2010-2011 Canterbury earthquake sequence, employing a chronological structure to consider ‘damage and displacement’, ‘recovery and renewal’, and ‘the city in transition’. It offers a framework for understanding the multiple experiences and realities of post-earthquake recovery in Christchurch, New Zealand. It details how the rebuilding of the city has occurred, and examines what has arisen in the context of an unprecedented opportunity to refashion land uses and social experience from the ground up.

Technology Brands in the Digital Economy

Edited by Violeta Kucharska and Ewa Lechman, Gdansk University of Technology, Poland

Series: Routledge Studies in Innovation, Organizations and Technology

This edited volume provides deep insight into theoretical and empirical evidence on how digital technologies and high-tech brands are interrelated. It traces the mutual links between these two phenomena, identifies the multidimensionality of interdependencies, and shows the reader how and why new technologies are the driving factor of creation and global dissemination of high-tech brands. In this context, it also refers to various types of economic and social networks that, on the one hand, are the product of digital technologies, while on the other enforce global visibility of high-tech brands.

Dominican Politics in the Twenty First Century
Continuity and Change
Edited by Jacqueline Jiménez Polanco, Bronx Community College, USA and Ernesto Sagás, Colorado State University, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics
This collection examines the continuities and changes that have set the Dominican political system apart from its Latin American counterparts over the last couple of decades. Across eight chapters a collection of subject experts argue that the Dominican case offers valuable lessons to understand that even though traditional political parties are endangered throughout the region, they are not going anywhere. Dominican Politics in the Twenty First Century will be a vital resource for understanding contemporary Dominican politics. It will appeal to political scientists, Latin Americanists, and students of democracy, comparative politics, and electoral politics in general.

Health, Literature and Women in Twentieth-Century Turkey
Bodies of Exception
Şima İmşir
Series: Routledge Studies in Literature and Health Humanities
Health, Literature and Gender in Twentieth Century Turkey offers readers fresh insight into Turkish modernity and its discourse on health, what it excludes, and how these potentials manifest themselves in fiction to shape the imagination of the period. This volume places Turkish literature in the field of health humanities for the first time, proves the case of Turkey as a valuable example in the relationship between medicine and literature, and identifies the discourse on health as a key component in the making of the Turkish nation-building ideology.

Religion and Consumer Behaviour
Influence of Religiosity and Culture on Consumption
Edited by Gaurav Gupta, Mandakini Paruthi and Shivindar Nijjer, Chitkara Business School, Punjab, India
Series: Routledge Studies in Marketing
Religion is an important part of individual lives, playing a major role in our decision making and purchasing. Understanding the influence of religion on consumer behaviour is therefore an essential practice for business. The COVID-19 pandemic has especially enhanced the influence of consumers’ religiosity on their consumption decisions. This book concentrates on understanding the relationship of religiosity with various aspects of consumption and consumer behaviour to improve policy and build on an under represented topic.

Authenticity and Quality Constructions in the Greek Food Industry

Elena Chatzopoulou

Series: Routledge Studies in Marketing

Drawing on qualitative research methods, the book explores examples from the Greek food industry to analyse restaurateurs’ and consumer constructed meanings of authenticity, how it is transmitted and received. It follows by exploring the marketing implications of constructing and effectively promoting authenticity to restaurateurs to better engage with customers whilst also respecting their culinary culture. It also guides the reader through the use of NVivo for research purposes, and its utilisation to facilitate the inductive and interpretive analysis.

European Consumers in the Digital Era

Implications of Technology, Media and Culture on Consumer Behaviour

Edited by Małgorzata Bartosik-Purgat, Department of International Management, Institute of International Business and Economics, Poznan University of Economics and Business, Poland; and Nela Fillimon, Department of Business, Faculty of Business and Economic Sciences, Universitat de Girona, Spain.

Series: Routledge Studies in Marketing

Consumers make purchasing decisions every day, taking into account their needs, preferences and beliefs which may change due to various determinants; some depending on the consumers themselves and others on the organizations acting in the market. What determinants are inducing these changes in consumers’ needs, perceptions, attitudes, values, and finally, purchasing behavior? This edited collection offers a comprehensive description of the consumer behavior process and the determinants that affect it in the era of digitalization.

Erotic Medievalisms

Medieval Pleasures Empowering Marginalized People

Elan Justice Pavlinich

Series: Routledge Studies in Medieval Literature and Culture

Erotic medievalisms expose modern apparatuses of oppression, reclaim histories for marginalized people, and promote more inclusive representations in popular culture. Modern representations of the Middle Ages—including Santiago García and David Rubin’s graphic novel, Beowulf, Lil Nas X’s music video for “Montero (Call Me By Your Name),” Patience Agbabi’s retelling of Chaucer’s The Miller’s Tale, entitled “The Kiss,” and some BDSM practices—challenge pervasive power structures that privilege heterosexual male dominance commonly associated with medieval origins in popular culture.

Political Parties in Post-Uprising Tunisia and Morocco

Organization, Development and Legitimation

Giulia Cimini, University of Bologna, Italy

Series: Routledge Studies in Mediterranean Politics

This book offers a comparative, theory-grounded study of Maghrebi political parties since the Arab uprisings, specifically focused on Tunisia and Morocco in the first decade after the 2011 watershed elections. Bridging disparate disciplines, including comparative politics, area studies, and contemporary Middle Eastern history, the book will be of interest to a broad range of graduate-level students and academics.

