Understanding Air Warfare
David Jordan
Understanding Air Warfare provides the reader with a clear understanding of the key debates surrounding air power, one of the newest and most important forms of modern warfare. Examining the linkages between the early theoretical perceptions of what air power could achieve in conjunction with other forces and independently, this book highlights many of the continuities of air power. It employs detailed historical case studies to illustrate and explore key issues, and extends its examination into the future, bringing in elements of space power.

The Commonwealth, South Africa, and Apartheid

Stuart Mole

This book explores the role of the modern Commonwealth in the international campaign against apartheid in South Africa. Spanning the period of South Africa’s apartheid state, from its foundation in 1948 until its ending in April 1994, the author demonstrates that, after the 1960 Sharpeville massacre and South Africa’s subsequent exclusion from the Commonwealth, the organisation was able to become both “pathfinder and interlocutor” on the road to South Africa’s freedom.

A Democracy That Works
How Working-Class Power Defines Liberal Democracy in the United States

Stephen Amberg, University of Texas at San Antonio, USA
Series: Routledge Research in American Politics and Governance
A Democracy That Works argues that rather than corporate donations, Republican gerrymandering, and media manipulation, the conservative ascendancy reflects the changes in how work is governed that have disempowered workers. This book is a fresh account of the crisis of democracy that illuminates how historical choices about the role of workers in the polity shaped America’s liberal democracy during the twentieth century. It will appeal to scholars of American Politics and American Political Development, Labor and Social Movements, Democracy, and comparative politics.

A Trump Doctrine?
Unpredictability and Foreign Policy

Edited by Michelle Bentley and Adam Lerner
This book explores one specific line of analysis, which deals with the concept of what has been termed the ‘doctrine of unpredictability’. The contributors to this volume consider whether a conception of unpredictability did inform Trump’s foreign policy as a coherent doctrine. Yet this book also takes the issue further to problematize what the very concept of unpredictability means in respect to International Relations. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Cambridge Review of International Affairs.

Lessons in Leadership from the White House to Your House

Michael Eric Siegel
This book argues that we can learn a great deal about leadership from the experiences of 8 US Presidents who have served in the White House since Watergate. Through these case studies, the author argues that we gain real insight by analyzing the deeper structures of leadership effectiveness: vision, execution, management, and decision-making. The book assesses the performance of each president along these four dimensions of leadership and extends lessons learned to leaders in other sectors.

Women of Color Political Elites in the U.S.

Intersectional Political Experiences

Edited by Nadia E. Brown, Perdue University, USA, Christopher J. Clark and Anna Mitchell Mahoney

This volume presents a detailed and in-depth examination of women of color political elites in the United States in varying levels of office and non-elected positions. Through innovative data, novel theoretical frameworks, and compelling arguments, the chapters explore how women of color political elites are changing, challenging, or upending the status quo in American politics. Beyond an additive approach of either race or gender the authors employ an intersectional lens to explore the complexities of governing, running for office, adjudicating, in a diversifying America. This book was originally published as a special issue of Journal of Women, Politics, and Policy.

Governance and Public Administration in China

Edited by Toby S. James, University of East Anglia, UK, Wei Liu and Caixia Man

This book provides an updated perspective on modern China through a series of cutting-edge, original studies focusing on public administration in China.

The volume shows that China has seen some localisation and decentralisation, alongside experiments with collaboration and networked based policy making. However, the system of governance and public administration remains innately top-down and centralised with the center holding strong policy levers and control over society. As the pandemic revealed, this statist approach provided both governing opportunities and disadvantages.

Global Socialisms and their Aesthetics

Between Eastern Europe and Africa

Edited by Gesine Drews-Sylla

Series: Routledge Studies in Radical History and Politics

This book charts the development of the contemporary Western European radical left party family over the period 1989-2014. The book examines the nature of this strange collection of organisations and analyses the extent to which they have succeeded in filling the vacuum of representation of working-class and welfare issues left by the neoliberal turn of mainstream party families. With an analysis of whether such parties offer coherent alternatives to contemporary ‘postdemocratic’ politics, this book highlights how the development of the left is symptomatic of popular dissatisfaction towards neoliberalism but does not embody a realistic project of societal transformation.

Populist Parties and Democratic Resilience

A Cross-National Analysis of Populist Parties’ Impact on Democratic Pluralism in Europe

Edited by Ben Crum, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, The Netherlands and Alvaro Oleart, Maastricht University, The Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Extremism and Democracy

Populist Parties and Democratic Resilience focuses on populist parties as the main agents of populism and examines when these parties turn anti-democratic and when they remain loyal to the democratic system. Drawing on the literature on democratic theory and comparative politics, this book directly contributes to the public debate on the state of democracy in Europe. It will be of interest to researchers of comparative politics, European politics, party politics, democracy, and populism.

Populism in Power

Discourse and Performativity in SYRIZA and Donald Trump

Giorgos Venizelos

Series: Conceptualising Comparative Politics

Shifting attention away from policy achievements and effects on democracy, this book focuses on the performative function of populist discourse – comprising antagonistic narratives, transgressive style and appeals to the common people. This book urges researchers, journalists and politicians to adopt a reflexive approach to analysing the political implications of populism for politics, polity and society, and to challenge the normatively charged definitions that are uncritically reproduced in the public sphere. It will appeal to researchers of political theory, populism, comparative politics, sociologists, and ethnographers.

Democratic Regressions in Asia
Edited by Aurel Croissant, University of Heidelberg, Germany and Jeffrey Haynes
This book studies and compares causes, catalysts and consequences of democratic regression and revival in South, Southeast and Northeast Asia. It combines conceptual and comparative research with single case studies. Overall, the collection of studies in this volume captures different forms of democratic regression and autocratization, examine how Asia-Pacific experiences fit into debates about democracy's deepening global recession and what the Asian-Pacific experiences contribute to the understanding of the causes, catalysts and consequences of democratic regression and resilience in the comparative politics literature.

Resilience of Democracy
Responses to Illiberal and Authoritarian Challenges
Edited by Anna Lührmann, University of Gothenburg, Sweden and Wolfgang Merkel
Liberalism and authoritarianism have become major threats to democracy across the world. In response to this development, research on the causes and processes of democratic declines has blossomed. Much less scholarly attention has been devoted to the issue of democratic resilience. Why are some democracies more resilient than others to the current trend of autocratization? What role do institutions, actors and structural factors play in this regard? What options do democratic actors have to address illiberal and authoritarian challenges? This book addresses all these questions. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Democratization.

