Our history

Over two centuries ago, the foundations of the company were laid in pioneering fashion when in 1798 Richard Taylor launched the Philosophical Magazine, one of the first scientific journals produced by an independent company. It was the start of much close collaboration with scholarly societies. Dr William Francis, a chemist, joined Richard Taylor in 1852 and continued the tradition of the close links between the academic community and the company.

Today, we continue to be fully committed to the publication of academic and scholarly information of the highest quality and this remains our primary goal.

Taylor & Francis has grown rapidly to become a leading international, academic publisher. With offices across the globe, the Taylor & Francis Group now publishes more than 2,200 journals and over 5,200 new books each year; with a books backlist in excess of 110,000 specialist titles.

Prices featured are correct at time of going to press but are subject to change without notice.

Book orders should be addressed to the Taylor & Francis Customer Services Department at Bookpoint, or the appropriate overseas agent.

Emotion

Charlie Kurth, Western Michigan University, USA

Series: New Problems of Philosophy

The emotions as an area of study in philosophy dates back to Aristotle and the Stoics. They have also become one of the most exciting areas of current philosophical research.

This book explains and assesses the philosophy of the emotions, discussing topics such as the emotions and perception, science and the emotions, emotions in cultural context, epistemology and the emotions and a range of case studies of different kinds of emotions, including compassion and disgust, pride and shame and anxiety.

Ideal for those studying and researching the philosophy of the emotions as well as ethics, epistemology and philosophy of mind and psychology.

Markets with Limits

How the Commodification of Academia Derails Debate

James Stacey Taylor, The College of New Jersey, USA

Taylor puts the debates over the moral limits of markets back on track. He develops a taxonomy of the positions that are actually held by critics of markets, and clarifies the role played in current moral and political philosophy by arguments that justify (or condemn) certain actions owing in part to what they communicate. Taylor argues that the debates derailed because they were conducted in accord with market, rather than academic, norms—and that this demonstrates that market thinking should not govern academic research. Concludes with suggestions as to how to encourage academics to conduct research in accord with academic norms and hence improve its quality.

Skepticism

Annalisa Coliva, University of Modena, Italy and Duncan Pritchard, University of California, Irvine & University of Edinburgh

Series: New Problems of Philosophy

Skepticism is a perennial problem in philosophy: from antiquity, to the early modern period of Descartes and Hume, and right through to the present day. It remains a widely studied topic and presents us with a paradox with important ramifications not only for epistemology but also for many other core areas of philosophy.

This book provides a thorough grounding in contemporary debates about skepticism. With the addition of annotated further reading and a glossary this is an ideal starting point for anyone studying the philosophy of skepticism, along with students of epistemology, metaphysics and contemporary analytic philosophy.

The Landscape of Utopia

Writings on Everyday Life, Taste, Democracy, and Design

Tim Waterman, The Bartlett School of Architecture, University College London, UK

A collection of short interludes, think pieces, and critical essays on landscape, utopia, philosophy, culture, and food, all written in a highly original and engaging style by academic and theorist Tim Waterman. Exploring power and democracy, and their shaping of public space and public life; taste, etiquette, belief and ritual, and foodways in community and civic life, the book provides a much-needed critical approach to landscape imaginaries. It discusses landscape in its broadest sense, as a descriptor of the relationship between people and place that occurs everywhere on land, from cities to countryside, suburb to wilderness.

Roberto Di Ceglie, Pontifical Lateran University, Italy

Series: Routledge Studies in the Philosophy of Religion

This book offers a new reading of Aquinas' views on faith. It argues that the theological nature of faith is crucial to Aquinas' thought, and that it gives rise to a peculiar and otherwise incomprehensible relationship with reason. The first part examines modern and contemporary accounts of the relationship between faith and reason in Aquinas' thought. The second part offers a comprehensive account of Aquinas' view of faith. It focuses on the way the divine grace and charity shape the relationship between evidence and human will. The final part ties these ideas together to show how Christian faith, with its specifically theological nature, is compatible with rational debates.

Relational Approaches

Edited by Natalie Stoljar and Kristin Voigt, McGill University, Canada

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book draws connections and explores important questions at the intersection of the debates about relational autonomy and equality. The essays consider how theoretical considerations play out in real-world contexts. Several chapters explore possible conceptual links between relational autonomy and equality by considering the role of values—such as agency, non-domination, and self-respect—to which both relational autonomy theorists and relational egalitarians are committed. Others reflect on how debates about autonomy and equality can clarify our thinking about oppression based on race and gender, and how such oppression affects interpersonal relationships.

Why Prohibiting Plasma Compensation Harms Patients and Wrongs Donors

James Stacey Taylor, The College of New Jersey, USA

Series: Routledge Annals of Bioethics

This is the first book to argue in favor of paying people for their blood plasma. It does not merely argue that offering compensation to plasma donors is morally permissible. It argues that prohibiting donor compensation is morally wrong—and that it is morally wrong for all of the reasons that are offered against allowing donor compensation. Taylor argues that empirical evidence demonstrates that compensating plasma donors greatly increases the amount of plasma obtained with no adverse effects on the quality of the pharmaceutical products that are manufactured from it. Prohibiting compensation thus harms patients by reducing their access to the medicines they need.

Norms, Goals, and Values

Edited by Sara Heinämaa, University of Jyväskylä, Finland, Mirja Hartimo, University of Jyväskylä, Finland and Ilpo Hirvonen, University of Helsinki, Finland

Series: Routledge Research in Phenomenology

This book offers an updated and comprehensive phenomenology of norms and normativity. It is the first volume that systematically tackles both the normativity of experiencing and various experiences of norms. Part I begins with a discussion of the methodological resources that phenomenology offers for the critique of epistemological, social and cultural norms. The second part deepens the discussion by studying the existential and moral-philosophical foundations of practical normativity. The final part proceeds from practical normativity to the analysis of the guiding powers of values, perceptual norms, instincts and drives.

Disability and American Philosophies

Edited by Nate Whelan-Jackson, Capital University, USA and Daniel J. Brunson, Morgan State University, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in American Philosophy

This collection of essays from scholars working in pragmatism and other American traditions considers intersections between American philosophy and work in disability studies. One set of essays considers how American philosophies from contemporary Mexican philosophy to classical American pragmatism inform descriptions of disability and efforts at liberation. The next offer accounts of how American philosophies disclose alternative conceptions of epistemic and ethical issues surrounding disability. Finally, a section considers living issues of disability—parenting, immigration policy, and art education.

Dual-Aspect Monism and the Deep Structure of Meaning

Harald Atmaspacher, Turing Center of ETH Zurich, Switzerland and the C.G. Jung Institute Zurich, Switzerland and Dean Rickles, University of Sydney, Australia

This book investigates the metaphysical position of dual-aspect monism, with particular emphasis on the challenging role of the concept of meaning as a fundamental feature of the fabric of reality. Inspired by analogies with modern physics and driven by its conceptual problems, Pauli, Jung, Eddington, Wheeler, Bohm and Hiley are the originators of the approaches studied. The authors reconstruct the formal structure of the approaches, compare their conceptual emphases and the relative strengths and weaknesses. They also address a number of themes for current and future interdisciplinary research, both theoretical and empirical, that arise from the presented frameworks of thinking.

E.J. Lowe and Ontology

Edited by Miroslaw Szatkowski
Series: Routledge Studies in Metaphysics

This volume collects fifteen original essays on E.J. Lowe's work on metaphysics and ontology. The essays connect Lowe's insights with contemporary issues in metaphysics. Drawing inspiration from Aristotle's thought, E. J. Lowe treated metaphysics as an autonomous discipline concerned with the fundamental structure of reality. They deal with a wide range of metaphysical issues including four-category ontology, the causal and non-causal aspects of agency, categorial fundamentality and non-fundamentality, the existence of relations, property dualism, powers and abilities, personal identity, predication, and topological ontology.

Kierkegaard, Mimesis, and Modernity

A Study of Imitation, Existence, and Affect

Wojciech Kaftanski
Series: Routledge Studies in Nineteenth-Century Philosophy

Taking mimesis as a crucial conceptual point of reference in reading Kierkegaard, this book offers a nuanced understanding of the relation between aesthetics and religion in his thought. Kaftanski shows how Kierkegaard's existential mimesis interlaces aesthetic and religious themes, including the familiar core concepts of imitation, repetition, and admiration as well as the newly arisen notions of affectivity, contagion, and crowd behavior. Kierkegaard's enduring relevance to the malaises of our own day is firmly established by his classic concern for the meaning of human life informed by reflective meditation on the origins of the contemporary age.

New Perspectives on Platonic Dialectic

A Philosophy of Inquiry

Edited by Jens Kristian Larsen, University of Bergen, Norway, Vivik Valvik Haraldsen, University of Bergen, Norway and Justin Vlasits, University of Tübingen, Germany

The chapters in this volume share two basic assumptions: dialectic is pivotal to understanding Plato's ethics, epistemology, and ontology, and the current developmental approach to Platonic dialectic hinders our understanding of Plato. Section I looks at the methods of elenchus, hypothesis, and collection and division that have received the most scrutiny in the literature. Section II sheds light on aspects of dialectic such as the use of examples, myths, and genealogical inquiries. The final section examines the ways that the theoretical discussions of dialectic fit with the actual practice of dialectic in the dialogues and its larger ramifications in ethical and political life.

Phenomenology as Critique

Why Method Matters

Edited by Andreea Smaranda Aldea, David Carr, Emory University and New School for Social Research, US and Sara Heinämaa, University of Helsinki, Finland

Series: Routledge Research in Phenomenology

Drawing on classical Husserlian resources as well as existentialist and hermeneutical approaches, this book argues that critique is largely a question of method. It demonstrates that phenomenological discussions of acute social and political problems draw from a rich tradition of radically critical investigations in epistemology, social ontology, political theory, and ethics. The contributions show that contemporary phenomenological investigations of various forms of oppression and domination develop new critical-analytical tools that complement those of competing theoretical approaches, such as analytics of power, critical theory, and liberal philosophy of justice.

Sloterdijk's Anthropotechnics

Edited by Patrick Roney, Koç University, Turkey and Andrea Rossi, Koç University, Turkey

Series: Angelaki: New Work in the Theoretical Humanities

This volume focuses upon one of Peter Sloterdijk's central ideas, anthropotechnics. The essays included in this volume enter a critical dialogue with Sloterdijk and his many philosophical interlocutors in order to interrogate the many implications of anthropotechnics in relation to some of the most pressing issues of our time, including and especially the question of the future of humanity in relation to globalism and modernization, climate change, the post-secular, neoliberalism, and artificial intelligence.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Angelaki

The Routledge Handbook of Liberal Naturalism

Edited by Mario De Caro, University Roma Tre, Italy and David Macarthur, University of Sydney, Australia

Series: Routledge Handbooks in Philosophy

The question of naturalism - the relation of philosophy to science - was a defining strand of twentieth-century thought and remains a major source of debate today. This is the first collection to present a comprehensive overview of liberal naturalism, a philosophical outlook that lies between hard naturalism and supernaturalism. Comprising 37 chapters by an international team of contributors, it examines all the important topics.

Essential reading for students and researchers in all areas of philosophy, it will be of particular interest for those studying philosophical naturalism, philosophy of science, metaphysics, philosophy of mind and ethics.

The Experimental Approach to Free Will

Freedom in the Laboratory

Katherin A Rogers

Rogers canvases the literature critical of recent experiments and adds new criticisms of her own. She shows why these experiments should not undermine belief in human freedom -- even robust, libertarian freedom. She identifies ethical and practical problems facing the attempt to study free will experimentally. She argues that even in the future it will likely be impossible to settle the question of free will experimentally. She concludes that, since philosophy has not, and science cannot, settle the question of free will, it is more reasonable to suppose that humans do indeed have freedom

Time in Action

The Temporal Structure of Rational Agency and Practical Thought

Edited by Carla Bagnoli, University of Modena & Reggio Emilia, Italy

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book explores the role of time in rational agency and practical reasoning. Part I is devoted to the temporal structure of action and agency, from metaphysical and metaethical perspectives. Part II features essays about the temporal structure of rational deliberation, from the perspective of action theory and theories of practical reasoning. Finally, Part III includes essays about the temporal aspects of failures of rationality. Taken together, the essays shed new light on our understanding of the temporality of agency that coheres with our subjective sense of finitude and explains rational agency both in time and over time.

2nd Edition • TEXTBOOK • READER

Bible and Cinema

An Introduction

Adele Reinhartz, University of Ottawa, Canada

Bible and Cinema: An Introduction is a comprehensive examination of how the Bible has been used and represented in mainstream cinema to develop their plots, characters, and themes. The book considers two general types of films: Bible movies that retell biblical stories, such as the Exodus and the life of Jesus, and Bible-related movies that make use of biblical books, stories, verses, and figures, and Bibles themselves to tell non-biblical, often fictional, narratives. This book also includes pedagogical resources including discussions of film theory, as well as key words and discussion questions.

Researching a Pioneering Ministry

Edited by Stephen B. Roberts and Sarah Dunlop

Chaplaincy has emerged as a highly significant form of ministry in the twenty-first century, and chaplaincy studies is growing as a field of study that learns from the experience and work of chaplains in their diverse sectors. The journal Practical Theology (formerly Contact) is a key repository for much of the wisdom gained through such study and this book draws on the archive of the journal to trace the development of chaplaincy research and provide a resource for those seeking to join the conversation about the nature and significance of chaplaincy as a form of ministry and mission today.

Andrew Ter Ern Loke, Associate Professor at Hong Kong Baptist University.

Series: Routledge New Critical Thinking in Religion, Theology and Biblical Studies

This book offers a compelling examination of the problem of evil and the doctrine of sin. It engages with and advances extant discussions on the topic by drawing together philosophical arguments, theological reflections, scientific evidence, Biblical exegesis, and real-life stories. The author defends the Cosmic Conflict Theodicy against philosophical and theological objections, and uses it together with the Connection Building Theodicy, Adamic Fall Theodicy, arguments for divine hiddenness, and Afterlife Theodicy to address the vexing problem of horrendous evil.

Mysticism and Materialism in the Wake of German Idealism

W. Ezekiel Goggin and Sean Hannan

Series: Contemporary Theological Explorations in Mysticism

This book argues that the rediscovery of mystical theology in nineteenth-century Germany not only helped inspire idealism and romanticism, but also planted the seeds of their overcoming by way of critical materialism. It offers a new perspective on the reception of mystical self-interrogation in nineteenth-century German thought and will appeal to scholars of philosophy, history, theology, and religious studies.

Clare Boothe Luce

American Renaissance Woman
Philip Nash, Penn State Shenango, USA

Series: Routledge Historical Americans

This is a concise and highly readable political biography that examines the life of one of the most accomplished American women of the 20th century. Carefully placing Luce in a series of shifting historical contexts, a combination of narrative and documents afford readers a brief yet in-depth look at Luce with all her complications. She was a deeply flawed high-achiever who repeatedly challenged the entrenched sexism of her age to become a significant actor in the rise of the "American Century." Addressing the neglect suffered by women in foreign relations history, it will be of interest to students and scholars of US foreign relations, 20th century US history and US women's history.

Rethinking the American Animal Rights Movement

Emily Patterson-Kane, Michael P. Allen and Jennifer Eadie, Australian National University, Australia

Series: American Social and Political Movements of the 20th Century

This book examines the strategies employed within the movement to advance its goals, which ranged from public advocacy and legal reforms to civil disobedience, vigilantism, anarchism, and even 'terrorism.' It summarizes key theoretical and legal frameworks that inspired those strategies, as well as the ideological motivations of the movement. It highlights the irreconcilable tension between moral and legal rights verses 'humane treatment of animals' as prescribed by advocates of animal welfarism.

The British Jesus, 1850-1970

Meredith Veldman, Louisiana State University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern British History

This book focuses on the Jesus of the religious culture dominant in Britain from the 1850s through the 1950s, the popular Christian culture shared by not only church-, kirk-, and chapel-goers, but also the growing numbers of Britons who rarely or only episodically entered a house of worship. An essay in intellectual as well as cultural history, it illumines the interplay between and among British New Testament scholarship, institutional Christianity, and the wider Protestant culture. Exploring depictions of Jesus from over more than one hundred years, this book is the ideal resource for scholars of British Christianity in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

Thinking Critically About the Kennedy Assassination

Debunking the Myths and Conspiracy Theories

Michel Jacques Gagné, Champlain College Saint-Lambert, Canada

Series: Conspiracy Theories

Thinking Critically About the Kennedy Assassination uses the tools of critical thinking, historical research, and philosophical inquiry to debunk the many myths and conspiracy theories surrounding JFK's shocking and untimely death. Through its reasoned and detailed analysis of the content and evolution of JFK conspiracy narratives, this book also serves as a comprehensive case study of paranoid reasoning and modern mythmaking. This volume will appeal to students of history, politics, psychology, and cultural and media studies, and to a broader audience interested in American history, critical thinking, and conspiracy thinking.

The Beast Within

Animals in the Middle Ages

Joyce E. Salisbury, professor emeritus of history at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay

The third edition of The Beast Within has been updated throughout to include current scholarship, new discussion of definitions, and fresh perspectives on critical animal theory that places animals, rather than humans, at the center of the discourse. With an interdisciplinary approach that discusses humans and animals in relation to domestication, symbolism, science, law, religion, food and diet, sexuality, and entertainment, The Beast Within is an essential resource for all students of animal history, literature, and art in the Middle Ages.

Transnational France

The Modern History of a Universal Nation

Tyler Stovall, Fordham University, USA

Now in its second edition, Transnational France takes a transnational approach to the history of modern France that draws the reader into a key aspect of France's political culture: universalism. Beginning with the French Revolution and its aftermath, Stovall traces French history right up into the present day. This new edition features an additional chapter on France in the Twenty First Century that offers an analysis of current events and issues as seen through historical perspective. Giving a global view of France's history, this is the perfect volume for students of Modern France and French history courses.

Instability, Innovation, Recovery

Edited by Bartosz Dziewanowski-Stefańczyk, European Network Remembrance and Solidarity / Polish Academy of Sciences, Poland and Jay M. Winter, University of Yale, USA
Series: European Remembrance and Solidarity

This book introduces readers to new historical research on the creation of the new order in East-Central Europe in the aftermath of 1918. It offers insights into the political, diplomatic, military, economic and cultural conditions out of which the New Europe was born. Experts give equal attention to the Western and Eastern fronts; recognise that in November 1918, the War ended only on the Western front and violence continued in multiple forms over the next five years; and show how state-building after 1918 in Central and Eastern Europe was marked by a mixture of innovation and instability. It offers an original approach to this decisive period in 20th century European history.

Empire, Endgame and Aftermath

Edited by Michael J. K. Walsh, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore and Andrekos Varnava, Flinders University of South Australia

Series: Routledge Studies in First World War History

A century after the Armistice and the associated peace agreements that formally ended the Great War many issues pertaining to the UK and its Empire are yet to be satisfactorily resolved. The studies are united by three common themes: the interrogation of that transitional 'moment' after the Armistice that lingered well beyond the final Treaty of Lausanne in 1924; the utilisation of new research methods and avenues of enquiry to compliment extant debates concerning the legacies of colonialism and nationalism; and the common leitmotif of the British Empire in all its political and cultural complexity.

Archive, Slow Ideology and Egodocuments as Microhistorical Autobiography

Potential History

Sigurður Gylfi Magnússon, University of Iceland

This book aims to demonstrate how scholars in recent times have been utilizing egodocuments from various angles and providing an opening for the multivocality of the sources to be fully appreciated. The first part of the book is concerned with the significance of egodocuments, both for the individual him/herself who creates such documents, and also for the other, who receives them. The second part of the book is based upon a photographic collection – an archive – that belonged to the author's grandfather, who over decades accumulated photographs of vagabonds and outsiders, and seeks to explore what kind of knowledge can be applied when a single source is examined.

Authorship, Worldview, and Identity in Medieval Europe

Edited by Christian Raffensperger, Wittenberg University, USA

Series: Studies in Medieval History and Culture

What did medieval authors know about their world? Were they parochial and focused on just their monastery, town, or kingdom? Or were they aware of the broader medieval Europe that modern historians write about? This collection of essays brings the focus back to medieval authors to see how they described their world. By examining medieval authors and their own perception of their world, this collection of essays offers a framework for discussions of medieval Europe in the twenty-first century.

Greek Eyes on Europe

The Travels of Nikandros Noukios of Corfu

John Muir

Series: Publications of the Centre for Hellenic Studies, King's College London

This is the first complete English translation of a lively travelogue written by Andronikos aka Nikandros Noukios, a Greek from Corfu, who accompanied a diplomatic mission from Venice to England in the middle of the sixteenth century. The book is an almost unknown source for the sixteenth century and will certainly be of interest to historians and students. It is also an important and little-known landmark in the development of Modern Greek literature, especially relevant to the burgeoning modern interest in travel writing. It is accessible and a good read.

Irish Women's Prison Writing

Mother Ireland's Rebels, 1960s–2010s

Red Washburn

Series: Routledge Studies in Irish Literature

This book explores 50 years of Irish women's prison writing, 1960s–2010s, connecting the work of women leaders and writers in the Six Counties of Ireland during the Troubles. Centering Irish women's prison writings, in order to challenge canonization in history and literature, this volume argues that women's lives and words offer a different view of gender and nation as well as offer a fuller and more inclusive archive of Irish history and literature.

Living in a Nuclear World

From Fukushima to Hiroshima

Edited by Bernadette Bensaude-Vincent, University of Paris

1 Pantheon-Sorbonne, France, Soraya Boudia, Université

de Paris, France and Kyoko Sato, Stanford University, USA

Series: History and Philosophy of Technoscience

The Fukushima disaster invites us to look back and probe how nuclear technology has shaped the world we live in, and how we have come to live with it. This volume tackles these historical and transnational questions by bringing together scholars from multiple disciplines (anthropology, history, STS) and countries (France, Japan, US), who analyze various local, national and transnational subjects, from atomic bomb survivors to national experts and global nuclear institutions. It presents a new perspective on nuclear history and politics by focusing on four interconnected themes: violence and survival; control and containment; denial and normalization, and memories and futures.

Losing Face

Shame, Society and the Self in Early Modern England

Ilana Krausman Ben-Amos

Series: Routledge Research in Early Modern History

This book is a study of shame in English society in the two centuries between c.1550 and c.1750, demonstrating the ubiquity and powerful hold it had on contemporaries over the entire era. The book challenges perceptions of the waning of shame in the transition from early modern to modern times, arguing instead that whereas some modes of shame diminished or disappeared, others remained vital, were reformulated and vastly enhanced.

Memory and Religion from a Postsecular Perspective

Edited by Zuzanna Bogumił, Polish Academy of Sciences, Poland and Yuliya Yurchuk, Umeå University, Sweden

Series: European Remembrance and Solidarity

The book argues that religion is a system of significant meanings that have an impact on other systems and spheres of social life including cultural memory. The editors call for a postsecular turn in memory studies which would provide a more reflective and meaningful approach to the constant interplay between the religious and the secular. This opens up new perspectives on the intersection of memory and religion and helps memory scholars become more aware of the religious roots of the language they are using in their studies of memory. It is ideal for students and scholars of memory studies, religious studies, and history.

Negotiation, Collaboration and Conflict in Ancient and Medieval Communities

Edited by Christian Krötzel, Katarina Mustakallio and Miikka Tamminen

Focusing on forms of interaction and methods of negotiation in multicultural, multi-ethnic and multilingual contexts during Antiquity and the Middle Ages, this volume examines questions of social and cultural interaction within and between diverse ethnic communities. Tolerance and coexistence were essential in all late antique and medieval societies and their communities. However, power struggles and prejudices could give rise to suspicion, conflict and violence. All of these had a central influence on social dynamics, negotiations of collective or individual identity, definitions of ethnicity, and the shaping of legal rules.

Neighbours of Passage

A Microhistory of Migrants in a Paris Tenement, 1882–1932

Fabrice Langrognet

Series: Microhistories

The book is a sociocultural microhistory of migrants. From the 1880s to the 1930s, it traces the lives of the occupants of a housing complex located just north of the French capital, in the heart of the Plaine-Saint-Denis. Starting in the 1870s, that industrial suburb became a magnet for working-class migrants of diverse origins, from within France and abroad. The author examines how the inhabitants of that particular place identified themselves and others. The study looks at the role played, in the construction of social difference, by interpersonal contacts, institutional interactions and migration.

On the Chilean Social Explosion

Maxwell Woods, University Adolfo Ibáñez, Chile

Series: Routledge Studies in Radical History and Politics

On the Chilean Social Explosion uses the methods of literary, cultural, and subaltern studies to examine what cultural foundations and practices gave rise to this political uprising. This book will be of value to researchers of cultural studies, cultural and radical politics, resistance and protest, subaltern studies, and Chilean and Latin American politics. It will also interest a broader audience concerned with social movements, grassroots organizing, and expressions of dissent across the world.

Port-Cities and their Hinterlands

Migration, Trade and Cultural Exchange from the Early Seventeenth Century to 1939

Edited by Robert Lee, University of Liverpool, UK and Paul McNamara

Series: Routledge Explorations in Economic History

This interdisciplinary book brings together eleven original contributions by scholars in the United Kingdom, continental Europe, America and Japan which represent innovative and important research on the relationship between cities and their hinterlands. They discuss the factors which determined the changing nature of port-hinterland relations in particular, and highlight the ways in which port-cities have interacted and intersected with their different hinterlands as a result of both in- and out-migration, cultural exchange and the wider flow of goods, services and information. This work provides essential reading for students and scholars of the history of economics.

Regulating Non-Muslim Communities in the Seventeenth-Century Ottoman Empire

Catholics and Capitulations

Radu Dipratu

This volume investigates how the peace and trade agreements, better known as capitulations, regulated Catholics in the Ottoman Empire. By drawing heavily on both original Ottoman-Turkish texts and previously unpublished archival material, this volume is an ideal resource for all scholars interested in the history of Catholicism in the seventeenth-century Ottoman Empire.

Rethinking the History of Italian Fascism

Edited by Giulia Albanese, University of Padua, Italy

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern European History

The aim of the book is building a general history of Fascism and its historiography through the analysis of thirteen different fundamental aspects, which were at the core of Fascist project or of Fascist practices during the regime.

The book could be both used for a general public interested in the history of Europe in the interwar period and for an academic and scholarly public, since the essays aim to develop a provocative reflection on their own area of research.

Staging, Playing, Pyrotechnics and Magic: Conventions of Performance in Early English Theatre

Shifting Paradigms in Early English Drama Studies

Philip Butterworth and Peter Harrop

Series: Variorum Collected Studies

In this selection of research articles Butterworth focuses on investigation of the practical and technical means by which early English theatre, from the fifteenth to the early seventeenth century, was performed. Matters of staging for both 'pageant vehicle' and 'theatre-in-the-round' are described and analysed to consider their impact on playing by players, expositors, narrators and prompters. All these operators also functioned to promote the closely aligned disciplines of pyrotechnics and magic (legerdemain or sleight of hand) which also influence the nature of the presented theatre.

Sybil, Queen of Jerusalem, 1186–1190

Helen J. Nicholson

Series: Rulers of the Latin East

This study traces Sybil's life, from her childhood as the daughter of the heir to the throne of Jerusalem to her death in the crusading force outside the city of Acre. It sets her career alongside that of other European queens and noblewomen of the twelfth century who wielded or attempted to wield power and ask how far the eventual survival of the kingdom of Jerusalem in 1192 was due to Sybil's leadership in 1187 and her determination never to give up.

Terrorism

The Power and Weakness of Fear

Juan Romero, Western Kentucky University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

This book adopts an innovative historical approach to terrorism, focusing on the weaknesses of terrorist states and organizations as reflected in the ideologies, methodologies, and propaganda of Russian populist, National Socialist, and Islamic terrorism.

Drawing upon multilingual primary sources, the book challenges the oft repeated claim that the Nazi regime and Islamic State produced propaganda of superior quality, instead arguing that the manipulation of information is the Achilles heel of terrorist organizations. It is the ideal volume for researchers of terrorism within the fields of History, Politics, Security Studies, Religious Studies and Legal Studies.

The Barsden Memoirs (1799-1816)

An Australian Transnational Adolescence

Grant Rodwell, University of Newcastle, Australia

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

Covering the life of Josephus Henry Barsden from his birth in 1799 through his childhood to 16 years of age, the Barsden memoirs cover events from a Sussex smugglers' inn, a convict ship to the colony of New South Wales, sealing and whaling expeditions to Van Diemen's Land, and Barsden's participation in a Tahitian civil war. Rodwell assesses the value of memoirs, and of these memoirs in particular to students of history in respect to the transnational paradigm.

A fascinating read for scholars and students of Australian, Pacific, and British Colonial History, written with academic rigour but accessible to non-specialists.

The Blackshirts' Dictatorship

Armed Squads, Political Violence, and the Consolidation of Mussolini's Regime

Matteo Millan, University of Padova, Italy

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

In October 1922 Benito Mussolini became head of the Italian government, establishing a regime which was to last for over 20 years. Its success was largely due to the widespread violence perpetrated by Blackshirts (squadristi) throughout Italy. The violence, however, did not end with Mussolini achieving power. Old and new Blackshirts continued to play a major role in making Italy a fascist country. Based on new documents and innovative methods, the book investigates the long and controversial trajectory of the Blackshirts throughout the lifetime of the fascist regime.

The Merovingians

Kingship, Institutions, Law and History

Alexander Callander Murray

Series: Variorum Collected Studies

The studies collected here cover a period of about 33 years, from 1986 to 2019, and represent a sustained effort to understand the institutions of the Merovingian kingdom and its history. There has long been a predisposition to cast the Merovingian period in the dark colours of barbarism or to treat it with reference to personal relationships and archaic institutions. The present volume, instead, recognizes the Merovingian world not as an archaic, primitive intrusion on the Mediterranean civilization of the Roman Empire but simply as a participant in the wider commonwealth that remained after the dissolution of the western imperial system.

The New Pan-Americanism and the Structuring of Inter-American Relations

Edited by Juan Pablo Scarfi, Universidad de San Andrés, Argentina and David M. K. Sheinin, Trent University, Canada
Series: Routledge Studies in the History of the Americas

This volume suggests Pan-Americanism played a central and lasting role in structuring inter-American relations, because of the ways in which the movement was reinvented over time, and because the actors who shaped it often redefined and redeployed the term. It underscores two new shifts in how scholars and others have come to understand Pan-Americanism and inter-American relations: not simply as a diplomatic, commercial, and economic forum, but a movement that has included cultural exchange. In addition, while it has traditionally been seen as a mechanism of U.S. expansionism, this volume reimagines it as a movement built by actors from all corners of the Americas.

The Policy of the Ford Administration Toward Cuba

Carrot and Stick

Håkan Karlsson, University of Gothenburg, Sweden and Tomás Díez Acosta, Instituto de Historia de Cuba, Cuba
Series: Routledge Studies in the History of the Americas

This book presents new aspects of the U.S. Cuba policy during Gerald R. Ford's presidency (August 9, 1974 to January 20, 1977). Based in U.S. and Cuban governmental and other sources, the book studies the oscillating U.S. Cuba policy, stretching between a strive for normalization to ideas concerning military intervention, that was the hallmark of the Ford administration. The book's Cuban perspective is unique and it enriches the knowledge of the U.S.-Cuban relationship during the mid-1970s. It is of relevance to everyone interested in the issue, and especially for students and researchers within the disciplines of History and Political Science.

Travel, Writing and the Media

Contemporary and Historical Perspectives

Edited by Barbara Korte, Albert-Ludwigs-Universität Freiburg, Germany and Anna Karina Sennefelder, Albert-Ludwigs-Universität Freiburg, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in Cultural History

The nexus between travel, writing and media in the contemporary world is dense: travel practice is increasingly interwoven with media; representations in old and new media are co-present and converge. Digitization has had profound impact on the practice and mediation of travel, but this book shows that travel and its representation have always been enlaced with media. Covering a wide range of media from the hand-crafted album to social media, it illustrates how current transformations invite us to revisit earlier periods of travel writing and their media environments, and to explore the ways in which contemporary forms of mediation are prefigured by earlier practices and forms.