Politics, Propaganda and the Press

International Reactions to the Falklands/Malvinas Conflict

Louise A. Clare

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern British History

This book examines British and Argentine media output in the prelude to and during the 1982 Falklands/Malvinas Conflict and acknowledges the aftermath and legacies of the media response. This book’s revisionist approach makes it a reference point for any nascent research on Falklands/Malvinas media reporting, and Argentine and international approaches—particularly the US—to the 1982 Conflict.
How the Church Under Pius XII Addressed Decolonization
The Issue of Algerian Independence
Marialuisa Lucia Sergio, Università degli studi Roma Tre, Italy
Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History
By paying attention to Algerian Independence, this book reconstructs the action of the Catholic Church regarding the issues of the spread of Islam in colonies, to Arab nationalism, Marxist propaganda in non-European countries, and the effects of the Algerian crisis upon the French political system. This book is useful for all students and scholars interested in the Cold War, the history of contemporary Europe, the history of the Church, postcolonial studies, and religious phenomenon in post-World War II Europe.

Multimodal Experiences Across Cultures, Spaces, and Identities
Ayelit Kohn, David Yellin College of Education, Israel and Rachel Weissbrod, Bar-Ilan University, Israel
Series: Routledge Studies in Multimodality
This book explores the interplay between various semiotic modes in multimodal texts and the ways in which they are employed to express cultural translation, seeking to expand prevailing views of translation and adaptation in light of ever-changing social realities. The book brings together work from translation and adaptation studies and multimodality and opens up avenues for new research, making it of interest to scholars in these disciplines as well as fields such as media studies, migration studies, and cultural studies.

Overseas Economic Relations and Statehood in Europe, 1860s-1970s
Shaping the World, Making the Nation
Gerold Krozewski
Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History
Drawing on official, archival, and published sources, this book explores how the formative history of the European nation-state was embedded within economic globalization and associated with conceptions of the world overseas. This volume covers neglected aspects of the transnational history of European nation-states and is an ideal resource for students and researchers interested in the ties between Europe, Africa, and Asia, as well as connections between political, economic, and social relations and their conceptualizations.

Multilingualism from Manuscript to 3D
Intersections of Modalities from Medieval to Modern Times
Edited by Mateyda Włodarczyk, Adam Mickiewicz University, Poland, Jukka Tyrväinen, Linnaeus University, Sweden and Elżbieta Adamczyk, Bergische Universität Wuppertal, Germany
Series: Routledge Studies in Multimodality
This collection explores the links between multimodality and multilingualism, charting the interplay between languages, channels, and forms of communication in multilingual written texts from historical manuscripts through to the new media of today and the non-verbal associations they evoke. Enhancing our understandings of multimodal resources in both historical and contemporary communication, this book will be of interest to scholars in multimodality, multilingualism, historical communication, discourse analysis, and cultural studies.

Multimodal Chinese Discourse
Understanding Communication and Society in Contemporary China
Dezheng (William) Feng, The Hong Kong Polytechnic University, Hong Kong
Series: Routledge Studies in Multimodality
This book helps readers to understand communication and society in contemporary China through systematic analysis of multimodal discourse at the national, institutional and individual levels. Feng’s research findings provide a unique Chinese perspective on a broad spectrum of issues such as discursive governance, nation branding, university marketization, and identity performance. The book is relevant not only to discourse analysis and multimodality, but also to other disciplines which will benefit from a systematic understanding of Chinese discourse, such as cultural studies, communication studies and area/China studies.

Rock Tonality Amplified
A Theory of Modality, Harmonic Function, and Hierarchy Brett Clement
Series: Routledge Studies in Music Theory
Rock Tonality Amplified presents an in-depth exploration of rock tonality. Building on several decades of research, this book develops a comprehensive music theory designed to make sense of several essential components of tonality. Within, readers learn to locate the chords they hear through various methods, to understand and predict harmonic resolution tendencies, and to identify the functions of chords as they appear in musical contexts. Further, the book offers a conceptual framework to describe tonal relations that are played out through entire songs.
Memory in German Romanticism
Imagination, Image, Reception
Edited by Christopher R. Clason, Joseph D. Rockelmann and Christina M. Weiler
Series: Routledge Studies in Nineteenth Century Literature
Memory in German Romanticism treats memory as a core element in the production and reception of German art and literature of the Romantic era. While imagination creates and images trigger and capture memories, reception creates a temporal-spatial context for art, organizing it and rendering it "memorable," both for good and for bad. Thus, through the categories of imagination, images, and reception, this volume explores the phenomenon of German Romantic memory from different perspectives and in new contexts.

The Rise and Rise of Illegal Ticket Touting
An Ethnography of Deviant Entrepreneurship
Alessandro Moretti
Series: Routledge Studies in Organised Crime
This book presents an ethnographic study of contemporary ticket touts in the UK. The Rise and Rise of Illegal Ticket Touting sheds light on the world of touting and delivers an authentic picture of the individuals involved, of their methods, values, and motivations for performing ticket touting as an organised, entrepreneurial deviant activity.
An accessible and compelling read, The Rise and Rise of Illegal Ticket Touting will appeal to students and scholars of criminology, sociology, social policy, policing and all those with an interest in live music and sport and the hidden practices that lurk beneath the surface.

European Lobbying
An Occupational Field between Professionalism and Activism
Christian Lahusen, University of Siegen, Germany
Series: Routledge Studies in Political Sociology
Drawing on interview and survey data, this book provides a systematic look at the lobbyists active in influencing policy-making in the European Union, asking whether we are witnessing the emergence of an integrated occupational field and considering implications of this process of professionalisation for the representation of interests.