Tactics and Emancipation in the Age of Authoritarian Neoliberalism
Edited by Nicholas Kiersey, University of Texas, USA and William Sokoloff
This book calls for new attention to non-traditional forms of emancipatory tactics and welcomes to the fold all manner of ‘everyday’ expressions of anti-authoritarianism. The point is less to prescribe an ideal range of tactics, but rather to consider a broader range of resistances —from the struggles of indigenous peoples to those who seek refuge, from gender or citizenship-based discrimination to those who seek to defend “black lives” from militarized policing. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of New Political Science.

Technocracy and the Epistemology of Human Behavior

The Debate over Power Without Knowledge

Edited by Paul Gunn, University of London, UK

In Technocracy and the Epistemology of Human Behavior, thirteen political theorists, including Friedman himself, debate the implications of Power Without Knowledge for social science, modern governance, the politics of expertise, post-structuralism, anarchism, and democratic theory; and Friedman responds to his critics with an expansive defense of his vision of contemporary politics and his political epistemology of ideationally diverse human beings. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Critical Review.

The Future of Self-Governing, Thriving Democracies

Democratic Innovations By, With and For the People

Brigitte Geissel, Goethe University, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in Democratic Innovations

This book offers a new approach for the future of democracy by advocating giving citizens the power to deliberate and to decide how to govern themselves. It will be of key interest to scholars and students in democracy, democratic innovations, deliberation, civic education, and governance and further for policy-makers, civil society groups and activists. It encourages us to reshape democracy based on citizens’ perspectives, aspirations, and preferences.

The Rise and Decline of Modern Democracy

Damien Kingsbury, Deakin University, Australia

Series: Routledge Studies in Global and Transnational Politics

The Rise and Decline of Modern Democracy assesses the rise of, subsequent political challenges to, and decline of, contemporary liberal democratic processes, in particular since the ‘third wave’ of democratisation from the 1990s. This wide-ranging and empirically and theoretically rich book will be of interest to students, scholars and researchers of political science, international relations, history and democracy.
8th Edition

The Environmental Policy Paradox

Zachary A. Smith, Northern Arizona University, Flagstaff, USA and Peter Jacques, University of Central Florida, USA

This eighth edition continues the book’s tradition of offering an accessible introduction to the social, economic, legal, and political matters pertaining to environmental policy while also developing the student’s own unique views. The text explains why some environmental ideas shape policy while others do not and illustrates that even when the best short- and long-term solutions to environmental problems are identified, the task of implementing these solutions is often left undone or is completed too late. A must buy for courses in Environmental Policy, Environmental Studies, and Public Policy; and as a supplement for courses in American Government and Public Administration.

A Litmus Test for Democratic Politics in Europe
Parliaments, Brexit and the Future of the European Union

Edited by Julien Navarro, Université catholique de Lille, France

This book investigates how political actors - and more particularly members of parliaments - have reacted to Brexit to assess its long-term consequences. Brexit has not only been a major disruption affecting the functioning and internal balance of the European Union (EU), but to a very large extent, it also represents a challenge to the idea of an ‘ever closer union’ and to the democratic principles on which the EU has been built. The book is key reading for all interested in Politics and International Relations, Elections, European Studies and European Union Politics. The book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Contemporary European Studies

Europe and Japan Cooperation in the Fight against Cross-border Crime
Challenges and Perspectives

Edited by Shin Matsuzawa, Waseda University, Japan, Anne Weyembergh, Université Libre de Bruxelles, Belgium and Irene Wieczorek, Durham University, UK

Series: Globalisation, Europe, and Multilateralism

This book is the first to map and critically analyse the legalisation of EU-Japan cooperation in criminal justice matters, charting the existing legal instruments which regulate cooperation in the fight against crime between European states and Japan. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of EU Criminal law, EU-Japan cooperation, Japanese studies, transnational crime, and more broadly to comparative criminal justice, International Relations and security studies.

Anti-Fascism, Gender, and International Communism
The Comité Mondial des Femmes contre la Guerre et le Fascisme, 1934 - 1941

Jasmine Calver, University of Sunderland, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right
Series: Routledge Studies in Marxism

Anti-Fascism, Gender, and International Communism provides a comprehensive history of the Comité mondial des femmes contre la guerre et le fascisme (CMF), an international women’s organisation concerned with confronting the impact of fascism on women and children across the globe. This book will be of interest to scholars of anti-fascism, feminism, women’s history, communism, activism, internationalism, anti-imperialism, and French history.

European Banking Nationalism
State Power and Troubled Banks

Shawn Donnelly, University of Twente, the Netherlands and Gaia Pometto

Series: Routledge/UACES Contemporary European Studies
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

This book compares the different expression of, and outcomes from, banking nationalism in two European countries to draw wider conclusions about the consequences for Banking Union in Europe and to show how national governments deal (or fail to deal) with international commitments. It will be of key interest to scholars, students and professionals in economic policy, Economic and Monetary Union (EMU) and Banking Union in Europe, European and global governance, European/EU studies, European public policy, European public administration, EU law, as well as professionals working in the banking sector.

Debating the War in Ukraine
Counterfactual Histories and Future Possibilities

Tuomas Forsberg, University of Helsinki, Finland and Heikki Patomäki, University of Helsinki, Finland

Debating the War in Ukraine discusses whether the war in Ukraine could have been avoided, and, if so, how? In this dialogical book, the authors discuss nodal points of history in terms of counterfactuals and contrastive explanations, concluding by considering future possibilities. This short, highly accessible book will be of great interest to all those studying and working in international relations and its various subfields such as peace and conflict studies and security studies, as well as all those wishing to understand more about the backdrop of Russia’s invasion of Ukraine in February 2022.

2nd Edition
European Union in the Global Context
Simon Sweeney, University of York, UK

The European Union in a Global Context is a lively, focussed and engaging text, incorporating anecdotes and contemporary arguments, and presenting different perspectives on European integration and globalisation. It provides essential foundations in these areas, while using stimulating arguments to prompt discussion and provoke interest in the relationships between these processes. It critically analyses the challenges faced by the EU from the contemporary political and economic dynamics of globalisation (IPE), including trading relationships set through the WTO and bilateral relations with emerging markets, especially the BRIC economies.