Reculturing Museums

Embrace Conflict, Create Change

Doris B. Ash

Reculturing Museums takes a unified sociocultural theoretical approach to analyze the many conflicts museums experience in the 21st century. Embracing conflict, Ash asks: What can practitioners and researchers do to create the change they want to see, when old systems remain stubbornly in place? It will be essential reading for academics, students, museum practitioners, educational researchers, and others who care about museums and want to ensure that all people have equal access to the activities, objects, and ideas residing in them.

Series: The Basics

Archaeology: The Basics, rewritten for this fourth edition, is a short, engaging book takes the reader on a journey through the fascinating world of archaeology and archaeologists. Written in a non-technical style by two experienced archaeologists and writers about the past, the book begins by introducing archaeology as a unique way of studying the entire span of the human past from our origins some 6 million years ago to today. It is essential reading for all those beginning to study archaeology and anyone who has ever questioned the past.

Discovering World Prehistory

Interpreting the Past through Archaeology

Mark Q. Sutton, Statistical Research Inc, USA

Discovering World Prehistory introduces the general field of archaeology and highlights for students the difference between obtaining data (basic archaeology) and interpreting those data into a prehistory, a coherent model of the past. Including chapter overviews, highlight boxes, chapter summaries, key concepts and suggested reading, this textbook is designed to support introductory courses in archaeology and allows students to experience both methods and interpretation, offering a perfect introduction to the discipline.

Archaeology and Intentionality

Understanding Ethics and Freedom in Past and Present Societies

Artur Ribeiro, Research Fellow at the University of Kiel, Germany

Archaeology and Intentionality explores perhaps one of the most overlooked topics in archaeology, that of intentionality. In archaeology, most explanations of human behaviour rely on intentionality and this book fills a surprising gap in the literature.

Addressing several problems in archaeological theory and connecting archaeology, philosophy and social theory, this book is for students and researchers interested in archaeological theory and how it informs practice.

Decolonizing Colonial Heritage

New Agendas, Actors and Practices in and beyond Europe

Edited by Britta Timm Knudsen, Aarhus University, Denmark, John Oldfield, Elizabeth Buettner and Elvan Zabunyan
Series: Critical Heritages of Europe

Decolonizing Colonial Heritage explores how different agents practice the decolonization of European colonial heritage at European and extra-European locations. Assessing the impact of these practices, the book also explores what a new vision of Europe in the postcolonial present could look like.

This book examines the role of colonial heritage in European memory politics and heritage diplomacy. It will be of interest to academics and students working in the fields of heritage and memory studies, colonial and imperial history, European studies, sociology, cultural studies, development studies, museum studies, and contemporary art.

Political Communication in the Time of Coronavirus

Edited by Peter Van Aelst and Jay G. Blumler, University of Maryland

This book examines how the COVID-19 pandemic impacted the flows of communication between politicians, journalists and citizens. Distinguished contributors grapple with how the pandemic, as a global unexpected event, disrupted the communication process and changed the relationships between politics, media, and publics, the three central players of political communication. Using different methodologies, they scrutinize changes in government communication, (new) media coverage, and public opinion in various countries during this crisis. It is an ideal text for advanced students and scholars of political communication, political science, and media studies.

The Production of Global Web Series in a Networked Age

Guy Healy

This book tells the story of diverse online creators—women, ethnic and racial minorities, queer folk and those from hardscrabble backgrounds—producing low budget, high cultural impact web-series which have disrupted longstanding white male domination of the film and TV industries. Covering 2005-2021, the book reveals distinctive new forms of screen industry convergence with profound implications for creators' careers, the screen industry in general, new media theory, and broader cultural and social change. It is essential reading for students, academics and industry professionals working on the production and distribution of web series.

Art Criticism and Modernism in the United States

Stephen Moonie

Series: Routledge Research in Art History

This study is an analysis of the high point and subsequent decline of modernist criticism in New York during the 1960s. Through a close reading of a selection of key critics of the period – which will expand the remit beyond the canonical texts – the book examines the ways that modernist criticism's discourse remains of especial disciplinary interest.

Despite its alleged narrowness and exclusion, the debate of the 1960s raised fundamental questions concerning the nature of art writing. Those include arguments around the nature of value and judgement; the relationship between art criticism and art history; and the related problem of what we mean by the 'contemporary.'

Illustration in Fin-de-Siècle Transatlantic Romance Fiction

Kate Holterhoff

Series: British Art: Histories and Interpretations since 1700

This book examines illustrations created to accompany fictions written by several of the most popular authors published in Britain and America between 1885 and 1920.

By studying the lavish illustrations that complemented not only initial serializations, but also subsequent publications of fictions by H. Rider Haggard, Rudyard Kipling, James De Mille, Robert Louis Stevenson, and H.G. Wells, the book demonstrates the significance of images to the fin de siècle romance form.

Okinawan Women's Stories of Migration

From War Brides to Issei

Johanna Zulueta, Soka University, Japan

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

The phenomenon of "war brides" from Japan moving to the West has been quite widely discussed, but this book tells the stories of women whose lives followed a rather different path after they married foreign occupiers. During Okinawa's Occupation by the Allies from 1945-1952, many Okinawan women met and had relationships with non-Western men who were stationed in Okinawa as soldiers and base employees. Most of these men were from the Philippines.

This book will be of interest to scholars looking at gender and migration, cross-cultural marriages, ageing and migration, as well as those interested in East Asia, particularly Japan/Okinawa.

Participatory Community Inquiry in the Opioid Epidemic

A New Approach for Communities in Crisis

Craig T. Maier, Duquesne University, USA

Series: Routledge Focus on Communication Studies

This book explores a research project focused on finding a community-level response to the opioid epidemic. Grounded in communication ethics, appreciative inquiry, and action research, this book contends that the opioid epidemic in the United States is as much a social disease as it is a pharmaceutical one, arising from a lack of social connection and "communal literacy". Shaping the conversation on how communities may be rediscovered and rebuilt, this book will be a key resource for researchers, practitioners, and students in communication studies, sociology, and action research interested in social ethics and community development and organizing.

Photography and Political Repressions in Stalin's Russia

Defacing the Enemy

Denis Skopin

Series: Routledge History of Photography

This book is devoted to the phenomenon of removal of people declared "public enemies" from group photographs in Stalin's Russia.

The book is based on long-term empirical research in Russian archives and includes 57 photographs that are exceptional in terms of historical interest: all these images bear traces of editing in the form of various marks, such as blacking-out, excisions or scratches. The illustrative materials also include a group of photographs with inscriptions left by officers of Stalin's secret police, the NKVD. To approach this extensive visual material, Denis Skopin draws on a wealth of Stalin-era written sources: memoirs, diaries and official documents.

Quality Telefantasy

How US Quality TV Brought Zombies, Dragons and Androids into the Mainstream

Andrew Lynch, Swinburne University of Technology

Series: Routledge Advances in Television Studies

This book explores the relatively new genre of 'Quality Telefantasy' and how it has broadened TV taste cultures by legitimating and mainstreaming fantastical content, demonstrating how its rising popularity marks a distinct and significant development in what kinds of TV are culturally dominant and critically regarded. It argues that Quality Telefantasy series should be considered a part of the larger Quality TV super-genre, and that its impact on the global TV landscape warrants further investigation as it continues to evolve. This is a valuable text for students and scholars studying or undertaking research in the areas of television studies, new media and pop cultural studies.

The Influence of Italian Culture on the Sevillian Golden Age of Painting

Rafael Japón

Series: Visual Culture in Early Modernity

This book explores the cultural exchange between Italy and Spain in the seventeenth century, examining Spanish collectors' predilection for Italian painting and Spanish painters' Italian influences.

Focused on collecting and using a novel methodology, this volume studies how the painters of the Sevillian school, including Francisco Pacheco, Diego Velázquez, Alonso Cano and Bartolomé Esteban Murillo, perceived and were influenced by Italian painting. Through many examples, it is shown how the presence in Andalusia of various works and copies of artists such as Michelangelo, Caravaggio, and Guido Reni inspired famous compositions by these Spanish artists.

The Performance of Sculpture in Renaissance Venice

Lorenzo G. Buonanno, University of Massachusetts, Boston

Series: Routledge Research in Art History

This study reveals the broad material, devotional, and cultural implications of sculpture in Renaissance Venice. Examining a wide range of sources—the era's art-theoretical and devotional literature, guidebooks and travel diaries, and artworks in various media—Lorenzo Buonanno recovers the sculptural values permeating a city most famous for its painting. The book traces the interconnected phenomena of audience response, display and thematization of sculptural bravura, and artistic self-fashioning.

Sculpture Workshops as Space and Concept

Creating the Portrait

Edited by Jane Fejfer and Kristine Bøggild Johannsen

Series: Routledge Research in Art History

This book explores the multifaceted aspects of sculptor's workshops from the Renaissance to the early nineteenth century.

Contributors take a fresh look at the sculptor's workshop as both a physical and discursive space. By studying some of the most prominent artists' sculptural practices, the workshop appears as a multifaceted, sociable and practical space. The book creates a narrative in which the sculptural workshop appears as a working laboratory where new measuring techniques, new materials and new instruments were tested and became part of the lived experience of the artist and central to the works coming into being.

The Return of Cultural Heritage to Latin America

Nationalism, Policy, and Politics in Colombia, Mexico, and Peru

Pierre Lossouarn, Worked in French cultural centers in Mexico City and Lima for ten years.

Series: Routledge Studies in Heritage

The Return of Cultural Heritage to Latin America takes a new approach to the question of returns and restitutions. It is the first publication to look at the domestic politics of claiming countries in order to understand who supports the claims and why.

The Return of Cultural Heritage to Latin America argues that return claims ought to be the object of public debate, allowing contemporary societies to address the legacy of colonialism. The book will be essential reading for scholars and students engaged in the study of museums and heritage, political science, history, anthropology, cultural policy and Latin America.

Transmedia Practices in the Long Nineteenth Century

Edited by Christina Meyer, Freie Universität of Berlin, Germany and Monika Pietrzak-Franger, University of Vienna, Austria

Series: Routledge Advances in Transmedia Studies

This volume provides engaging accounts with transmedia practices in the long-nineteenth century and offers model analyses of Victorian media alongside the technological, economic, and cultural conditions under which they emerged in the Anglophone world. The book brings together methods and theories from comics studies, communication and media studies, English and American studies, narratology and more, and proposes fresh ways to think about transmediality. This book will resonate both with students, teachers and scholars working on transmedia studies, as well as non-academic readers interested in how media contents are produced, disseminated, and consumed, and with what implications.

The Traveling Minzu

Uyghur Muslim Migration and the Negotiation of Identities

Mei Ding

Based on Uyghur business migrants' everyday experiences, this book investigates how individuals embody and deploy minzu, one of the fundamental concepts in Chinese political and socio-economic discourses after 1949 in China and how this concept travels to Australia with the migrants. This book will be appealing to social and cultural anthropologists and university students who are interested in China, ethnicity and transnational migration between China and the South Pacific.

Visual Culture and the Forensic

Culture, Memory, Ethics

David Houston Jones, University of Exeter UK

Series: Routledge Advances in Art and Visual Studies

David Houston Jones builds a bridge between practices conventionally understood as forensic, such as crime scene investigation, and the broader field of activity which the forensic now designates, for example performance and installation art, as well as photography. Contemporary work in these areas responds both to forensic evidence, including crime scene photography, and to some of the assumptions underpinning its consumption.

Cartooning China

Punch, Power, & Politics in the Victorian Era

Amy Matthewson

This book explores the series of cartoons of China and the Chinese that were published in the popular British satirical magazine Punch over a sixty-year period from 1841-1901. Filled with political metaphors and racial stereotypes, these illustrations served as a powerful tool in both reflecting and shaping notions and attitudes towards China at a tumultuous time in Sino-British history. A close reading of both the visual and textual satires in Punch reveals how a section of the British society visualised and negotiated with China as well as Britain's position in the global community.

Telling Details

Chinese Fiction, World Literature

Jiwei Xiao

Series: Literary Criticism and Cultural Theory

This book intensifies the dialogue between Chinese fiction and world literature by focusing on a common literary idiom, the detail. Noting how the detail plays a crucial role in evoking the poetics of realism across genres and cultural contexts, the book analyzes a key series of Chinese fictional works from centuries past to trace a long and distinctive tradition of detail-driven literary writing.

Literature and the Critics

Developing Responses to Texts

Richard Jacobs

This volume presents extracts from around 200 leading literary critics of the last several decades. Structured chronologically, this book presents illuminating examples of critical readings of familiar texts, demonstrating a variety of methods and approaches to critical practice. The range of critical voices represented provides students with eloquent and insightful models of how to read, think and write about texts so that they can form their own critical responses and develop as independent readers. Literature and the Critics is a book which students will want to return to throughout their courses as they read more widely and encounter new texts and critical voices.

African-Caribbean Women Interrogating Diaspora/Post-Diaspora

Edited by Suzanne Scafe, London South Bank University and Leith Dunn, The University of the West Indies in Jamaica

This anthology originated as papers presented at a conference held in London, July 2018, entitled "Caribbean Women (Post) Diaspora: African-Caribbean Interconnections". The chapters focus on issues of women's agency and on the potential for transformation produced by the experience of migration and the networks and communities fashioned by African-Caribbean women in diasporic spaces.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal, African and Black Diaspora

Biofictions

Literary and Visual Imagination in the Age of Biotechnology

Series: Routledge Focus on Literature

Biofictions introduces three novel concepts: 'biofiction,' 'biomagination,' and 'biodiscourse' to talk about intersections of literary and visual texts and biotechnology. Syncretic connection between biotechnology and literature is especially evident in an open science movement and a literary artistic genre of biopunk, discussed across chapters. This book argues that coming up with possible alterations for the genetic code or intended traits for the organism is a discursive practice that brings into being bio-narratives that are both organic and literary.

Pregnant Bodies from Shakespeare to Ford

A Phenomenology of Pregnancy in English Early Modern Drama

Katarzyna Burzyńska

Series: Routledge Studies in Literature and Health Humanities

Pregnant Bodies from Shakespeare to Ford explores how the pregnant body is portrayed, perceived and enacted in Shakespeare's and his contemporaries' drama by means of a phenomenological analysis and a recourse to early modern popular medical discourse on reproduction. This book provocatively argues that fictional characters' experience reflects tangible realities of early modern women, while often deflecting the scientific consensus on reproduction in the period.

Shakespeare and Emotional Expression

Finding Feeling through Colour

Series: Routledge Studies in Shakespeare

Shakespeare and Emotional Expression offers an exciting new way of considering emotional transactions in Shakespearean drama. The book is significant in its scope and originality as it uses the innovative medium of colour terms and references to interrogate the early modern emotional register. Through its examination of the nexus between the history of emotions and the social and cultural uses of colour in early modern drama, Shakespeare and Emotional Expression adds to our understanding of the expressive and affective possibilities in Shakespearean drama.

The Figure of the Child in WWI American, British, and Canadian Children's Literature

Farmer, Tailor, Soldier, Spy

Series: Children's Literature and Culture

Over the past century, much attention has been paid to the literature written for adults in response to the First World War, but there has been comparatively little consideration of how the war influenced literature for young readers at the time. In its discussion of nearly 150 primary sources from Britain, Canada, and the United States, this volume considers some well-known texts but also brings to light forgotten children's literature of the era, providing new insights into how WWI was presented to the young people whose lives were indelibly impacted by the crisis.

The Poems of Robert Browning: Volume Five

The Ring and the Book, Books 1-6

Edited by John Woolford, University of Manchester, UK, Daniel Karlin, University of Bristol, UK and Joseph Phelan, De Montfort University, UK.

Series: Longman Annotated English Poets

This edition does full justice to the scope and depth of Browning's achievement. The headnote gives the most accurate and detailed account yet presented of the poem's composition, publication, sources, and reception, making use of hitherto unpublished letters and textual material. In addition to giving readers help, where needed, with historical and linguistic comprehension, the notes track Browning's formidable range of allusion, from the most erudite to the most vulgar. The aim is to enable readers not just to understand the poem as an object

The Routledge Companion to Literature and Emotion

Edited by Patrick Colm Hogan, University of Connecticut, USA, Bradley J. Irish and Lalita Pandit Hogan

Series: Routledge Literature Companions

It examines the range of emotions that play a special role in literature, including happiness, fear, aesthetic delight, empathy, and sympathy, as well as aspects of literature that bear on emotional response. It explores ethical and political concerns that are often intertwined with emotional response, including racism, colonialism, disability, ecology, gender, sexuality, and trauma. This is a crucial guide to the ways in which new, interdisciplinary understandings of emotion and affect - in fields from neuroscience to social theory - are changing the study of literature and of the ways those new understandings are impacted by work on literature also.

Discourse Analysis of Language and Literacy Events in Educational Settings

A Microethnographic Perspective

David Bloome, Stephanie Power-Carter, W. Douglas Baker, Maria Lucia Castanheira, Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais, Brazil, Minjeong Kim and Lindsey W. Rowe

This book provides a comprehensive introduction to the use of microethnographic discourse analysis for researching, theorizing, and reconceptualizing the uses of language and literacy in educational settings. The authors apply an ethnographic perspective to discourse analysis to emphasize how teachers and students use spoken and written language to construct knowledge, opportunities for learning, and social relationships. Microethnographic discourse analysis at different levels of scale can provide deeper understandings into the nuanced, complex social interactions and relationships that exist in and across educational contexts.

Language Incompetence

Learning to Communicate through Cancer, Disability, and Anomalous Embodiment

Suresh Canagarajah, Pennsylvania State University, USA

This book is framed as a memoir of the author's journey through a cancer diagnosis and resulting impairments, as he continued his teaching and research activities during and after medical procedures. The narrative weaves together theoretical debates, textual analyses, and ethnographic data from communicative practices to redefine language competence.

The book is intended for graduate students and researchers in language and literacy studies. It would interest scholars outside these disciplines to understand what language studies can offer to address the role of disabilities, impairments, and debilities in embodied communication and thinking.

Teaching and Learning in English Medium Instruction

An Introduction

Jack C Richards and Jack Pun, City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

The book contains a number of short chapters written in an accessible style with discussion questions and practical follow up tasks. Throughout the book, key theory and research serves to introduce the core issues involved in EMI, which are then explored in terms of implications for practice. The book can be used in workshops and courses and for groups that include EMI teachers of content subjects, EAP teachers, TESOL students, and teachers and education officials involved with the implementation of EMI in different contexts. With the expansion of EMI worldwide in recent years the book seeks to introduce EMI to a new generation of EMI teachers and language teaching professionals.

Language and Gesture in Chinese Conversation

Kawai Chui

Series: Routledge Studies in Chinese Discourse Analysis

The book is a study of quantitative-qualitative analysis of linguistic-gestural instances from conversations among adult native speakers of Taiwan Mandarin. As the linguistic and the gestural manifestations in natural discourse are examined together in the form of the simultaneous expression of meaning across modalities, more details about speech, gesture, cognition, and discourse can be revealed. The study will focus on representational gestures, the spontaneous manual configurations of which depict semantic information associated with the linguistic meanings of the same concrete or abstract concepts.

The Acoustic Self in English Modernism and Beyond

Writing Musically

Zoltan Varga, Western Norway University of Applied Sciences, Norway

Drawing on the analogy between musical meaning-making and human subjectivity, this book develops the concept of the acoustic self, exploring the ways in which musical characterization and structure are related to issues of subject-representation in the modernist English novel. The volume is framed around three musical topics—the fugue, absolute music, and Gesamtkunstwerk—arguing that these three modes of musicalization address modernist dilemmas around selfhood and identity. This book will appeal to scholars interested in the interface of language and music, in such areas as intermediality, multimodality, literary studies, critical theory, and modernist studies.

The Coherence of Linguistic Communities

Orderly Heterogeneity and Social Meaning

Edited by Karen V. Beaman, Eberhard Karls Universität Tübingen, Germany and Gregory R. Guy

Series: Routledge Studies in Sociolinguistics

This innovative collection brings together perspectives on the notions of 'orderly heterogeneity' and 'social meaning', shedding light on how structured variation and indexicalities of social meaning 'cohere' within linguistic communities. The book seeks to advance our understanding of the coherence of linguistic communities through empirical investigations of larger and more diverse sets of variables, language varieties, speech styles and communities, as afforded by the development of new methods and models in sociolinguistic research. The volume will be of interest to scholars in sociolinguistics, language variation and change, and formal linguistics.

The Discourse of Protest, Resistance and Social Commentary in Reggae Music

A Bakhtinian Analysis of Pacific Reggae

Elizabeth Turner, Auckland University of Technology, New Zealand

Series: Routledge Studies in Linguistics

This innovative investigation of the discourse of Pacific reggae in Aotearoa New Zealand produces a multi-faceted analysis of the dialogic relationships that construct meaning in this genre of popular music. Focussing on the music of the band Herbs, which has been recognised for its ground-breaking music and social commentary, the book demonstrates the striking compatibility between Bakhtin's theorisation of utterances as ethical acts and reggae music, along with the Rastafari philosophy that underpins it.

Currency Wars with China and Japan in Western Newsmagazines

Damien Ng

Series: Routledge Studies in Chinese Discourse Analysis

This book explores China's currency wars with its trading partners in four Western newsmagazines: Time, The Economist, L'Express, and Der Spiegel. Based on both quantitative and qualitative approaches, the interdisciplinary approach adopted in the research draws on two analytical frameworks from the realm of critical discourse analysis; van Leeuwen's socio-semantic inventory of social-actor representation, and van Dijk's concepts of macro-rules as the overarching approaches to understand the changing dynamics of international relations and the global economy through Western media.

Choreography, Visual Art and Experimental Composition 1950s–1970s

Erin Brannigan, University of New South Wales

This book traces the history of engagements between dance and the visual arts in the mid-twentieth century, and provides a backdrop for the emerging field of contemporary, intermedial art practice. Exploring the disciplinary identity of dance in dialogue with the visual arts, this book unpacks how dance-based compositional methods informed visual art contexts. It provokes fresh consideration of the entangled relationship between, and historiographic significance of, visual arts and dance by exploring movements in history that dance has been traditionally mapped to and the specific practices and innovations from key people in the field.

Edited by Kate Bredeson

The Diaries of Judith Malina, 1958–1971 collects the diaries of Judith Malina—artist, activist, and lifelong diarist—from a seismic period of her life and a formative era for her company with The Living Theatre. This book is part of scholar Kate Bredeson's larger project to gather, edit, and introduce Malina's unpublished diaries. Bredeson includes a significant critical introduction that situates Malina's legacy in theatre history, discusses the influence of her theatre, examines the genre of diary-keeping, and spotlights Malina's work as an artist, activist, and diarist.

The Male Dancer

Bodies, Spectacle, Sexualities

Ramsay Burt, De Montfort University, UK

This revised third edition of The Male Dancer updates and enlarges a seminal book that has established itself as the definitive study of the performance of masculinities in twentieth century modernist and contemporary choreography. By reflecting on the latest studies in theory, performance, and practice, Burt has thoroughly updated this important book to include dance works from the last ten years and has renewed its timeliness for the 2020s.

Mixing Pop and Politics

Political Dimensions of Popular Music in the 21st Century

Edited by Catherine Hoad, Mase University Wellington, New Zealand, Geoff Stahl, Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand and Oli Wilson, Mase University Wellington, New Zealand

The political has always been part of popular music, but how does that play out in today's musical and political landscape? Mixing Pop and Politics: Political Dimensions of Popular Music in the 21st Century provides an innovative exploration of the complex politics of popular music in its contemporary formations. Amid the shifting paradigms of power in the 2010s, the chapters in this book go beyond the idea of popular music as protest to explore how resistance, subversion, containment, and reconciliation all interact in the popular music realm.

Focus: Gamelan Music of Indonesia

Henry Spiller, University of California, Davis, USA and Elizabeth A. Clendinning

Series: Focus on World Music Series

Focus: Gamelan Music of Indonesia, Third Edition, introduces the emblematic music of Southeast Asia's largest country, as sound and as cultural phenomenon, highlighting the significant role gamelan music plays in the national culture while teaching of Indonesian values and modern-day life. Despite Indonesia's great diversity—a melting pot of indigenous, Hindu, Buddhist, Islamic, Portuguese, Dutch, British, and modern global influences—a forged national identity is at its core. This volume explores that identity, understanding present-day Javanese, Balinese, Cirebonese, and Sundanese gamelan music through ethnic, social, cultural, and global perspectives.

DIY House Shows and Music Venues in the US

Ethnographic Explorations of Place and Community

David Verbuč

Series: SOAS Studies in Music

DIY House Shows and Music Venues in the US is an interdisciplinary study of house concerts and other DIY ('do-it-yourself') music venues in the US, such as warehouses, all-ages clubs and guerrilla shows, with its primary focus on West Coast American DIY locales.

Focusing on DIY houses, music venues, social spaces, and local and translocal cultural geographies, the author examines how American DIY communities constitute themselves in relation to their social and spatial environment. The ethnographic approach shows the inner-workings of American DIY culture, and how the particular people within particular places strive to achieve a social ideal of an "intimate" community.

Educating Musicians for Sustainability

Anna Reid, The University of Sydney, Australia and Peter Petocz, The University of Sydney, Australia

Series: ISME Series in Music Education

Educating Musicians for Sustainability explores the intersections of sustainability and music, investigating how sustainability affects the development and professional preparation of musicians while asking the question, 'What does sustainability have to do with music?' The volume presents a series of case studies organised according to an expanded view of the 'four pillars of sustainability', addressing cultural, environmental, economic, and social concerns. These case studies reveal a multitude of intersections, highlighting the crucial role music can play in raising awareness and overcoming the crisis of sustainability.

Encounters with Jazz on Television in Cold War Era Portugal

1954-1974

Pedro Cravinho, Birmingham City University, UK

Series: Transnational Studies in Jazz

Encounters with Jazz on Television in Cold War Era Portugal: 1954-1974 explores the relationship between jazz and television by investigating the experiences of performers and producers in one of the last European colonial states (Portugal) during a period of political and social repression and global isolation. This new model of systemic analysis reveals a paradoxical interrelationship between state-controlled television and international media industries, highlighting the space where these two forces collide and locating television jazz production within an important cultural milieu with a lasting impact on Portuguese society.

Jazz in Socialist Hà Nội

Improvisations between Worlds

Stan BH Tan-Tangbau, VinUniversity Project, Vietnam, Luu Quang Minh, Vietnam National Academy of Music and Quynh Thien Đắc, Vietnam National Academy of Music

Series: Transnational Studies in Jazz

Jazz in Socialist Hà Nội: Improvisations between Worlds examines the germination and growth of jazz under communist rule—perceived as the "music of the enemy" and "ideologically decadent"—in the Vietnamese capital of Hà Nội. After disappearing from the scene in 1954 following the end of the First Indochina War, jazz reemerged in the public sphere decades later at the end of the Cold War. Since then, Hà Nội has established itself as a vital and vibrant jazz center. Featuring interviews with principal players involved in cultivating the scene, this book presents the sociocultural encounters between musicians and the larger powers enmeshed in the broader political economy.

Music Psychology

Series: Classic European Studies in the Science of Music

The first edition of Ernst Kurth's Musikpsychologie appeared in 1931, and was regarded as no less than the foundation for a new 'systematic' music psychology (Wellek 1933). Music theorists regard him as an important figure in the history of music theory. This first full translation provides English-speaking theorists the opportunity to delve deeper into his ideas. Indeed, Kurth's concerns—listening habits and habituation, metaphorical language, the limits of memory, and the role of the body in music experience, to name a few—are shared by many in the field today, especially scholars who work at the intersections of music theory, psychology, and related disciplines.

Swedish Jazz in the United States

Swede and Cool

Mischa van Kan

Series: Transnational Studies in Jazz

Swedish Jazz in the United States: Swede and Cool traces and analyzes the dissemination and reception of jazz from Sweden in the United States during the period of 1947-1963. It maps the networks through which Swedish record companies exchanged recordings with their American counterparts, establishing an American interest in Swedish jazz at a time long regarded as a predominantly American era. Exploring these Swedish-American exchanges—rather than the canonized names in jazz—shines a light on new perspectives in the genre, clarifying the ways in which Swedish jazz was adapted to the American market and how it was understood in an American context.

Trends in World Music Analysis

New Directions in World Music Analysis

Edited by Lawrence Beaumont Shuster, Cornell University, USA, Somangshu Mukherji and Noé Dinnerstein

This volume brings together a group of analytical essays exploring traditional genres and styles of world music, capturing a vibrant and expanding field of research. These contributors, drawn from the forefront of researchers in world music analysis, seek to break down barriers and build bridges between scholarly disciplines, musical repertoires, and cultural traditions. Covering a wide range of genres, styles, and performers, the chapters bring to bear a variety of methodologies, including indigenous theoretical perspectives, Western music theory, and interdisciplinary techniques rooted in the cognitive and computational sciences.

Children's Interests, Inquiries and Identities

Curriculum, Pedagogy, Learning and Outcomes in the Early Years

Helen Hedges

Children's curiosity about their lives and worlds motivates many interests. Yet, adults often have fixed ideas about what children's interests are and have been criticised for trivialising children's interests. This book offers a critical and accessible engagement with research on children's interests that challenges us to move beyond surface level understandings.

Children's Interests, Inquiries, and Identities argues that the powerful relationship between interests and informal learning has been under-recognised and undervalued. The book proposes new principles for understanding children's learning.

Teacher Education and Play Pedagogy

International Perspectives

Edited by Eleni Loizou and Jeffrey Trawick-Smith

Series: Towards an Ethical Praxis in Early Childhood

Play holds a crucial role in early childhood education in relation to its importance as a context and a teaching practice for the support of children's learning and development. This book focuses on how to prepare teachers for supporting play and ensuring young children gain the maximum benefit from it, examining both the roles that teachers can fulfil in this capacity, and how teacher educators can incorporate this into teacher preparation. Drawing on theories such as improvisation, narrative form and play-responsive teaching, this book explores the potential for teacher involvement in play and how to prepare them for this professionally, as well as developing their own play skills.

The Theory and Practice of Voice in Early Childhood

An International Exploration

Lorna Arnott, University of Strathclyde, UK and Kate Wall, University of Strathclyde, UK

Seeing young children as competent and capable social actors, Theory and Practice of Voice in Early Childhood looks at how we can better understand young children's perspectives. Drawing on the 'Look Who's Talking' project, it focuses on the eight talking point posters: voice; democracy; culture; listen with purpose; space and place; skills and tools; enable and build capacity to help readers critically reflect on what voice means to them and for the children with which they work.

Learning to Live with Datafication

Educational Case Studies and Initiatives from Across the World

Edited by Luci Pangrazio, Monash University, Australia and Julian Sefton-Green, Deakin University, Australia

Teaching students about data is becoming increasingly important to the wider purposes of schooling and education around the world. Bringing together international case studies of innovative responses to datafication, this book sets an agenda for how teachers, students and policy makers can best understand what kind of educational intervention works and why. It examines how different educators conceptualise the social implications of datafication and what is at stake for learners and citizens as educational institutions try to define what datafication will mean for the next generation.

Makerspaces, Innovation and Science Education

How, Why, and What For?

Michael Tan, National Institute of Education, Singapore

This book provides an overview to a range of theories in science and technology that inform the different ways in which makerspaces - indispensable sites for Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) instruction - can be educative. Educators are likely to reach towards activities that have a high degree of engagement, but this might result in observations like "it looks like fun, but what are they learning?" This book will be useful to graduate students and educators seeking an expansive view of STEM education. More generally, these ideas outline a possible new strategy for a vision of school that is not merely training or preparing students for work.

Teacher Learning of Ambitious and Equitable Mathematics Instruction

A Sociocultural Approach

Ilana Horn, Vanderbilt University, USA and Brette Garner, University of Denver, USA

Series: Studies in Mathematical Thinking and Learning Series

Drawing on sociocultural learning theory, this book offers a groundbreaking theory of secondary mathematics teacher learning in schools, focusing on the transformation of instruction as a conceptual change project to achieve ambitious and equitable mathematics teaching. By theorizing teacher learning from a sociocultural perspective, the authors make a unique contribution to the field of teacher learning. This book offers researchers, scholars, and teacher educators new theoretical and methodological tools for the elusive phenomenon of teacher learning, and provides instructional leaders and coaches with practical examples of how teachers shift their thinking and practice.