Religious Freedom and the Global Regulation of Ayahuasca
Edited by Beatrix Caiuby Labate and Clancy Cavnar

It will be particularly relevant to scholars with an interest in Indigenous religion and in religion and law.

Tracing Cultural Change in Turkey’s Experience of Democratization
Unexpected Dialogues on Intolerance
Metin Koca, Bilkent University, Turkey
Series: Routledge Studies in Political Sociology
Does democracy require an agreement on specific foundational values? Bringing insights from Turkey to the study of democratization, this book argues that democracy may rather be about acknowledging the disagreement over values before negotiating over other concerns, such as rights, freedoms, capabilities and duties. Bringing these landscapes together with the surrounding cultural tensions in Turkey and the West, Tracing Cultural Change in Turkey’s Experience of Democratization will be a valuable resource for students and scholars of Middle Eastern studies and politics, gender studies and cultural studies.

Interreligious Encounters in Europe
Sites, Materialities and Practices
Edited by Jan Winkler, Laura Haddad, Giulia Mezzetti and Julia Martinez-Arino, University of Groningen, Netherlands
Series: Routledge Studies in Religion
This book examines interfaith dialogue in Europe and how interreligious encounters are framed, expressed and practiced. Overall the book contributes to a better understanding of how cultural, religious and political identities are reconfigured across Europe.

Silent Teachers

Turkish Books and Oriental Learning in Early Modern Europe, 1544–1669

Nil Ö. Palabıyık

Silent Teachers considers for the first time the influence of Ottoman scholarly practices and reference tools on oriental learning in early modern Europe. Telling the story of oriental studies through the annotations, study notes and correspondence of European scholars, it demonstrates the central but often overlooked role that Turkish-language manuscripts played in the achievements of early orientalists. Dispersing the myths and misunderstandings found in previous scholarship, the book offers a fresh history of Turkish studies in Europe and new insights into how Renaissance intellectuals studied Arabic and Persian through contemporaneous Turkish sources.

The Political Durkheim
Sociology, Socialism, Legacies
Matt Dawson, University of Glasgow, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought
Through a series of studies, this book presents Durkheim as an important political sociologist. Looking beyond the conservative elements of Durkheim’s thought, it argues that a radical sociology can be found in Durkheim’s normative vision, shaped by what we might call libertarian socialism.

Radical Civility
A Study in Utopia and Democracy
Jason Caro, University of Houston-Downtown, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought
Radical Civility unearths civility’s extraordinary potential by addressing why the virtue has fallen into crisis, recalling the injunctions that transpose utopia upon the stingy politics of likelihood, and by offering a vision of citizens who find purpose in dignifying each other. This radical stance raises the stakes of the debate on civility through setting the book implacably against realism and its politics of likelihood. It will appeal to those in the study of social sciences, cultural studies, social psychology, philosophy, and peace studies.

Utopia without Ideology
Ambrogio Santambrogio, University of Perugia, Italy
Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought
This book explores and proposes original definitions of central terms in political sociology and social theory, including political culture, imaginary, ideology, and utopia, in a manner that renders the individual definitions consistent with one another as part of a single and general conceptual framework for understanding social action.

Beyond Borrowing
Lexical Interaction between Englishes and Asian Languages
Hyejeong Ahn, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, Jeun Kiae, University of Oxford, UK, Danica Salazar, Oxford University Press, UK and Anna Bordilovskaya, Rikkyo University, Japan
In their book, the authors describe the usage of and attitudes towards English in Asia since the 19th century, as well as the creative and dynamic ways in which Asians of the 21st century continually reinvent the lexicon of English, and the lexicons of their native tongues.

Nation and State in Max Weber
Politics as Sociology
Jack Barbaret, Australian Catholic University
Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought
This book explores the nationalist and imperialist ideas underlying Max Weber’s sociology, offering a detailed analysis of his work to argue that Weber’s thought is informed by an ethno-national understanding of the German people whose political aspirations can only be realized through a power-state and its activities on a world stage.

The Economics of the Global Oil and Gas Industry
Emerging Markets and Developing Economies
Edited by Joshua Yindenda Abor, University of Ghana Business School, Ghana, Amin Karim and Runar Brännlund, Umeå University, Sweden
Series: Routledge Studies in the Economics of Business and Industry
This book is a comprehensive reference to the oil and gas sector, with a focus on emerging markets and developing economies (EMDEs). It offers in-depth coverage of the critical and contemporary issues in the economics of oil and gas industry by carefully integrating the relevant theoretical underpinnings and practical policy issues across the value chain of the industry in relation to the development, fiscal arrangements, and the economic and financing aspects of the industry. These insights will significantly deepen the understanding of the industry and extend the knowledge of the sector.

The Professional Standards of Executive Remuneration Consultants

Calvin Jackson
Series: Routledge Studies in the Economics of Business and Industry
This book concerns the professional standards of executive remuneration consultants (and their ‘in-house’ counterparts; for example, Human Resources Director and Head of Reward) in providing remuneration committee advisory services. This book is based on a qualitative empirical doctoral research exercise, involving 53 participants in the UK executive pay scene. The objective was to formulate conclusions that could be used to the benefit of UK practice and contribute to the relevant academic scholarship on executive remuneration consultants. It provides novel insights into this previously under-researched area of corporate governance/financial regulation.