Europe, European and global governance, European/EU studies, European public policy, European public administration, EU law, as well as professionals working in the banking sector.

Horatio Bottomley and the Far Right Before Fascism
David Renton, Independent Scholar, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right
Horatio Bottomley and the Far Right Before Fascism examines Bottomley’s life and politics, and what made him one of the great figures of Edwardian life. This carefully-researched biography, the first new life of Bottomley for 50 years, shows how he began on the centre-left of Edwardian politics, then moved to the margins, becoming a leading figure on the Edwardian far right, and pre-empting the non-fascist far right of our own days. His book will appeal to scholars and students with interests in political history, fascism and the far right.

Jews and Muslims in the White Supremacist Conspiratorial Imagination

Ron Hirschbein, California State University, Chico, USA and Amin Asfandi, Wake Technical Community College, USA

Series: Conspiracy Theories

Jews and Muslims in the White Supremacist Conspiratorial Imagination explores how Jews and Muslims are stigmatized and endangered by the same conspiratorial template. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of conspiracy theories, anti-semitism, Judeophobia, Islamophobia, political science, history, philosophy, psychology, sociology, and criminology.

New Perspectives on Populism

Edited by Jeffrey Friedman, Harvard University, USA

Populism has taken the world by storm—but what is it? In this volume, twelve political scientists and political theorists approach this question from a variety of new perspectives, empirical and theoretical, covering populism around the world. In addition to chapters on populism in Eastern Europe and Britain, six authors analyse populism in the United States. All the contributors attempt to understand populists on their own terms rather than reducing populism to a psychological or structural phenomenon. This book was originally published as a special issue of Critical Review.

LeADING FROM BEHIND

Gender Equality in Germany During the Merkel Era

Edited by Petra Ahrens, Tampere University, Finland, Phillip M. Ayoub, University College London, UK and Sabine Lang, University of Washington, USA

This book takes stock of German gender equality in several policy fields after 16 years of governments led by Angela Merkel and her conservative Christian Democratic Party. The chapters assess policy output and outcomes with focus on internal power dynamics in Germany, and international and EU-level pressures in policy domains of political representation, LGBTI rights, migration, labor market, and care. Leading from Behind is a fascinating read for students, researchers and academics interested in European Politics, Political Leadership, Gender Equality and LGBTI Politics. It was originally published as special issue of German Politics.

Nordic Fascism

Edited by Nicola Karcher, Oxford University College, Norway and Markus Lundström, Uppsala University, Sweden

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

Nordic Fascism is the first comprehensive history in English of fascism in the Nordic countries. It illuminates how The North occupies a special place in the fascist imagination, articulating ideas about the Nordic people resisting the supposed cultural degeneration, replacement, or annihilation of the white race. The authors map ideological exchange between fascist organisations in the Nordic countries and outline past and present attempts at pan-Nordic state building. This book will appeal to scholars of fascism and Nordic history, and readers interested in the general history of fascism.

Nazi Occultism

Edited by Amin Asfandi, California State University, Chico, USA and Stéphane François, University of Mons, Belgium

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

Nazi Occultism provides a serious scholarly study of a topic that is often marred by sensationalism and misinformation. The author, a historian specializing in neo-Nazism, looks back on this speculative construction, its origins, its ideological tinkering, and the practices which have succeeded in forming a sort of radical and sulphurous counterculture which has created a fascination with esotericism and Nazism. This book will appeal to scholars, researchers, and activists as well as general readers with an interest in the history of Nazism and the occult.

Sweden’s Pandemic Experiment

Edited by Sigurd Bergmann, Norwegian University of Science and Technology, Norway and Martin Lindström, Lund University, Sweden

Series: The Politics of Pandemics

This book considers Sweden’s pandemic management which differed so significantly from much of the rest of the world it provoked intense and wide-reaching interest, curiosity and criticism. Aimed at readers with interest in global health and politics it will also be of interest in disciplines such as virology, epidemiology, history, cultural studies, ethics, media studies, medicine and economics.
The EU's Government of Worker Mobility
An Interdisciplinary Discussion
Edited by Hélène Michel, Sciences Po Strasbourg, France and Mélanie Schmitt, University of Strasbourg, France
Series: Routledge Studies on Government and the European Union
This book brings together the expertise of economists, legal scholars, political scientists, and sociologists in order to integrate diverse perspectives and a broad range of analytical tools in the conceptualisation of labour mobility. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of European/EU studies, migration studies, labour studies, political sociology, and more broadly to comparative politics.

The Munich Massacre
Contemporary Thoughts and Views on Sport and Terrorism from a Global Perspective
Edited by Yair Galily and Ilan Tamir
This book contextualizes the Munich massacre as one of the factors that contributed to a re-thinking of security strategies in early 1970s, a moment in the evolution of modern governments’ fight against terrorism. 50 years later, the chapters in this book explore this topic from many perspectives—from security, sociology, media, history, public relations, to the political, ideological and psychological aspects of sport and terror. The chapters in this book were first published as a special issue of Israel Affairs

The Nazi Party and the German Communities Abroad
The Latin American Case
João Fábio Bertonha, Universidade Estadual de Maringá, Brazil and Rafael Athaides, Universidade Federal de Mato Grosso do Sul, Brazil
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right
The Nazi Party and the German Communities Abroad examines the German Nazi Party’s actions around the world in the 1930s and 1940s. The book particularly focuses in on the formation and development of the Auslandsorganisation der NSDAP (AO) (Nazi Party/Foreign Organization), the party branch charged with the task of connecting with foreign fascist movements and, especially, with Germans living abroad. This volume will be of interest to researchers of the history of Nazism and Latin America.