Creating the Global Classroom

Approaches to Developing the Next Generation of World Savvy Students

Laurence Peters, Johns Hopkins University

The book examines how to begin to think like a global educator first by examining how our own histories and experiences have formed our own cultural and professional identities and second how the varied frames by which global education can be understood, pedagogical, ideological and cosmopolitan have shaped the field. Laurence Peters connects theory and practice about global education relevant to cultivating global awareness in primary and secondary students. Rather than seeing global education as a special field separate from the other disciplines the author encourages integration of global perspectives into everything we do.

The Psychology of Mathematics

A Journey of Personal Mathematical Empowerment for Educators and Curious Minds

Anderson Norton, Virginia Tech, USA

This book offers an innovative introduction to the psychological basis of mathematics and the nature of mathematical thinking and learning, using an approach that empowers students by fostering their own construction of mathematical structures. Including reflections and activities designed to inspire awareness of the mental actions and processes coordinated in practicing mathematics, the book is geared towards current and future secondary and elementary mathematics teachers who will empower the next generation of mathematicians and STEM majors. Those interested in the history and philosophy that underpins mathematics will also benefit from this book.

Epistemic Colonialism and the Transfer of Curriculum Knowledge across Borders

Applying a Historical Lens to Contest Unilateral Logics

Edited by Weili Zhao, Chinese University of Hong Kong, China, Thomas S. Popkewitz, University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA and Tero Autio, University of Tampere, Finland

Series: Studies in Curriculum Theory Series

This volume uncovers the colonial epistemologies which have long dominated the transfer of curriculum knowledge within and across nation states, and demonstrates how a historical approach to uncovering epistemological colonialism can inform an alternative, relational mode of knowledge transfer and negotiation within curriculum studies research and praxis. This text will benefit researchers, academics, and educators with an interest in curriculum studies as well as the study of international and comparative education. Those interested in post-colonial discourses and the philosophy of education will also benefit from the volume.

Equipping Educators to Teach Religious Literacy

Lessons from a Teacher Education Program in the American South

Emile Lester, University of Mary Washington, USA and W. Y. Alice Chan, Centre for Civic Religious Literacy (CCRL)

Series: Routledge Research in Religion and Education

This volume provides a detailed evaluation of a unique education program implemented in secondary schools in Georgia to enhance teachers' religious literacy and their ability to promote this in schools and classrooms. The text demonstrates that religious literacy can be proactively taught, whilst also highlighting key considerations and tensions around religious liberty in the American South. This text will benefit researchers, academics, and educators with an interest in religious education, teacher education, and religious literacy more broadly. Those interested in the sociology of education, as well as diversity and religion in America, will also benefit from this volume.

Mentoring Geography Teachers in the Secondary School

A Practical Guide

Edited by Grace Healy, Lauren Hammond, University College London, UK, Steve Puttick and Nicola Walshe

Series: Mentoring Trainee and Early Career Teachers

This book supports both new and experienced mentors in developing their knowledge and skills in mentoring in geography education. Within the book, chapter authors critically consider how mentoring has been conceptualised and represented in policy and academic debate. This is a vital source of support and inspiration for all those involved in developing the next generation of geography teachers. The themes of justice, agency and voice - raised and engaged with throughout this edited collection - are of critical importance to mentors, beginning teachers and geography education more broadly in developing and enacting a progressive vision of mentoring.

Questioning Education

Moving from What and How to Why and Who

Sean Slade, Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, USA

In the post-pandemic world, how can we rethink the future of education as a system, process, and tradition to make lasting changes? This thought-provoking book by Sean Slade reminds us that education prepares students for their futures and yet is one of the industries that has changed the least over time. Slade asks us to move from our focus on education as a content-delivery system and instead reflect on its overarching purpose(s). He shows how we can shift our systems and our curriculum discussions away from beginning with the what and how, and instead start with the why and who

Teaching as Protest

Emancipating Classrooms Through Racial Consciousness

Robert S. Harvey and Susan Gonzowitz

Teaching as Protest explores how K-12 teachers can expand the boundaries of their profession with anti-oppressive, community-building pedagogies. This book provides historical and philosophical perspectives into liberatory instructional work, while offering tools whose modalities recognize identity and mindset, emphasizing schools that predominantly serve Black students. By moving beyond conventional tools and tasks such as standards, lesson-planning, and grade-team meetings and into more emancipatory, student-centered approaches, teachers can answer the call to a more just and radical demonstration of protest intended to disrupt oppression, racism, and bias.

The Flexible SEL Classroom

Practical Ways to Build Social Emotional Learning

Amber Chandler, Frontier Central School District, USA

Social emotional learning is more than just helping students be social. In this co-publication from Routledge and AMLE, Amber Chandler shows how middle and high school educators can be intentional about seeing their students for who they are, growing relationships, and building community.

This updated second edition features new chapters on running restorative circles and focusing on resilience instead of deficit analysis. There is also a special section with post pandemic takeaways, as we learn new ways to help students thrive.

Using Video to Develop Teaching

Niels Brouwer

The introduction of digital technology to video use has opened up new opportunities for raising the quality of teaching and learning. This book provides the first integrated account of how digital video can be used to develop teaching competence. It shows not only how using video can help teachers move towards more dialogic forms of teaching and learning, but also how such change benefits pupils' learning and behaviour. Based on extensive literature reviews this book provides an overview of "visual teacher learning" and summarises what is known about instructional improvements that teachers can achieve by engaging in it.

A Practical Resource for Understanding Anxiety and Implementing Self-Calming

Liz Bates

Series: My Brilliant Brain

This resource uses simple yet effective shared language for adults and children, allowing them to talk about anxiety, and taking away the shame and blame that children may experience in response to these emotions. It encourages sharing, allowing the feelings of worry and anxiety to become normalised and the child to feel more in control.

Designed for use alongside the storybook My and Me: Understanding Anxiety and Implementing Self-Calming, Teachers, support staff, therapists and parents will find this guidebook an indispensable tool in the process of helping children they interact with to feel a sense of self-determination and self-efficacy.

A Teacher's Guide to Curriculum Design for Gifted and Advanced Learners

Advanced Content Models for Differentiating Curriculum

Tamra Stambaugh, Whitworth University, USA and Emily Mofield, Lipscomb University, USA

A Teacher's Guide to Curriculum Design for Gifted and Advanced Learners provides educators with models and strategies they can easily use to create appropriately complex differentiated lessons, questions, tasks, and projects. The models have been vetted by content experts in the relevant disciplines and were designed to guide students to develop expertise within a discipline. Definitions of widely used terms, such as depth, complexity, and abstractness, are explained and linked to models within specific content areas to support common understanding and application of schoolwide differentiation strategies.

Personalized Learning in Gifted Education

Differentiated Instruction That Maximizes Students' Potential

Todd Kettler, Baylor University, USA and Cheryl Taliaferro, Texas A&M-Commerce, USA

This book helps educators develop the specific talents of the gifted students they serve; includes a yearlong plan for professional learning communities seeking to transform their programs; demonstrates how educators can utilize the wealth of data they have at their disposal; provides a rationale and blueprint for a stronger, more personalized approach to gifted education; and offers suggestions for both elementary and secondary schools. Recommendations center around five features of personalized learning: personalized learning plans, project- or problem-based learning, competency-based progression through the curriculum, criterion-referenced assessments, and multiyear mentoring.

Ruby, Rafa and Riz: Understanding Behaviour and Emotions

Liz Bates

Series: Feel, Think Do with Ruby, Rafa and Riz: A Storybook and Guide for Understanding Behaviour and Emotions

This children's storybook tells the story of Ruby, Rafa and Riz as each child has an experience that affects them. Their teacher who knows nothing of these events, notices the behaviour of each child which leads to him asking how they are feeling and what they are thinking, enabling each child to talk about their emotions and so helping the adult to understand their behaviour.

When used alongside the practical guidebook, this unique and engaging story enables all those working directly with children to support their development, allowing children to become strong enough and secure enough to meet the challenges of life and learning.

Structured Literacy Interventions

Teaching Students with Reading Difficulties, Grades K-6

Edited by Stephanie Al Otaiba and Jill H. Allor

Structured literacy (SL) approaches place a high value on explicit, systematic, and sequential instruction. This book brings together leading experts on key components of literacy to help teachers design and target SL interventions for particular student profiles. Chapters identify effective features of instruction for supporting phonological awareness, basic and multisyllabic word decoding, spelling, reading fluency, vocabulary, oral and reading comprehension, and written expression, especially for at-risk readers and those with disabilities. Including case studies, sample intervention activities, lesson plans, and application activities, the book contains downloadable reproducible tools.

The Silent Selkie

A Storybook to Support Children and Young People Who Have Experienced Trauma

Juliette Ttofa, Specialist Educational Psychologist, United Kingdom.

Beautifully illustrated and sensitively written, The Silent Selkie uses the metaphor of trauma as a 'hidden wound', which in reality is an emotional or psychological pain that needs both acknowledgement and expression, within the context of a safe, supportive environment, in which to begin to heal.

This book encourages young people who may have adverse childhood experiences or trauma to develop greater understanding of how this can affect them and is ideal reading for those working with vulnerable children and young people seeking to use the expressive arts to develop greater emotional literacy in children with a background of trauma.

Using the Expressive Arts with Children and Young People Who Have Experienced Trauma

A Pocket Guide

Juliette Ttofa, Specialist Educational Psychologist, United Kingdom.

This guide has been written to accompany the book The Silent Selkie, a children's story about trauma and offers gentle, creative ways for adults to work with children and young people who have faced adverse childhood experiences. This guidebook explores the themes of the story and offers guidance to the adult as they use expressive arts to give the child or young person a way to process their emotional experiences. This is an ideal tool for adults working with children who have experienced trauma, such as SENDCos, teachers, teaching assistants and family support workers.

Identifying and Serving Diverse Gifted Learners

Meeting the Needs of Special Populations in Gifted Education

Edited by Jaime A. Castellano, Florida Atlantic University, USA and Kimberley L. Chandler, University of Virginia, USA

Grounded in a combination of evidence, personal narratives, interviews, data, and research, Identifying and Serving Diverse Gifted Learners: Meeting the Needs of Special Populations in Gifted Education is a guiding resource for all stakeholder groups in gifted education to shift the equity needle of gifted programs in America. This text serves as a beacon to motivate K-12 educators, researchers, and scholars to carry the torch of advocacy on behalf of those students historically underrepresented in programs for the gifted and talented.

A Turning Point for Chinese Higher Education

Developing Hybrid Education at Tsinghua University

Edited by Hamish Coates, Tsinghua University, China, Yu Zhang, Tsinghua University, Manli Li, Tsinghua University, China and Zhou Zhong, Tsinghua University, China

Series: Asian Higher Education Outlook

This book explores how a major Chinese university pivoted to hybrid online and campus education as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, and the implications of this 'turning point' for Chinese higher education, and also for higher education globally. It looks at how the prolonged disruption has impacted the design of future hybrid arrangements for university teaching. Articulating Tsinghua's standing in China and the world, and its contribution to technology and education, this unique research will be of profound interest to students and academics in higher education and education policy and practice, as well as policy experts and higher education leaders around the world.

Learning Animals

Curriculum, Pedagogy and Becoming a Veterinarian

Nadine Dolby, Purdue University, USA

Instead of teachers, society considers veterinarians to be the primary experts about animals. Despite this, the field of education knows very little about veterinary education. What do veterinarians learn in veterinary school? What experiences shape their perceptions of animals? How do the structures, curriculum, and pedagogies of veterinary colleges shape these experiences? This book opens this conversation through the complicated, fascinating stories of a cohort of veterinary students. It shows how what veterinarians learn through their studies influences and shapes how humans relate to animals.

The Impact of the Integrated Practitioner in Higher Education

Studies in Third Space Professionalism

Edited by Emily McIntosh and Diane Nutt

This book redefines integrated practice in higher education. It explores the rationale for championing blended/integrated practitioners and uses a narrative case study approach to uncover the value, identities and impact of these individuals who work across institutional boundaries to promote interdisciplinarity as well as staff and student success. Carefully chosen contributors from across the globe showcase the importance of developing blended professionalism as a way of future-proofing HE leadership, strategy and outcomes. This is must-read material for anyone interested in the future of higher education.

Transformative Learning Theory and Praxis

New Perspectives and Possibilities

Edited by Effrosyni Kostara, Andreas Gavrielatos and Daphne Loads, University of Edinburgh

Examining the multi-faced nature of transformative learning theory – its merits, restrictions and possibilities, this book presents carefully chosen international case studies that enrich the application of the theory within a wide variety of educational settings. Structured into two parts: new theoretical approaches to transformative learning theory and practical approaches; it uses current research coupled with examples and teaching approaches from a variety of settings including higher education and staff development to bridge the gap between theory and practice. This is a must-read text for any interested in the research behind, and applications of, transformative learning theory.

Voices from Women Leaders on Success in Higher Education

Pipelines, Pathways, and Promotion

Edited by Barbara Cozza, St. John's University, USA and Cecelia Parnter, St. John's University, USA

Drawn from research and the lived experiences of women and non-binary people in higher education leadership, this text serves as a guide to understanding the gender disparity in higher education leadership and how women leaders forge pathways to promotion and success through systemic barriers, obstacles, and a lack of representation.

Focusing on a bridge from theory to practice that is designed to empower and inspire women leaders at all levels of the spectrum, this book is ideal reading for higher education scholars, students, and faculty aspiring to become leaders.

Decolonising the Neoliberal University

Law, Psychoanalysis and the Politics of Student Protest

Edited by Jaco Barnard-Naude

Taking the postcolonial – or, more specifically, the post-apartheid – university as its focus, the book focuses on the violence and the trauma of the global neoliberal hegemony. Following a primarily psychoanalytic line of enquiry, it engages a range of disciplines – law, philosophy, literature, gender studies, cultural studies, and political economy – in order better to understand the conditions of possibility of an emancipatory, or decolonised, higher education. And this in the context of both the inter-generational transmission of the trauma of colonialism, on the one hand, and, on the other, the trauma of neoliberal subjectivity in the postcolonial university.

Gendering the First-in-Family Experience

Transitions, Liminality, Performativity

Garth Stahl and Sarah McDonald

Series: Routledge Research in Higher Education

This book explores and analyses the gendered and classed subjectivities of 48 Australian students in the First-in-Family Project serving as a fresh perspective to the study of youth in transition. Drawing on liminality to provide theoretical insight, the authors focus on how they engage in multiple overlapping and mutually informing transitions into and from higher education, the family and service work. While studies of class disadvantage and widening participation in higher education remain robust, there is considerably less work addressing the gendered experiences of first-in-family students.

International Student Mobility to and from the Middle East

Theorizing Public, Institutional, and Self-Constructions of Cross-Border Students

Edited by Aneta Hayes, Keele University, UK and Sally Findlow, Keele University, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Global Student Mobility

This volume investigates how international students in and from the Middle East are constructed by nations, institutions, other students, and themselves. Making a valuable contribution to understanding the nuances and complexities of educational politics and priorities affecting these constructions, the text considers the broader impacts of discourse on internationalisation. This timely volume will benefit researchers, academics, and educators with an interest in higher education, international and comparative education, as well as the Middle East more specifically.

Philosophical Mentoring in Qualitative Research

Collaborating and Inquiring Together

Edited by Kelly W. Guyotte and Jennifer R. Wolgemuth

This book looks at the ways that mentoring relationships can become a practice of philosophy. By looking at mentoring experiences and relationships through a new materialist framework, the chapters highlight the intrinsically relational nature of mentoring. Through that relationality, mentoring practices can disrupt and push against hierarchies, boundaries, normativity, authority and power. This is increasingly important as mentoring roles come to prominence in a neoliberal academic environment. Suitable for students and researchers in qualitative research and higher education interested in mentoring practice and humanistic research values.

Reclaiming Lives from Sexual Violence

Understanding Shame through Innovative Narrative Therapy

Tim Donovan, Australia and Dale Johns, Australia

This book demonstrates an innovative approach to using narrative therapy in counselling people who have been subject to childhood sexual abuse. Unique in its approach, it presents an illustrative case of the authors, Tim the therapist in consultation with Dale the client, who was sexually abused as a child by a clergy member. Looking at shame from a position of value awareness, this book extends counselling to consider the individual experience as political; to be shared outside the one-to-one therapy environment in order to challenge the dominant social discourse around masculinity and shame.

How to Publish in Biological Sciences

John Measey

This book is a guide specifically for Early Career Researchers on how to publish in the Biological Sciences, whether that be your first manuscript or if you're already experienced. Following on from How to Write a PhD in Biological Sciences, it guides you through taking your manuscript to publication in peer-reviewed journals and disseminating your research more broadly. It also explores the challenges in the academic community around Open Access and other debates, including transparency, overlay journals, paywalls, publication bias, predatory journals, and the dangers of bullying.

System Failure: Policy and Practice in the School to Prison Pipeline

Edited by Patricia Burch

Series: Critical Social Thought

This book provides a framework for understanding the ways in which education policy across organizational settings contributes to the school to prison pipeline, as documented in the literature and as observed by authors in empirical studies of justice involved youth in regular public schools, juvenile court schools, probation settings, and alternative schools. The book is intended for educators, students, policymakers and practitioners interested in a comprehensive introduction to the policy issues as well as advocates doing serious work on the issues.

Confronting Institutionalized Racism in Higher Education

Counternarratives for Racial Justice

Dianne Ramdeholl, SUNY Empire State College and Jaye Jones, Lehman College, CUNY

This book chronicles the experiences of faculty at predominantly white higher education institutions (PWI) by centering voices of racialized faculty across North America. Drawing on Critical Race Theory and critical, feminist, and auto-ethnographic approaches, the text analyzes narratives, situating people's words in a landscape of institutionalized racism within higher education. In order to support newer under-represented faculty, administrators committed to supporting faculty, and doctoral students interested in a future in higher education, the book offers strategies and implications for institutional reform and anti-racist faculty organizing/survival in academia.

Teacher Retention in an Age of Performative Accountability

Target Culture and the Discourse of Disappointment

Jane Perryman

In this insightful and timely volume, Jane Perryman provides a definitive reference on the crisis in teacher recruitment and retention and a critique of the culture of hyper-accountability in education, bringing together theory, literature, and empirical data. Drawing on data across several long-term research projects and through a theoretical framework based on Foucault, Perryman makes a significant contribution to our understanding of the effects of accountability and performativity mechanisms in schools, and insight into why so many teachers leave, a work that will be important to scholars, teacher educators, and policymakers alike.

This book provides justification and instruction for exploring philosophy with children, especially by using picture books to initiate philosophical discussion. This volume highlights how philosophical dialogue enhances children's sense of self, provides a safe space for the discussion of issues that they are confronted with in living their lives, and develops an admirable method for resolving conflict that the children can use in other contexts.

Consent in the Childhood Classroom

Centering Student Voices Across Early Years and Elementary Education
Clio Stearns

Consent in the Childhood Classroom challenges typical premises of social and emotional learning, self-regulation, and putative misbehavior by centering the theme of consent in the experiences of young children and their teachers. Posing complex yet relatable questions about the presumptions of authority, positivity, and routines in learning environments, and drawing on classroom anecdotes along with interviews with children and teachers, this book offers an accessible approach to cultivating expansive relationships in the classroom, a vision for a richer and more mutual education, and a clearer understanding of what school means from the perspective of the child.

2nd Edition · TEXTBOOK · READER

Educating African American Students

And How Are the Children?

Gloria Swindler Boutte, University of South Carolina, USA

This straight-forward and reader-friendly text provides strategies for P-12 educators who are interested in ensuring the cultural and academic excellence of African American students. It presents a careful balance of published scholarship, a framework for culturally relevant teaching, and research-based cases of teachers who excel at teaching Black children. Examples from multi-ethnic teachers across P-12 grades and content areas (e.g., ELA, science, mathematics, social studies, arts) are presented so that others can extrapolate and use in their respective educational settings. As with the previous edition, readers will appreciate a multitude of resources.

Philosophy of Education in Action

An Inquiry-Based Approach

David W. Nicholson, Stevenson University, USA

This book is an innovative introductory text that invites readers to explore philosophy of education through the lens of their own observations and experiences. Using the "Wonder Model of Inquiry," readers investigate the purposes of education, how schools are designed to fulfill those purposes, and the influence of philosophy on educational practices. Updates include revised sources and examples of schools and programs that represent different philosophical perspectives.

Social Justice Pedagogy Across the Curriculum

The Practice of Freedom

Edited by Thandeka K. Chapman and Nikola Hobbel, Humboldt State University, USA

Series: Language, Culture, and Teaching Series

The new edition of this compelling text synthesizes in one volume historical foundations, philosophic/theoretical conceptualizations, and applications of social justice education in public school classrooms.

Part I details the history of the multicultural movement and the instantiation of public schooling as a social justice project.

Part II connects theoretical frameworks to social justice curricula. Parts I and II are general to all K-12 classrooms.

Part III provides powerful specific subject-area examples of good practice, including Multilingualism and Ethnic Studies.

Ethics and the Good Doctor

Character in the Professional Domain

Sabena Jameel, Andrew Peterson and James Arthur

Series: Character and Virtue Within the Professions

Drawing on internationally-leading empirical research conducted by the Jubilee Centre for Character and Virtues, this book explores medicine as a virtuous profession through a close examination of doctors' character. Starting from that view that virtues such as kindness, integrity and honesty are core to the medical profession, the book draws on insight from medicine departments, student doctors, and practicing doctors to deepen understandings of the place of virtues in the education and professional practice of doctors.

Parallel Societies of International Students in Australia

Connections, Disconnections, and a Global Pandemic

Catherine Gomes

Parallel Societies of International Students in Australia explores the social and cultural spaces that international students occupy in destination countries. It specifically examines the connections they make and the significance of this parallel society in helping them become resilient, empowered and self-sufficient. It further explores the way in which international students become disconnected from the family and friends they left behind at home, as well as from local communities.

This book will be of interest to academics and stakeholders involved in international education and working with international students.

Developing Your School's Student Support Teams

A Practical Guide for K-12 Leaders, Student Services Personnel, and Mental Health Staff

Steve Berta, Howard Blonsky and James Wogan

Developing Your School's Student Support Teams is a practical manual for schools seeking to establish and sustain coordinated teams in support of students' social, emotional and behavioral health. This book promotes teamwork throughout schools by exploring how interdependent practitioners come together at the appropriate levels and times to help coordinate school and community resources. This "filtering" process will guide K-12 leaders and service professionals toward systems and decision-making that enable long-term student supports, accurate identification of systemic learning barriers, improved school culture and climate, attention to diverse populations, and more.

Identity Affirming Classrooms

Spaces that Center Humanity

Erica Buchanan-Rivera

Learn how to create identity-affirming classroom environments that honor the humanity of students. In this important book, Dr. Erica Buchanan-Rivera shows how although schools have potential to be spaces of inquiry and joy, they can also be the source of trauma and pain when educational equity is not a foundational element. Throughout the book, you'll find features to help you bring the ideas to your own practice and discuss them with others. You'll also find excerpts from student voices to hear the why behind affirming spaces through their perspectives. With the powerful ideas in this book, you'll be able to create the kinds of classroom environments that students deserve.

Why Context Matters in Educational Leadership

A New Theoretical Understanding

Colin Evers, University of New South Wales and Gabriele Lakowski, University of Melbourne, Australia.

This book offers a systematic account of educational leadership from the perspective that context matters. Its central argument is that studies of leadership in education can only progress if the importance of context is understood and presents context as a set of constraints under which leadership is exercised. The chapters offer concrete steps for complex problem solving in schools and will help schools tailor solutions to local constraints and circumstances. Written by leading scholars Colin W. Evers and Gabriele Lakowski, this book will be essential reading for students and researchers working in the fields of education, educational administration and leadership.

Building Students' Historical Literacies

Learning to Read and Reason with Historical Texts and Evidence

Jeffery D. Nokes, Brigham Young University, USA

How can teachers incorporate the richness of historical resources into classrooms in ways that are true to the discipline of history and are pedagogically sound? Now in its second edition, this book explores the notion of historical literacy, adopts a research-supported stance on literacy processes, and promotes the integration of content-area literacy instruction into history content teaching. Providing an original focus on the discipline-specific literacies of historical inquiry, the new edition presents a deeper examination of difficult histories and offers new strategies that can be applied to all genres of historical inquiry.

Guiding Gifted Students With Engaging Books

A Teacher's Guide to Social-Emotional Learning Through Reading and Reflection

Thomas P. Hebert, University of South Carolina, USA

Guiding Gifted Students With Engaging Books supports teachers and counselors in facilitating book discussions designed to guide bright young people to self-understanding through high-quality literature. Engaging lessons and activities support learners as they process their feelings regarding issues highlighted in the selected books and class discussion. The book examines this approach with whole classrooms as well as with small groups of students, and features considerations for special populations of gifted students, including gifted underachievers, twice-exceptional students, and culturally diverse students.

School-wide Systems for Multilingual Learner Success

A Roadmap for Leaders

Lisa Auslander and Joanna Yip

Innovative and accessible, this book provides a roadmap for designing school environments that address the needs of English Learners (ELs). Auslander and Yip explain how a systems thinking approach enables the development of stronger school-wide Multi-Tiered Systems of Support, and can lead to meaningful, context-specific solutions that set ELs up for success. Perfect for district, school and teacher leaders, this book includes concrete strategies, tools, and resources for implementing research-informed improvements to support different categories of multilingual learners, including Newcomers, Students with Interrupted Education (SIFE), and Long-term ELs.

Teaching Readers (Not Reading)

Moving Beyond Skills and Strategies to Reader-Focused Instruction

Peter Afflerbach

Reading instruction is too often grounded in a narrowly defined "science of reading" that focuses exclusively on cognitive skills and strategies. Yet cognition is just one aspect of reading development. This book guides elementary educators to understand and address other scientifically supported factors that influence each student's literacy learning—metacognition, motivation and engagement, social-emotional learning, self-efficacy, and more. Peter Afflerbach uses classroom vignettes to illustrate concrete suggestions for instruction and assessment. Useful features include end-of-chapter review questions and a downloadable reproducible tool, the Healthy Readers Profile.

Transformational Sanctuaries in the Middle Level ELA Classroom

Creating Truth Spaces for Black Girls

Dywanna E. Smith

Series: NCTE-Routledge Research Series

Drawing from an arts-based research and humanizing methodologies, Dywanna Smith documents transformative and liberatory spaces in ELA middle level classrooms, where students address and counteract discrimination, colorism, sizism, and body shaming. Grounded in an original qualitative study of adolescent Black girls, this book examines how such "truth spaces" serve as a medium for adolescents to self-examine their intersectional identities and give voice to their resilience in the face of marginalization.

A Critique of Coloniality

Eight Essays

Rita Segato, University of Brasilia, Brazil

Series: Decolonizing the Classics

This translation of Rita Segato's seminal book La crítica de la colonialidad en ocho ensayos offers an anthropological and critical perspective on the coloniality of power as formulated by the Peruvian thinker Anibal Quijano. The book makes an important and original contribution to the understanding of colonial and decolonial processes, drawing the author's experience of feminist and antiracist issues and struggles for indigenous and human rights. It will appeal to students and scholars working in anthropology, Latin American studies, political theory, feminist and gender studies, indigenous studies, and anticolonial, post-colonial, and decolonial thought.

Colonial Slavery

An Abridged Translation

Jacob Goreneder and Bernd Reiter, Texas Tech University, USA

Series: Decolonizing the Classics

Jacob Goreneder's 1978 book, Colonial Slavery (O Escravismo Colonial), comes alive for English-language readers thanks to Bernd Reiter and Alejandro Reyes' brilliant translation. Goreneder argued that slave-holding societies produced an economic system sui generis, not fitting into any of the established societal categories offered by Karl Marx and Max Weber. As such, Goreneder proposed a theory of colonial slavery as the structuring force of slave-holding societies. This book is a must-read for researchers, teachers, and students of history, sociology, economics, politics, as well as activists of the Black movement and other movements committed to anti-racism.

Cost and Optimization in Government

An Introduction to Cost Accounting, Operations Management, and Quality Control

Aman Khan, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, USA

Series: Public Administration and Public Policy

The careful management of costs and operations are two of the most essential elements for successful operation of any organization – public, private, or nonprofit. This book demonstrates that a good grounding in cost basics, especially those related to cost accounting, operations management, and quality control can help all organizations, in particular government, increase efficiency, improve performance, and, in the end, do a better job of running its everyday operation.

Cost and Optimization is required reading for practicing public managers and students of public administration in need of a clear, concise guide to maximizing public resource efficiency.

International Relations Theory

Mykola Kapitonenko

This textbook shows how to think about international relations and offers insights into its most important theories and issues. Written from beyond the Anglo-US academic environment, with attention to regional nuances, it teaches students to perceive international politics in an organized and theoretical way, thus helping them grasp the complexity of the subject and see simple ways of making sense of it. It will be of great use as a main textbook as well as a supplementary guide for related courses, including Foreign Policy Analysis, Conflict Studies, Security Studies, History of International Relations, International Organizations and Global Governance.

Introduction to Political Theory

Paul Graham, University of Buckingham, UK and John Hoffman, University of Leicester, UK

This vibrant and significantly revised new edition is a comprehensive and accessible text for studying political theory in a changing world. Key updates include new chapters on Migration, and Freedom of Speech, with a significant new section on the radical right; and thought-provoking case studies to bring the theory to life including social media and internet regulation, Brexit and the EU, anti-vaxxer campaigns, surrogacy tourism, and autonomous anarchist zones. This textbook is the perfect accompaniment to undergraduate study in political theory, political philosophy, concepts and ideologies, and more broadly to the social sciences and philosophy.

Making Sense of Media and Politics

Five Principles in Political Communication

Gadi Wolfsfeld, Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Israel

In the new edition of this classic text, Gadi Wolfsfeld illustrates the five major principles needed to understand the interrelationship of media and politics. The new edition includes: up-to-date coverage of major political events in the last decade, including the landmark US elections of 2016 and 2020, an exploration of the "hybrid media system" that has developed over the last decade, discussions of misinformation and threats to democratic institutions, new forms of political engagement, and the economic base of the various forms of media,

At the Crossroads of Rights

Forest Struggles and Human Rights in Postcolonial India

Edited by Rahul Ranjan

This book demonstrates synergies and distils hard-earned lessons of human and forest rights struggles to inform the ongoing debates on environmental human rights. It highlights the ongoing struggles of the communities in postcolonial India that are confronted with the most brutal and unprecedented assault on their economic and sociocultural rights – often led by the political establishment.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of The International Journal of Human Rights.

Autonomy and Democratic Governance in Northeast India

Edited by M. Amarjeet Singh, Associate Professor of Sociology, Centre for North East Studies and Policy Research, Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi, India

This volume studies the various forms of ethnic autonomy envisioned within and outside the purview of the Sixth Schedule of the Indian Constitution. It explores the role of the British Indian administration and the Constituent Assembly of India in the introduction and inclusion of the schedule and the special provisions granted under it. Drawing on case studies from the states of Assam, Manipur, Meghalaya, and Sikkim in Northeast India and Darjeeling in North Bengal, it examines whether the practice of granting autonomy has been able to fulfil the political aspirations of the ethnic communities and how far autonomy settles or eases conflict.

Food Governance in India

Rights, Security and Challenges in the Global Sphere

Edited by Ruchita Beri, Anjoo Sharan Upadhyaya and Åshild Kolås, Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO), Norway

This book offers insights into the issues around food security, public health, equity and global governance. With a focus on India, it highlights the complex networks of socio-political, economic and agricultural challenges to ensure self-sufficiency in food production. Based on field research conducted across India and an in-depth study on government agencies and multilateral fora, this book connects and juxtaposes global, national and local narratives on food security and policy.

Gender and Embodied Geographies in Latin American Borders

Maria Amelia Viteri, University of Maryland, USA, Iréris Ceja Cárdenas and Cristina Yépez Arroyo

This book is the first study of its kind to bring a gender perspective to studies on violence and "illegal markets" in the region. Analyzing the structural problems that create inequality and enable gendered violence in Mexico, Guatemala, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia, Brazil and Argentina, the authors offer a critique of the securitization of borders and the criminalization of human mobility, and propose alternatives to reduce violence. Gender and Embodied Geographies in Latin America Borders is a welcomed and must read for scholars, researchers and students of gender studies, security studies, and migration.

India and Global Governance

A Rising Power and Its Discontents

Edited by Harsh V Pant, Professor, King's College London, UK.