Philosophy of Digital Currencies

A Theory of Monetising Time

Ugochukwu Chigoziem Ikpeazu
Series: Routledge Studies in the Economics of Innovation
The book proposes that for humanity to make the leap forward and for any real sustainable development to occur, the world needs a disruptive approach to value creation using currency systems, considering that currencies underpin value exchange. This disruption will result in a level of decentralization that facilitates peer-to-peer value exchange and drives financial inclusion, all of which should be underscored by a new, digital social contract. The author asserts that a time-based digital currency could address these issues by creating a new and truly inclusive currency model that allows economies to gain more value than previously possible.

Medieval Rus’ and Early Modern Russia

Texts and Contexts

Edited by Susana Torres Prieto and Andrei Franklin
Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Russia and Eastern Europe
Research on the East Slavs in the medieval period has considerably changed since the collapse of the Soviet Union. The emergence of new states forced a rethinking of many aspects of the history and culture of the early East Slavs as the subject became increasingly disentangled from the umbrella of Byzantine studies and fruitful collaboration was fostered between scholars worldwide. This book, which brings together scholars from Russia, Ukraine, western Europe and North America, of several generations, presents a broad overview of the main results of the last three decades of research and mutual collaboration.

Beer in East Asia
A Political Economy

Edited by Paul Chambers and Nithi Nuangjamnong
Chambers, Nuangjamnong and their contributors look at how the development of the beer industry in East Asia presents a unique opportunity for understanding the region's political economy.

A valuable resource for students and scholars of modern East Asian History, and particularly those with a focus on colonial history, industrial history and state-society relations.

Women in Asia under the Japanese Empire

Edited by Tatsuya Kageki, Keio University, Japan and Jiajia Yang, College of Foreign Languages and Cultures, Xiamen University, China

Contributors to this book provide an Asian women's history from the perspective of gender analysis, assessing Japanese imperial policy and propaganda in its colonies and occupied territories and particularly its impact on women. Tackling topics including media, travel, migration, literature, and the perceptions of the empire by the colonised, the authors present an eclectic history, unified by the perspective of gender studies and the spatial and political lens of the Japanese Empire. A vital new perspective for scholars of Twentieth century history of East Asian countries and regions such as Japan, Korea, Okinawa, Taiwan, China.

Anti-Southern Racism and Education in Post-War Italy

Grazia De Michele

This book investigates the racism against Southern Italian children attending North-Western primary schools between the 1950s and 1970s. Turin serves as the main case study, having become the “third Southern city” after Naples and Palermo during this period. Racism against Southern Italians gained renewed prominence in the context of the post-war mass internal migrations, becoming one of the pillars of the process of nation-rebuilding. However, it has not received the attention it deserves. This book aims to fill this gap and add to the debate on the borders that nation-states establish to control the access to power of the different groups inhabiting their territories.

Debre Libanos 1937
The Most Serious War Crime Suffered by Ethiopia

Paolo Borusso

This volume calls attention to the worst massacre of Christians that has occurred on the African continent, a 1937 attack on the monastic village of Debre Libanos that has previously been hidden from public knowledge. Now available in English, this book's analysis of the events culminating in the massacre, including the cover-up afterward, is a necessary record for scholars of European colonialism, Christian history, and colonial Africa.

Fighting Japan’s Cold War
Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone and His Times

Ryuj Hattori

This book provides an account of the nature and existence of the Nakasone phenomena, as well as an examination of Japan’s postwar politics. Nakasone was an innovative conservative who actively criticized the conservative mainstream, and this book reveals from both domestic and foreign policy perspectives how the Liberal Democratic Party governed.

Classical Theism
New Essays on the Metaphysics of God

Edited by Jonathan Fuqua, Conception Seminary College, USA and Robert C. Koons, University of Texas at Austin, USA

It’s safe to say that classical theism is no longer the assumed view in analytic philosophy of religion. The purpose of this volume is twofold: to provide a contemporary account of what classical theism is and to advance the scholarly discussion.

Section I offers an account of the nature and existence of the God and the historical and theological foundations of classical theism. Section II contains chapters on whether classical theism’s doctrine of simplicity needs revision, whether simplicity is consistent with divine simplicity, among others.
Evidence Contestation
Dealing with Dissent in Knowledge Societies

Edited by Karin Zachmann, Technical University of Munich, Germany, Mariacarla Gadebusch Bondio, UKB University Hospital Bonn, Germany, Saana Jukola, UKB University of Bonn, Germany and Olga Sparschuh, Technical University of Munich, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in the Philosophy of Science

This book examines the practices of contesting evidence in knowledge societies. It provides a multifaceted view of the processes and conditions of evidence criticism and how they determine the dynamics of de- and re-stabilization of evidence. The chapters explore which actors, for what reasons and to what effect, question evidence in fields such as the biological, environmental, and health sciences. In addition to actors inside academia, they examine the roles of various other actors, including citizen scientists, counter-experts, journalists, patients, consumers, and activists. They tackle questions of how disagreements are framed and how they are used to promote vested interests.

Health and Care in Neoliberal Times

Neil Small

Series: Routledge Studies in the Sociology of Health and Illness

This book argues that neoliberal changes in health and social care go beyond resource allocations, priority setting, and privatization, and manifest in an invidious erosion of the quality of our social relationships, including relationships between care provider and care recipient. Exploring the interaction of politics, economics and social change and their impact on healthcare and the wider welfare state, this is an important contribution for students and researchers in health and social care, sociology, political science and management studies.