The Rise of EU Police Cooperation
Governing Differentiated Integration
Franca König, Hertie School of Governance, Germany
Series: Routledge Studies on Government and the European Union
This book provides an in-depth empirical analysis and theoretical history of the institutional development of EU police cooperation, with a focus on the creation and integration of Europol. It will be of key interest to students, scholars and practitioners working in or on the fields of police cooperation, Justice and Home Affairs policy, EU governance and security studies, both at national and European level.
Transforming Europe Through Crises
Thin, Thick, Parochial and Global Dynamics

Edited by Didem Buhari, London School of Economics, UK, Christian Kaunert, University of South Wales, UK and Seckin Baris Gulmez, Izmir Katip Celebi University, Turkey

This book aims to respond to the emerging necessity to incorporate both the parochial dynamics unmaking Europe and the globalist dynamics decentering Europe into the analysis of European crises and transformations in diverse sectors ranging from security and foreign policy to the rule of law and democracy. Accordingly, this book is unpacking Europe in a time of severe crises facing the EU - such as Brexit, the Syrian refugee crisis, Catalan secessionism, the rise of far right, and terrorism. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of European Politics and Society.

Gender, Constitutions, and Equality
A Global Comparison

Priscilla A. Lambert, Western Michigan University, USA and Druscilla L. Scribner, University of Wisconsin, USA

Series: Gender and Comparative Politics

This book addresses whether the "gendering" of constitutions promotes women’s equality. At a time when gender equality provisions are increasingly common in constitutional design, this book clarifies the mechanisms that link constitutional provisions to changes in process and outcomes, whilst also systematically describing and analyzing the effect of gender provisions across countries and over time. Gender, Constitutions, and Equality will inform theoretical debates on gender and politics, law and social change, feminist institutionalism, and constitutional design and its effect on legislation and political strategies.

Women, Migration, and Aging in the Americas
Analyzing Dependence and Autonomy in Old Age

Edited by Marie-Pierre Arrizabalaga, CY Cergy Paris Université, France

Series: Gender in a Global/Local World

Women, Migration, and Aging in the Americas analyzes how immigrant women have coped with life after they settled in the Americas, from the 19th–21st centuries. It explores their empowerment processes, the type of gender inequalities they faced, and their destinies as they aged; whether they resided in the destination country throughout their lives or returned to their home country. This book will be of interest to researchers, scholars, and graduate students of migration studies, gender studies, women's studies, care studies, history, sociology, and social anthropology.

Patterns in Border Security
Regional Comparisons
Edited by Christian Leuprecht, Royal Military College of Canada, Canada, Todd Hataley, Fleming College, Canada and Emmanuel Brunet-Jailly, University of Victoria, Canada
This book compares the construction of cross-border security regimes across five regions of the world to illustrate how trust emerges from the day-to-day relations of coordination, cooperation, or collaboration. It studies the way borderland communities develop, implement, and align border policy to enhance their sense of security. Taking a methodical comparative regional approach, this book identifies and contrasts determinants of nascent, ascendant, and mature border security regimes. The chapters were originally published as a special issue of Commonwealth and Comparative Politics with a Foreword by the Secretary General of the World Customs Organization.

Border Deaths at Sea under the Right to Life in the European Convention on Human Rights

Lisa-Marie Komp, VU Amsterdam, The Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Human Rights

This book focuses on border deaths at sea. It unravels how the interplay of the law of the sea and rules on jurisdiction widen the opportunity for states to make and enforce rules outside their territory, and questions whether this is also accompanied with an obligation to respect the right to life under the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) when doing so. It will be of key interest to scholars, students and practitioners in migrant rights, international human rights law, public international law including, refugee and migration law, maritime law, and security studies.

Urban Politics of Human Rights

Edited by Janne Nijman, Barbara Oomen, Elif Durmuş, Sara Miellet and Lisa Roodenburg

Series: Cities and Global Governance

Increasingly, urban actors invoke human rights to address inequalities, combat privatisation, underline common aspirations. The potential and the pitfalls of these processes are conditioned by the urban, and deeply political. These urban politics of human rights are at the heart of this book. An international line up of contributors shed light on these politics in cities in four continents and eight cities, presenting a wealth of empirical detail and disciplinary theorisation. This book provides indispensable reading for anyone with a practical or theoretical interest in the complex, deeply political, but also truly promising interrelationship between human rights and the urban.

Understanding Domestic Violence as a Gender-based Human Rights Violation

National and international contexts

Jurgita Bukauskaite, National University of Ireland Galway, Ireland

Series: Routledge Studies in Human Rights

Examining the prevalent issue of domestic violence, this book breaks down the reasons behind the ineffectiveness of existing human rights instruments and the gaps in current legal systems failing those in need. Through a variety of key case studies, it reveals significant gaps in the legal conceptualisation of domestic violence between human rights standards on the one hand and national legal systems on the other.

This book employs a gender-based examination of the issue that will be of key interest to scholars, legal practitioners and students of feminist legal theory, gender equality, gender in international law, human rights violation, and conceptual democracy.

Assessing Multiculturalism in Global Comparative Perspective

A New Politics of Diversity for the 21st Century?

Edited by Yasmeen Abu-Laban, University of Alberta, Canada, Alain-G Gagnon, Université du Québec à Montréal, Canada and Arjun Tremblay, University of Regina, Canada

In this book a group of leading scholars come together in a multidisciplinary collection to assess multiculturalism through an international comparative perspective. This collection of chapters presents a global comparative view of multiculturalism with the overarching aim of comprehending multiculturalism’s promise, limitations, contemporary challenges, trajectory and possible futures. With global and thematic coverage of citizenship, religion, security, gender, Black Lives Matter and the post-pandemic order, this book presents a comprehensively global collection that is indispensable reading for scholars and students of diversity in the twenty-first century.

Amos Oz’s Two Pens

Between Literature and Politics

Edited by Arie M. Dubnov, The George Washington University, USA

This volume revisits Amos Oz’s two pens parable. It brings together scholars from various disciplines who assess Amos Oz’s dual role in Israeli culture and society as an immensely popular novelist and a leading public intellectual. Next to offering an intellectual portrait, the chapters in this book highlight some of Oz’s seminal works, examine their reception, evaluate key political and literary debates he was involved in, as well as trace some of the connections between the two realms of his activity. These chapters were originally published as special issue of Journal of Israeli History. This book comes with a new afterword by Lilach Nethanel.

Canadian Conservative Political Thought

Edited by Lee Trepanier and Richard Avramenko

This book corrects an imbalance in Canadian political literature through offering a conservative account of Canadian political thought. Across 15 chronologically organized chapters, the book offers an investigation of the defining features and characteristics of Canadian conservative political thought. Rather than its culmination, Canadian Conservative Political Thought will be the beginning of conservative political thought’s recovery and will spark debates and future research. The book will be a great resource for courses on Canadian politics, history, political philosophy and conservatism, Canadian Studies, and political theory.