This volume explores India's role in the global governance architecture post-Cold War. It shows how, with a rise in India's capabilities, there is an expectation from its external interlocutors that New Delhi ought to play a larger global role. As Indian policymakers re-define their engagements in the global policy matrix, the essays in the volume analyse: India's role as a challenger and a stakeholder in world politics; its uneasy relationship with Western liberal democracies; and its role in shaping new structures of global governance.

Latin American Relations with the Middle East

Foreign Policy in Times of Crisis

Edited by Marta Tawil-Kuri and Élodie Brun

Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics

This book surveys the dealings of ten Latin American and Caribbean states – Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Peru, Mexico, Uruguay, and Venezuela – with the Middle East. Authors seek to examine the external behavior of these states across five dimensions: diplomatic attention; trade and investment; development cooperation; security matters/intelligence, and relationship with multilateralism. The chapters enhance the theoretical framework for understanding Southern countries' foreign policies. As such, this book is a must read for researchers of International Relations, Foreign Policy, South-South Relations, Latin American Politics and Middle Eastern Politics.

National Role Conceptions in a New Millennium

Defining a Place in a Changing World

Edited by Michael Grossman, University of Mount Union, USA, Francis Schortgen, University of Mount Union, USA and Gordon Friedrichs, Heidelberg University, Germany

Series: Role Theory and International Relations

This book looks at the transformation of the international system through an examination of the role conceptions adopted by the different global actors. Advancing current role theory scholarship in International Relations, the contributors reflect on the rise of new actors and the reemergence of old rivalries, the decline of established norms, and the unleashing of internal political forces such as nationalism and parochialism. National Role Conceptions in a New Millennium is the first attempt to delve into the motivations of states to seek role transition. It is ideal for those teaching and studying both theory and method in international relations and foreign policy analysis.

On the Politics of Kinship

Hannes Charen, Pratt Institute, USA

Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory

In this book, Hannes Charen presents an alternative examination of kinship structures in political theory. Employing a radically transdisciplinary approach, On the Politics of Kinship is structured in a series of six theoretical vignettes, each framing a figure, aspect, or relational context of the family or kinship. Charen considers how kinship is a plastic social response to embodied exposure, both concealed and made more evident in the bloated, feeble and broken individualities and nationalities that seem to dominate our social and political landscape today. The book will be of interest to political theorists, feminists, anthropologists and social scientists in general.

Role Compatibility as Socialization

The Case of Pakistan

Dorothee Vandamme, University of Mons, Belgium

Series: Role Theory and International Relations

In this book, Dorothee Vandamme examines Pakistan's socialization process in terms of role compatibility in the 2008-2018 period. Adopting an Interpretative phenomenological analysis (IPA) method of analysis, Vandamme builds on role theory to develop a theory of socialization as role compatibility to explain the dynamics of Pakistan's (dys)functioning position and its status-seeking process as a fully functioning member of the international system. Role Compatibility as Socialization will be of interest to graduate students and researchers who work on and with role theory and socialization theory, and for those with a research interest on South Asia.

Policy Making and Southern Distinctiveness

John C. Morris, Auburn University, USA, Martin K. Mayer, North Carolina at Pembroke, USA, Robert C. Kenter, Center for Policing Equity, USA and R. Bruce Anderson, Florida Southern College in Lakeland, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Public Administration and Public Policy

Policy Making and Southern Distinctiveness examines the uniqueness of southern politics. The book analyzes six different policy arenas comparing policy choices in states in the South with states in the non-South. The authors find that the South is distinct in several, but not all, of the policy arenas examined. They conclude that the South as a region is unique because of the degree of one-party control evident in the South, coupled with a long-standing preoccupation with partisanship and race-based politics. The book will be of interest to scholars of southern politics, state comparative policy, public policy, American politics, and federalism/intergovernmental relations.

Russian Realism

Defending 'Derzhava' in International Relations

Andrei P. Tsygankov, San Francisco State University, USA

Series: Worlding Beyond the West

Russian Realism analyzes Russian contemporary geopolitical thinking, or realism, and explores the notion of Derzhava as the foundation of Russian realism. The author defines Russian realists as all those favoring actions by the Russian state in defense of its interests, including protection of national sovereignty, security, power, and prestige on the international scene. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of Russian foreign policy, IR theory, diplomatic studies, political science, and European history. It will also appeal to a broader general audience of those interested in Russia and international politics.

The Genocide-Ecocide Nexus

Edited by Damien Short and Martin Crook

In a world gripped by an ever-worsening ecological crisis there are present and increasing genocidal pressures on many culturally distinct social groups, such as indigenous peoples. This is where the genocide-ecocide nexus presents itself. Through nine chapters of cutting-edge research, this book examines specific case studies in geographical settings such as Iraq, Sudan, Nigeria and Brazil, to highlight and analyse the crucial connections and vectors of the genocide-ecocide nexus.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of The Journal of Genocide Research.

The Kyoto School and International Relations

Non-Western Attempts for a New World Order

Kosuke Shimizu, Ryukoku University, Japan

Series: Worlding Beyond the West

The Kyoto School and International Relations explores the Kyoto School's challenge to transcend the 'Western' domination over the 'rest' of the world, and the issues this raises for contemporary 'non-Western' and 'Global IR' literature. Aimed at students and scholars of IR Theory, Japanese Politics and East Asian IR in general, this book provides some introductory explanations of these academic subjects, developing a theory based on the concepts of time and language of Kyoto School philosophy.

The Uneven Offshore World

Mauritius, India, and Africa in the Global Economy

Justin Robertson, City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong and Michael Tyralla, Hong Kong University of Science and Technology, Hong Kong

Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

In the last decade, taxation has become a central part of the international political agenda. Spurred on by vigorous contestation from the local level to the global level, serious efforts have been made to regulate the offshore economy. As a result, emerging markets are placed in a bind, with tensions between the continuing incentives to accommodate offshore capital and the global, regional and national pressures to curtail offshore activities. Robertson and Tyralla provides a theoretical and empirical analysis of emerging markets and the offshore economic system. This is an insightful study for scholars of international political economy.

Nilanjana Paul, Assistant Professor of History, The University of Texas Rio Grande Valley

This book examines the impact of British education policies on the Muslims of Colonial Bengal. It evaluates the student composition and curriculum of various educational institutions for Muslims in Calcutta and Dacca to show how they produced the educated Muslim middle-class. The author studies the role of Muslim leaders such as Abdul Latif and Fazlul Huq in the spread of education among Muslims and looks at how segregation in education supported by the British fueled Muslim anxiety and separatism.

COVID-19, Business, and Economy in Malaysia

Retrospective and Prospective Perspectives

Edited by Weng Marc Lim, Swinburne University, Australia & Malaysia, Surinderpal Kaur, Universiti Malaya, Malaysia and Huey Fen Cheong, Universiti Malaya, Malaysia
Series: COVID-19 in Asia

Part of a mini series of Focus books on COVID-19 in Malaysia, the chapters in this book address the pandemic's impacts on business and the economy. Covering a range of challenges and opportunities for business, the contributors highlight the impact of the pandemic on the Malaysian economy and how Malaysians are finding ways to adapt. They focus both on how the pandemic has already affected businesses so far, and also anticipate the prospects for the Malaysian economy going forward. A fascinating read for scholars and with an interest in crisis adaptation in non-Western contexts, especially those with a particular interest in Malaysia, or Southeast Asia more generally.

India's Pakistan Conundrum

Managing a Complex Relationship

Sharat Sabharwal, Ananta Centre, India.

Historically, the relationship between India and Pakistan has been mired in conflicts, war, and lack of trust. Pakistan has continued to loom large on India's horizon despite the growing gap between the two countries. This book examines the nature of the Pakistani state, its internal dynamics, and its impact on India. It looks at key issues of the India-Pakistan relationship, appraises a range of India's policy options to address the Pakistan conundrum, and proposes a way forward for India's Pakistan policy.

Indian Liberalism between Nation and Empire

The Political Life of Gopal Krishna Gokhale

Elena Valdameri

Series: Routledge Studies in South Asian History

This book analyses the political thought and practice of Gopal Krishna Gokhale (1866-1915), preeminent liberal leader of the Indian National Congress who was able to give a 'global voice' to the Indian cause. Using liberalism, nationalism, cosmopolitanism, and citizenship as the four main thematic foci, the book illuminates the entanglement of Gokhale's political ideas and action with broader social, political, and cultural developments within and beyond the Indian national frame. This book is a timely and welcome addition to the fields of intellectual history, the history of political thought, Colonial history and Indian and South Asian history.

International Norms and Local Politics in Myanmar

Yukiko Nishikawa, Nagoya University, Japan

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

Nishikawa explores how international norms have been adopted in the local context in Myanmar to project a certain international image while in fact the authorities are exploiting these norms to protect their own interests. In the liberal international world order promoted since the end of the Cold War, democracy, rule of law and human rights have become key components in state and peace-building around the world. Many donor governments and international organizations have promoted them in their aid and assistance. However, the promotion of these international norms is based on a flawed understanding of sovereignty and the world.

Japanese Diaspora and Migration Reconsidered

Yvonne Siemann

Series: Japan Anthropology Workshop Series

In contrast to most studies of migration, which assume that migrants arrive from less developed countries to the industrialised world, where they suffer from discrimination, poor living conditions, and downward social mobility, this book examines a different sort of diaspora - descendants of Japanese migrants - "Nikkei" - in Bolivia, who, after a history of organized migration, have achieved middle-class status in a developing country, while enjoying much symbolic capital among the majority population.

Mapping Southern Routes of Migrant Women

A Case Study of Chile

Series: Routledge Studies in Development, Mobilities and Migration

Whereas most migration research still focuses on South to North migration, this book shines a light on mobilities within the Global South. Using migration to and within Chile as a case study, the book looks at the experiences of women, who make up a large proportion of migrants within Latin America. Mapping the experiences, aspirations and struggles of women moving to and in Chile, the book exposes the unexpected issues encountered by migrant women in their new destination country, particularly the discrimination that leaves them feeling invisible, unsettled, and, immobile.

Mining, Displacement, and Matriliney in Meghalaya

Gendered Transitions

Bitopi Dutta, doctoral candidate at Dublin City University, Ireland

This book studies how Development Induced Displacement (DID) radically restructures gender relations in indigenous tribal societies. Through an in-depth case study of the Indian state of Meghalaya, one of the few matrilineal societies of the world, it analyses how people cope with conflicts in their perception of self, family, and society brought on by the transition from traditional modes of living to increased urbanization, and how these experiences are different for men and women. It looks at the ways in which this gendered change is experienced inter-generationally in different contexts of people's lives, including work and leisure activities.

Pathways for Irregular Forces in Southeast Asia

Mitigating Violence with Non-State Armed Groups

Edited by Atsushi Yasutomi, Miyazaki International College, Japan, Rosalie Arcala Hall, University of the Philippines Visayas, Philippines and Saya Kiba, Komatsu University, Japan

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

Scholars have typically characterized irregular forces as spoilers and infiltrators in post-conflict peacebuilding processes. The contributors to this book challenge this conventional understanding of irregular forces in Southeast Asia, demonstrating that they often attract solid support from civilians and can be major contributors to the building of community security.

A valuable resource for researchers, students and practitioners in the areas of conflict resolution, peacebuilding, and security governance, especially those with a focus on Southeast Asia.

Polyplot from the Far Side of the Moon

The Life and Works of Solomon Caesar Malan (1812-1894)

Series: Collectanea Serica. New Series

Though recognized in the latter part of the 19th century as "the greatest Orientalist in Britain," the Geneva-born Anglican priest, Solomon Caesar Malan (1812-1894) was such an extraordinary person that he has defied any scholarly person to write a critical account of his life and works. Consequently, almost no one has written anything critically appreciative and insightful about him since his death. In this volume, produced by a team of collaborators from a wide range of scholarly interests and varying expertise, we have presented a critically assessed account of his life and key works.

Queering Russian Media and Culture

Edited by Galina Miazhevich, Cardiff University, United Kingdom

Series: Routledge Contemporary Russia and Eastern Europe Series

Based on extensive original research, the book outlines developments historically both before and after the fall of the Soviet Union and provides the background to the 2013 law. It discusses the proliferating alternative visions of gender and sexuality, which are increasingly prevalent in contemporary Russia. The book considers how these are represented in film, personal diaries, photography, theatre, protest art, fashion and creative industries, web series, news media and how they relate to the "traditional values" rhetoric.

Resounding Taiwan

Musical Reverberations Across a Vibrant Island

Series: Routledge Research on Taiwan Series

This book vibrantly demonstrates how the study of music allows for identification and interpretation of the forces that form Taiwanese society, from politics and policy to reactions to and assertions of such policies. Contributors to this edited volume explore how music shapes life — and life shapes music — in Taiwan, focusing on subjects ranging from musical life under Japanese colonial rule (1895–1945) through to the contemporary creations of Indigenous musicians, popular music performance and production, Christian religious music, traditional ritual music and theatre, sound and noise.

Routledge Handbook of Islam in Southeast Asia

Edited by Syed Muhammad Khairudin Aljunied, National University of Singapore, Singapore

This handbook explores the ways in which Islam, as one of the fastest growing religions, has become a global faith for both Muslims and non-Muslims in Southeast Asia with its universality, inclusivity and shared features with other Islamic expressions and manifestations. It stands out as a single and synergistic reference work that explores the ebb and flow of Islam seeking to decenter many existing assumptions about it in Southeast Asia. It will be an indispensable resource for scholars, students, and policymakers working on Islam, Muslims, and their interactions with other communities in a plural setting.

Scholars, Missionaries, and Counter-Imperialists

The American Review of Canadian Studies, 1971–2021

Edited by Andrew C. Holman and Brian Payne

For five decades, the American Review of Canadian Studies (ARCS) acted as a bellwether for the field, revealing its strengths, projecting new directions and inquiries, and reflecting the changing topics and methods that scholars used to study Canada. This book captures the history of that field in one robust volume.

Carefully selected by the co-editors of ARCS, the chapters in this edited volume are prefaced by an introductory essay that assesses the accomplishments of the field and brief chapter introductions that place them into context.

Securing India in the Cyber Era

Sameer Patil, Gateway House, India

Series: The Gateway House Guide to India in the 2020s

This book explores the geopolitics of the global cyber space to analyse India's cyber security landscape. The volume reviews threats to Indian computer networks, analyses the country's policy responses to these threats, and suggests comprehensive measures to build resilience in the system. It discusses how the country can protect this user base, the data-dependent critical infrastructure, build resilient digital payment systems, and answer the challenges of the dark net. It also explores India's cyber diplomacy, as an emerging economy with a large IT industry and a well-established technological base.

Shamanism in Siberia

Sound and Turbulence in Cursing Practices in Tuva

Mally Stelmaszyk

Series: Routledge Contemporary Russia and Eastern Europe Series

Based on extensive anthropological fieldwork where the author interacted with a wide range of people involved in cursing practices, the book examines Tuvans' lived experience of cursing and shamanism, thereby providing deep insights into Tuvans' intimate and social worlds. It highlights especially the centrality of sound: how interactions between humans and non-humans are brought about through an array of sonic phenomena, such as musical sounds, sounds within words and non-linguistic vocalisations, and how such sonic phenomena are a key part of dramatic cursing events and wider shamanic performance and ritual, involving humans and spirits alike.

The Routledge Handbook of Refugees in India

Edited by S. Irudaya Rajan, Professor, Centre for Development Studies, Thiruvananthapuram, Kerala, India

This handbook marks a key intervention in refugee studies in India—home to diverse groups of refugees, including an entire government in exile. It unravels the various socio-economic, political and cultural dimensions of refugee issues in India. Drawing from the experiences of Jewish, Tibetan, Pakistani, Bangladeshi, Sri Lankan, Afghan, and Rohingya refugees in India, it analyses debates around marginalization, citizenship and refugee rights. It also explores the spatial and gendered dimensions of forced migration and the cultural and social lives of displaced communities, including their quest for decent work, education, and health.

Toying with Childhood

Tracing the Child-Toy Bond from Britain and America to India

Usha Mudiganti, Ambedkar University, Delhi

This book studies the dialectic relationship between the image of the child and the toy in literary depictions of childhood in 19th and 20th century Anglo-American fiction. Drawing on the psychoanalytic theories of Sigmund Freud, Anna Freud, D.W. Winnicott, and Sudhir Kakar, it analyses themes such as the heterogeneity of childhood, the construction of the ideals of childhood, as well as linkages between the ideals of childhood in Britain and its travel to America and further dissemination in British India.

Actors and Dynamics in the Syrian Conflict's Middle Phase

Between Contentious Politics, Militarization and Regime Resilience

Edited by Jasmine K. Gani, University of St Andrews, UK, and Raymond Hinnebusch, St Andrews' University, UK

Series: Routledge/St. Andrews Syrian Studies Series

This volume covers the "middle" time period of the Syrian uprising, roughly from 2012 when Syria's peaceful protest began to mutate into a violent insurgency and civil war until roughly 2018 when the conflict took on features of a "frozen conflict."

Taking an innovative and interdisciplinary approach that seeks to capture the full complexity of the phenomenon, this book contributes significantly to our understanding of the Syrian conflict, therefore it will be of interest to academics, students, journalists and policy-makers interested in the Syrian civil war.

Antisemitism on Social Media

Edited by Monika Hübscher, University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany and Sabine von Mering, Brandeis University, USA

Antisemitism on Social Media is a book for all who want to understand this phenomenon. It addresses how social media with its technology and business model has revolutionized the dissemination of antisemitism, and how this impacts not only victims of antisemitic hate speech but also society at large. People working for social media companies, policy makers, practitioners, and journalists will benefit from the questions raised, the findings, and the recommendations. Educators who teach courses on antisemitism, hate speech, extremism, conspiracies, Holocaust denial, but also those who teach future leaders in computer technology will find this volume an important resource.

Muslim Textualities

A Literary Approach to Feminism

Jean M. Kane

In literary and visual productions, the authors negotiated static visual emblems of Islam, most prominently as "the veil." They did so not by rejecting veiling practices, but by devising strategies of representation that drew on Muslim resources, concepts, and visual traditions as well as popular empowerment narratives. Muslim Textualities argues for more flexible and capacious interpretation, with particular attention to visibility as a metaphor for political agency and to knowledge of cultural contexts.

Migration in Africa

Shifting Patterns of Mobility from the 19th to the 21st Century

Edited by Michiel de Haas and Ewout Frankema

This book introduces readers to the age of intra-African migration, a period from the mid-19th century onwards in which the centre of gravity of African migration moved decisively inwards. Most books tend to zoom in on Africa's external migration during the earlier intercontinental slave trade and the more recent outmigration to the global north, but this book argues that migration within the continent has been far more central to the lives of Africans over the course of the last two centuries. By taking a broad historical and continent-wide perspective, this book explores the distinctions between the more immediate drivers of migration and deeper patterns of change over time.

Gender and the Spatiality of Blackness in Contemporary AfroFrench Narratives

Polo B. Moji, University of Cape Town, South Africa

Series: Routledge African Diaspora Literary and Cultural Studies

This book approaches the study of AfroEurope through narrative forms produced in contemporary France, a location which richly illustrates differentiated readings of blackness in European spaces. The book transdisciplinary approach combines critical black and urban geographies, intersectionality, as well as social and textual analysis. The book explores the spatial negotiations of AfroEuropean woman in France, through the figure of the black flâneuse. Proposing 'walking as method', this critical work gets beneath spectacular representations of ghettoised banlieues, televised protests and shipwrecked migrants to explore the spatiality of blackness in the everyday.

Nigerian Intellectual Property Law

Reform and Development

Edited by Ayoyemi Lawal-Arowolo and Kunle Ola, Australian Catholic University

Series: Routledge Studies on Law in Africa

This book reflects on the development of Nigeria's intellectual property law and outlines the urgent need for reform. Bringing together expert contributors from around the world, the book identifies and discusses the inadequacies and lacunas in current intellectual property law, and how it is practiced and applied in Nigeria. The volume discusses patents, trademarks, and copyright in the context of broad overarching themes affecting all aspects of intellectual property law. Honouring Professor Adebambo Adewopo SAN, the pioneering thinker in Nigerian intellectual property law, this book will be an important resource for

Sexual Humour in Africa

Gender, Jokes and Societal Change

Edited by Ignatius Chukwumah, Federal University, Nigeria

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

This book examines the types, discourse modes, and effects of sex jokes in different African contexts, in a range of different cultural forms, from the internet, to music, books, films, advertising, and images. Arguing that sex jokes are used to perform a number of functions in African society, the contributors show how they can be used to perpetuate violence against women, construct spaces, resist oppression, create conformity, build affiliations and subvert morality. They consider jokes from Egypt, Ghana, Nigeria, Kenya and Zambia in a range of forms including queer sex jokes, rape jokes, performed sex jokes, gendered humour, and resistance sex humour.

West African Women in the Diaspora

Narratives of Other Spaces, Other Selves

Rose A. Sackeyfio

Series: Routledge African Diaspora Literary and Cultural Studies

Drawing on works by Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie, Buchi Emecheta, Ama Ata Aidoo, Sefi Atta, Chika Unigwe and Taiye Selasie, this book interrogates the ways in which African diaspora women's fiction portrays the realities of otherness, hybridity and marginalized existence of female subjects beyond Africa's borders. Overall, the book demonstrates that life in the diaspora is an uncharted journey of expanded opportunities along with paradoxical realities of otherness. Providing a vivid and composite portrait of African women's experiences in the diasporic landscape, this book will be of interest to researchers of migration and diaspora topics, and African, women's and world literature.

Contractual Estoppel

Alexander Trukhtanov

Series: Lloyd's Commercial Law Library

The second edition of this book continues to offer the first and only comprehensive account of contractual estoppel, now made fully up to date with reference to the most recent cases. Contractual estoppel, a new and exciting development in the common law, is ever more widely employed and keeps showing itself of considerable practical utility. The book examines numerous judicial decisions which apply or discuss contractual estoppel, and offers a full and systematic exploration of its origin, principled basis, practical applications and limits.

Disruptive Technologies, Climate Change and Shipping

Edited by Barış Soyer and Andrew Tettenborn, Institute of International Shipping and Trade Law, University of Swansea Series: Maritime and Transport Law Library

This book analyses the impact of two vital and contemporary developments on shipping law and practice: disruptive technologies and climate change.

It considers the impact of these new technologies, honing in on likely emerging issues and unresolved questions, especially about existing and potential private law liabilities and concentrates, from the point of view of English, EU and international law, on the legal implications of climate change and associated environmental risks in the shipping sector.

Written by experienced academics and practitioners in shipping law, this treatment of these growing areas of practice will be useful to lawyers and administrators.

Posthuman Legal Subjectivity

Reimagining the Human in the Anthropocene

Jana Norman

Series: Law, Justice and Ecology

This book provides a reimagining of how Western law and legal theory structures the human-earth relationship. As a complement to contemporary efforts to establish rights of nature and non-human legal personhood, this book focuses on the other subject in the human-earth relationship: the human. This book draws on conceptual fields associated with the new sciences, including new materialism, posthuman critical theory and Big History, to demonstrate that the naturalised hierarchy of humans over nature in the Western social imaginary is anything but natural.

Conducting Interviews with Child Victims of Abuse and Witnesses of Crime

A Practical Guide

Mireille Cyr, Mireille Cyr is a licensed psychologist and a professor in the Department of Psychology at the Université de Montréal.

This book is a practical and thoughtful guide for the forensic interview of children, presenting a synthesis of the empirical and theoretical knowledge necessary to understand the account of child victims of abuse or witnesses of crime. It is a complex task to interview children who are suspected of being abused in order to gather their stories, requiring the mastery of many skills and knowledge. This book is innovative by the constant links that are made between the results of the research into interviewing and understanding the accounts of child victims of abuse or witnesses of crime and its significance for the interventions made to the field.

The Origins of Criminological Theory

Edited by Omi Hodwitz, University of Idaho, USA

This book offers a new sort of theory textbook that traces the development of our understanding of crime and deviance throughout the ages, from Ancient Greece through to the dawn of the rehabilitation ideal to inform readers of the significant role the past has played in contemporary theories of crime. Each chapter is co-written by an incarcerated author and university students who carry out the research for each chapter. It offers a new way of thinking about theory and makes a significant contribution to convict criminology. It is of interest to students of criminological theory, and to programmes such as Inside-Out in the US, and the Prison-University Partnerships Network in the UK.

Field Studies in Environmental Criminology

Edited by Ben Stickle, Middle Tennessee State University

This book includes fieldwork from five continents and demonstrates the breadth of techniques used by environmental criminologists to understand crime. It highlights the broad array of crime types – from package theft in the suburbs to poaching in the Nile basin – that environmental criminology is well suited to address. Finally, it advances methods and techniques, tests established protocols, and offers reflections on experiences during fieldwork.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Criminal Justice Studies

The Rise of Politically Motivated Cyber Attacks

Actors, Attacks and Cybersecurity

Tine Munk, Nottingham Trent University, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society

This book outlines the complexity in understanding different forms of cyber-attacks, the actors involved, and their motivations. It explores the key challenges in investigating and prosecuting politically motivated cyber-attacks, the lack of consistency within regulatory frameworks, and the grey zone that this creates, for cybercriminals to operate within. The book is an important contribution to the study of cyber-attacks within the areas of criminology, criminal justice, law and policy. It is compelling reading for all those engaged in cybercrime, cyber-security and digital forensics.

Age Friendly

Ending Ageism in America

Lawrence R. Samuel

Age Friendly: Ending Ageism in America is a rallying call to make the United States a more equitable and just nation in terms of age. "Age friendliness" means being inclusive towards older people as workers, consumers, and citizens, something that can't be said to exist today.

Management Lessons from the Great Explorers

Ralph L. Kliem

This book looks at famous and, in some cases, infamous explorers to discuss and analyze the management practices (even though they may have never called them as such) that they used before, during, and even after their expeditions. Each chapter presents the historical background about the explorers and the details about their expeditions. Each chapter also discusses of the challenges they faced when planning and executing their expeditions as well as their successes and failures from a management perspective. The final chapter provides lessons learned.

Marketing in Latin America and the Caribbean

Contemporary Case Studies

Edited by Joseann Knight, The Univ. of the West Indies, Barbados, Fabrizio S. Noboa, Univ. S. Francisco de Quito, Ecuador and Barney G. Pacheco, The Univ. of the West Indies, Trinidad & Tobago

Latin America and the Caribbean are often placed in the same geographical and economic grouping. However, too little is known in either region about the other's business cultures and marketplaces. This work is a casebook that analyses the marketing histories, challenges, strategies and vision of small, medium and large indigenous businesses from South America, Central America, Mexico and the Caribbean. Filling a gap in the literature by focusing on this understudied region and its indigenous firms, this text is essential and recommended reading for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students studying International Marketing, Marketing Management and Strategy.

Regional Businesses in a Changing Global Economy

The Australian Experience

Edited by Quamrul Alam, Central Queensland University, Australia and Robert Grose, Central Queensland University, Australia

In a highly globalised trade and investment environment, businesses in regional areas must learn to take advantage of the benefits that stem from their geographical location. This book explains the immense value regional businesses bring to local communities and to Australia as a whole through case studies. The examples of how innovative regional businesses have used innovative practices, local resource leverage, social and entrepreneurial skills and knowledge of international markets to develop and expand their businesses will provide insights into how regional businesses can achieve growth and secure jobs in an innovative and sustained manner.

Revolutionizing Sustainability Education

Stories and Tools of Mindset Transformation

Edited by Ekaterina Ivanova, Graduate School of Business at the HSE University Moscow, Russia, and Isabel Rimanoczy

Series: The Principles for Responsible Management Education Series

There is growing awareness among leading responsible management scholars and practitioners that understanding global wicked problems is insufficient in effecting lasting engagement and changed behaviors. Research indicates that to impact behavior, the mindset has to shift, which leaves the question: How do you shift a mindset? This book guides academic and corporate educators, consultants, coaches and reflective practitioners in preparing themselves, their students and colleagues for taking action on finding urgent solutions for the grand challenges stated in the 17 UN Sustainable Development Goals.

Strategic Redundancy Implementation

Re-Focus, Re-Organise and Re-Build

Madeleine Stevens, Liverpool John Moores University

Redundancy, restructuring, downsizing. Whilst viewed as an uncomfortable topic by many, guidance on how to implement a redundancy programme that is fair, proportionate and ultimately leads to improved organisational performance has never been more needed. This book fills this important gap. It takes the reader through a redundancy implementation strategy – Re-Focus, Re-Organise and Re-Build – that incorporates the key aspects of planning and analysis, fairness and justice, and preparing management for redundancy implementation through training. Various helpful templates are included for employee consultation, communication and training.

Progress and Limitations

Yuwen Li and Cheng Bian

Series: Routledge Studies in Asian Law

China has developed a piece-meal pattern of regulating foreign investment since the end of 1970s. The latest law is the Foreign Investment Law (FIL) which became effective on 1 January 2020. The ground-breaking new FIL is well acknowledged by its promises and affirmations pledged to investors, signalling China's eagerness to improve its investment environment and regain momentum for investment growth.

This book provides an updated and holistic understanding of the key features of the regulatory regime on foreign investment in China with critical analysis of laws and their implementation.

Consumer Culture Theory in Asia

History and Contemporary Issues

Edited by Yuko Minowa, Long Island University, USA and Russell W. Belk, York University, Canada

Series: Routledge Frontiers in the Development of International Business, Management and Marketing

We live in times of increasing world uncertainty. Consumer culture in Asia has embodied such precariousness, with their unprecedented states of both prosperity and vulnerability. Works in this volume examine the consumer cultures that exist in today's precarious Asia. They do this through culturally oriented, critical consumer research. This volume will be of interest to seasoned CCT researchers and academics, for anyone new to consumer culture theory, and for postgraduate students interested in CCT or writing a consumer culture related thesis.

Communicating in Extreme Crises

Lessons from the Edge

Elina Tachkova, Texas A&M University, USA. and W. Timothy Coombs

Series: Routledge New Directions in PR & Communication Research

This book is an evidence-based approach to handling common, extreme crises. Extreme crises involve strong moral outrage; moral outrage creates situations where traditional crisis communication advice no longer is effective. These extreme crises create unique demands for crisis managers. Moreover, much of the traditional advice and crisis key performance indicators (KPIs) no longer apply. Validated through research, the book establishes the nature of extreme crises, the optimal crisis response for such crises, and the KPIs (outcomes) crisis managers need to measure for extreme crises.

Corporate Social Responsibility and Governance

Stakeholders, Management and Organizational Performance in the European Union

Edited by Panagiotis Dimitropoulos, University of Peloponnese, Greece and Efthalia Chatziagianni, University of Peloponnese, Greece

Series: Routledge Studies in Corporate Governance

Corporate social responsibility (CSR) has been developed into a crucial corporate and organizational issue around the world. It has been incorporated within various sectors, countries and includes many types of activities and dimensions. It is common ground that organizations are more inclined today to broader their performance focus form short-term oriented goals towards a long-term social, environmental and value-added perspectives. A crucial issue that this book attempts to address is the association, intersection and the inter-relationship between governance and CSR within the EU region, not adequately established in the existing literature.

Conflict, Power, and Organizational Change

Deborah A. Colwill

Series: Routledge Focus on Business and Management

A capacity for learning, adapting, and changing is an important facet of organizational resilience. What is involved in generative organizational change? Is it an event, a process, or constantly ongoing? What makes organizational change "good" for the organization? Who has the power to decide what is "good" for the organization and its members? How is it decided? What if there is strong disagreement or conflict? What is the role of organizational members and leaders in these discussions? These questions demonstrate the triad of change, power and conflict are intimately linked. This book explores the topics of change, power and conflict as they relate to organizational life.

The rise and spread of Covid-19 in the beginning of 2020 presents a once-in-a-century challenge and opportunity for decision makers, managers, scholars, and citizens to understand the risks, mitigate its impact and prepare for future crises. Drawing on a global network of scholars, this book presents a comparative analysis of ten nations' response to a global pandemic, while operating nominally under the framework of the World Health Organization. This book will be of interest to policy-makers, leaders, researchers, students and educators in the fields of crises and risk management interested in managing the novel risk of COVID-19 in a more informed, responsible way.

Human Resource Management for Organisational Change

Theoretical Formulations

Paritosh Mishra, Balvinder Shukla and R. Sujatha

Series: Routledge Focus on Business and Management

Change can take place in various forms, gradual or abrupt, incremental or transformational. It is a requirement in modern day society that everyone, whether at individual or organisational level, understands the softer nuances of this concept and prepares for it. During scenarios of change interventions, the role of human resources (HR) becomes highly crucial, even as the perception towards it becomes ambivalent. This volume delivers a holistic view on the role of HR in organisational change.