Wittgenstein’s Philosophy in 1929

Edited by Florian Franken Figueiredo, NOVA University Lisbon, Portugal

Series: Routledge Studies in Twentieth-Century Philosophy

This book explores the impact of the year 1929 on the development of Wittgenstein’s thought. Part 1 addresses Wittgenstein’s philosophical development and possible influences. It examines the colour-exclusion problem and verificationism in mathematics as well as his relationship to intuitionism, pragmatism, and Kantianism. Part 2 features essays on the development of phenomenological language. These chapters address the role of thought experiments, spatial analogies, the structure of visual space, and the cinematographic model. Finally, Part 3 includes one chapter on Wittgenstein’s remarks about ethics from his Lecture on Ethics.

How We Experience Modern Verse

Eric Purchase

Series: Routledge Studies in Twentieth-Century Literature

Poetry moves us. Sometimes a poem changes our life... Then we must read it carefully and reflect on the development of phenomenological language. This volume explores the mechanisms that reach us at the collective level of consciousness and generate the power we need to solve big, collective challenges, such as race, climate change, and inequality.

Oil and Modern World Dramas
From Petro-Mania to Petro-Melancholia
Alireza Fakhrkonandeh
Series: Routledge Studies in World Literatures and the Environment
The first to focus on the (re-)presentations of oil in dramatic literature, theatre and performance, Oil and Modern World Dramas is a pioneering volume in the emerging field of Oil Literatures and Cultures, and the more established field of World Literatures. Through close analysis, Fakhrkonandeh demonstrates how these dramatic works depict oil, both in its perceived nature and character, as an overdetermined matter/sign/object: a symbol of freedom, autonomy, speed, wealth, modernity, enlightenment, a commodity, a social-cultural agent, a social relation, and a hyper-object.

Democracy and Sovereignty in Spain
Conceptual Innovation in the Spanish Constituent Assembly of 1931
Francisco J. Bellido, University of Málaga, Spain
Series: Routledge/Canada Blanch Studies on Contemporary Spain
This book investigates the conceptual contributions made by Spanish MPs in the course of the constitutional debate of 1931 by assuming, as a research approach, an interdisciplinary stance combining conceptual history, political theory, and parliamentary constitutional history. By doing so, it selects five determining issues: the pervasive discussion about two competing meanings of a democratic state; the rhetorical uses of reform and revolution; conceptual controversies about religious freedom; the disputed idea of property rights; and the functions of parliament and the president of the republic in a semi-presidential regime.

Black Popular Culture and Social Justice
Beyond the Culture
Edited by Lakeya M. Bonnette-Bailey, Georgia State University, USA and Jonathan I. Gayles, Georgia State University, USA
Series: Routledge Transformations in Race and Media
This book examines the use of Black popular culture to engage, reflect, and parse social justice. It argues that Black popular culture is more than merely entertainment and takes a systematic look at the role of music, comic books, literature, film, television, and public art in shaping attitudes and fighting oppression. Offering unique insights into the use of Black popular culture as an agent for change, this book will be of interest to students and scholars of race and media, popular culture, gender studies, sociology, political science, and social justice.

Autism
Perspectives from Africa (Volume I)
Edited by Mary Clasquin-Johnson, Dikeledi Mahlo and Michel Clasquin-Johnson
Series: Routledge/UNISA Press Series
This book is written at a time of a paradigm shift in the African continent where dependence on western epistemologies and ontologies are giving way to African indigenous knowledge systems. Africa has been an importer of knowledge from the west since time immemorial and this book contributes to the body of knowledge on autism spectrum disorder (ASD) from the African perspective.

Spiritual Path, Spiritual Reality
Selected Writings of Shaykh Yusuf of Macassar
Edited by Yousuf Dadoo and Aiwais Rafudeen
Series: Routledge/UNISA Press Series
Offering a rich translation of Shaykh Yusuf’s Arabic writings, Spiritual Path, Spiritual Reality fills an important gap on the works devoted to the spiritual dimension in the Muslim intellectual archive.
The introduction gives insight into his life and an understanding of how his mysticism was connected to his political engagement. Focusing on Islamic mysticism – known as Sufism – the volume covers areas of spiritual discipline of the self, metaphysics and gnostic knowledge. The style is pedagogical with an instructive tone in keeping with the Sufi path.

The 'Valiant Englishman'
Christopher Bethell, Montshiwa’s Barolong and the Bechuanaland Wars, 1878–1886
Andrew Manson
Series: Routledge/UNISA Press Series
This book describes the career of an English aristocrat, Christopher Bethell, who arrives in southern Africa in 1878 as the classic “remittance” man, despatched to the colonies to avoid a scandal at home. Bethell’s demise is the trigger for firm British imperial intervention, the securing of the Road to the North and events that will determine the fate of Africans in south and central Africa.
The book is a reminder that, in the author's words, “past relations between South Africa’s different races were characterised as much by collusion and collaboration as they were by hostility, friction and dissent.”

'The Truth behind the Big-Money Robberies'
Hennie Lochner and Peet van Staden
Series: Routledge/UNISA Press Series
This book is an important resource for the cash in transit (CIT) companies, financial services industries and criminal justice system. With one of the authors having used convicts of CIT crimes as participants for a PhD study, he solicited data from the lived experiences of CIT robbers that reveal their modus operandi, which is crucial to combat these robberies. The authors reveal how CIT robbers meticulously plan and execute their ambushes collaborating with the sophisticated network of accomplices.
The book is therefore a timely publication that provides information to combat CIT crimes.