Asian Perceptions of Gulf Security

Edited by Li-Chen Sim, Khalifa University, UAE and Jonathan Fulton, Zayed University, UAE

Series: Changing Dynamics in Asia-Middle East Relations

Gulf stability is coming to play a larger role in the foreign policy calculus of many states, but the evolving role of Asian powers is largely under-represented in the International Relations literature. The book will appeal to scholars and students in the fields of International Relations, Security Studies, and International Political Economy, as well as area specialists on the Gulf and those working on foreign policy issues on each of the Asian countries included.

Examining US-China-Russia Foreign Relations

Power Relations in a Post-Obama Era

Gregory O. Hall, University of Kentucky, USA
Examining US-China-Russia Foreign Relations explores the changing nature of the US-China-Russia strategic triangle from the end of the Cold War up to the present. It uses neoclassical realist international relations theory to argue that that since the mid-2000s, the politics of the strategic triangle are increasingly influenced by factors related to the Big 3 countries' respective domestic environments. Incorporating both theoretical and empirical data to offer a fresh and timely look at the myriad challenges facing the three powers, this book provides an excellent companion to students of foreign policy, international security, and post-Cold War international politics.

Challenging Authoritarian Capitalism

The Transformative Power of the World Social Forum

Edited by Thomas Wallgren, University of Helsinki, Finland, Uddhab Pyakurel, Catalina Revollo Pardo and Teivo Teivainen
Series: Rethinking Globalizations

The World Social Forum (WSF) was conceived as a platform for exchange of experiences and interlinking effective action. In this book, leading intellectual-activists from four continents take stock of the WSF—experience so far and suggest new paths for collaboration between all who build other possible worlds. The focus of this volume is on the multiple practices of struggle, organisation and conceptual innovation expressed in the main WSF slogan since 2001: “Another world is possible.” The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal Globalizations.

Exploring Religious Diversity and Covenantal Pluralism in Asia

Volume II, South & Central Asia

Edited by Dennis R. Hoover, Institute for Global Engagement, USA
Series: Rethinking Globalizations

This book examines the growing diversity of religions and worldviews across South & Central Asia, and the factors affecting prospects for “covenantal pluralism” in these regions. Going beyond banal appeals for mere “tolerance,” the theory of covenantal pluralism calls for a constitutional order of religious freedom and equal treatment combined with a culture of practical religious literacy and everyday virtues of engagement across lines of religious difference.

The chapters originally appeared as research articles in a series on covenantal pluralism published by The Review of Faith & International Affairs

From Transnational Jihad to Fragmentation

Christina Hartmann, Independent Scholar, Germany
Series: Politics, Media and Political Communication

Changes in Jihadi Discourse in the Wake of the "Islamic State" explores how the transnational jihadi discourse changed with the development of the "Islamic State" terrorist group and resulted in the fragmentation of the jihadi movement. This book is aimed at academics, researchers, and postgraduate students interested in political science, security studies, jihadiism, jihadi discourse, al-Qaida, "Islamic State", and Salafism, as well as practitioners and decision-makers in government agencies who wish to understand how transnational jihadi discourse has developed over the previous two decades.

Fixing Broken Cities

2nd Edition

John Kromer, University of Pennsylvania, USA
Fixing Broken Cities explores the planning, execution, and impact of urban repopulation and investment strategies that were launched in the wake of two crises: late twentieth-century economic disinvestment and the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic. Based on the author’s experience as a policymaker and practitioner, this book provides detailed insights into the origins and outcomes of these high-risk strategies, along with an explanation of why they succeeded or failed. This new edition will be of great use to planning, housing and community development professionals, both regionally and nationally, as well as to students on Urban Politics and Planning courses.

Heterarchy in World Politics
Edited by Philip G. Cerny, University of Manchester, UK
Series: Innovations in International Affairs
Heterarchy in World Politics challenges the fundamental framing of international relations and world politics. IR theory has always been dominated by the presumption that world politics is, at its core, a system of states. However, this has always been problematic, challengeable, time-bound, and increasingly anachronistic. This book will interest students, scholars and researchers of international relations theory. It will also have significant appeal in the fields of world politics, security studies, war studies, peace studies, global governance studies, political science, political economy, political power studies, and the social sciences more generally.

Marxist Politics

Md. Ayub Mallick

This book deals with the main doctrines of Marxist politics. Clearly and simply written, the book explores the views of classical Marxists along with the findings of Western and Analytical Marxists. It also shows a distinction between Marxist and non-Marxist views on politics. Their points of difference as well as their common roots are thus clearly accounted for.

The book includes brief bibliographical details of major individual thinkers as well as an annotated bibliography for further reading.

Megatrends of World Politics

Globalization, Integration and Democratization

Edited by Marina M. Lebedeva, MGIMO University, Russia and Denis A. Kuznetsov, MGIMO University, Russia

Series: Innovations in International Affairs

Megatrends of World Politics identifies globalization, integration, and democratization as three key trends shaping the future of world politics and international relations, and demonstrates their effects in today’s global processes. This book will be of interest to students, scholars and researchers of international relations and adjacent fields who are studying the trajectories of global development, globalization, integration, and democratization.

Making and Unmaking Refugees

Geopolitics of Social Ordering and Struggle within the Global Refugee Regime

Edited by Kara E. Dempsey, Appalachian State University, USA and Orhon Myadar

This book examines the politics of making and unmaking refugees at various scales by probing the contradictions between the principles of international statecraft, which focus on the national/state level approach in regulating global forced displacement, and the forces that defy this state-based approach. It explores the ways by which the current global refugee categorizes and excludes millions of people who need protection.

This highly engaging and informative volume will be of interest to policymakers, academics and students concerned with global migration, refugee governance and crises. The chapters were originally published as a special issue of Geopolitics.

Municipal Fiscal Stress, Bankruptcies, and Other Financial Emergencies

Tatiana Guzman and Natalia Ermasova, Governors State University, USA

In this book authors Tatiana Guzman and Natalia Ermasova evaluate distressed cities and municipalities and provide practical recommendations on improving their financial conditions. What are the consequences of fiscal misfortunes? How to exit a fiscal emergency? This book answers these and other questions and serves as a guide to fiscal health and prosperity for U.S. municipal governments, students and researchers in public finance and general public management fields.