Impact and the Management Researcher

Usha C.V. Haley

Series: Management Impact

Universities, governments, faculty-evaluation committees, grant-bestowing institutions, scholars, and accreditation organizations have increasingly insisted on identifying and placing value on research impact. Valuation of research and scholarly output predicts innovation, affects careers, and guides resource allocations worldwide. This book joins the burgeoning conversation in management and the social sciences with theoretical and applied discussions of the concepts, measurements, costs and benefits that accrue to pursuing scholarly impact.

Human Resource Management and the Implementation of Change

Series: Routledge Focus on Business and Management

With the increased pace of global, economical, and technological development, change has become an inevitable feature of any organisation to survive in the competitive market. If it is a planned change process, the HR practitioner can use any of the existing general models or theories of change and use suggestive interventions to increase effectiveness and capability to change itself. By demonstrating the role of HR as a 'change agent,' this volume will be valuable to researchers, academics, managers, and students in the fields of human resource management and change management.

Managing Cultural Festivals

Tradition and Innovation in Europe

Edited by Elisa Salvador, ESSCA School of Management, France and Jesper Strandgaard Pedersen

Series: Routledge Research in the Creative and Cultural Industries

This book aims at renewing the attention on a niche field, Cultural Festivals, so important for valorizing cultural traditions and local heritage visibility as well as social well-being. Following the disruptive consequences of the COVID-19 pandemic, this fragile sector deserves more attention from public authorities and stakeholders at national and European levels with a suitable and dedicated plan of recovery and valorization. The book employs a tradition versus innovation lens to help readers account for the consequences of the digital revolution, new audience development, and the sustainability agenda.

Organizing Corporeal Ethics

A Research Overview

Alison Pullen, Macquarie University, Australia and Carl Rhodes, University of Technology Sydney, Australia

Series: State of the Art in Business Research

This book explores the meaning and practice of corporeal ethics in organized life. Corporeal ethics originates from an emergent, embodied and affective experience with others that precedes and exceeds those rational schemes that seek to regulate it. Pullen and Rhodes show how corporeal ethics is fundamentally based in embodied affect, yet practically materialized in ethico-political acts of positive resistance and networked solidarity. The book is suitable for students, scholars and citizens who want to learn more about the radical possibilities of how political actions arising from corporeal ethics can strive for equality and justice.

Small Business, Big Government and the Origins of Enterprise Policy

The UK Bolton Committee

Robert Wapshott, University of Nottingham, UK and Oliver Mallett, University of Sterling, UK

Series: Routledge Focus on Business and Management

The Report of the Committee of Inquiry on Small Firms (the Bolton Committee Report) was produced at a time of significant political change. The 1970s in the UK saw the beginning of the end for interventionism and 'big government' and the emergence of a new free market, economic liberalism. However, the same period also saw the creation of an agenda to intervene in the economy through an extensive range of government initiatives aimed at encouraging and enabling small firms and entrepreneurship. This book provides researchers with new insights into the tensions between these potentially contradictory political agendas that would come to shape our modern economy.

U.S. Housing Policy, Politics, and Economics

Bias and Outcomes

Lawrence A. Souza, Hannah Macsata, Dustin Hartuv, Joshua Martinez and Alicia Bilbrey-Becker

The stirrings of reform or more of the same? U.S. Housing Policy, Politics, and Economics shares a stark and urgent message. With a new president in the White House and the economy emerging from its peak pandemic lows, the time is right for transformative federal housing legislation—but only if Congress can transcend partisan divides. Drawing on nearly a century of legislative and policy data, this briefing for scholars and professionals quantifies the effects of Democratic or Republican control of the executive and legislative branches on housing prices and policies nationwide.

The Political Economy of Hollywood

Capitalist Power and Cultural Production

James McMahon

In Hollywood, the goals of art and business are entangled. This book analyses the power structure of the Hollywood film business and its general modes of behaviour. More specifically, the work analyses how the largest Hollywood firms attempt to control social creativity such that they can mitigate the financial risks inherent in the art of filmmaking. This sharp critique of the Hollywood machine provides vital reading for students and scholars of political economy, political theory, film studies and cinema.

Development Economics

Aptly or Wrongly Named?

Edited by Natalia Bracarense and Louis-Philippe Rochon

This book questions how ethical and professionally responsible it is for economists to continue to undiscerningly prescribe miraculous one-size-fits-all market-oriented models to solve socio-economic problems everywhere. The contributors of this edited volume invite the readers to consider these questions and further similar inquiries in the future.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Review of Political Economy.

Economics and Engineering of Unpredictable Events

Modelling, Planning and Policies

Edited by Caterina De Lucia, Dino Borri, Atif Kubursi, McMaster University, Canada and Abdul Khakee

Series: Routledge Explorations in Environmental Economics

In recent decades, the intensification of unpredictable events including the Covid-19 outbreak, Brexit, trade warfare, religion-inspired terrorism and civil wars, and climate change has resulted in serious loss of human lives and property, a decrease in biodiversity and natural hazards (with long-term negative impacts on environment), and impeded social and economic development. This book provides an integrated view of the management of unpredictable events incorporating three major perspectives: economic management, environmental planning and engineering models. This book is of particular interest to readers of economic policy, urban and regional planning and engineering.

Markets, Morals and Development

Rethinking Economics from a Developing Country Perspective

Wahiduddin Mahmud, Chairman, Economics Research Group, Dhaka, Bangladesh

This book presents, or rather 're-presents', the intricacies of a developing economy in the light of recent theoretical developments in economics while also providing a fresh perspective on the perceived inadequacies of the discipline in addressing the discontents of the contemporary global economic order. The book argues that there is scope for economics to be a more humane discipline and more relevant to contemporary economic problems by embracing new ideas, including those from other disciplines.

Socialist Economic Development in the 21st Century

A Century after the Bolshevik Revolution

Alberto Gabriele and Elias Jabbour

Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Business and Management

Over a hundred years after the first socialist revolution broke the global monopoly of capitalism, a new class of socialist-oriented socioeconomic development is coming to the fore. This book proposes an alternative path to overcoming the worldwide crisis of globalized capitalism. It offers a novel, balanced and historically rooted interpretation of the successes and failures of socialist economic construction throughout the last century. The book will find an audience among academics, researchers and students in the fields of economics, political science, history, and geography, as well as, policy makers, particularly in developing countries.

The Failure of Markets

Energy, Housing and Health

Craig Allan Medlen

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

The core thesis of this book is that the major economic issues of renewable energy, housing, health and income disparities could best be addressed through direct government "in kind" production and redistributive measures. This governmental "in kind" production of essential needs would allow a rapid movement towards solutions that the market cannot possibly match. This accessible work will be of significant interest to anyone seeking original solutions to age-old problems, particularly readers of public policy, heterodox economics, progressive politics and MMT. More generally, it is of interest to scholars and students in the fields of economics, political science and sociology.

The Routledge Handbook of Smart Technologies

An Economic and Social Perspective

Edited by Heinz D. Kurz, Marlies Schütz, Rita Strohmaier and Stella Zilian

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

In this handbook, the focus of the discussion is on "smart technologies" – understood as tools that "enabl[e] intelligence, processing, communication, and networking capabilities in all products, systems, and processes, influencing all parts of society" (Beernaert and Fribourg-Blanc, 2017). Within the scope of this handbook, a broad range of technological trends that reflect these properties, and in particular, artificial intelligence, advanced robotics, and cyber-physical systems, are covered to shed light on the associated potentials and challenges for the economy and society from the perspective of social, economic, natural and political sciences.

Deepening Democracy in Post-Neoliberal Bolivia and Venezuela

Advances and Setbacks

John Brown

Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Development

This book provides a timely and nuanced analysis of the successes and shortcoming of efforts to move beyond market democracy in Bolivia and Venezuela. It offers a novel and rich explanation of the partial and stuttering efforts to advance a post-neoliberal democracy in Bolivia and Venezuela. Bringing important insights on the reasons for the emergence of anti-system leaders and parties, the impact that they have on the quality of democracy, and how progressive governments interact with social movements, this book will be of interest to researchers studying Latin America, as well as those specialising in development and political science more broadly.

COVID-19 Assemblages

Queer and Feminist Ethnographies from South Asia

Edited by Niharika Banerjea, Associate Professor, Ambedkar University Delhi, Paul Boyce, University of Sussex, UK and Rohit K Dasgupta, Senior Lecturer, Loughborough University

Series: Ethnographic Innovations, South Asian Perspectives

This book documents and analyzes the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic through queer and feminist perspectives. A testament of dispossessions as well as a celebration of various forms of resilience, community building and critical responses, it chronicles the social history of queer and trans persons and women in South Asia and the diasporas. The book pays particular attention to issues of power and asymmetrical relationships amidst COVID-19 and offers critiques to deepen the understanding of the uneven fault lines within which historically oppressed persons reside in South Asia.

Research Tracks in Urbanism: Dynamics, Planning and Design in Contemporary Urban Territories

Edited by Alessia Allegri, Angélica Benatti Alvim, Eunice Helena Abascal, Joaquin Sabaté, João Pedro Costa and Maria Cristina Schicchi

Maybe the Global Village metaphor has never been more accurate as it is today, where societies join forces in the fight against the COVID 19 pandemic, in a global coordinated effort. We do not build our lives in a vacuum, or in distant Invisible Cities, but through a higher value, which represents physical life in society: the City, built by the discipline of Urbanism. This book is a spin-off of the International Research Seminar on Urbanism_SIIU2020. Following the conference, a selection of 35 original double-blind peer-reviewed research papers were brought together with different perspectives about such an agenda.

Structural Racism in America

Sociological Theory, Education Inequality, and Social Change

Edited by Rashawn Ray and Hoda Mahmoudi, University of Maryland, USA

Racist policies are identified as "opportunity killers" and the disparities created by them often have racism sustained through race-neutral policies. Structural Racism in America: Sociological Theory, Education Inequality, and Social Change situates our contemporary moment within a historical framework, and works to identify forms, occurrences, and consequences of racism as well as argue for concrete solutions to address it.

CHANGE!

A Guide to Teaching Social Action

Scott Myers-Lipton

CHANGE! is for faculty and students who develop a college course using social action to change policy. Students are actively involved in enacting a policy change of their choice, thus providing them a first-hand experience of democracy and power. As part of a social action class, students can start a new campaign, keep a campaign going from the previous semester, re-activate a campaign from a previous year, or join a community campaign. The goal is to train the next generation of democratic citizens and participants. If teaching social action is mainstreamed in higher education, students will be able to do democracy more effectively, and help to preserve it.

Explosive Conflict

Time-Dynamics of Violence

Randall Collins

What determines how long conflict lasts and how much damage it does? Inequality and hostility are not enough to explain when and where violence breaks out. Ranging from the three months of nationalism and hysteria after 9/11 to the assault on the Capitol in 2021, Collins shows what makes some protests more violent than others and why some revolutions are swift and non-violent tipping-points while others devolve into lengthy civil wars. Nevertheless, Collins offers some optimistic discoveries on clues to mass rampages and heading off police atrocities, with practical lessons from time-dynamics of violence.

Religion and Change in Australia

Adam Possamai, Western Sydney University and David Tittensor, Deakin University

This timely book offers a panoramic overview of the enduring significance of religion in contemporary Australian society. Applying sociological perspectives and contemporary theories of religion in society, it challenges conventional assumptions around the extent of secularisation in Australia and instead argues that religious institutions, groups, and individuals have proved remarkably adaptable to social change and continue to play a major role in Australian life. In doing so, it explores how religion intersects with a wide range of other contemporary issues, including politics, race, migration, gender, and new media.

The Dance of Innovation

Infrastructure, Social Oscillation, and the Evolution of Societies

Kevin McCaffree

Series: Evolutionary Analysis in the Social Sciences

Few of us consider how mundane infrastructures—from electrical grids to sewage systems—have developed over millennia in ways that enable democracy, technological innovation, to individual liberty itself. But what drives the evolution of this infrastructure? And why is infrastructure so critical to human flourishing? This book explores what makes creativity unique in human societies, through our capacity to form and leave groups in a dancing rhythm of oscillation across the expanse of history.

The Spanish Language in the United States

Rootedness, Racialization, and Resistance

Edited by José A. Cobas, Bonnie Urciuoli, Joe Feagin and Daniel J. Delgado

Series: New Critical Viewpoints on Society

This book addresses the rootedness of Spanish in the US, its racialization, and Spanish-speakers' resistance against racialization. This novel approach challenges the "foreigner" status of Spanish and shows that racialization victims do not take their oppression meekly. It traces the rootedness of Spanish since the 1500's, when the Spanish empire began the settlement of the new land, to today where 39 million U.S. Latinos speak Spanish at home. Authors show how whites categorize Spanish speaking in ways that denigrate the non-standard language habits of Spanish speakers—including in schools—highlighting ways of overcoming racism.

Aging in the Context of Urbanization

Social Determinants for the Depression of the Chinese Older Population

Series: China Perspectives

As China has undergone rapid urbanization and population aging in the past few decades, improving the welfare of older people in rural areas has become an ever more pressing issue. This title is the first book-length work to examine the influence of urbanization on the mental health of China's older population outside the city. Students and scholars of social policy, welfare, and gerontology will find this title to be essential reading.

COVID-19 and Childhood Inequality

Edited by Nazneen Khan, Randolph-Macon College, USA

Series: The COVID-19 Pandemic Series

The COVID-19 pandemic and the global response to it have disrupted the daily lives of children in innumerable ways. These impacts have unfolded unevenly, as nation, race, class, sexuality, citizenship status, disability, housing stability and other dimensions of power have shaped the ways in which children and youth have experienced the pandemic. COVID-19 and Childhood Inequality brings together a multidisciplinary group of child and youth scholars and practitioners who highlight the mechanisms and practices through which the COVID-19 pandemic has both further marginalized children and exacerbated childhood disparities.

Dialogical Networks

Using the Past in Contemporary Research

Ivan Leudar, University of Manchester, UK and Jiří Nekvapil, Charles University, Czech Republic

Bringing together two decades of work by the authors, this book shows how the concept of the dialogical network developed and outlines the key characteristics of dialogical networks, demonstrating the importance of historical contingency in our knowledge of them and highlighting the fact that 'doing history' is part of research. It represents an original study of how doing history is a part of research and sheds light on the ways in which people use the past in their social activities.

Imperialism and Colonialism

Christopher Bayly, Richard Rathbone and Richard Drayton

Alan Macfarlane

This is a collection of interviews conducted by one of England's leading social anthropologists and historians, Alan Macfarlane. The current volume is on three foremost imperial and global historians. Colonialism is intrinsically linked to its imperial past. Christopher Bayly, Richard Rathbone and Richard Drayton, come alive through these conversations in this book. They offer a refreshing perspective to the actions of the colonizer and the colonized, often deriding the actions of the former. ; Please note: Taylor & Francis does not sell or distribute the Hardback in South Asia.

Mobilization against Asylum Seekers in Contemporary Urban Spaces

Not in Our Backyard

Iris Beau Segers, Iris Beau Segers is a researcher at the University of Oslo, Norway.

Series: The Mobilization Series on Social Movements, Protest, and Culture

This book investigates the issue of local mobilization against asylum seekers in urban areas, which are often disproportionately affected by complex issues related to immigration and integration, as well as socio-economic development and growing inequalities. Based on ethnographic research in the city of Rotterdam, it explores the conditions under which mobilization against the establishment of an asylum seeker centre emerged, offering a combined analysis of interviews, social media and mainstream media to demonstrate the key role played by story-telling in the development of opposition to the arrival of asylum seekers.

2nd Edition • NEW EDITION

Routledge Handbook of the Sociology of Higher Education

Edited by James E. Côté, The University of Western Ontario, Canada and Sarah Pickard, Université Sorbonne Nouvelle, France

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

Higher education has come under increasing public scrutiny in recent years, assailed with demands for greater efficiency, accountability, cost-reduction and, above all, job training. Drawing upon examples from across the world with an emphasis on Anglo-American higher education systems, this handbook employs sociological approaches to address these pressing concerns. The second edition is thoroughly updated and adds several new chapters to shed further light on the transformations wrought by the interrelated processes of massification, vocationalization and marketisation that have swept through universities in the wake of neoliberal reforms introduced by governments since the 1980s.

The Body of Knowledge

Fieldwork and Conceptualization in Social Inquiry

Kornelia Engert, Johannes Gutenberg University, Mainz, Germany

Series: Directions in Ethnomethodology and Conversation Analysis

Adopting an approach based on ethnomethodology and conversation analysis, this book presents a close-up view of social science researchers engaged in fieldwork, discussions with colleagues and writing, thus shedding new light on epistemic cultures, the elusive materiality of conceptual objects, and on researchers' ways of grasping knowledge. A rich and pervasive study of elementary sites in the research process, it will appeal to scholars of sociology, anthropology, and the humanities with interests in the epistemic practice of their own discipline, ethnomethodology and conversation analysis, and the sociology of interaction.

The Morphogenesis of the Norwegian Educational System

Emergence and Development from a Critical Realist Perspective

Edited by Margaret S. Archer, University of Warwick, UK, Unn-Doris K. Bæck, UiT The Arctic University of Norway and Tone Skinningsrud, UiT The Arctic University of Norway

Series: Routledge Studies in Critical Realism

Based in the philosophy of critical realism, this book employs a range of Margaret Archer's theoretical concepts, from morphogenetic cycles and the emergence of educational systems at the macro level, to the exercise of reflexivity among individuals at the micro level, to investigate temporal and spatial aspects of Norwegian education. In contrast to the focus on educational homogeneity and promotion of the conception of the 'Nordic Model', it draws attention to differences between these nations as well as regional differences within Norway. It will appeal to scholars with interests in education, sociology, critical realism, education history, political science and the Nordic region.

The New Art of Old Public Science Communication

The Science Slam

Miira B. Hill, Leuphana University Lüneburg, Germany

Series: Knowledge, Communication and Society

This book investigates the phenomenon of science communication events as spectacles for legitimizing and communicating science to the public, shedding new light on the ways in which public scientists present knowledge, and the role of bodies, techniques, visuals and objects in the communicative construction of (scientific) reality. It will appeal to social scientists with interests in science communication, the sociology of science and technology, and the sociology of knowledge.

The Role of Language in the Wellbeing of Migrants

East Asian Communities in Germany

Series: Routledge Research in Transnationalism

This book examines the correlations between language behaviour and happiness amongst communities of migrants, and addresses the over-arching question of whether language can affect wellbeing. Drawing on case studies from Chinese and Japanese-speaking communities in Germany, as well as secondary survey data on the general migrant population, Wang shows that proficiency in both host country and heritage languages is associated with robust enhancements of migrants' subjective wellbeing. This book will be of interest to scholars and students of area studies, education, international migration, sociology of language, and wellbeing research.

The Sexual Politics of Border Control

Edited by Billy Holzberg, King's College London, Anouk Madörin, University of Potsdam and Michelle Pfeifer, New York University

Series: Ethnic and Racial Studies

This book conceptualises sexuality as a method of bordering and uncovers how sexuality operates as a key site for the containment, capture and regulation of movement. By bringing together queer scholarship on borders and migration with the rich archive of feminist, Black, Indigenous and critical border perspectives, it highlights how the heteronormativity of the border intersects with the larger dynamics of racial capitalism, imperialism and settler colonialism, reproductive inequalities and the containment of contagion, disease and virality.

Youth Participation in the Caribbean

Politics and Development

Edited by Terri-Ann Gilbert-Roberts, University of the West Indies, Jamaica

Series: Youth, Young Adulthood and Society

Critically examining narratives of participation in governance and development, this volume adds Caribbean voices and experiences to the global discourse on youth participation. The essays provide empirical case studies of institutions, practices and processes of youth engagement in the politics of Caribbean development, orienting the reader to the political culture of the Caribbean and the position of youth within small societies.

The findings will be useful to students, researchers and policymakers alike who are keen to improve governance and contribute to inclusive sustainable development in the Caribbean.

Examining and Mitigating Sexual Misconduct in Sport

Edited by Tanya Prewitt-White and Leslee A. Fisher

Examining and Mitigating Sexual Misconduct in Sport outlines systemic and sociological explanations for why sport is a site of sexual misconduct. The authors in the text describe cultural realities and considerations sport stakeholders must acknowledge and be informed of to make sport a more equitable and safe space. Personal narratives from a variety of sport stakeholders which unveil their lived experiences of sexual misconduct and humanize survivor stories in ways often ignored in sport and society are shared. Authors offer recommendations to all sport stakeholders to mitigate incidents of and harm done by sexual misconduct.

Philosophy, Sport and the Pandemic

Edited by Jeffrey P. Fry, Ball State University, USA and Andrew Edgar, Cardiff University, UK

Series: Ethics and Sport

The COVID-19 pandemic has had an impact on every aspect of our social, cultural and commercial lives, including the world of sport. This book examines the ethical and philosophical dimensions of the intersection of COVID-19 and sport. The book offers normative judgments about how the sporting world responded to challenges posed by COVID-19, as well as philosophical speculation as to how COVID-19 will change our understanding and appreciation of sport in the long term. This is fascinating reading for anybody with an interest in the ethics and philosophy of sport, the sociology of sport, event studies,

Leisure in the Time of Coronavirus

A Rapid Response

Edited by Brett Lashua, Corey W. Johnson, University of Waterloo, Canada and Diana C. Parry

This book generates discussions that enable leisure scholars to learn and to engage with wider debates about the crucial role of leisure in people's lives. The pandemic has brought tourism to a standstill with borders closed and travel restricted. From home, in physical isolation, and in attempts to socialize, at no time in recent memory has leisure seemed so vital, and yet also so hauntingly absent. Leisure, therefore, remains an important lens through which to view, question, and understand the world.

The 1935 Australian Cricket Tour of India

Breaking Down Social and Racial Barriers

Megan Ponsford, Independent scholar

Series: Sport in the Global Society – Contemporary Perspectives

The first Australian cricket tour to India possesses an inherent intrigue that, for inexplicable reasons, has fallen into obscurity. Megan Ponsford rectifies this through her investigation of the uneasy relationships between Australia, British India and Indian nationalism during the interwar period, using the 1935/36 tour as a case study. Employing a unique methodology, this book interprets the material culture located in the archives of the Australian and Indian cricketers.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Sport in Society.

Unsustainable World

Are We Losing the Battle to Save Our Planet?

Peter N. Nemetz

Using a cross-disciplinary, science and economics-based approach, this book provides a sobering and comprehensive assessment of the multifaceted barriers to achieving sustainability at a global level. Scientific evidence is presented in detail, in keeping with the advice of Swedish climate activist, Greta Thunberg, to let the science speak for itself. The author outlines why sustainability is unlikely to be achieved in several key areas of human endeavour and readers are challenged to weigh the scientific evidence for themselves. This book introduces students and general readers to the challenges of sustainability and the environmental difficulties facing humanity today.

Defining Effective Transboundary Water Cooperation

Melissa McCracken

Series: Earthscan Studies in Water Resource Management

With the increasing focus on transboundary cooperation as a part of the Sustainable Development Goal Framework, there is global recognition of transboundary water cooperation as a tool for improved governance and management of transboundary surface and groundwaters. However, there is not an agreed upon definition of transboundary water cooperation in the literature or in practice. This book develops the Four Frames of Transboundary Water Cooperation, which is a neutral modular framework for developing context-specific explanatory definitions of transboundary water cooperation in basins and aquifers.

Ecologies of Gender

Contemporary Nature Relations and the Nonhuman Turn

Edited by Susanne Lettow and Sabine Nessel

Series: Routledge Environmental Humanities

Ecologies of Gender: Contemporary Nature Relations and the Nonhuman Turn examines the role of gender in recent debates about the nonhuman turn in the humanities, and critically explores the implications for a contemporary theory of gender and nature relations.

The interdisciplinary contributions in this volume each provide theoretical reflections based on an analysis of specific naturecultural processes. They reveal how "ecologies of gender" are constructed through aesthetic, epistemological, political, technological and economic practices that shape multispecies and material interrelations as well as spatial and temporal orderings.

John Rawls and Environmental Justice

Implementing a Sustainable and Socially Just Future

John Töns

Series: Routledge Studies in Environmental Justice

Using the principles of John Rawls' theory of justice, this book offers an alternative political vision; one which describes a mode of governance that will enable communities to implement a sustainable and socially just future. This book frames the discussion of global justice in terms of environmental sustainability. The author argues that these ideas can be used to develop a coherent political theory which reconciles cosmopolitan arguments and the non-cosmopolitan or nationalist arguments concerning social and environmental justice.

Social Innovation in the Service of Social and Ecological Transformation

The Rise of the Enabling State

Olivier De Schutter and Tom Dedeurwaerdere

Series: Routledge Focus on Environment and Sustainability

To meet the twin challenges of environmental degradation and the rise of inequalities, societal transformation is urgent. Most theories of social change focus either on the role of the State, on the magic of the market, or on the power of technological innovation. This book explores instead how local communities, given the freedom to experiment, can design solutions that can have a transformative impact.

Land Grabbing and Migration in a Changing Climate

Comparative Perspectives from Senegal and Cambodia

Sara Vigil

Series: Routledge Studies in Global Land and Resource Grabbing

While the impacts of environmental change on migration, and of environmental discourses on land grabs, have received increased attention, the role of both environmental and migration narratives in shaping migration by modifying access to natural resources has remained under-explored. Using a variegated geopolitical ecology framework and a comparative global ethnographic approach, this book analyses the power of mainstream adaptation and security frameworks and how they impact the lives of marginalized and vulnerable communities in Senegal and Cambodia.

The Political Economy of Coal

Obstacles to Clean Energy Transitions

Edited by Michael Jakob and Jan C. Steckel

Series: Environment for Development

Coal is the largest source of greenhouse gas emissions globally, accounting for about forty percent of energy-related CO<sub>2</sub>-emissions. Continued construction of coal-fired power plants could make the climate targets of the Paris Agreement infeasible to achieve. In spite of sharply declining costs for renewable energy sources, many countries still heavily rely on coal to meet their energy demand. To this end, this edited volume assembles a wide variety of case studies exploring the political economy of coal for across the globe.

Protected Areas and Tourism in Southern Africa

Conservation Goals and Community Livelihoods

Edited by Lesego Senyana Stone, Moren Tibabo Stone, University of Botswana, Patricia Kefilwe Mogomotsi and Goemeone E.J. Mogomotsi

Series: Routledge Studies in Conservation and the Environment

Protected Areas and tourism have an enduring and symbiotic relationship. While offering a desirable setting for tourism products, tourism provides revenue that can contribute to conservation efforts. This can bring benefits to local communities but can also have a negative impact, with the establishment of Protected Areas leading to the eviction of local communities from their original places of residence and preventing them from accessing the natural resources they once enjoyed. This book addresses the opportunities and challenges faced by communities and other stakeholders as they endeavor to achieve their conservation goals and work towards improving community livelihoods.

The Politics of Human Vulnerability to Climate Change

Exploring Adaptation Lock-ins in China and the United States

Julia Teebken

Series: Routledge Studies in Climate Justice

This book compares how the social consequences of climate change are similarly unevenly distributed within China and the USA, despite different political systems. Focusing on the cases of Atlanta, USA, and Jinhua, China, Julia Teebken explores a set of path-dependent factors (lock-ins), which hamper the pursuit of climate adaptation by local governments to adequately address the root causes of vulnerability. This volume will be of great interest to students and scholars of climate justice and vulnerability, climate adaptation and environmental policy and governance.

Women and Wildlife Trafficking

Participants, Perpetrators and Victims

Edited by Helen U. Agu and Meredith L. Gore

Series: Routledge Studies in Conservation and the Environment

Wildlife trafficking has been documented in over one hundred and twenty countries around the world. While species extinction and animal abuse are major problems, wildlife trafficking is also associated with corruption, national insecurity and undercutting sustainable development among others. The role of women in wildlife trafficking has remained woefully under-addressed, with scientists and policymakers failing to consider the important causes and consequences of the gendered dimensions of wildlife trafficking. This volume helps fill this lacuna by examining the roles and experiences of women with case studies drawn from across the world.

Analysis of Neurogenic Disordered Discourse Production

From Theory to Practice

Anthony Pak-Hin Kong, University of Central Florida, USA

Analysis of discourse production among speakers with acquired communication disorders is an important and necessary clinical procedure. This book provides a comprehensive review and discussion of aphasia and its related disorders, their corresponding clinical discourse symptoms that speech-language pathologists should address, and the different methods of discourse elicitation that are clinically- and research-oriented. As the only introductory text to include comprehensive coverage of basic knowledge of neurogenic disordered discourse, it is a must-read for students, clinicians, and researchers in various fields.

A Programming Contingency Analysis of Mental Health

Israel Goldiamond

Series: Behavior Science

This book presents Dr. Israel Goldiamond's reflections on various ways we formulate behavioral and emotional problems, most often in traditional terms of mental health disorders, mental diseases or illnesses, psychopathological disorders, and so on – what he calls a pathological orientation. Here, Goldiamond argues for a groundbreaking alternative view from the vantage point of radical behaviorism. It will be a must read for anyone working in the analysis and clinical intervention in problems associated with mental health, or those more generally interested in the work of Israel Goldiamond.

Cognitive Illusions

Intriguing Phenomena in Judgement, Thinking and Memory

Edited by Rüdiger F Pohl, University of Mannheim, Germany
Cognitive Illusions explores a wide range of fascinating psychological effects in the way we think, judge and remember in our everyday lives. In this volume, Rüdiger F. Pohl brings together leading international researchers to define what cognitive illusions are and discuss their theoretical status: are such illusions proof of a faulty human information-processing system, or do they only represent by-products of otherwise adaptive cognitive mechanisms? Demonstrating just how diverse cognitive illusions can be, it is a must read for all students and researchers of cognitive illusions, specifically, those focusing on thinking, reasoning, decision-making and memory.

Embodied Trauma and Healing

Critical Conversations on the Concept of Health

Anna Westin

Series: Critical Approaches to Health

What if philosophy could solve the psychological puzzle of trauma? Embodied Trauma and Healing argues just that, suggesting that one might just be needed in order to understand the other. The book demonstrates how the body-mind problem that haunted Descartes was addressed by phenomenologists, whilst also proposing that the human experience is lived subjectively as embodied consciousness. Embodied Trauma and Healing is essential reading for researchers within the fields of philosophy, psychology and medical humanities for it actively engages with contemporary configurations of trauma theory and recent research developments in healing and mental

Embracing Hope After Traumatic Brain Injury

Finding Eden

Michael S. Arthur

Series: After Brain Injury: Survivor Stories

This important book provides a first-hand account from a university professor who experienced traumatic brain injury. It tells the story of Michael Arthur, who had recently accepted a position as vice principal of a new high school. After only two weeks on the job, he was involved in a car accident whilst driving through an intersection in northern Utah.

The book is about finding optimism and gaining insight into the struggles of the brain-injured patient. From the sudden onset of garbled speech, to the challenges of processing information, the changing dynamic of the author's life is highlighted to help family members and healthcare workers better understand.

The Reality of Brain Injury

Am I Still Me?

Andrew Tillyard

Series: After Brain Injury: Survivor Stories

A respected medical professional, family man, and keen athlete, Andrew Tillyard had a full and active life until a vehicle crash changed it all. He sustained a serious head injury and was airlifted to the hospital where he worked, having only just survived. In this book, he recounts the raw, uncompromising struggles he faced to rebuild his life. This is essential reading for neuropsychologists, neurologists, and other rehabilitation therapists, as well as students in medicine, nursing, allied health, and neuropsychology. This is also a compelling and compassionate story for anyone who has survived a brain injury.

The Self Explained

Why and How We Become Who We Are

Roy F. Baumeister

The idea of the self is immediately familiar to everyone, yet elusive to define and understand. From pioneering researcher Roy F. Baumeister, this volume synthesizes a vast body of knowledge to provide a panoramic view of the human self—how it develops and functions, why it exists, and what problems it encounters on the journey through life. What are the benefits of self-knowledge, and how attainable is it? Do we have one self, or many? What is the relationship of self and society? In 28 concise chapters, Baumeister explains complex concepts with clarity and insight. He reveals the central role played by the self in enabling both individuals and cultures to thrive.