'Sisters in the Struggle'
Women of Indian Origin in South Africa’s Liberation Struggle 1900–1945 (VOLUME 1: 1900–1940s)
Kalpana Hiralal
Series: Routledge/UNISA Press Series
‘Sisters in the Struggle’ Women of Indian Origin in South Africa’s Liberation Struggle 1900–1945 unveils an uncharted historical terrain, highlighting the contributions of Indian women towards non-racialism and equality and their experiences within diverse political parties; therefore, shifting the post-apartheid liberation stories which have been dominated by the journey of the ANC to other political organisations who collectively played a significant role in South Africa’s road to democracy.
The book thus, examines the participation of Indian women against apartheid and colonialism within gendered and political frameworks.

Solidarity in International Law
Challenges, Opportunities and The Role of Regional Organizations
Edited by Leonardo Pasquali
Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Law
This book explores the principle of solidarity in international law, reconstructing the foundations of solidarity in law and investigating its origins. It considers whether solidarity exists as a principle in international law and, if so, what its scope is. The work examines the eventual implementation of the principle of solidarity in regional organizations law, whether solidarity is more effective and better fulfilled when relationships between states get stronger, such as in regional and sub-regional organizations. It will be of interest to researchers and academics in International Law, International Organizations Law, European Law, Human Rights Law, Business Law, and Constitutional Law.

Dhrupad: Tradition and Performance in Indian Music
Ritwik Sanyal and Richard Widdess
Series: SOAS Studies in Music
Dhrupad is believed to be the oldest style of classical vocal music performed today in North India. This detailed study of the genre considers the relationship between the oral tradition, its transmission from generation to generation, and its re-creation in performance. There is an overview of the historical development of the dhrupad tradition and its performance style from the sixteenth to the nineteenth centuries, and of the musical lineages that carried it forward into the twentieth century, followed by analyses of performance techniques, processes and styles.

The Art Song in East Asia and Australia, 1900 to 1950
Edited by Alison Mcqueen Tokita and Joys Hoi Yan Cheung
Series: SOAS Studies in Music
This book explores art song as an emblem of musical modernity in early twentieth century East Asia and Australia. It appraises the lyrical power of art song—a solo song set to a poem in the local language in Western art music style accompanied by piano—as a vehicle for creating a localized musical identity, while embracing cosmopolitan visions. The study of art song reveals both the tension and the intimacy between cosmopolitanism and local politics and culture.

African Clusters in India
Koyal Verma, Bennett University, India
This book examines the discrimination and stereotypes faced by the African migrants in India. It outlines the narratives of the migrants and demonstrates how their ‘African identity’ gets associated with drugs, prostitution, and cannibalism. It brings to the fore how the African migrants experience racial profiling based on a conflated African identity, and how this identity gets generalised irrespective of their different nationalities and leads to social exclusion. Drawing on lived experiences of the migrants, it engages with the larger discourse of globalization, liberalisation, and migration within the global south.

Edited by Beata Mozejko, University of Gdańsk, Poland, Anna Paulina Orlowska and Leslie Carr-Riegel
Series: Studies in Medieval History and Culture
Exploring the formation of networks across late medieval Central Europe, this book examines the complex interaction of merchants, students, artists and diplomats in a web of connections that linked the region. These individuals and their families in business ventures, occasionally families, and not infrequently foes. No single activity linked them, but rather their interconnectivity through matrices based in diverse modalities was key.

Communicating Papal Authority in the Middle Ages
Edited by Minoru Ozawa, Thomas W. Smith and Georg Strack
Series: Studies in Medieval History and Culture
This book bridges Japanese and European scholarly approaches to ecclesiastical history to provide new insights into how the papacy conceptualised its authority and attempted to realise and communicate that authority in ecclesiastical and secular spheres across Christendom. Adopting a broad, yet cohesive, temporal and geographical approach that spans the Early to the Late Middle Ages, from Europe to Asia, the book focuses on the different media used to represent authority, the structures through which authority was channelled and the restrictions that popes faced in so doing, and the less certain expression of papal authority on the edges of Christendom.

Representing Aboriginal Childhood
The Politics of Memory and Forgetting in Australia
Joanne Faulkner
Engaging with representations in literature, film, governmental discourse, and news and infotainment media, this book investigates the ways in which Aboriginal children and childhood figure in Australia’s cultural life, to mediate Australians’ ambivalence about the colonial origins of the nation, as well as its possible post-colonial future. As such, it will appeal to scholars of sociology and social geography, collective memory, politics and cultural studies.

Japan’s Threat Perception during the Cold War
Balancing Threats and Vulnerabilities
Etan Oren
Oren re-examines Japan’s threat perception during the first two decades of the Cold war, using wide range of source materials, including many unavailable in English, or only recently declassified. There is a widely shared misconception that during the cold war Japan was largely shielded from threats due to the American military protection, the regional balance of power, Japan’s geographical insularity. Oren dispels this, showing how security threats pervaded Japanese strategic thinking in this period.
This book will be of great value both to scholars of Japanese history and of contemporary international relations.

A Feminist Dialogue
Edited by Róisín Ryan-Flood, University of Essex, UK, Isabel Crowhurst, University of Essex, UK and Laurie James-Hawkins, University of Essex, UK
This book explores ‘difficult conversations’ in feminist theory as an integral part of social and theoretical transformations. Focusing on intersectionality within feminist theory, the book critically addresses questions of power and difference as a central feminist concern. This book is aimed primarily at students, lecturers and researchers interested in epistemology, research methodology, gender, identity, and social theory. The interdisciplinary nature of the book is aimed at reaching the broadest possible audience, including those engaged with feminist theory, anthropology, social policy, sociology, psychology, and geography.