Rectifying Historical Injustice
Debating the Supersession Thesis
Edited by Lukas H. Meyer and Timothy Waligore
This book critically assesses how the “supersession thesis,” developed by legal and political philosopher Jeremy Waldron, might be reconstructed, challenged or applied to empirical cases, with an eye toward larger questions surrounding the temporal orientation of justice. It includes contributions scholars from philosophy, law and political science, who draw from Indigenous thought, settler colonial theory, liberalism, theories of historical entitlements and structural injustice theories. It concludes with a reply by Jeremy Waldron. The chapters were originally published as special issue of Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy.

Regional Security in South Asia and the Gulf
Edited by Umer Karim, University of Birmingham, UK, and Saloni Kapur
Series: Changing Dynamics in Asia-Middle East Relations
As we move towards a world without superpowers, the dynamics within and between regions are of growing significance. Against this backdrop, this book explores the links between South Asia and the Gulf, which have existed for centuries but are undergoing important shifts in the transition to multipolarity. With a special focus on India, Pakistan, Iran, Bangladesh, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Sri Lanka and Oman, this volume brings together scholars from across these regions to investigate what the decentring world order means for the relationship between South Asia and the Gulf.

Resilient Communities of Central Eurasia
Responding to Change, Complexity and the Visions of ‘The Good Life’
Edited by Elena Korosteleva and Irina Petrova
This book argues for the need to rethink governance through the lens of ‘resilience as self-governance.’ Building on complexity-thinking, it contends that in the context of change and complex life, challenges are most efficiently dealt with, at the source, ‘locally,’ to make the global more responsive and sustainable. This book will be of great value to students and scholars in the fields of Politics including Eurasian politics and the various aspects of Governance. Most of the chapters in this book were published as a special issue of Cambridge Review of International Affairs.

Sell-Outs or Warriors for Change?

A Comparative Look at Conservative Women in Politics in Democracies

Edited by Malliga Och, Idaho State University, USA, Shauna Shames, Rutgers University - Camden, USA and Rosalyn Cooperman, University of Mary Washington, USA

This book addresses the central question of how right-wing women navigate the cross-pressures between gender identity and political ideology. The hope has always been that more women in politics would lead to greater inclusion of women’s voices and interests in decision-making and policy. Yet this is not always the case. This edited volume explores the tension between women’s political representation and conservatism. The chapters in this book, except for Chapter 3, were originally published as a special issue of Journal of Women, Politics & Policy.

The Longing for Total Revolution Reconsidered

Rousseau, Marx, Nietzsche, and Modernity

Edited by Jeffrey Friedman, Harvard University, USA

In this volume, seven political theorists and historians, including Yack himself, reconsider the book’s substantive and methodological innovations, its limitations, and its current relevance. Contributors to the volume discuss, inter alia, left Kantianism in historical context, the theological origins of the longing for total revolution, the question of whether the tradition identified by Yack is connected to twentieth-century totalitarianism, and the unique form of critical genealogy pioneered by Yack’s book. It concludes with Yack’s response to the other contributors’ chapters.

Turkey and the Balkans
Between Europeanisation and De-Europeanization

Edited by Başak Z. Alpan, Middle East Technical University, Turkey and Ahmet Erdi Öztürk, London Metropolitan University, UK

This book delves into Turkey’s increasing ethno-religious, pragmatic, and complicated involvement and activism in the Balkans since 2002, under the Justice and Development Party (Adalet ve Kalkınma Partisi – AKP). It primarily focusses on the intersectionality between domestic and foreign policy that has played an important role in Turkey’s recent relations with the Balkan countries as well as explores how the Europeanization process influences this relationship.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Southeast European and Black Sea Studies.

The Reconfiguration of Twenty-first Century Latin American Regionalism
Actors, Processes, Contradictions and Prospects

Edited by Rowan Lubbock, Queen Mary University of London, UK and Ernesto Vivas

Series: Rethinking Globalizations

This volume brings together a diverse roster of scholars to shed light on the reconfiguration of twenty-first century Latin American regionalism. It charts the contemporary evolution of older regionalisation schemes, such as MERCOSUR, and the twenty-first century regional innovations, including ALBA-TCP, Pacific Alliance, and UNASUR. This book will be of interest to both newcomers to the field, and more seasoned scholars working within/across disciplinary boundaries, from International Relations and International Political Economy to Historical Sociology and Institutionalism. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Globalizations.

Varieties of Clientelism
Comparing Patronage Democracies

Edited by Edward Aspinall, Australian National University and Ward Berenschot, University of Amsterdam, Netherlands

Clientelism is a prominent feature of many of the world’s democracies and electoral authoritarian regimes. Yet the comparative study of this practice, which involves exchanging personal favours for electoral support, remains strikingly underdeveloped. This book makes the case that clientelistic politics takes different forms in different countries, and that this variation matters for understanding democracy, elections, and governance.

It is an essential reading for scholars and students interested in clientelism, patronage democracies, comparative political economy, and party politics. These chapters were originally published as a special issue of Democratization.

Violence
A Reappraisal

Edited by Kevin Duong, University of Virginia, USA

Can political violence create freedom? What if the cost of violent liberation is too high? How does one even calculate that when the status quo is a condition of sustained violence? From reactionary movements globally to the everyday violence that makes the present moment so cruel, understanding political violence remains a difficult, multidimensional problem. This edited volume brings together essays by political theorists, intellectual historians, and other social scientists to reflect on these classic questions anew. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of New Political Science.

Dominican Politics in the Twenty First Century
Continuity and Change
Edited by Jacqueline Jiménez Polanco, Bronx Community College, USA and Ernesto Sagás, Colorado State University, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics
This collection examines the continuities and changes that have set the Dominican political system apart from its Latin American counterparts over the last couple of decades. Across eight chapters a collection of subject experts argue that the Dominican case offers valuable lessons to understand that even though traditional political parties are endangered throughout the region, they are not going anywhere. Dominican Politics in the Twenty First Century will be a vital resource for understanding contemporary Dominican politics. It will appeal to political scientists, Latin Americanists, and students of democracy, comparative politics, and electoral politics in general.