Evaluating the Brain Disease Model of Addiction

Edited by Nick Heather, Matt Field, Antony C. Moss and Sally Satel

This ground-breaking book advances the fundamental debate about the nature of addiction. As well as presenting the case for seeing addiction as a brain disease, it brings together all the most cogent and penetrating critiques of the brain disease model of addiction (BDMA) and the main grounds for being skeptical of BDMA claims. The result is a landmark volume in the study of addiction which will be essential reading for advanced students and researchers in addiction as well as professionals such as medical practitioners, psychiatrists, psychologists of all varieties, and social workers.

How Psychotherapists Live

The Personal Self and Private Life of Professional Healers

David E. Orlinsky, University of Chicago, Illinois, USA

How Psychotherapists Live is a landmark study of thousands of mental health practitioners worldwide. It significantly advances our understanding of psychotherapists and counselors by revealing the many ways they differ as persons and how those differences shape their experiences of therapeutic work.

Clinical psychologists, psychiatrists, clinical social workers, and counselors can easily compare their own experiences with the thousands of therapists in the study by reflecting on typologies constructed from research findings. The book will also be a valuable resource for researchers studying the sources of variation in therapists' effectiveness.

Psychological Type Therapy

A Practitioner's Guide to Strengthening Relationships

Brian A. Gerrard, Western Institute for Social Research, California, USA and Jacqueline Shinefield

This book uses psychological type as a model for organizing mental health interventions, including assessing how a client's personality is affected within a specific relationship. Chapters demonstrate how to help a client overcome a psychological type challenge using techniques drawn from cognitive-behavioral, humanistic, and family therapy approaches. Techniques are described in explicit how-to format and chapters show the reader how to assess both positive and challenging personality characteristics. The text benefits mental health practitioners who are interested in incorporating personality into their practices to develop more effective interventions in relationship therapy.

The Extraordinary Gift of Being Ordinary

Finding Happiness Right Where You Are

Ronald D. Siegel

Many of us spend a lot of time feeling self-conscious and comparing ourselves to others. Why do we judge ourselves so relentlessly? When psychologist and mindfulness expert Ronald Siegel realized that he, too, was caught in a cycle of endless self-evaluation, he decided to do something about it. In this engaging, empowering guide, he shares his journey to understand this very human habit--and how to break it. Through mindfulness meditations, enlightening exercises, and moving, often funny stories, Dr. Siegel invites readers to stop obsessing about how they measure up. By accepting the gift of being ordinary, people can build stronger connections with others, and get more joy out of life.

Treating Adult Survivors of Childhood Emotional Abuse and Neglect

Component-Based Psychotherapy

Elizabeth K. Hopper, Frances K. Grossman, Joseph Spinazzola, Marla Zucker and Jana Pressley

Grounded in 40 years of clinical practice and research, this book provides a systematic yet flexible evidence-informed framework for treating adult survivors of complex trauma, particularly those exposed to chronic emotional abuse or neglect. Component-based psychotherapy (CBP) addresses four primary treatment components that can be tailored to each client's unique needs—relationship, regulation, dissociative parts, and narrative. Extended case examples illustrate CBP intervention strategies and bring to life both the client's and therapist's internal experiences. The appendix features a reproducible multipage clinician self-assessment tool that can be downloaded.

Family Systems Theory Simplified

Applying and Understanding Systemic Therapy Models

Bethany C. Suppes

Bethany C. Suppes offers a refreshed perspective of Family Systems Therapy (FST), focusing on the importance of understanding its concepts and demonstrating how models of marriage and family therapy can appear practically in counseling. In Part 1, Suppes begins with a theoretical overview of FST, including the history of development, key theorists, and defining core concepts. In Part 2, she focuses on application and explores nine key components of FST, identifying how various systemic therapy models apply these concepts. Primarily written for those having their first exposure to the ideas of FST, it aims to improve the therapeutic process for both therapist and client.

Critique of Psychoanalytic Reason

Studies in Lacanian Theory and Practice

Dany Nobus

Series: The Centre for Freudian Analysis and Research Library (CFAR)

In nine interrelated chapters, the book highlights both the flaws and the strengths of Lacan's ideas, in areas of investigation that are as crucial as they are contentious, within as well as outside psychoanalysis. Drawing on a vast range of source-materials, including many unpublished archival documents, it teases out controversial issues such as money, organisational failure, and lighthearted, 'gay' thinking, and it relies on the highest standards of scholarly excellence to develop its arguments.

Psychoanalytic Theory and Intersectional Politics

Alicia Valdés, Rovira I Virgili University, Spain

Series: The Lines of the Symbolic in Psychoanalysis Series

While traditional feminist readings on antagonism have pivoted around the sole axis of sex and/or gender, a broader and intersectional approach to antagonism is much needed; this book offers an innovative, feminist, and discursive reading on the Lacanian concept of Sexual Position as a way to problematize the concepts of political antagonism and political subjects.

The interdisciplinary approach of this book will appeal to scholars interested in the fields of psychoanalysis, feminisms, and political philosophy as well as multidisciplinary scholars interested in discourse theory, sexuality and gender studies, cultural studies, queer theory, and continental philosophy.

Vital Flows between the Self and Non-Self

The Interpsychic

Stefano Bolognini

Series: New Library of Psychoanalysis

Vital Flows explores the concept of the Interpsychic, or that which exists in our unconscious or preconscious inter- and intra-human exchanges, and demonstrates its significance for understanding psychoanalytic theory and practice.

As an instructive and topical text which draws meaningfully from Italian, British and North-American psychoanalysis, Vital Flows will be critical for psychoanalysts and psychotherapists alike, as they seek to understand and apply the Inter-psychic within their own practice.

Parents as Friendship Coaches for Children with ADHD

A Clinical Guide

Amori Yee Mikami and Sébastien Normand

This book introduces Parental Friendship Coaching (PFC), an intervention that parents can use to support peer relationships in their elementary school-aged children with ADHD. In the PFC program, clinicians work with parents to coach their children with ADHD in friendship behaviors that help develop and maintain high-quality relationships. Featuring ten research-based clinical sessions, the book provides detailed, step-by-step instructions for clinicians about intervention provision. Intended for mental health professionals working with families of children with ADHD and peer problems, this book will aid clinicians in educating parents on how to support their children's friendships.

Teaching Self-Compassion to Teens

Lorraine Gonzales Hobbs, Niina Tamura and Christopher Germer

Grounded in developmental knowledge, this book presents an innovative 8-week group program for teaching self-compassion to teens and young adults in clinical, educational, or community settings. Lorraine Gonzales Hobbs and Niina Tamura provide guided practices, creative exercises, and teaching strategies adapted from Kristin Neff and Christopher Germer's widely disseminated Mindful Self-Compassion program for adults. Case examples, sample dialogues, and scripts illustrate how to set up and run successful groups that address teen concerns such as self-criticism, self-esteem, social comparison, and strong emotions. A special chapter covers trauma-sensitive teaching.

Art Psychotherapy Groups in The Hostile Environment of Neoliberalism

Collusion or Resistance?

Edited by Sally Skaife and Jon Martyn

This book explores how 'the hostile environment' of neoliberalism affects art therapy in Britain. It shows how ambiguity in art and in psychoanalytically understood relationships, can enable art psychotherapy groups to engage with class dynamics and aspire to democracy. Written by art psychotherapists for arts therapists and other mental health workers, the book will bring political awareness and consideration of resistance into all art therapy relationships, whatever the context and client group.

Dance/Movement Therapy for Trauma Survivors

Theoretical, Clinical, and Cultural Perspectives

Edited by Rebekka Dieterich-Hartwell and Anne Margrethe Melsom

This book offers a timely and comprehensive synopsis of dance/movement therapy (DMT) in the treatment of psychological trauma. Along with the foundational concepts of DMT, contributions contain rich clinical examples that illustrate the use of dance, movement, and body awareness with a wide variety of populations. Chapters emphasize the influences of power, privilege, and oppression on trauma, prompting readers to consider sociocultural contexts and engage in self-reflection. Featuring multiple perspectives, as well as cultural and contextual considerations, this book provides direct takeaways for clinicians and professionals and a roadmap for the trajectory of trauma-informed DMT.

Biographical Research

Challenges and Creativity

Edited by Ana Caetano, Iscte-University Institute of Lisbon, Portugal and Magda Nico, ISCTE-University Institute of Lisbon, Portugal

Series: Contemporary Issues in Social Science

Studying people's lives requires acknowledging the multiple entanglements between individual singularity and processes of social patterning. This book testifies how challenging and creative the study of these connections can be. It gathers international contributions that show, in imaginative ways, how a person's life or specific domains of existence can be observed, tackled, and analysed, across time.

Introduction to Mediation

A Regression-Based Approach

Kenneth Kunz, Maureen Hall, Rachel Lella and Diane Lapp

A thorough presentation of mediation, moderation, and conditional process analysis, this book has been updated to reflect the latest developments in PROCESS for SPSS, SAS, and, new to this edition, R. Using the principles of ordinary least squares regression, Andrew F. Hayes illustrates each step in an analysis and displays SPSS, SAS, and R code for each example. Procedures are outlined for estimating and interpreting direct, indirect, and conditional effects; probing and visualizing interactions; testing hypotheses about the moderation of mechanisms; and reporting analyses. ## COVID-19: Social Inequalities and Human Possibilities

J. Michael Ryan, Nazarbayev University, Kazakhstan and Serena Nanda, John Jay College of Criminal Justice, CUNY
Series: The COVID-19 Pandemic Series

COVID-19: Social Inequalities and Human Possibilities examines the unequal impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on individuals, communities, and countries, a fact seldom acknowledged and often suppressed or invisible. Taking a global approach and including a comprehensive timeline, this book demonstrates how the impact of the pandemic has differed as a result of social inequalities, such as economic development, social class, race and ethnicity, and access to health care and education. The book concludes with cautious optimism and insights into how global society can (re-)build a brighter post-COVID-19-pandemic world.

Situational Analysis in Practice

Mapping Relationalities Across Disciplines

Edited by Adele E. Clarke, Rachel Washburn and Carrie Friese

Situational Analysis (SA) creates analytic maps of social processes and relationships identified using approaches pioneered in grounded theory. Creator of the method, award-winning sociologist Adele E. Clarke, with Rachel Washburn and Carrie Friese, shows how the method can be, and has been, used in a variety of critical qualitative studies. Situational Analysis in Practice will be of interest to undergraduate and graduate students practicing the SA method across the social sciences, including sociology and healthcare amongst other disciplines, as well as research scholars interested in qualitative inquiry.

Turning the World Upside Down Again

Global health in a time of pandemics, climate change and political turmoil

Lord Nigel Crisp, House of Lords and All Party Parliamentary Group on Global Health, London, UK

In Turning the World Upside Down Again, Lord Nigel Crisp argues that they need to go further and listen to and learn from disempowered communities in their own countries. He describes how combining the learning from different countries and communities can lead us to a new ecologically based vision for health and new and practical ways of improving health for ourselves, our communities and our planet.

Phytochemical Investigations of Genus Terminalia

Brijesh Kumar, Central Drug Research, India, Awantika Singh, CSIR-Central Drug Research Inst, India and K. P. Madhusudanan

Series: Phytochemical Investigations of Medicinal Plants

Genus Terminalia is known to be a rich source of secondary metabolites, mainly polyphenols and triterpenoids. About 39 species have been phytochemically studied leading to the identification of 368 compounds. This work involves the use of hyphenated mass spectrometric methods such as HPLC-ESI-QTOF-MS/MS and UPLC-ESI-QqQLIT-MS/MS for qualitative and quantitative analysis of major bioactive constituents in selected medicinal plants without isolation. It also describes the methods of mass fingerprinting and their use to investigate the plant species variations with the help of statistical software's (PCA). Markers were identified for quality control and authentications.

The Complexities of Home in Social Work

Carole Zufferey and Christopher Horsell

Series: Routledge Advances in Social Work

Home is a complex and multifaceted concept. This book revises how 'home' is used in social work literature by showing how it is positioned as being discursively represented, materially experienced and embodied, and multiply imagined as symbolic and existential. It will be of interest to all academics and students of social work, sociology, public policy, housing policy, gender studies, and human geography.

Child-Centred Social Work in India

Journeys and the Way Forward

Edited by Murlī Desai and Nilima Mehta

This book presents unique semi-autobiographical narratives by leading social work educators and practitioners in India who have done innovative work in the field of child-centred social work (CSW). The practitioners narrate their career journeys and contributions to research, policy, and practice in this field, discuss innovations, achievements and impact of the work done, and share reflections on the challenges faced, lessons learnt, and the way forward. The volume provides valuable insights into the indigenisation of CSW education and practice and offers suggestions towards developing effective CSW.

Handbook of Muscle Variations and Anomalies in Humans

A Compendium for Medical Education, Physicians, Surgeons, Anthropologists, Anatomists and Biologists

Eve K. Boyle, National Science Foundation, Virginia, US, Vondel S. E. Mahon, Association of Medical Illustrators (AMI) and Rui Diogo, Howard University, Washington, District of Columbia, USA

'Normal' humans exhibit muscular variations, and there are millions with these sorts of anomalies. Most medical professionals experience a few cases of muscle variations and/or anomalies. This will be an anatomical atlas exclusively focused on the variations and anomalies in humans. The book is a comprehensive review of comparative anatomy, medical papers, and monographs. There are three goals 1) provide evolutionary theoretical background for the existence of variations and defects; 2) summarize each variation and defect found in every skeletal muscle; and therefore 3) include schematic figures of these variations and anomalies for an easy visualization of these anomalies and variations.

Long Term Safety of Assisted Reproduction

Edited by Arianna D'Angelo, Kenny A. Rodriguez-Wallberg and Daniela Nogueira

A much needed overview of the available information now accumulating to indicate that Assisted Reproductive Technologies are generally safe for both babies and mothers. However, the literature abounds with reports of a higher risk of obstetrical and perinatal complications; regarding the long-term outcomes for both women and children, the data are still scarce. The chapters summarized in this book review the current knowledge on long-term safety of assisted reproduction and indicate the need for continued research to cover the lack of data in some specific patient groups and for recently developed treatments that only have a short period of follow-up.

Optimizing Metabolic Status for the Hospitalized Patient

The Role of Macro- and Micronutrition on Disease Management

Michael M. Rothkopf, MD, FACP, FACC, Morristown Medical Center, New Jersey, USA and Jennifer C. Johnson

Hospitals recognize the impact of malnutrition on morbidity, mortality, length of patient stay, and readmission rates. As hospitals evaluate these components, staff will need to be educated and prepared on the practice of metabolic medicine within the hospital setting focusing on nutrition therapy. The field of nutritional medicine is growing because of converging developments in both the hospital and clinical environments. Volume One of this Handbook set provides practical information and mechanisms to train hospital staff on proper nutrition protocols.

Ultrasound of the Diaphragm and the Respiratory Muscles

Edited by Massimo Zambon, Uboldo Hospital, Cernusco sul Naviglio, Milan, Italy

Ultrasound is the most reliable, easily available, fast, non-invasive technique to study diaphragm function, and is an irreplaceable tool to diagnose, monitor and follow-up critical respiratory patients. This essential guide analyses every aspect of ultrasound of the diaphragm, a reliable assessment of whose function is vital to provide the most suitable treatment. It provides insight to diagnose diaphragmatic dysfunction or paralysis following surgery or neuromuscular diseases, to follow the muscular activity and the time-course of atrophy during mechanical ventilation, and to monitor the weaning phase. It is ideal for professionals and trainees practicing ultrasound in a clinical setting.

Neurocinema—The Sequel

A History of Neurology on Screen

Eelco F. M. Wijdicks, Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota, USA

The history of neurology as seen through the lens of the filmmaker is fascinating and extraordinary. This is a review of the history of neurology as seen in film, starting with the early days of cinema and concluding with contemporary films. 180 films are assessed and rated, and many of these are exemplary depictions of neurological disorders. Each of the films discussed in this book demands serious attention by those who see and manage neurologic patients and support their families. Neurocinema, The Sequel chronicles this archive of neurologic representation, drawing readers in a rich collection of cinematic wonders of permanent cultural and historical value.

Towards a Digital Health Ecology at the NHS

Healthcare Technology Adoption through the COVID-19 Looking Glass

Victoria Betton

The book analyses the history of digital innovation and consider what lessons can be learned for what the U.K.'s National Health Service (NHS) needs to do to flourish in the digital age. It argues that a digital ecology, which understands complexity and emergency, is a more fitting metaphor to describe the NHS' digital transformation. Written over the course of the pandemic through interviews with key players, analysis, and documenting events as they unfurled, the book offers insights into how digital technologies can help transform the NHS, whilst critiquing where they can be a distraction or even have adverse consequences.

Carotid Treatment: Principles and Techniques

Christopher M. Loftus, Center for Devices and Radiological Health, USA, Satoshi Kuroda, University of Toyama, Japan and Naoya Kuwayama, University of Toyama, Japan

This text presents the current state of the art in carotid treatment. Coverage includes carotid stenting, radiography, and highly illustrated surgical techniques case examples reflecting international practice. Throughout the book numerous case examples, and interesting examples of anatomical variants are illustrated and explained. An expanded section on complications further increases the value of this resource for all practitioners. Neurosurgeons, Vascular surgeons, and Neuro-Interventionalists will benefit from the third edition of this acclaimed text.

Laser Techniques in Ophthalmology

A Guide to YAG and Photothermal Laser Treatments in Clinic

Anita Prasad, Royal Gwent Hospital, Aneurin Bevan University Health Board, UK

This is a practical guide to using lasers in the Eye clinic and includes all commonly performed Lasers for a range of ocular conditions. It uses multiple illustrations of real-life fundus photographs, FFA images, OCT images and digitally modified retinal images to simplify learning the fundamentals of laser physics and physiology, laser safety and an overview of the variety of ophthalmic lasers in current use. It standardizes Laser procedures and serves as a reference guide for Ophthalmic trainees learning the technique that can be transferred to their clinical practice. The book simplifies understanding of Ophthalmic Lasers and answers common questions of how and why things are done.

Creating Wellbeing and Building Resilience in the Veterinary Profession

A Call to Life

Sonja A. Olson, Florida Univ., College of Vet. Med.

A Call to Life helps veterinary caregivers increase self-efficacy and sustainability and decrease unnecessary suffering in their mission to support animal health. Integrating real-life stories from veterinary caregivers with evidence-based theory, practical activities, discussion and reflection points, and insights drawn from the author's own experiences, the book empowers veterinarians by showing that they have the ability to choose a healthier way forward for themselves and for their profession. It uniquely combines shared experiences with academic research into the contributing factors of compassion fatigue and how to counter these.

Early Life on Earth

Evolution, Diversification, and Interactions

Kenichiro Sugitani

This book comprehensively explores the early evolution of life and the Archean environment. Topics include the differences between prokaryotes and eukaryotes, variations in metabolisms, concepts of ecosystems and biogeochemical cycles (nitrogen, sulfur, phosphorous), Archean geology and environments, and the widely accepted early evolutionary history of life. The text addresses controversies regarding early life and its environment, particularly the unusual microfossil assemblages from the 3.4 Ga Strelley Pool Formation and the 3.0 Ga Farrel Quartzite of Western Australia.

Reproductive Strategies in Insects

Edited by Omkar, University of Lucknow, India and Geetanjali Mishra, University of Lucknow, India

Reproductive Strategies in Insects provides an expansive critical look at the reproductive strategies of the most diverse group of animals, the insects. Insects which inhabit myriad niches in all ecosystems except the oceans, show the most diverse reproductive strategies ranging from simplest to most complex. Reproductive strategies, viz., search for mates, number of mates, display of mate quality, assessment of mate quality, acceptance of mate, rejection of mates, forced copulations, the fight for paternity pre, during and post copula, the modulation of paternity, ovipositional strategies and parental care are described in detail in this book.

Transforming Food Environments

Edited by Charlotte EL Evans

This book features evidence from several disciplines exploring initiatives that have improved food environments and discusses the importance of achieving success in equitable and sustainable ways. It presents information on diverse food environments followed by methods that help readers become aware of the design of interventions and food policies. It covers food environments in schools, workplaces, and community centres as well as fast food establishments and food marketing. The book presents methods to help encourage better food choices and purchase of healthier foods.

Xenopus

From Basic Biology to Disease Models in the Genomic Era
 Edited by Abraham Fainsod and Sally A. Moody, George Washington University SMHS, Washington D.C., USA

This book focuses on the amphibian, Xenopus, one of the most commonly used model animals in the biological sciences. Over the past 50 years the use of Xenopus has made possible many fundamental contributions to our knowledge in cell biology, developmental biology, molecular biology, and neurobiology. In recent years, with the completion of the genome sequence of the main two species and the application of genome editing techniques, Xenopus has emerged as a powerful system to study fundamental disease mechanisms and test treatment possibilities. It has proven to be an essential vertebrate model system for understanding fundamental cell and developmental biological processes.

Concise Textbook of Small Animal Handling

A Practical Handbook

C. B. Chastain, Univ. of Missouri, College of Veterinary Medicine, Columbia, USA

This instructional pocket reference condenses the most important aspects of small animal handling. It provides a portable, durable means of learning 'on the ground'. Spiralbound for practical use at the animal's side during veterinary placements in a clinic or laboratory, the text covers handler safety, animal safety, sanitation, approach and capture, handling for medical procedures and use and supply sources of restraint equipment. A Companion Website provides additional self-assessment questions and answers to aid learning. Important reading for undergraduate veterinary students as well as practicing technicians, nurses and assistants.

Illustrated Textbook of Farm Animal Clinical Diagnosis

Philip R. Scott, Edinburgh Veterinary School

Providing veterinary students with a brand-new approach to large animal medicine, this portable textbook first describes the detailed examination of each organ system achievable on the farm, illustrated via 2000+ unique images and 1000+ video recordings. Key points, images and video recordings then provide differential diagnoses for common farm animal clinical presentations. The repository of video clips show the clinical presentation, diagnosis, recovery or pathology of all common disorders. Small and spiral-bound, the book offers a lifeline for veterinary students during their EMS (extra-mural studies) placements.

Parasitology

A Conceptual Approach

Eric S. Loker, University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, NM and Bruce V. Hofkin, University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, NM

Produced amidst the rippling effects of a pandemic and as the world experiences the increasing burden of global warming, the second edition of Parasitology offers a timely overview of the eukaryotic parasites affecting human health and the health of animals and plants. It offers a broadly encompassing, integrative view of the phenomenon of parasitism and of the remarkable diversity of the world's parasites. This second edition, aimed chiefly at an upper-undergraduate audience, has been thoroughly updated on all aspects of parasitism, including expanded sections on parasite biodiversity, parasite genomes and applications of new techniques like CRISPR for parasite control

Public Health Entomology

Jerome Goddard, Mississippi State University, Mississippi State, USA

In the struggle against vector-borne diseases, we must bridge the gap between vector control workers on the ground and public health planners and administrators. This second edition of Public Health Entomology fits Certificate courses in public health entomology offered by universities and U.S. Centers of Excellence. It comprehensively examines vector-borne disease prevention, surveillance, and control from a governmental and public health perspective. Author Jerome Goddard's ability to communicate his knowledge and experience to public health students, professionals, and the general public make this book an essential resource.

Bacterial Biosurfactants

Isolation, Purification, Characterization, and Industrial Applications

B. K. Konwar

This volume offers comprehensive coverage of bacterial biosurfactants, the competitive new area of research that has exciting potential application in agriculture and petroleum exploration. The book helps readers to understand the synthesis of biosurfactants by some specific bacteria, their culture, and extraction toward the use in bioremediation and enhanced crude oil recovery. With this volume scholars will be encouraged to take up meaningful research in the area; teachers will find the book to be helpful in elucidating the intricacies of bacterial biosurfactant production and use; and researchers will find the procedures described in the book helpful in deriving potential results.

Internet of Things for Agriculture 4.0

Impact and Challenges

Edited by Rajesh Singh, Amit Kumar Thakur, Anita Gehlot and Ajay Kumar Kaviti

This book provides an insightful look at the varied and exciting uses and applications of Wi-Fi and the Internet of Things in agriculture. With internet-enabled communications becoming more widely available, farms and agricultural establishments can take advantage of these new technologies for a wide range of farm operations, such as crop management, farm vehicle tracking, livestock monitoring, storage monitoring, and more.

The volume will be useful for those involved in agricultural operations as well as scientists and researchers, and faculty and students in agriculture and computer and information science engineering.

Nanomaterials-Based Sensing Platforms

Towards the Efficient Detection of Biomolecules and Gases

Edited by Aneeya K. Samantara, Sudarsan Raj and Satyajit Ratha

Presents a brief history behind the sensing technology and also emphasizes a broad range of biosensing techniques based on optical and electrochemical response methods. Starting from the traditional enzyme-based biosensing method to functionalized nanostructure-based sensors, this book also provides a detailed overview of some of the advanced sensing methodologies based on photonic crystal cavity-based sensing devices. It discusses electrochemical sensing, gas sensing, photo-electrochemical sensing, and colorimetric sensing, all of which have shown potential.

Nature's Gift to Neuroscience

A Tribute to Sydney Brenner and John Sulston

Edited by Chun-Fang Wu, University of Iowa and Joy Alcedo, Wayne State University

As a tribute to Sydney Brenner and John Sulston, this book captures the perspectives of some of the early pioneers of the worm community, from Martin Chalfie, Robert Waterston and Donald Moerman to Catherine Rankin, Antony Stretton and John White. It also includes contributions from subsequent generations of the community, who explore the development and function of the C. elegans nervous system.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Neurogenetics

The Fascinating Stories Behind These and Other Neuroscience Terms

Régis Olry, University of Québec at Trois-Rivières and Duane E. Haines, University of Mississippi

This book is a fascinating collection of various neuroscience terms coined over the last two centuries. Each of the 45 chapters in this book dives deep into the etymologies, vernacular subtleties and historical anecdotes relating to these terms.

All the chapters included in this book were originally published in a column that appeared from 1997–2020 in the Journal of the History of the Neurosciences.

The Evolution of Multicellularity

Edited by Matthew D. Herron, Georgia Institute of Technology, GA, USA, Peter L. Conlin and William C. Ratcliff, Georgia Institute of Technology, GA, USA

Series: Evolutionary Cell Biology

Among the most important innovations in the history of life is the transition from single-celled organisms to more complex, multicellular organisms. Multicellularity has evolved repeatedly across the tree of life, resulting in the evolution of new kinds of organisms that collectively constitute a significant portion of Earth's biodiversity and have transformed the biosphere. This volume examines the origins and subsequent evolution of multicellularity, reviewing the types of multicellular groups that exist, their evolutionary relationships, the processes that led to their evolution, and the conceptual frameworks in which their evolution is understood.

Sustainable Agriculture for Food Security

A Global Perspective

Edited by Acharya Balkrishna

This book takes an analytical approach to issues related to current agricultural practices. It looks at global geographical data and key statistical reports to aid readers in comparing, understanding, and making agricultural decisions. Written for a wide audience, this volume is a thoughtful overview and analysis of the increasingly necessary topic of sustainable agriculture for food security and will be of interest to faculty and research scholars, working professionals, social activists, policymakers, farmers, and institutions involved in agricultural education, research, and development.

The Governance of Agriculture in Post-Brexit UK

Edited by Irene Antonopoulos, Matt Bell, Aleksandra Čavoški, University of Birmingham, UK and Ludivine Petetin

Series: Earthscan Food and Agriculture

This book provides a multidisciplinary analysis of the impact of Brexit on British agriculture and associated areas, discussing the Common Agricultural Policy and the Agriculture Act 2020. ; The Brexit referendum provoked new debates and questions over the future of agriculture in Britain and the potential positive and negative impacts of Brexit on both farmers and consumers.

These debates as well as the ensuing proposals relevant to the Agriculture Act 2020 have exposed the multidimensional effects of Brexit when it comes to agriculture.

The Chemical Biology of Thrombin

Roger L. Lundblad, Lundblad Biotechnology, Chapel Hill, North Carolina, USA

Chemical Biology of Thrombin is a comprehensive review of thrombin as regulatory protease, perhaps one of the most important enzyme in hemostasis. The book focuses on work from 1970's to the present time. Rapid advances in the cell biology of thrombin resulted from the ready availability of highly purified thrombin. In addition to its role hemostasis, thrombin has some emerging therapeutic uses such the treatment of pseudoaneurysms. Thrombin also has an important role in the extravascular space as a regulatory protease.

TEXTBOOK • READER

Theory and Design of Fermentation Processes

Davide Dionisi, University of Aberdeen, Aberdeen, UK

This textbook covers the kinetics and design of fermentation processes (any industrial process that use living microbes). It starts with concise introduction to microbes and their metabolism, followed by rate equations, stoichiometry, derivation and use of mass balances for the design processes. It covers oxygen transfer and mass balances, heat transfer, and design and scale-up/scale-down of fermentation processes. It further includes industrially relevant process examples, over 100 solved examples, questions and problems, and solution of differential equations and systems of equations in Excel. This book aims at senior undergraduate students in biochemical (fermentation) engineering.

Microbial Surfactants

Applications in Food and Agriculture, Volume 2

Edited by Riyazali Zafarali Sayyed and Hesham Ali El Enshasy

Series: Industrial Biotechnology

The main aim of this volume is to highlight the concept, classification, production and applications of microbial surfactants in food and agriculture. The book provides a comprehensive coverage of fermentation, recovery, genomics and metagenomics of biosurfactant production. It is presented in an easy-to-understand manner, and includes protocols, figures, and recent data on the industrial demand. Market and economics, and the production of biosurfactants from novel substrates are particularly worthwhile additions. The volume will be useful for students, researchers, teachers, and entrepreneurs in the area of PGPR and allied fields.

Forensic Science

A Sociological Introduction

Christopher Lawless, University of Durham, UK

Forensic Science provides a comprehensive overview of the sociology of forensic science. Drawing on a wealth of international research and case studies, it explores the intersection of science, technology, law and society and examines the production of forensic knowledge. The book explores a range of key topics such as: The integration of science into police work and criminal investigation; The relationship between law and science; Algorithms etc. This new edition also reviews and critically appraises recent scholarship in the field, and new international case studies have been introduced, providing readers with an international comparative perspective.

Bioactive Peptides from Food

Sources, Analysis, and Functions

Edited by Leo M.L. Nollet, Univ. College Ghent, BE (Retired) and Semih Ötles

Series: Food Analysis & Properties

This book considers fundamental concepts, sources, hydrolysis, fractionation, purification, analysis, chemical synthesis, functions, and regulatory status of nutraceutical bioactive peptides. Methods of isolation of these peptides from different protein sources with their in vitro and in vivo physiological effects are addressed. Divided into seven sections, this book delves into how these peptides play a major role in the development of various functional foods. Numerous bioactive peptides have been reported in recent years as naturally present or generated from food proteins of different origins like milk, eggs, soya, fish, and meat.

Chia and Quinoa

Superfoods for Health

Manju Nehra and Suresh Kumar Gahlawat, Ch. Devi Lal University, India

Chia and quinoa are trending in food markets because of their nutritional value and potential as weight management components. These seeds store essential fatty acids, amino acids, minerals, vitamins, and dietary fiber. This book discusses sources, structure, and nutritional information on both chia and quinoa as well as their chemical, functional, and physical properties. Presents information on the bioactive constituents and applications of chia and quinoa in the nutraceutical industry. Includes recipes for both chia and quinoa. Features information on chia and quinoa as sources of plant-based "heart healthy" fatty acids for vegans and vegetarians.

Fenugreek

Traditional and Modern Medicinal Uses

Edited by Dilip Ghosh, Nutriconnect, Sydney, Australia and Prasad Thakurdesai

For many centuries, fenugreek, one of the most popular spices and vegetables, has been an integral part of culinary practices in many cultures because of its exceptional nutritional and medicinal profile. At the same time, the scientific evidence for its potential health benefits has been understudied but is now beginning to grow.

This book is a comprehensive compilation and documentation on the scientific profile of fenugreek and its phytoconstituents, including its most known applications and benefits.

The defining concepts of interior design

Sally Stone and Edward Hollis

Every built structure has an interior: whether it takes the rough form of a rudimentary shelter, the grey walls of a hospital or the finessed decoration of a one-off residence. We spend most of our time inside buildings. Shut your eyes and you will find yourself in your own interior. You will always be inside. Mastering the language, thinking and history of the interior is critical to understanding and designing spaces. This essential primer transcends the boundaries and genres that often define interiors, providing a comprehensive view of the concepts and vocabulary of interior design.