Religious Offence and Censorship of Publications
An Enquiry through the Prism of Indian Laws and the Judiciary

Nishant Kumar

This book analyses the role of laws and judiciary in the process of censorship in India. It examines the rationales and observations produced by the judiciary when demands for censorship are directed against publications that allegedly offend religious sentiments. Focusing on a micro level analysis of censorship of publications, it presents a hard case to understand the limitations of freedom of expression and the role played by judiciary in defining its boundaries. It will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of law, especially constitutional law and fundamental rights, politics, especially political theory and Indian politics, and South Asian studies.

Dowry and Daughters
The Social, Religious and Legal Dilemma of Denying Dowry

Anwesha Arya-Bhattacharya

This book studies the relevance of dowry as a customary practice in Indian marriages. It examines the historical articulation between traditional cultural texts and modern statutory law to understand how daughters are valued, and how dowry as a custom defines this value. The author creates a conceptual link between traditional, medieval, and ancient marriage rites that formulate and embed dowry behaviour and practice within Hindu society. The book also provides a critique of the cultural textual tradition of India and South Asia.

Human Rights of the Third Gender in India

Beyond the Binary

Lopamudra Sengupta

This book gives context to the changes that globalisation has brought to the narrative around transgenders in India. The shift has challenged their marginalisation and has led to stories, films and queer individuals like Chapal Bhaduri—the jatra rani—and the iconic filmmaker Rituparno Ghosh to flourish and become relevant. This book brings these literatures and personal stories to the fore to allow readers to perceive the changes and the challenges that Indian society faces when it comes to ensuring the rights for transgender people.

Unit Cohesion and Warfare in the Ancient World
Military and Social Approaches
Edited by Joshua R. Hall, Louis Rawlings and Geoff Lee
This book explores unit cohesion in ancient armies, and how this contributed to the making of war in the Mediterranean world. It takes a varied approach, from looking at individual groups within larger armies to juxtaposing vertical and horizontal types of cohesion, providing a more detailed understanding of how groups were kept together. Examples from across the ancient Mediterranean are explored in this volume, from Classical Greece to Late Antiquity, and modern approaches to social cohesion are deployed throughout. Suitable for students and scholars of ancient warfare, military history, and military studies.

Displays of Cultural Hegemony and Counter-Hegemony in the Late Bronze and Iron Age Levant
The Public Presence of Foreign Powers and Local Resistance
Shane M. Thompson, North Carolina Wesleyan University, USA
This volume examines the power relationships between the rulers of the Late Bronze and Iron Age and their subjects in the Levant through the lens of “cultural hegemony”. It explores the impact of these foreign powers on all social classes and reconstructs the public presence of cultural control through examination of textual, epigraphic, and archaeological records. It also draws upon evidence from the wider region to paint a more complete picture of Levantine society during this time. Suitable for students and scholars of ancient Near Eastern history, as well as those working on power and imperialism.

Genetic Information and the Right to Privacy
The Private Life of the Genome
Iain Brassington
This innovative and engaging book argues that because our genetic information is directly linked to the genetic information of others, it is impossible to assert a ‘right to privacy’ in the same way that we can in other areas of life. Conceptually challenging, the book will prove engaging reading for scholars and students interested in the area of bioethics and medical law, as well as policy makers working with these pressing issues.

Techno-logic & Technology
A Paleo-history of Knapped Lithic Objects

Eric Boëda

Techno-logic & Technology is an ambitious effort to develop a new framework for the study of the development of stone tool technology, with the goal of integrating humanity’s earliest and longest lasting technology into a comprehensive questioning of the interaction between humanity and the material world. Chiming with the growth of interest in the work of Gilbert Simondon in the English-speaking world, this book is an important resource for Palaeolithic archaeologists and lithic specialists. It will also be of interest to researchers in material culture studies, technology studies and human evolution.

Constitutions of Value
Law, Governance, and Political Ecology

Edited by Isabel Feichtner; University of Würzburg, Germany and Geoff Gordon, University of Amsterdam, Netherlands.

Gathering an interdisciplinary range of cutting-edge scholars, this book addresses legal constitutions of value. Aiming beyond radical critique, the book opens up the possibility of imagining and enacting new and different value practices. This wide-ranging and accessible book will appeal to international lawyers, socio-legal scholars, those working at the intersections of law and economy and others, in politics, economics, environmental studies and elsewhere, who are concerned with rethinking our current ideas of what has value, what does not, and whether and how value may be revalued.

The Imperial Underbelly
Workers, Contractors, and Entrepreneurs in Colonial India and Scandinavia

Edited by Gunnel Cederlöf, Gunnel Cederlöf is Professor of History at Uppsala University and at the Linnaeus University, Centre for Concurrences in Colonial and Postcolonial Studies, Sweden.

The volume introduces a new analysis of interconnected labour and economic history of colonial India and Scandinavia. From a recently found archive of a railway contractor’s private and business papers, the studies revise both Indian labour history and Scandinavian modern history, and ties south Sweden into the British Empire. With deep insights into everyday work practices of Indian and European contractors and manual labourers, the book establishes a bridge across the globe, between two poor regions as sites of extraction and industrial transformation, resulting from global migration and capital flows.

Virtue Ethics for the Real World
Improving Character without Idealization

Howard J. Curzer

Howard J. Curzer argues that character ideals seduce virtue ethicists into counterintuitive claims, mislead and psychologically harm people seeking to improve their characters. Curzer offers a theory of Aristotelian virtue ethics that eschews idealization and that harmonizes with common sense. To explain the many dilemmas of ordinary life, he allows that different virtues sometimes enjoin incompatible actions, and even enjoins actions that conflict with duty. Curzer defends the doctrine of the mean, arguing that idealized traits such as unilateral forgiveness, universal civility, unconditional commitments, and unlimited generosity are not virtues.