Crime, Violence, and Justice in Latin America
Edited by Carlos Solar, University of Essex, UK and Carlos A. Pérez Ricart, Centro de Investigación y Docencia Económicas (CIDE), Mexico
Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics
This book asks why crime and violence persist in Latin America at extreme levels and why the states have not been able to more effectively solve this problem that dominates the lives of many millions of Latin Americans. Informed by diverse disciplinary backgrounds, the chapters bring together a team of regional experts to discuss research-based explanations on some of Latin America’s most pressing criminal and violent issues distressing what crime and violence mean in the eyes of observers, perpetrators, policymakers, governmental officials, and victims. It is an important acquisition for policy makers and academics alike.

Common Hegemony, Populism, and the New Municipalism
Democratic Alter-Politics and Transformative Strategies
Alexandros Kioupkiolis, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece
Series: Routledge Advances in Democratic Theory
Common Hegemony, Populism, and the New Municipalism critically explores the global rise of an alternative democratic politics since the 1990s in both practice and theory, from the Zapatistas’ insurrection to the 2011 cycle of democratic contestation and the ensuing municipalist movement in Spain. Common Hegemony, Populism, and the New Municipalism will be of interest to researchers and students of contemporary political theory, democratic theory, and social movement studies.

Explaning Religious Party Strength
State Capacity, Social Services, and Religious Civil Society
Mário Rebelo, Macrobond, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in Religion and Politics
Explaning Religious Party Strength explores why religious political parties are electorally successful in some countries but not in others. This book will interest students and scholars of religion and politics, specifically those interested in party formation, voting, and political activism, as well as policy makers.

Global Perspectives on Nationalism
Political and Literary Discourses
Edited by Debajoti Biswas, Bodoland University, India, Panos Eliopoulos, University of Ioannina, Greece and John C. Ryan, Southern Cross University, Australia
Series: Routledge Studies in Global and Transnational Politics
Global Perspectives on Nationalism takes an interdisciplinary approach informed by recent theorisations of nationalism to examine perennial questions on the topic. This book will be of particular value to students and researchers in philosophy, literary studies, and political theory with interests spanning ecology, ethnicity, folklore, gender, heritage, identity, linguistics, nationalism, nationhood, religion, and sexuality.

Globalizing Political Theory
Edited by Smita A. Rahman, DePaul University, USA, Katherine A. Gordy, San Francisco State University, USA and Shirin S. Deylami, Western Washington University, USA
With the help of this textbook, students of political theory no longer need to learn about ideas in a vacuum with little or no attention paid to how such ideas are responses to varying local political problems in different places, times, and contexts. Committed to a multiplicity of perspectives and an active engagement between the global and the local, Globalizing Political Theory connects directly with undergraduate and graduate-level courses in political theory, global political theory, and non-western political thought.

Husserlian Phenomenology and Contemporary Political Realism
The Legitimacy of the Life-World
Michael F. Hickman, University of Mary, USA
Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory
Drawing on Husserl’s concepts of communalization and intersubjectivity, this book aspires to an orientation in which human beings are understood in the context of their full-blooded, concrete existence – the life-world. Utilizing an expanded philosophical universe, Husserlian Phenomenology and Contemporary Political Realism offers a path forward from the ideological stalemates in which liberal theory seems hopelessly locked. It will appeal to scholars involved in the study of Political Theory and Philosophy, International Relations, intercultural studies, human rights and phenomenology.

International Discourses of Authoritarian Populism
Varies and Approaches
Edited by Ludwig Deringer, RWTH Aachen, Germany and Liane Strobel, RWTH Aachen, Germany
This book provides sixteen cutting-edge chapters probing into the diversity of present-day populist discourse from across the world. Not adhering to any particular school, the volume explores populism from a variety of disciplines and perspectives, with contributions characterized by heuristic openness as called for by the manifold manifestations of populism. The volume will be a key resource for scholars and students across a range of disciplines, including sociology, political science, linguistics, media and communication studies, literary studies, and history. Moreover, it will be of special interest to professionals who deal with both national and international issues of populism.
Intolerance
Premodern Roots and Modern Manifestations
Edited by Jeffrey Friedman, Harvard University, USA
Intolerance of ideas different from one’s own seems to be a common attitude among human beings and, at the same time, something that seems to be more pronounced in recent years. In this volume, political theorists and philosophers consider some of the historical preconditions of modern intolerance and debate the sources of its recent manifestations. From theories of religious intolerance during the Reformation to the contemporary suppression of religious symbols; from homophobia to attempts to ban it; from populism on the right to “cancel culture” on the left—this book covers a variety of forms of intolerance, analyzing not only its consequences but its causes and implications.

Questioning Planetary Illiberal Geographies
Territory, Space and Power
Edited by Jason Luger
Series: Regions and Cities
This book engages with current debates on ‘planetary urbanization’ and the nature of urban political theory, but notably, considers the implications of illiberalism on space, territory, and power. It draws on diverse empirical case studies from China, the United States, India, South Korea, and Singapore in this context. Such a focus is timely, as illiberalism (across various settings and terrains) is producing, and embedded in, increasingly complex, hybrid, multi-scalar, non-linear and globally networked flows.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Territory, Politics, Governance.

Party Politics in European Microstates
Edited by Fernando Casal Bértoa, University of Nottingham, UK and Patrick Dumont, Australian National University, Australia
Series: Routledge Studies on Political Parties and Party Systems
This book represents the first comprehensive study of the evolution of parties and party systems in all nine democratic European states with less than one million inhabitants. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of party systems and political parties, elections and democracy, small states, European politics and more broadly of comparative politics.

Radical Civility
A Study in Utopia and Democracy
Edited by Jason Caro,
University of Houston-Downtown, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought
Radical Civility unearths civility’s extraordinary potential by addressing why the virtue has fallen into crisis, recalling the injunctions that transpose utopia upon the stingy politics of likelihood, and by offering a vision of citizens who find purpose in dignifying each other. This radical stance raises the stakes of the debate on civility through setting the book implacably against realism and its politics of likelihood. It will appeal to those in the study of social sciences, cultural studies, social psychology, philosophy, and peace studies.

Performance and Politics in a Digital Populist Age
Imagining Alternatives
Cami Rowe, Lancaster Institute for the Contemporary Arts, Lancaster University, UK
Series: Interventions
This book re-evaluates the role of performance in global politics in the face of populism and the digital mediatisation of political interactions. It resonates with recent debates regarding the relevance and treatment of Arts and Performance as IR subjects, methodologies and practices, and will be of interest to scholars and students of global politics, international relations, performance studies, radical democracy, and mass communication and culture.