Revaluing Modern Architecture

RIBA # Publishing

Changing conservation culture

John Allan

The conservation of our architectural heritage is a long-running subject of debate. When do buildings become old enough to warrant special heritage status and protection? Who decides which buildings are historically significant enough to protect and conserve? And what does this mean for building users and owners, who might well be better served if their buildings were less authentic, but more comfortable and usable? Presenting a clear line of sight through these knotty problems, this book explores the conservation, regeneration and adaptive re-use of Modern architecture.

The Happy Design Toolkit

Architecture for Better Mental Wellbeing

Ben Channon

If you were to design a building that prioritises occupants' happiness, what would it look like? How would the materials, form and layout support healthy ways of living and working? Delving into the evidenced-based research on architecture and mental wellbeing, The Happy Design Toolkit helps you to create happier places. It explores how factors, such as lighting, comfort, control over our environments and access to nature, exercise and social interaction, can impact how we feel. Easy-to-understand tips include bringing nature into your developments with roof gardens and living facades and countering social isolation with communal areas that encourage chance interaction.

Building Theories

Architecture as the Art of Building

Franca Trubiano, University of Pennsylvania, USA

This book explores significant and timely topics for both the design and construction of contemporary architecture by challenging its very practice of theory. It proposes an alternative definition of architectural theory; one that is able and willing to confront the many contradictions now faced by designers, architects, engineers, and builders who negotiate often overwhelming technological imperatives. It valorises the, as yet, untapped potential of thinking through building, preparing the foundations for a critical return to the art of making that is architecture.

Microalgae Building Enclosures

Design and Engineering Principles

Kyoung-Hee Kim

Microalgae Building Enclosures: Design and Engineering Principles aims to provide design, engineering, and biotechnical guidelines for microalgae building enclosures that need to be considered for symbiotic relations among the built environment, humans, and ecosystems.

As one of the first books to comprehensively cover this emerging area of microalgae building enclosures, Microalgae Building Enclosures is an essential source for professionals and students looking to expand architectural discourse on nature integrated building systems to achieve the triple bottom line of sustainability.

The Urbanism of Metabolism

Visions, Scenarios and Models for the Mutant City of Tomorrow

Edited by Raffaele Pernice, UNSW, Australia

This edited book explores and promotes reflection on how the lessons of Metabolism experience can inform current debate on city making and future practice in architectural design and urban planning. The essays are written by experienced scholars and renowned academics from Japan, Australia, Europe, S. Korea and the US and expose Metabolism's special merits in promoting new urban models and evaluate the current legacy of its architectural projects and urban design lessons. They offer a critical, intellectual, and up-to-date account of the Metabolism projects and ideas in the context of current evolution of architectural and urbanism discourse in a global context.

Architecture in Development

Systems and the Emergence of the Global South

Edited by Aggregate Architectural History Collaborative

This extensive text investigates how architects, planners, and other related experts responded to the contexts and discourses of "development" after WWII. This book sets out to examine the arrays of power, resources, technologies, networking, and knowledge that cluster around the term of development, and the manner in which architects and planners negotiated these thicket in their multiple capacities, as knowledge experts, as technicians, as negotiators, and as occasional authorities on settlements, space, domesticity, education, health, and every other field where arguments for development were made.

Ecologies of Inception

Design Potentials on a Warming Planet

Simone Ferracina, University of Edinburgh, UK

Responding to increasing levels of planetary pollution and environmental collapse, this book re-thinks potentiality—an object's ability to change—in architecture and design. The book problematizes the still-prevailing modern paradigm of design practice: the technical tabula rasa, a tendency to begin from scratch and use raw and obedient materials that can be easily manipulated, facilitating a seamless and faithful embodiment of intentions. Instead, the philosophy of design developed in the text prompts—through a variety of case studies, thinkers, and disciplines—a collective reconsideration of value, dissociating it from the projects and signatures of any one author or generation.

Latour for Architects

Alben Yaneva, University of Manchester, UK

Series: Thinkers for Architects

Latour for Architects is the first introduction to the key concepts and ideas of Bruno Latour that are relevant to architects. First, the book discusses critically how specific methods and insights from his philosophy can inspire new thinking in architecture and design pedagogy. Second, it explores examples from architectural practice and urban design, and reviews recent attempts to extend the methods of ANT into the fields of architectural and urban studies. Third, the book advocates an ANT-inspired approach to architecture and examines how its methodological insights can trace new research avenues in the field, reflecting meticulously on its epistemological offerings.

Urban Modernity in the Contemporary Gulf

Obsolescence and Opportunities

Edited by Roberto Fabbri, University of Monterrey, Mexico and Sultan Sooud Al-Qassemi, Barjeel Art Foundation, UAE

This book offers a timely and engaging discussion on architectural production in the modernization era in the Arabian Peninsula. Focusing on the 20th century as a starting point, the book explores the display of transnational architectural practices resulting in different notions of locality, cosmopolitanism and modernity. Presenting a diverse and geographically inclusive authorship, which combines established and up and coming researchers in the field, this is an important reference for academics and upper-level students interested in heritage studies, post-colonial urbanism and architecture in the non-West.

The Architectural Imagination at the Digital Turn

Nathalie Bredella

Series: Routledge Research in Design, Technology and Society

This book critically examines the long-held belief that the curvilinear styles and spectacular forms of architecture in the 90s was an aesthetic shaped by newly available digital technologies. It takes a closer look at what was happening behind the scenes, examining the economic, social, and material context behind some of the 90s' key architectural projects. Using selected case studies, drawn primarily from the US and Europe, the book dispels some of the mystique around these projects and considers the work of architects Bernard Cache, Greg Lynn and Lars Spuybroek. It offers scholars and students fresh insights into how architecture can engage with the digital realm today.

Building Rural Community Resilience Through Innovation and Entrepreneurship

Edited by Charlie French

Series: Community Development Research and Practice Series

Drawing from empirical analyses, case studies, and a synthesis of best practices, this book explores how innovation manifests itself in rural places and how it contributes to entrepreneurial development and resilience. Innovation in rural places may come about as a result of new forms of collaboration; policies that leverage rural assets and address critical service or product gaps, novel strategies for accessing financial capital; infusion of arts into aspects of community life; and cultivation of networks that bridge entrepreneurs, organizations, and institutions.

Co-Crafting the Just City

Tales from the Field by a Planning Scholar Turned Mayor

James A. Throgmorton

In this new book, former Iowa City Mayor and Professor Emeritus James A. Throgmorton provides readers a sense of what democratically-elected city council members and mayors in the United States do and what it feels like to occupy and enact those roles. He does so by telling a set of "practice stories" focusing primarily, but not exclusively, on what he, a tenured planning professor at the University of Iowa, experienced and learned as a council member from 2012 through 2019 and, simultaneously, as mayor from 2016 through 2019. The book proposes a practical, action-oriented theory about how city futures are being (and can be) shaped.

New Industrial Urbanism

Designing Places for Production

Tali Hatuka and Eran Ben-Joseph

New Industrial Urbanism explores the evolving and future relationships between cities and places of production, focusing on the spatial implications and physical design of integrating contemporary manufacturing into the city.

Moving the conversation beyond the reflexively-negative characterizations of industry, more than two centuries after the start of the Industrial Revolution, this book calls to re-consider the ways in which industry creates places, sustains jobs, and supports environmental sustainability in our cities.

The Politics of Street Trees

Edited by Jan Woudstra and Camilla Allen

This book focuses on the politics of street trees and the institutions, actors and processes that govern their planning, planting and maintenance. This is an innovative approach which is particularly important in the context of mounting environmental and societal challenges and reveals a huge amount about the nature of modern life, of social change and political conflict. By pursuing an interdisciplinary approach this book produces an information base for academics, practitioners, politicians and activists alike, thus contributing to a fairer political debate that helps to promote more democratic environments that are sustainable, equitable, comfortable, and healthier.

Joan Irvine, William Pereira, Ray Watson, and the Big Plan

C. Michael Stockstill, Former Public Affairs Executive, the Irvine Company and H. Pike Oliver, Chair Emeritus, Rustead Department of Real Estate, University of Washington

Series: American Real Estate Society Book Series

Transforming the Irvine Ranch tells the story of Orange County's metamorphosis from 93,000 acres of farmland into an iconic Southern California landscape of beaches and modern architecture. This vivid chronicle draws on decades of archival research and the authors' time at the famed Irvine Company to bring the colorful characters responsible for the transformation to life. Spanning the history of modern California from its Gold Rush past to high-tech present, this family and social history recounts the Irvine Company's largely successful attempts to remake its corner of the state in its own image.

Alvar Aalto and The Art of Landscape

Teija Isohauta

Series: Routledge Research in Landscape and Environmental Design

Alvar Aalto and The Art of Landscape captures the essence of the Finnish architect's landscape concept, emphasising culture and tradition, which characterised his approach to and understanding of architecture as part of the wider environment. From the forests of his youth to sights from his travels, Alvar Aalto (1898 – 1976) was influenced by outdoor landscapes. Throughout his career, he felt the need to shape the terrain and this became a signature of his architecture.

Housing in Turkey

Policy, Planning, Practice

Edited by Ö. Burcu Özdemir Sari, Esma Aksoy Khurami and Nil Ozun

This book presents the major features of the path that Turkish housing system has followed since 2000. Its primary focus is to build an understanding of housing in Turkey from the policy, planning, and implementation perspectives in the 21st century, interwoven with the effects of neoliberalism. It investigates the social, spatial, and economic outcomes of the shift in philosophy and behaviour by the government regarding housing. The book discusses failures in housing outcomes as government failures, incorrect or inefficient regulations, lack of regulations, and lack of monitoring of the policy outcomes.

Sustainable Smart City Transitions

Theoretical Foundations, Sociotechnical Assemblage and Governance Mechanisms

Edited by Luca Mora, Mark Deakin, Xiaoling Zhang, Michael Batty, Martin de Jong, Paolo Santi and Francesco Paolo Appio

This book enhances the reader's understanding of the theoretical foundations, sociotechnical assemblage, and governance mechanisms of sustainable smart city transitions. Focusing on different empirical settings, change dimensions, and analytical elements, the attention moves from the sociotechnical requirements of citywide transition pathways to the development of sector-specific smart city projects and technological innovations, in particular in the fields of urban mobility and urban governance.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Urban Technology.

Waterfront Design in Small Mediterranean Port Towns

Giovanna Piga

Series: Routledge Research in Planning and Urban Design

This book addresses issues that waterfronts face in small Mediterranean port towns due to the increase in the tourism industry. Integrating theory and pragmatic approaches, Waterfront Design in Small Port Towns proposes a design matrix.

Coating Application for Piping, Valves and Actuators in Offshore Oil and Gas Industry

Karan Sotoodeh, University of Stavanger, Norway

In the corrosive environment of a sea water setting, coatings to protect pipes, valves and actuators are essential. This book provides both the theory behind these coatings, as well as practical application, including case studies from multinational companies. It begins by covering different offshore zones and their corrosivity level, alongside the different type of external corrosion such as stress cracking and hydrogen induced stress cracking. Key coatings discussed are zinc rich coating, thermal spray zinc or aluminum, phenolic epoxy, and passive fire protection, with a review of their defects and potential failures.

Marine Corrosion and Cathodic Protection

Chris Googan, Accredited Corrosion Specialist, UK

Cathodic protection (CP) enables the control of corrosion of steel and other materials in seawater and seabed sediments. This comprehensive practitioner guide presents CP theory to industry-recognised codes for basic and advanced applications to metals, with an outline of subsea coating systems. The interactions between CP and the fatigue and hydrogen embrittlement characteristics of alloys, and sacrificial (or galvanic) anodes and impressed current systems are explained. It covers retrofitting and for internal applications, along with computational modelling, and the management of offshore CP systems.

Nanotechnology for Smart Concrete

Ghasan Fahim Huseien, Nur Hafizah A. Khalid and Jahangir Mirza

Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

Nanomaterials have been shown to markedly improve the mechanical properties of concrete, as well as to reduce the porosity and enhance the durability of concrete. Nanotechnology for Smart Concrete discusses the advantages and applications of nanomaterials in concrete including high-strength performance, microstructural improvement, self-healing, energy storage, and coatings. It analyzes the linkage of concrete materials with nanomaterials and nanostructures. It also discusses applications of nanomaterials in the concrete industry, including energy storage in green buildings, anti-corrosive coatings, and inhibiting pathogens and viruses.

Quality Control and Assurance of the Deep Mixing Method

Masaki Kitazume, Department of Civil Engineering, Tokyo Institute of Technology, Tokyo, Japan

The deep mixing method (DM) improved ground is a composite system comprising stiff stabilized soil and un-stabilized soft soil, which necessitates geotechnical engineers to fully understand the interaction of stabilized and un-stabilized soils and the engineering characteristics of in-situ stabilized soil. The process design, production with careful quality control and quality assurance are the key issues in the DM project. This book is intended to provide the state of the art and practice of quality control and assurance on deep mixing in detail based on the experience and research efforts accumulated in the past 50 years.

Smart Cities

Critical Debates on Big Data, Urban Development and Social Environmental Sustainability

Edited by Negin Minaei

It is interesting to note that many "smart" solutions for cities are leading to an unsustainable future, including further electrification, an increased dependence on the Internet, Internet of Things, Big Data, and Artificial Intelligence, and basically any technology that leads us to consume more electricity. This book examines critical topics in Smart Cities such as true sustainability and the resilience required for all cities. It explores sustainability issues in agriculture and the role of agri-technology for a sustainable future, including a city's ability to locally produce food for its residents.

Design of Structural Elements

Concrete, Steelwork, Masonry and Timber Designs to Eurocodes
Chanakya Arya, University College, London

This is a concise introduction to the design of structural elements in concrete, steel, timber, masonry and composites. It provides design principles and guidance in line with Eurocodes, current as of 2021. Topics include the philosophy of design, sustainable development, basic structural concepts, and material properties. The chapters encompass numerous diagrams and worked examples on design in reinforced concrete, structural steelwork and steel/concrete composites, masonry and timber based on EN 1990-1997. Elements considered cover reinforced concrete and composite floors, isolated foundation, cantilever retaining wall, load-bearing and panel walls, stud wall and connections.

Experiment Design for Environmental Engineering

Methods and Examples

Francis J. Hopcroft and Abigail Charest, Wentworth Institute of Technology, MA, USA

This book provides a wide range of practical environmental engineering laboratory experiments for implementation by students in a university laboratory or by practicing professionals in the field, along with an extensive discussion on how to design an experiment that will provide meaningful and useful data, how to interpret the data generated from an experiment, and how to present those data to an audience of other students or professionals. The example experiments provide a way to evaluate a new design against an existing experiment to determine what information is most appropriate in each section and how to format the data for the most effective outcome.

LRFD Bridge Design

Fundamentals and Applications

Tim Huff

This book examines and explains material from the 9th edition of the AASHTO LRFD Bridge Design Specifications, including deck and parapet design, load calculations, limit states and load combinations, concrete and steel I-girder design, bearing design, and more. With increased focus on earthquake resiliency, two separate chapters— one on conventional seismic design and the other on seismic isolation applied to bridges— will fully address this vital topic. The primary focus is on steel and concrete I-girder bridges, with regard to both superstructure and substructure design.

Notes on Numerical Modeling in Geomechanics

William G Pariseau

This book is an introduction to numerical analysis in geomechanics and is intended for advanced undergraduate and beginning graduate study of the mechanics of porous, jointed rocks and soils. Although familiarity with the concepts of stress, strain and so on is assumed, a review of the fundamentals of solid mechanics including concepts of physical laws, kinematics and material laws is presented in an appendix. Emphasis is on the popular finite element method but brief explanations of the boundary element method, the distinct element method (also known as the discrete element method) and discontinuous deformation analysis are included.

Climate Changes and Epidemiological Hotspots

Debleena Bhattacharya, Marwadi Educational Foundation Group of Institutions, Rajkot, Gujarat, India and V K Singh, InnovatioCuris, Noida, U.P, India

Climatic change plays an integral part in planetary health and amongst the most important global environmental settings that has an impact on human health. The linkage between the environmental change and disease dynamics has been highlighted in recent times and hence, emphasis on environmental sustainability to reduce future epidemics. Present book focusses on the relationship between climatic change and epidemiological factors with an approach to reduce the global hotspots. The climatic changes relevant to periods of activity and variations in geographical distribution is addressed including interconnection of sustainability; population growth and environmental change.

Energy from Waste

Production and Storage

Edited by Ram K. Gupta and Tuan Anh Nguyen

Conversion of waste into value-added products such as energy transforms a potential environmental problem into a sustainable solution. This book focuses on the conversion of waste from various sources for use in energy production and storage applications. It provides the state-of-the-art in developing advanced materials and chemicals for energy applications using wastes and discusses the various treatment processes and technologies. This work provides new direction to scientists, researchers, and students in materials and chemical engineering and related subjects seeking to sustainable solutions to energy production and waste management.

Handbook on Tunnels and Underground Works

Volume 1: Concept – Basic Principles of Design

Edited by Emilio Bilotta, Renato Casale, Claudio Giulio di Prisco, Salvatore Miliziano, Daniele Peila, Andrea Pigorini and Enrico Maria Pizzarotti

This book set provides a global, up-to-date, thorough, clear and practical new risk-based approach to tunnelling design and construction methods and discusses detailed examples of solutions applied to relevant case histories. It is organised in three sequential and integrated volumes:

VOLUME 1 "Concept – Basic Principles of Design"; VOLUME 2 "Construction – Methods, Equipment, Tools and Materials"; VOLUME 3 "Case Histories and Best Practices"

The set covers all aspects of tunnelling, giving useful and practical information about design (Vol. 1), construction (Vol. 2) and best practices (Vol. 3).

Passive Vibration Control of Structures

Suhasini Madhekar, Department of Civil Engineering, College of Engineering, Pune, India and Vasant Matsagar, Department of Civil Engineering, Indira Institute of Technology, Delhi, India

Research in structural vibration control deals with catastrophic failures of civil structures during natural hazards. Therefore, the focus of the proposed book will be on theory of dynamic response control of structures by using different kinds of passive vibration control devices. The strategies used for controlling displacement, velocity, and acceleration of structures such as buildings and bridges under the action of dynamic loads emanating from earthquake, wind, wave, etc. will be detailed. The book will contain explanation of mathematical modelling of civil structures equipped with the passive controllers, their dynamic analysis and design, and assessment of the results.

Vibration Mitigation Systems in Structural Engineering

Okyay Altay, Center for Wind and Earthquake Engineering, Chair of Structural Analysis and Dynamics, Faculty of Civil Engineering RWTH Aachen University, Germany

The scope of the book is the application of vibration mitigation systems in structural engineering. The intended content includes the theoretical background covering aspects from both structural dynamics and control engineering. Moreover, passive, active and semi-active devices will be explained in detail giving mathematical principles, design considerations and application examples. The proposed book will also contain detailed information about structural monitoring, as an essential part of the active/semi-active systems. Therefore, it aims to give a full overview about passive, active and semi-active systems in the specific context of civil engineering.

Survey and Assessment of Traditionally Constructed Brickwork

Moses Jenkins, Historic Environment Scotland, UK

The principal aim of this book is to improve the survey and assessment of traditionally constructed brickwork. It aims to ensure that those who have a cause to survey and assess buildings constructed of traditional (pre-1919) brickwork have a well-developed, clear methodology for undertaking effective, comprehensive surveys. This book provides an invaluable resource to all those who survey and assess buildings which are constructed of brickwork. This includes building professionals such as architects, surveyors, engineers and those working in building conservation; but also, construction managers and students studying built environment disciplines.

International Construction Management

How the Global Industry Reshapes the World

Igor Martek, Deakin University - Australia

This book tells you everything you need to know about international construction: the companies, their markets, the types of projects they build, how they compete and operate, and how it affects us all. The insights provide guidance on how global construction companies develop competitive advantage and stay resilient in the face of a mercurial global economy. Utilization, Technology and Financing

Kriti Yadav, Pandit Deendayal Petroleum University (PDPU), India, Anirbid Sircar, School of Petroleum Technology, Pandit Deendayal Petroleum University (PDPU), India, and Apurwa Yadav

This book focuses on usage of geothermal energy in countries with low enthalpy reservoirs. It initiates with the fundamentals of geothermal energy, classification of geothermal resources and their importance including Enhanced Geothermal Systems (EGS). Further, it discusses creation, production, potential assessment, perspective analysis, life cycle and environment assessments, of EGS. It describes applications in the field of geothermal energy with relevant case studies and introduces the application of Machine Learning techniques in the field of geothermal sectors. This is aimed at researchers, graduate students in geology, clean energy, geothermal energy, and thermal engineering.

COVID-19 Public Health Measures

An Augmented Reality Perspective

Nuzhat F. Shaikh, Modern Education Society's College of Engineering, Pune, India., Ajinkya Kunjir, Lakehead University, Thunder Bay, Ontario, Canada, Juveriya Shaikh, Modern Education Society's College of Engineering, Pune, India and Parikshit Narendra Mahalle, STES's, Smt. Kashibai Navale College of Engineering, Pune, India.

Series: Intelligent Signal Processing and Data Analysis

Considering the overall situation of current pandemic and pertinent recommendations, this book focuses on the use of Augmented Reality (AR) applications for COVID-19 outbreak along with techniques, tools and platforms to achieve social distancing and sanitization. It contains theoretical and practical knowledge of AR and remedies on how to cope with the technology including multiple use cases along with a set of recommendations. It illustrates application building using open source softwares with an interactive interface to aid the impaired users. The initial part of the book emphasizes on the basic knowledge of AR, technology, devices and rest of the relevant theories.

Climate Change in the Arctic

An Indian Perspective

Edited by Nelay Khare, Ministry of Earth Sciences, Government of India, New Delhi, INDIA

The Arctic, the northernmost part of Earth, is the hotspot for climate change assessments and the sensitive barometer of global climate variability. This book includes scientific observations on the Arctic region climate and the results achieved by scientists at the Indian Arctic station Himadri over the last decade. Designed and structured to incorporate multi-dimensional climate change research, the book is a significant contribution to understand among other issues, the role of persistent organic pollutants and mercury, as well as the increase of carbon monoxide during ozone reduction in the Arctic. It is an important work for researchers, students, and all interested professionals.

Design, Operation, and Control of Insect-Rearing Systems

Science, Technology, and Infrastructure

Allen Carson Cohen, Department of Entomology and Plant Pathology, North Carolina State University, USA

Insect rearing serves a wide array of purposes including research, pest control by sterile insect technique and biological control, production of insects for food for other animals, conservation, education, and even far-reaching technology where insects are used to produce products such as pharmaceutical materials and strong, multipurpose textiles. This book explains the fundamental components of insect rearing: 1) the rearing systems per se, 2) personnel, 3) education of rearing personnel, 4) communication of procedures, 5) facilities where rearing is conducted, and 6) funding for all these components.

Elements of Rock Physics and their Application to Inversion and AVO Studies

Robert S. Gullco and Malcolm Anderson

This book deals with a series of topics in rock physics, including elasticity, pore pressure, incompressibility of rocks and the Gassmann equation, fluid substitution, forward modeling and empirical equations, rock physics applications to AVO studies and inversion studies, and the Differential Effective Medium (DEM) method. This book will serve as a useful guide to practitioners (geologists, petrophysicists, geophysicists as well as reservoir engineers) and students/academics.

Global Application of Prescribed Fire

Edited by John R Weir, Oklahoma State Univ. and Derek Scasta, Univ. of Wyoming

This book provides a first-hand perspective of the ways people around the world view and use prescribed fire. It covers the logistics, constraints and social dynamics surrounding the intentional use and application of fire by humans, and demonstrates how, why, when and where prescribed fire is utilised in different regions. Written by international experts, the book explores new techniques and ideas on how to apply prescribed fire from a global perspective; provides regional case-studies, stimulates cross-cultural conversations about how fires function in ecosystems; and relates prescribed fire with wildfire regimes.

Land Carbon Cycle Modeling

Matrix Approach, Data Assimilation, & Ecological Forecasting

Edited by Yiqi Luo, University of Oklahoma, Norman, USA and Benjamin Smith, Lund University, Sweden

This book addresses the crucial question of how to assess, evaluate, and estimate the potential impact of the additional carbon to the global carbon cycle. The contributors describe a set of models for exploring ecological questions regarding changes in carbon cycling; provide background for developing new models; employs data assimilation techniques for model improvement; and do real- or near-time ecological forecasting for decision support. This book strives to balance theoretical considerations, technical details, and applications of ecosystem modeling for research, assessment, and crucial decision making.

Essential Architecture and Principles of Systems Engineering

Charles Dickerson

This book is for everyone interested in systems and the modern practice of engineering. The revolution in engineering and systems that has occurred since Architecture and Principles of Systems Engineering (2009) has led to an expansive advancement of systems engineering tools and languages over the past decade. A new age of information intensive complex systems has arrived with new challenges in a global business market. Science and information technology must now converge into a cohesive multidisciplinary approach to the engineering of systems if products and services are to be useful and competitive.

Ahmed F. El-Sayed, Zagazig University, Egypt

Foreign Object Debris and Damage in Aviation discusses biological and non-biological Foreign Object Debris (FOD) and associated Foreign Object Damage (FOD) in aviation. Written for aviation industry personnel, aircraft transport and ground operators, and aircraft pilots, readers will learn to manage FOD to guarantee air traffic safety with minimum costs to airlines and airports. Management control for the debris begins at the aircraft design phase, and the book includes numerical analyses for estimating damage caused by strikes. It explores aircraft operation in adverse weather conditions and inanimate FOD management programs for airports, airframe, and engine manufacturers.

Nanomaterials for Environmental Applications

Edited by Mohamed Abou El-Fetouh Barakat and Rajeev Kumar

Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

The book offers a comprehensive review of the latest advances in nanomaterials-based technologies for the treatment of emerging contaminants in wastewater. It describes the latest developments in synthesis protocols, including synthesis of different kinds of nanostructure materials using various physical and chemical methods. Aimed at researchers and industry professionals, this work will be of interest to chemical, environmental, and materials engineers concerned with the application of advanced materials for environmental and water remediation.

Nanoparticle-Based Drug Delivery in Cancer Treatment

Loutfy H. Madkour, Tanta University, Egypt

Series: Nanotechnology for Drugs, Vaccines and Smart Delivery Systems

Careful choice of nanoparticles as targets and in drug delivery routes enhances therapeutic efficacy in cancer. This book discusses nanotechnological developments of interfering RNA-based nanoparticles and delivery vehicles, validated therapeutic RNAi-molecular target interactions, and explains the results of clinical and preclinical trials. The book also gives strategies which might be universal methods for constructing hybrid organic-inorganic nanomaterials and can be widely applied in biomedical field. The book is written for researchers, professors, and students researching drug delivery, gene carriers, cancer therapy, nanotechnology, and nanomaterials.

Philosophies of Structural Safety and Reliability

Vladimir Raizer, FC&T Corporation, USA and Isaac Elishakoff, Florida Atlantic University, USA

Explaining the theory behind probabilistic analysis, fuzzy-sets based treatments, and the convex approach in detail, alongside their implementation, use and benefits, the book compares and contrasts these methods, enabling the reader to solve problems associated with uncertainty. Building on the authors' years of experience in the field, the book is an essential guide to structural uncertainty. Topics covered in the book include properties of materials and their structural deterioration, safety factor and reliability, and risk evaluation. The book will be of interest to students and professionals in the field of aerospace, civil, mechanical, marine and ocean engineering.

Flexible Multibody Dynamics

Algorithms Based on Kane's Method

Arun Banerjee, American Institute of Aeronautics & Astronautics, USA

The book uses Kane's method due to its efficiency, and the simple resulting equations it produces in comparison to other methods, and extends it with algorithms such as order-n. Kane's method compensates for the errors of premature linearization, which are often inherent within vibrations modes found in a great deal of public domain software. Describing how to build mathematical models of multibody systems with elastic components, the book applies this to systems such as construction cranes, trailers, helicopters, spacecraft, tethered satellites and underwater vehicles. It also looks at topics such as vibration, rocket dynamics, simulation of beams, deflection and matrix formulation.

Edited by Peerawatt Nunthavarawong, Sanjay Mavinkere Rangappa, King Mongkut's University of Technology, North Bangkok, Suchart Siengchin, King Mongkut's University of Technology North Bangkok and Mathew Thoppil-Mathew

Emerging microbial and viral infections are a serious challenge to health, safety, and economics around the world. Antimicrobial and antiviral technologies are needed to disrupt the progression and replication of bacteria and viruses and to counter their rapidly evolving resistance. This book discusses recent developments in materials science and engineering in combating infectious diseases and explores advances in antimicrobial and antiviral materials, including properties of various polymers, metals, and ceramics and their applications in the fight against pathogens. This book will be of interest to materials researchers and industry professionals.

Coated and Laminated Textiles for Aerostats and Airships

Material Challenges and Technology

Edited by Mangala Joshi, Indian Institute of Technology, IIT Delhi, India.

This book covers material challenges and technology innovation in coated and laminated textiles for aerostat and airship. Aerostats/airships are lighter-than-air (LTA) aircraft which are generally used in defense applications and face many harsh environmental conditions. For sustaining such conditions, special requirements are there for the material to be used in aerostat/airship which generally includes a multilayered coated/laminated textile using a textile fabric in base layer and different polymers for coating/lamination. Therefore, this book covers typical materials developed by different countries, challenges for developing material for aerostat/airship envelope and the future scope.

Formation Tracking Control for Heterogeneous Swarm Systems

Yongzhao Hua, Xiwang Dong and Zhang Ren

This book presents a systematic theoretical approach and control framework on the time-varying formation tracking for high-order heterogeneous swarm systems. Distributed controller design and stability analysis of closed-loop systems for several specific formation tracking problems are provided. Furthermore, the proposed control approaches are applied to practical cooperative experiment platforms composed of UAVs and UGVs, and several formation tracking experiments are carried out to further verify the effectiveness of the theoretical results.

Foundations of Optical System Analysis and Design

Lakshminarayan Hazra, University of Calcutta, Kolkata

Analysis and design of optical/photonics systems call for applications of principles of optics of varying degrees of approximation at different stages. Even with the ready availability of powerful software, correct use of the software calls for a good understanding of the basic principles of optical engineering. Available books have limited scope for the same. This book is designed to provide adequate material for 'self-learning' and also act as a handy reference for the students of related Masters and Doctoral courses.

Handbook of Fractional Calculus for Engineering and Science

Edited by Harendra Singh, Assistant Professor, Dept. of Mathematics, Post-Graduate College, India, H. M. Srivastava and Juan J. Nieto

Series: Advances in Applied Mathematics

Fractional calculus is used to model many real-life situations from science and engineering. The book includes contributions by many top researchers offering different topics associated with such equations and their relevance and significance in various scientific areas of study and research. In this book readers will find several important and useful methods and techniques for solving various types of fractional-order models in engineering and science. The book should be useful for graduate students, PhD students, researchers and educators interested in mathematical modelling, physical sciences, engineering sciences, applied mathematical sciences, applied sciences, and so on.

Ramesh Kumar Nayak, Maulana Azad National Institute of Technology, Bhopal, India, Mohan Kumar Pradhan, Maulana Azad National Institute of Technology, Bhopal, India and Ashok Kumar Sahoo, KIIT, deemed to be University, Bhubaneswar, India Nanocomposites (both heterogeneous and anisotropic) are hard to machine due to their enhanced properties and there is a need to know about the problems associated with the machining of nanocomposites by various conventional as well as non-conventional machining operations. Machining of nanocomposites emphasizes on different fabrication methods to develop nanocomposites (polymers, metals, and ceramics) and different machining processes used in industries. Further it describes issues and challenges including research trends associated with the same. It also evaluates mechanical and wear properties of the composites as well.

Gobi Saravanan, Sathyabama Institute of science and technology, Tamil Nadu, India, A. M. Kamalan Kirubakaran, Sathyabama Institute of Science and Technology, Tamil Nadu, India, Saravanamuthu Vigneswaran, University of Technology, Sydney (UTS), Australia. and Gayathri Naidu, University of Technology, Sydney (UTS), Australia.