Social Spaces and the Public Sphere
A Spatial-history of Modernity in Kerala
S. Harikrishnan

The volume focuses on how ‘modernity’ has also been a struggle for access to public spaces, and non-institutional spaces like teashops, markets, public roads, temple grounds, reading-rooms and libraries have all been crucial to how political culture was shaped, and how dominant hegemonies have been challenged. It suggests that the secular public sphere that emerged in the last century in Kerala was a result of the constant negotiations between conflicting ideas which were put to test in these social spaces. This book will be of interest to scholars and researchers of social history, political science, gender studies, linguistics, and South Asian studies.

Resale Price Maintenance and the Law
The Future of Vertical Restraints Christy Kollmar
The question of how to properly enforce against RPM has been a contentious debate for decades on both sides of the Atlantic. The catalyst is the acceptance that RPM can generate both anti-competitive effects and pro-competitive efficiencies that need to be properly balanced to ensure against Type I/Type II errors and to create viable legislation. Part I focuses on 100 years of US origins and the current legal approach to VR enforcement, which reveals the precedent responsible for the transition between per se illegality and the rule of reason thresholds at the federal level.

Research and Social Work in Time and Place
Crossing Boundaries

Ian Shaw
This volume, which brings together chapters and journal articles published by renowned academic Ian Shaw, focuses on the practice/research relationship within social work—a theme that has preoccupied much of his writing over the last forty or more years. These pieces show the academic development of his understanding of the complexity and challenge of that relationship, as well as the shifts which have occurred in it over time: it will be of interest to all scholars of social work, and allied subjects including sociology, allied health, social policy and disability studies.

Postcolonial Legality: Law, Power and Politics in Zambia

Jeremy Gould, University of Helsinki
This book interrogates the ideology and practices of liberal constitutionalism in the Zambian postcolony. It focuses on the residual political and governmental effects of an Imperial form of power, embodied in the person of the Republican President, termed here Prerogativism. Long-term ethnographic engagement with Zambian constitutionalist activists examines how Prerogativism has shaped the postcolonial political landscape and limited the possibilities of constitutional liberalism. It will appeal to scholars, students and practitioners interested in theorizing challenges to political liberalism in postcolonial contexts and in rethinking the methodological toolbox of socio-legal analysis.

Fairness and the Goals of International Criminal Trials

Caleb Wheeler, Lecturer in Law, Cardiff University, UK
This book presents a ground-breaking, interdisciplinary study into the various goals assigned to international criminal trials. It starts from the proposition that no hierarchy exists amongst the different goals meaning that trials should strive to achieve all of them in equal measure. This is made difficult by the fact that not all of these goals are compatible and the fulfilment of one may lead to others going unmet. Therefore, a balance must be found if the goals of trial are to be achieved at all.

Urban Lower and Middle Classes in Bangkok, Shanghai, and Tokyo
Edited by Tamaki Endo, Saitama University, Japan and Momoyo Shibuya, Saitama University, Japan
Rapid urbanisation presents challenges such as inequality, informalisation and diversified, social needs for emerging cities. Informal and formal institutions and their impact on urban development and wellbeing vary across social classes and cities. This book provides a systematic and multifaceted overview of urban wellbeing. It explores the characteristics and complexities of urban wellbeing of lower and middle classes in Asian megacities.

This book will be a useful reference for students, researchers and academics in urban studies, Asian studies or development studies.

The Future of Religious Heritage
Entangled Temporalities of the Sacred and the Secular
Edited by Ferdinand de Jong and José Mapril

Religious Pilgrimages in the Mediterranean World
Edited by Antón M. Pazos, Instituto de Estudios Gallegos Padre Sarmiento, Spain

Religious Pilgrimages in the Mediterranean World examines the evolution of recent theoretical and methodological trends in pilgrimage studies. It outlines key themes of research, including historical, anthropological, sociological, and cultural approaches, to provide a comprehensive and interdisciplinary overview of the subject. Featuring essays from leading scholars in the fields of religious studies, geography, and anthropology, this book is cross-cultural in focus and critical in approach, making it an essential read for all researchers of pilgrimage, religious history, religious tourism, and anthropology.

Elasto-Plastic Damage Behaviour of Concrete Elements
Hidenori Tanaka, National Institute of Technology Gunma College, Japan

Elasto-Plastic Damage Behaviour of Concrete Elements presents the results of practical experiments with numerical analyses and case studies, along with a summary of basic theory, to provide an easy-to-understand explanation for young practising engineers on the performance evaluation of concrete structures. It shows how the mechanical phenomena of familiar concrete structures can be expressed using mathematical models and provides a solid basic understanding of the nonlinear behaviour of concrete structures. It applies elasto-plastic theory to damage mechanics and the modelling of cracks in concrete.

Rediscover Routledge Classics

CELEBRATING 20 YEARS OF GROUND-BREAKING PUBLISHING

With over 200 titles, Routledge Classics is an attractive and affordable series of the most innovative and important works of modern times; books that have, by popular consent, become established as classics in their field. Routledge Classics has brought to more than a million readers worldwide the very best of Routledge publishing over the last century and beyond, providing readers with field-defining and ground-breaking work across a variety of subjects.

“"It’s a remarkable series. These are the books that helped shape the intellectual life of the 20th century."
- Al Alvarez

“"Routledge Classics is more than just a collection of texts...it embodies and circulates challenging ideas and keeps vital debates current and alive.""
- Hilary Mantel