Religious Dimensions of Conspiracy Theories
Comparing and Connecting Old and New Trends
Edited by Francesco Piraino, Ca’ Foscari University, Italy, Marco Pasi, University of Amsterdam, the Netherlands and Egil Aspsem, University of Stockholm, Sweden

State and Majority Nationalism in Plurinational States

Edited by Daniel Cetrà, University of Barcelona, Spain and Coree Brown Swan, Queen’s University Belfast, UK

This book brings together the leading lights in nationalism studies to turn their attention to the neglected role of the state in nationalist disputes.

With case studies from China, Spain, UK, Canada, India, and Nepal, this edited volume examines state and majority nationalism in all its guises, asking how states respond to nationalist challenges from below. It is particularly timely at a moment when territorial and secessionist crises are reshaping politics.

It will be relevant reading for students and researchers of Comparative Politics and International Relations. These chapters were originally published as a special issue of Nationalism and Ethnic Politics.

The Magical Lantern

Essays on the Phantasmagoria of Indian Politics

Murzban Jal, Indian Institute of Education, Pune

This book is a collection of essays on Marxist philosophy. It is based on the philosophical reflection on Marx’s idea of phantasmagoria as the "magical lantern" that creates eerie images, an idea that is central to Marx’s theory of modern capitalist societies. It critiques the rise of authoritarian regimes emerging all over the world and seeks to explain the rise of global totalitarianism. But it claims that the answer to authoritarianism is not liberalism. The critique of liberalism does not relapse into orthodox Marxism, since this book argues that in the genre of orthodox Marxism the ghosts of Stalin and Mao with their own authoritarian haunts philosophies of human emancipation.

Complex Governance Networks
Foundational Concepts and Practical Implications
Gökşu Morçöl, Penn State University, USA
Series: Routledge Research in Public Administration and Public Policy
This book critically assesses traditional conceptual frameworks and proposes an alternative: A Complex Governance Networks (CGN) framework. Göktuğ Morçöl illustrates the applicability of the CGN concepts with examples from the Covid-19 pandemic and metropolitan governance. Morçöl concludes by discussing the implications of CGN for the convergence of public administration and public policy education and offering suggestions for future studies using the CGN conceptualization. Complex Governance Networks is essential reading for both scholars and advanced students of public policy, public administration, public affairs, and related areas.

Brittany “Brie” Haupt, Virginia Commonwealth University, USA and Lauren Azvedo, Penn State Harrisburg, USA
This book examines the unique position of nonprofit organizations in an intersection of providing public services and also being a part of emergency management practices. Chapters discuss the evolution of crisis communication planning, the unique position of nonprofit organizations and the crises they face. The book offers a new and insightful approach to crisis communication planning to assist nonprofit organizations that are called upon to fulfill a variety of community needs, such as sheltering, food distribution, relief funding, family reunification services, volunteer mobilization and much more. It will be an essential resource for nonprofit organizations.

Cryptocurrency and Public Policy
Implications for Democracy and Governance
Donavon Johnson, Data scientist and digital transformation expert
This new book connects the literature on public policy and cryptocurrency, asking: What are the governance and democracy implications of the rise in cryptocurrency use? This informative and insightful book covers a range of public policy and public administration issues, offering readers an understanding of how cryptocurrency intersects with democracy, governance, fiscal and monetary policies, economic growth, corruption, and privacy. Cryptocurrency and Public Policy will be of interest to students and scholars of public policy and administration, finance, economics, and business.

International Public Administrations in Global Public Policy

Racial Equity, COVID-19, and Public Policy
The Triple Pandemic
Edited by Elsie L. Harper-Anderson, Virginia Commonwealth University, USA, Jay S. Albanese, Virginia Commonwealth University, USA and Susan T. Gooden, Virginia Commonwealth University, USA
This book focuses on the health, economic, and justice impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on racial equity. It does not simply document the problems made worse by the pandemic, but it provides historical context for issues that rose to the surface in new ways, the existing inequities revealed during COVID-19, and policy responses to those issues. This book responds to audiences seeking a better understanding of the complexity of the events that occurred, the conditions that set the stage for their eruption into wider public view, and what might be done to prevent social and racial inequities in the future.

Russia and EU in the New World Disorder
Revisiting Sovereignty and Balance of Power in the study of Russian Foreign Policy

Aziz Elmuradov, Bielefeld University, Germany
Series: Post-Soviet Politics

This book makes an original contribution to Russia-EU literature by analysing constructions and transformations of the Russian “self” in relation to the European “other”. Primarily situated in the fields of International Relations and Russian foreign policy this book will also be of interest to scholars in the fields of Foreign Policy Analysis, Post-Soviet Studies, Eurasian Studies, Historical International Relations, Critical Security Studies, Political Sociology, and Political Psychology.

The Russia-Ukraine War of 2022
Faces of Modern Conflict

Edited by Agnieszka Kasińska-Metryka, Jan Kochanowski University, Poland and Karolina Palka-Suchojad, Jan Kochanowski University, Poland
Series: Post-Soviet Politics

This volume examines the war in Ukraine from a range of historical, military and feminist perspectives, exploring aspects such as the attitude of neighboring states, political leadership, local government, social mechanisms and the cultural and media policies of both Russia and Ukraine. Providing much needed context on the Russia-Ukraine war, this book will be of interest to students and scholars of international relations, political science, gender studies, international and national security and public politics.

Stalin Era Intellectuals
Culture and Stalinism

Edited by Vesa Oittinen, University of Helsinki, Aleksanteri Institute, Finland. and Elina Viljanen, University of Helsinki, Aleksanteri Institute, Finland.

This book focuses on the extent to which Soviet scholars and cultural theoreticians were able to act autonomously during the Stalin era. Intended for scholars of Russian and Soviet studies this book will dispel many received views about the character of Stalinism and Soviet culture.

The Routledge Handbook of Russian International Relations Studies

Edited by Maria Lagutina, Saint Petersburg University, Russia, Natalia Tsvetkova, St Petersburg University, Russia and Alexander Sergunin, Saint Petersburg University, Russia