This book focusses on nanostructured polymetallic coatings for corrosion and biofouling protection in offshore oil and gas pipelines, marine pipelines, ship structures, and port facilities and it discusses corrosion resistance surface of several engineered structures. Impressing upon various reasons of biofouling in pipelines that transport crude and refined petroleum, gas, biofuels, other fluids including sewage, slurry, water for drinking or irrigation, the underlying mechanism is thoroughly explained. A comparison of various protective techniques is also highlighted for choice of methods for specific applications.

Edited by Ram K. Gupta and Tuan Anh Nguyen

The materials, basic working principles, and state-of-the-art progress of flexible devices like fuel cells, solar cells, batteries, and supercapacitors are covered in this essential resource. Covering synthesis approaches for advanced energy materials in flexible devices and fabrications and fundamental design concepts of flexible energy devices such as fuel cells, solar cells, batteries, and supercapacitors, top author teams explore how newer materials with advanced properties are used to fabricate energy devices to meet the future demand for flexible electronics. Written for academics and industry professionals working in the field of energy materials, nanotechnology, and energy devices.

Baoping Jiang, Suzhou University of Science and Technology, Electronic and Information Engineering, Suzhou, China and Hamid Reza Karimi, Politecnico di Milano, Department of Mechanical Engineering, Milan, Italy

This book presents analysis and design for a class of stochastic systems with semi-Markovian jump parameters. It explores systematic analysis of semi-Markovian jump systems via sliding mode control strategy which makes up the shortages in the analysis and design of stochastic systems. This text provides a novel estimation method to deal with the stochastic stability of semi-Markovian jump systems along with design of novel integral sliding surface. Finally, Takagi-Sugeno fuzzy model approach is brought to deal with system nonlinearities and fuzzy sliding mode control laws are provided to ensure the stabilization purpose.

Stability Analysis and State Estimation of Memristive Neural Networks

Hongjian Liu, Anhui Polytechnic University, Wuhu, China., Zidong Wang, Brunel University, London, United Kingdom. and Lifeng Ma, Nanjing University of Science and Technology, Nanjing, China

The book discusses the stability analysis and estimator design problems for delayed discrete-time memristive neural networks. In each chapter, the analysis problems are firstly considered, where the stability, synchronization and other performances (e.g., robustness, disturbances attenuation level) are investigated within a unified theoretical framework. Then, the estimator design issues are discussed where sufficient conditions are derived to ensure the existence of the desired estimators with guaranteed performances. Finally, the theories and techniques developed in previous parts are applied to deal with some issues in several emerging research areas.

Testing and Balancing HVAC Air and Water Systems

Samuel C. Sugarman, Private Consultant, Newport Beach, California, USA

This thoroughly revised book will provide the reader with an understanding of the principles and practices of testing and balancing (TAB) heating, ventilating and air conditioning (HVAC) air and water systems. It is for anyone interested in testing and balancing. For the novice and the experienced testing and balancing technician it is a field reference book of procedures, equations, and information tables. For those interested in getting into TAB or are new to the HVAC industry it is a text for learning more about HVAC systems and testing and balancing.

There has been a growing interest among research communities and industries in the use of natural fibers as reinforcements in structural and semi-structural applications, given their environmental advantages. Knowledge of the vibration and damping behavior of biocomposites is essential for engineers and scientists who work in the field of composite materials. This book brings together the latest research developments in vibration and viscoelastic behavior of composites filled with different natural fibers. This compilation will benefit academics, researchers, advanced students, and practicing engineers in materials and mechanical engineering and related fields who work with biocomposites.

Artificial Intelligence and Causal Inference

Momiao Xiong, University of Texas School of Public Health, USA

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Machine Learning & Pattern Recognition

This book addresses the recent development of relationships between artificial intelligence (AI) and causal inference. Despite significant progress in AI, a great challenge in AI development we are still facing is to understand mechanism underlying intelligence, including reasoning, planning and imagination. Understanding, transfer and generalization are major principles that give rise to intelligence. One of the key components for understanding is causal inference. Causal inference includes intervention, domain shift learning, temporal structure and counterfactual thinking as major concepts to understand causation and reasoning.

Introduction to Lattice Algebra

With Applications in AI, Pattern Recognition, Image Analysis, and Biomimetic Neural Networks

Gerhard X. Ritter, Consultant, Gainesville, Florida, USA and Gonzalo Urcid

This book lays emphasis on two subjects, the first being lattice algebra and the second the practical applications of that algebra. This textbook is intended to be used for a special topics course in artificial intelligence with focus on pattern recognition, multispectral image analysis, and biomimetic artificial neural networks. The book is self-contained and – depending on the student's major – can be used at a senior undergraduate level or a first-year graduate level course. The book is also an ideal self-study guide for researchers and professionals in the above-mentioned disciplines.

Statistical Methods for Mediation, Confounding and Moderation Analysis Using R and SAS

Qingzhao Yu and Bin Li, Louisiana State University, LA, USA

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Biostatistics Series

Statistical Methods for Mediation, Confounding and Moderation Analysis Using R and SAS introduces general definitions of third-variable effects that are adaptable to all different types of response (categorical or continuous), exposure, or third-variables. Using this method, multiple third-variables of different types can be considered simultaneously, and the indirect effect carried by individual third-variables can be separated from the total effect. Readers of all disciplines familiar with introductory statistics will find this a valuable resource for analysis.

Dean G. Duffy, US Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland, USA

Series: Advances in Applied Mathematics

Developed from the author's successful textbook, Advanced Engineering Mathematics, fourth edition the author here offers topics for a second course. This text is then a companion to his book, Advanced Engineering Mathematics, Fifth Edition. These topics include essential, advanced mathematics to access as a refresher or to add to the mathematical education and address the needs of engineers and scientists who need to expand their working knowledge. These topics are driven by applications, many unique to this book, and exercises with solutions are offered to confirm understanding. MatLab is used throughout.

Class Field Theory and L Functions

Foundations and Main Results

Franz Halter-Koch, University of Graz, Austria

Through a set of related yet distinct texts, the author offers a thorough presentation of the classical theory of algebraic numbers and algebraic functions: Ideal- and valuation-theoretic aspects, L functions and class field theory, together with a presentation of algebraic foundations which are usually undersized in standard algebra courses. These books contain the whole classical theory of algebraic numbers and algebraic functions together with the prerequisites that too often receive short coverage in standard courses. Thus it should enable a broader audience to get acquainted with these theories.

Combinatorics of Permutations

Miklos Bona, University of Florida, Gainesville, USA

Series: Discrete Mathematics and Its Applications

The first editions of this award-winning book were recognized by CHOICE magazine as "Outstanding" titles and recommended by the MAA for academic libraries. The book is widely considered the primary source for graduate level courses on the topic and is also useful to researchers. This new edition is thoroughly updated with better and newer results. The area of universal permutations has undergone a lot of recent progress. There is tremendous progress in pattern avoidance. A new technique from extremal combinatorics disproving a long-standing conjecture is considered. Significant progress in the analytic combinatorics of permutations is incorporated.

Introduction to Design and Analysis of Scientific Studies

Nathan Taback, University of Toronto, Canada

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Texts in Statistical Science

Introduction to Design and Analysis of Scientific Studies exposes undergraduate and graduate students to the foundations of classical experimental design and observational studies through a modern framework - The Rubin Causal Model. A causal inference framework is important in design, data collection and analysis since it provides a framework for investigators to readily evaluate study limitations and draw appropriate conclusions. R is used to implement designs and analyse the data collected.

Numerical Analysis and Scientific Computation

Jeffery J. Leader

Series: Textbooks in Mathematics

The Second Edition is an introductory numerical analysis text with a more modern scientific computing flavour. The distinguishing approach is intended a.) bringing more modern methods, often taught at the beginning graduate level, down to the undergraduate level; b.) infusing the book with Matlab; and c.) developing the subject in a way that highlights how numerical analysis can be used in applied computational modelling, while still sticking with a primarily mathematical approach. The new edition includes Python, more on special functions and computer arithmetic, and new chapters on computational modelling/scientific programming principles and parallel computing.

5th Edition • NEW EDITION

An Introduction to Stata for Health Researchers

Svend Juul, Aarhus University, Denmark and Morten Frydenberg, Aarhus University, Denmark

An Introduction to Stata for Health Researchers, Fifth Edition updates this classic book that has become a standard reference for health researchers. As with previous editions, readers will learn to work effectively in Stata to perform data management, compute descriptive statistics, create meaningful graphs, fit regression models, and perform survival analysis. With many worked examples and downloadable datasets, this text is the ideal resource for hands-on learning, whether for students in a statistics course or for researchers in fields such as epidemiology, biostatistics, and public health who are learning to use Stata's tools for health research.

Gholamreza Hesamian, Payame Noor University (Shahrekoord), Iran

This book presents the most commonly used techniques for the most statistical inferences based on fuzzy data. It brings together many of the main ideas used statistical inferences in one place based on fuzzy information including fuzzy data. This book covers a much wider range of topics than a typical introductory text on fuzzy statistics. It includes common topics like elementary probability, descriptive statistics, hypothesis tests, one-way ANOVA, control-charts, reliability systems and regression models. The reader is assumed to know calculus and a little fuzzy set theory. The conventional knowledge of probability and statistics is required.

Edited by Paul L. Goethals, Natalie M. Scala, Townson University, College of Business and Economics and Daniel T. Bennett

At the very foundation or root of cyberspace systems and processes are tenets and rules governed by principles in mathematics. This book aims to familiarize educators and young researchers with the breadth of mathematics in cyber-related research. Each chapter introduces a mathematical sub-field, describes relevant work in this field associated with the cyber domain, provides methods and tools, as well as details cyber research examples or case studies. ;

Multilevel and Longitudinal Modeling Using Stata, Volume I

Continuous Responses

Sophia Rabe-Hesketh, University of California, Berkeley, USA and Anders Skrondal, London School of Economics London School of Economics, UK

Multilevel and Longitudinal Modeling Using Stata, Fourth Edition, is a complete resource for learning to model data in which observations are grouped. With comprehensive coverage, researchers who need to apply multilevel models will find this book to be the perfect companion. It is also the ideal text for courses in multilevel modeling because it provides examples from a variety of disciplines as well as end-of-chapter exercises that allow students to practice newly learned material. The book comprises two volumes. Volume I focuses on linear models for continuous outcomes.

Edited by Norbert Euler, Lulea University of Technology, Lulea, Maria Clara Nucci, University of Perugia, Italy and Da-Jun Zhang

This set of three volumes aims to describe the recent progress in nonlinear differential equations and nonlinear dynamical systems (both continuous and discrete). These volumes should be suitable for graduate and postgraduate students in mathematics, the natural sciences, and engineering sciences, as well as for researchers (both pure and applied) interested in nonlinear systems. The common theme throughout all the volumes is on solvable and integrable nonlinear systems of equations and methods/theories that can be applied to analyze those systems. Some applications are also discussed.

The Reliability of Generating Data

Klaus Krippendorff

This book expands on the author's seminal work in content analysis and develops methods for assessing the reliability of the kind of data that previously defied evaluations for this purpose. It opens with a discussion of the epistemology of reliable data, then presents the most basic alpha coefficient for the single-valued coding of predefined units. This familiar way of measuring reliability provides the platform for the succeeding chapters which start with an overview of alternative coefficients and then expand alpha one quality after another, including to cope with the reliabilities of multi-valued coding, segmenting texts into meaningful units, information retrievals etc.

Science Sketches

The Universe from Different Angles

Sidney Perkowitz

This book is the second collection of over 50 articles and essays authored by Sidney Perkowitz. Appearing in diverse outlets such as Discover, Washington Post, Aeon, Los Angeles Review of Books, Nautilus, Museum of the Moving Image, and Physics World, they represent the best of his writing about science and technology, and their links to culture and society, the arts and the media, and the humanities. Written for general readers, the pieces explore the outer and inner universes from cosmic space to the human mind, from the artistic use of science to the impact of technology and AI in the justice system, in medicine, and in dealing with COVID-19.

Wavelets from a Statistical Perspective

Maarten Jansen, Free University, Brussels

Wavelets from a Statistical Perspective offers a modern, 2nd generation look on wavelets, far beyond the rigid setting of the equispaced, dyadic wavelets in the early days. With the methods of this book, based on the lifting scheme, researchers can set up a wavelet or another multiresolution analysis adapted to their data, ranging from images to scattered data or other irregularly spaced observations. Whereas classical wavelets stand a bit apart from other nonparametric methods, this book adds a multiscale touch to your spline, kernel or local polynomial smoothing procedure, thereby extending its applicability to nonlinear, nonparametric processing for piecewise smooth data.

The Lambert W Function

Its Generalizations and Applications

Istvan Mezo

Series: Discrete Mathematics and Its Applications

The Lambert W function is a multi-valued inverse function with many of applications in areas like molecular physics, relativity theory, fuel consumption models, plasma physics, analysis of epidemics, bacterial growth models, delay differential equations, fluid mechanics, game theory, statistics, study of magnetic materials, and so on. This book is the first one fully devoted to the Lambert W function and its applications. The book therefore can be used by theoretical and applied scientists as a standard reference.

AI by Design

A Plan for Living with Artificial Intelligence

Catriona Campbell

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Artificial Intelligence and Robotics Series

AI by Design introduces the reader to Artificial Intelligence and its importance to our future. Campbell uses behavioural psychology, explores technology, economics, real-life and historical examples to predict five future scenarios with AI. Illustrating through speculative fiction, she describes possible futures after AI exceeds human capabilities. We are at a tipping point in history and must plan to ensure a successful co-existence with artificial intelligence. This book explains how to design for a future with AI so that, rather than herald our downfall, it helps us achieve a new renaissance.

AI for School Teachers

Rose Luckin, UCL Knowledge Lab, London, Karine George and Mutlu Cukurova

Series: AI for Everything

AI for School Teachers will help teachers and headteachers understand enough about AI to build a strategy for how it can be used in their school. Examining the needs of schools to ensure they are ready to leverage the power of AI and drawing examples from early years to high school students, the book outlines the educational implications and benefits that AI brings to school education in practical ways. The book develops an understanding of what AI is and isn't, of how we define and measure what we value, and provides a framework which supports a step-by-step approach to developing an AI mindset, focusing on ways to improve educational opportunities for students.

AI for the Sustainable Development Goals

Henrik Skaug Sætra

Series: AI for Everything

Artificial Intelligence has a real impact on our lives and on our environment, and the Sustainable Development Goals enable us to evaluate these impacts in a systematic manner. This book shows that doing so requires us to understand the context of AI – the infrastructure it is built on, who develops it, who owns it, who has access to it, who uses it, and what it is used for – rather than relying on an isolationist theory of technology. By doing so we can analyze the direct effects of AI on sustainability, but also the indirect – or second order – effects. AI for the Sustainable Development Goals shows how AI potentially affects all SDGs. Positively, but also negatively.

Applications in Smart Healthcare

Edited by Lalit Mohan Goyal, J.C. Bose Univ. of Sci. and Tech., Tanzila Saba, Prince Sultan University, Amjad Rehman, Prince Sultan University and Souad Larabi-Marie-Sainte, Prince Sultan University

Series: Innovations in Big Data and Machine Learning

This book reveals the applications of AI & IoT in smart healthcare and medical systems. It also provides core principles, algorithms, protocols, emerging trends, security problems and their findings in e-healthcare services.

The book covers applications, provides case studies, and discusses how AI and IoT applications such as wireless devices, sensors, and deep learning could play a major role to assist patients, doctors and pharmaceutical staff. It also focuses on how AI and IoT could be used to keep patients safe, healthy and, at the same time, empower physicians to deliver superlative care.

Edited by Salah-ddine Krit, Associate Professor, Dept. of Mathematics, Informatics, and Management, Ibn Zohr University, Morocco, Vrijendra Singh, Mohamed Elhoseny, Mansoura University, Egypt and Yashbir Singh

Series: Smart and Intelligent Computing in Engineering

AI technologies are playing an important role in the response to the COVID-19 pandemic. This book is a collection of some of the leading efforts related to AI and COVID-19 focused on finding how AI can be helpful in monitoring the situation from early warnings, swift emergency responses, and critical decision-making. It discusses the use of machine learning and how it may help to reduce the impacts of this pandemic in conjunction with all other research and strategies going on. The book will serve academics, students, data scientists, medical practitioners, and anybody managing a global pandemic.

Smart Design, Science & Technology

Proceedings of the IEEE 6th International Conference on Applied System Innovation (ICASI 2020), November 5-8, 2020, Taitung, Taiwan

Edited by Artde Donald Kin-Tak Lam, College of Physics and Information Engineering, Fuzhou University, Fuzhou, China, Stephen D Prior, Siu-Sen Shen, Department of Multimedia Design, National Formosa University, Taiwan, R.O.C., Sheng-Joue Young, Department of Electronic Engineering, National Formosa University (NFU), Yunlin, Taiwan and Liang-Wen Ji, National Formosa University

Series: Smart Science, Design & Technology

Smart Design, Science & Technology represents the proceedings of the IEEE 6th International Conference on Applied System Innovation (ICASI 2020), held in Taitung, Taiwan on November 5-8, 2020. This book aims to provide an integrated communication platform for researchers from a wide range of topics including information technology, communication science, applied mathematics, computer science, advanced material science, and engineering. Only high quality papers were allowed to publish in the volume. Hopefully, interdisciplinary collaborations between science and engineering technologists in academia and industry will be enhanced via this unique international network.

A First Course in Aerial Robots and Drones

Yasmina Bestaoui Sebbane, Université d'Evry, France

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Artificial Intelligence and Robotics Series

A First Course in Aerial Robots and Drones provides an accessible and student friendly introduction to aerial robots and drones. Drones figure prominently as opportunities for students to learn various aspects of aerospace engineering and design. Drones offer an enticing entry point for STEM studies. As the use of drones in STEM studies grows, there is an emerging generation of drone pilots who are not just good at flying, but experts in specific niches, such as mapping or thermography. Suitable for undergraduate students, this textbook provides students and other readers with methods for solving problems and improving their science skills.

Cybersecurity

A Practical Engineering Approach

Henrique M. D. Santos

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Textbooks in Computing

Cybersecurity: A Practical Engineering Approach introduces the implementation of a secure cyber architecture, beginning with the identification of security risks. It then builds solutions to mitigate risks by considering the technological justification of the solutions as well as their efficiency. The process follows an engineering process model. Each module builds on a subset of the risks, discussing the knowledge necessary to approach a solution, followed by the security control architecture design and the implementation. The modular approach allows students to focus on more manageable problems, making the learning process simpler and more attractive.

This book is designed for undergraduate students completely new to programming with MATLAB. Case studies and examples are used extensively throughout this book and are at the core of what makes this book so unique. The author believes that the best way to learn MATLAB is to study programs written by experienced programmers and that the quality of these example programs determines the quality of the book. The examples in this book are carefully designed to teach you MATLAB programming as well as to inspire within you your own problem solving potential. Most of the examples used in this book are designed to solve a whole class of problems, rather than a single, specific problem.

Cyber Careers

The Basics of Information Technology and Deciding on a Career Path
Pee Vululleh

The approach taken in this book emphasizes the basics of information technology and helps students decide whether to pursue an information technology career. Most students fail to pursue an IT career because of their limited knowledge (sometimes no knowledge) about the area. If students are taught from the onset about what an IT career entails and what it takes to become successful, it will significantly help students and not waste their time. This book addresses the issue.

Cyber-Physical Systems

Solutions to Pandemic Challenges

Edited by Tushar Semwal, The University of Edinburgh, UK and Faiz Iqbal, University of Edinburgh, UK

From an Alexa device in our home to an aircraft, Cyber-Physical Systems (CPS) have transformed the living standard of human beings. The data generated from the CPS provide tremendous insights into the behaviour and functioning of organisations. However, a pandemic such as the current one, can hamper the smooth lives of the people. New technological paradigms such as CPS have the immense potential to capture the dynamics and better prepare us for an unforeseeable and tragic future. Bringing together the foundations and state of the art research, which leverages CPS to mitigate the effects of a pandemic, strengthens the role of technology for humanity.

Cyber-Physical Systems and Industry 4.0

Practical Applications and Security Management

Edited by Dinesh Goyal, Shanmugam Balamurugan, Karthikrajan Senthilnathan, lyswarya Annapoorani and Mohammad Israr

Explores the growth of information and communication technologies (ICT) with an emphasis on cyber-physical systems (CPS) and security management of these systems. This volume discusses and analyzes the various effective practical applications of cyber-physical systems, which involves the integration of the physical process with embedded computation, controller, and network monitoring along with the feedback loop from physical systems.

Enterprise Architecture for Strategic Management of Modern IT Solutions

Tiko Iyamu, Cape Peninsula University of Technology, Cape Town, South Africa

This book provides guidance on how to employ enterprise architecture (EA) in deploying and managing information technology (IT) solutions from the perspectives of pragmatic and implementable strategies. It uses sociotechnical theories such as actor-network theory (ANT) and structuration theory (ST) as lenses to examine and explain why and how challenges and complexities exist and derail the implementation or practice of EA in organisations. By doing so, this serves to enable practitioners and readers to gain fresh insights into why such challenges exist and how they can be addressed in creating collaborative capabilities for business enhancement, sustainability, and competitiveness.

Enterprise Digital Transformation

Technology, Tools, and Use Cases

Edited by Sathyan Munirathinam, Peter Augustine and Pethuru Raj

Every industry segment across the globe is pursuing digital innovation and disruption in order to be ahead of their competitors. With a focus on the evolving aspects of digital transformation and intelligence, this book examines applied technology and the unique competencies of digitally transformed enterprises, as well as use cases involving tools and their application. A forward look at digital innovation and disruption investigates setting up and sustaining smart factories and realizing industry 4.0 and 5.0 visions through leveraging industrial internet of things (IIOT) and allied technologies.

Series: Chapman & Hall/Distributed Computing and Intelligent Data Analytics Series

Cloud computing has been a new trend in problem-solving and providing reliable computing platform for big and high computational tasks. This technique is used for business industries like banking, trading and many e-commerce businesses to accommodate high request rate, high availability for all time without stopping system and system failure. In case of failure, the requests are migrated to different reliable servers by letting the user knowing about it, providing fault tolerant behaviour of the system. Information Classification: General With new generation of computing optimization algorithms are also changing with introduction of machine learning and deep learning mechanism.

Security in IoT

The Changing Perspective

Edited by Rituparna Chaki, University of Calcutta, Kolkata, West Bengal, India and Debduutta Barman Roy

The diverse applications of IoT are achieved by a set of complex inter-related networks of things and communications. IoT applications are also concerned about an array of devices such as sensors, mobile devices, personal computers, the smart systems such as Alexa, Eco, etc, besides the whole range of communication network binding them together in a seamless manner. This book explores the variegated perspectives of security in the complex context of Internet of Things.

Phytotechnology

A Sustainable Platform for the Development of Herbal Products

Edited by Wanderley Pereira Oliveira, University of Sao Paulo, Brazil

Series: Urbanization, Industrialization, and the Environment

This book highlights the complex, multidisciplinary process of phytopharmaceutical technology used to create herbal remedies. Herbal products have traditionally been used in several industrial sectors, and have gained a notable reputation in recent years due to the current trend in society, which seeks natural, healthier, and more sustainable products. The processing of these products, however, is multiplex, but important for the production of a high-quality standardized product. The text in this book is divided into four parts in order to address clearly and objectively the fundamental and technological concepts involved in the manufacturing of high-quality herbal products.

Introduction to Green Chemistry

John Andraos, CareerChem, Toronto, Ontario, Canada and Albert Matlack, University of Delaware, Newark, USA

Copiously illustrated with over 800 figures, this third edition provides an update from the frontiers of the field. It also features supplementary exercises at the end of each chapter relevant to the chemical examples introduced in each chapter. Particular attention is paid to a new concluding chapter on the use of green metrics as an objective tool to demonstrate proof of synthesis plan efficiency and identifying where further improvements can be made through fully worked examples relevant to the chemical industry.

Electronic Devices and Circuit Design

Challenges and Applications in the Internet of Things

Edited by Suman Lata Tripathi and Smrity Dwivedi

Offers a broad view of the challenges of electronic devices and circuits for IoT applications in a concise way. It presents the basic concepts and fundamentals behind new low power, high-speed efficient devices, circuits, and systems with new technology in addition to CMOS. It looks at the new methodologies to enhance system performance and provides key parameters to explore the devices and circuit performance based on smart applications. The volume bridges the gap for researchers working on different areas of smart devices, circuits, and systems with IoT applications.

Greener Synthesis of Organic Compounds

Edited by Ahindra Nag, Indian Institute Of Technology , Kharagpur, India

This book provides an interdisciplinary, integrative overview of environmental problem-solving using mild reaction conditions, green reagents, waste free and energy efficient synthesis in both industry and academic world. Discussions include a broad, integrated perspective on sustainability, integrated risk, multi-scale changes and impacts taking place within ecosystems worldwide.

Handbook of Superconductivity

Theory, Materials, Processing, Characterization and Applications (3-Volume Set)

Edited by David A. Cardwell, University of Cambridge, UK, David C. Larbalestier, Florida State University and Aleksander Braginski, Research Center Juelich

Completely revised and updated, the second edition of the Handbook of Superconductivity is now available in three stand-alone volumes. As a whole they cover the depth and breadth of the field, drawing on an international pool of respected academics and industrial engineers. The three volumes provide hands-on guidance to the manufacturing and processing technologies associated with superconducting materials and devices. A comprehensive reference, the handbook supplies a tutorial on techniques for the beginning graduate student and a source of ancillary information for practicing scientists.

Handbook of Superconductivity

Characterization and Applications, Volume Three

Edited by David A. Cardwell, University of Cambridge, UK, David C. Larbalestier, Florida State University and Aleksander Braginski, Research Center Juelich

This is the last of three volumes of the extensively revised and updated second edition of the Handbook of Superconductivity. The present third volume starts with wide range of methods permitting one to characterize both the materials and various end products of processing. Subsequently, diverse classes of both large scale and electronic applications are described. Volume 3 ends with a glossary relevant to all three volumes.

Series: Chapman & Hall/Distributed Computing and Intelligent Data Analytics Series

Physics and Astrophysics: Glimpses of the Progress deals with all the domains of the knowledge about universe as of today addressing topics that every inquisitive mind has been asking from antiquity. It covers physics of antiquity, relativity and quantum mechanics and beyond. It zooms into micro-world of atomic and sub-atomic particles, and zooms out to cosmic world of stars, galaxies, pulsar quasar. It also includes fundamental concepts, history, anecdote etc. related to discoveries of physics and astronomy. This book is primarily aimed at undergraduates, graduates, researchers, and professionals studying physics and astrophysics.

Adaptive Disaster Risk Assessment

Combining Multi-Hazards with Socioeconomic Vulnerability and Dynamic Exposure

Neiler Medina Pena, IHE Institute for Water Education, Delft, The Netherlands

Series: IHE Delft PhD Thesis Series

This dissertation developed an Adaptive Disaster Risk Assessment (ADRA) framework for weather-related disasters in the context of SIDS. The adaptivity of the framework comes from the explicit assessment of the exposure component and from the modular and flexibility of an index-based approach used to assess the socioeconomic vulnerability. Exposure is assessed using two methods, a logistic regression model and an Agent-based model, which allow us to evaluate how household's adaptation and behaviours change their levels of exposure. Furthermore, the vulnerability is assessed using an index that included three components: susceptibility, lack of coping capacities, and lack of adaptation.

Grasping the Water, Energy, and Food Security Nexus in the Local Context

Case study: Karawang Regency, Indonesia

Aries Purwanto, IHE Institute for Water Education, Delft, The Netherlands

Series: IHE Delft PhD Thesis Series

A silo mentality in managing water, energy, and food (WEF) resources is still common, particularly in developing countries with decentralized systems. As a result, unexpected and detrimental impacts occur. This study attempts to thoroughly understand WEF security aspects from a local perspective. Economic-based analysis, group model building (GMB), causal loop diagrams (CLD), and quantitative stock-flow diagrams (SFD) are employed to analyse the nexus among endogenous and exogenous variables in the WEF system in Karawang, Indonesia.

The findings and practical recommendations are expected to assist local stakeholders in achieving WEF security targets in a more sustainable manner.

Integrated Water Resources Management: A Systems Perspective of Water Governance and Hydrological Conditions

Integrated Water Resources Management

Adey Nigatu Mersha, IHE Institute for Water Education, Delft, The Netherlands

Series: IHE Delft PhD Thesis Series

In this thesis, an in-depth analysis of issues, trends and patterns in water use and management is presented, highlighting local experiences in IWRM implementation. The IWRM concepts and its practice were analyzed and discussed. Policy based water use and management strategies as well as environmental management scenarios were evaluated. Impacts of water management alternatives on current and future water availability, and hence, water security for various sectors and users were assessed considering a range of context-specific drivers of change. Furthermore, the potential implications of the WEF nexus perspective for a coordinated policy planning and actions in IWRM were highlighted.

Education for the Mercantile Counting House

Critical and Constructive Essays by Nine British Writers, 1716-1794

Edited by Terry K. Sheldahl

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1989, surveys higher education in preparation for business careers, particularly the fledgling profession of accounting. Examining the origins of English schooling for merchants, it brings to light articles and writers from the eighteenth century who proposed a liberal education for business – a key part of the development of the history of accounting.

A Scottish Contribution to Accounting History

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1986, is a celebration of Scottish accounting influence and tradition. The essays are critical contributions to the study of accounting history, split into two main sections: the development of accounting thought and practice prior to the emergence of a regulated accountancy profession; and the problems faced in the first 70 years of the accountancy profession.

Accounting in Eighteenth Century Scotland

Michael J. Mephann

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1988, is a study of the development of accounting in eighteenth century Scotland. The investigation is organised around a survey of early Scottish accounting texts, an analysis of their exposition of the Italian method of book-keeping and their treatment of certain selected topics. The aim is to evaluate the contribution that these Scottish accountants made to the development of a profession.

Forerunners of Realizable Values Accounting in Financial Reporting

Edited by G.W. Dean and M.C. Wells

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1982, collects papers about market price valuations capable of different interpretations. Many give quite explicit support for the selling price case. Others are incapable of reasonable interpretation other than in support for selling price valuations. And still others are not inconsistent with the selling price case. Together they provide valuable historical analysis of selling price valuations in diverse contexts.

The Evolution of Consolidated Financial Reporting in Australia

An Evaluation of Alternative Hypotheses

Greg Whittred

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1988, aims to provide evidence on the voluntary adoption of a particular type of financial statement – the consolidated financial statement – in what may be characterized as relatively high agency cost situations. This study examines an accounting method choice not under the assumption that it will be made opportunistically but under the assumption that it will be negotiated ex ante as part of the firm's optimal contract structure.

Pioneers of a Profession

Chartered Accountants to 1879

Jas. C. Stewart

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1986, analyses the lives and careers of the founding members of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Scotland. Contemporary professional accountancy owes its formal beginnings to the nineteenth-century Scottish accountants who formed the first professional bodies, and this book provides valuable insights for the accounting historian on the backgrounds, education, work styles and integrity of those early accountants.

The Society of Accountants in Edinburgh, 1854-1914

A Study of Recruitment to a New Profession

Stephen P. Walker, Cardiff University, UK

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1988, provides an analysis of recruitment to the new profession of nineteenth-century accountancy, and in doing so, gives an insight into the complex origins and behaviour of the emergent professional classes. Unlike most studies, this is a study of all recruits, not only of those who succeeded in becoming qualified. This permits an analysis of the whole process of recruitment, including the choice of accountancy as a career option and as a vehicle of social mobility.

The Accountant's Magazine

An Anthology

Edited by Colin Storrar

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1986, contains a series of articles from The Accountants' Magazine from the early years of the twentieth century. They provide insights into the development of accountancy as a profession, and the development of the professional bodies that oversaw it. Careful selection of the articles for this volume mean that there are often contrasting pairs of articles on the same subject, providing a neat summation of any debate on the topic.

The Auditor's Guide of 1869

A Review and Computer Enhancement of Recently Discovered Old Microfilm of America's First Book on Auditing by H.J. Mettenheimer

Peter L. McMickle and Paul H. Jensen

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

In 1869 H.J. Mettenheimer wrote the Auditor's Guide Being a Complete Exposition of Bookkeeper's Frauds – the first book about auditing from the earliest period of American accountancy. The sole remaining copy was found to have been destroyed, leaving only a barely readable microfilmed photocopy. This book, first published in 1988, presents a restored Auditor's Guide, finally available to historians of the early days of professional accountancy, together with the authors' analysis of this important text.

Transactions of the Chartered Accountants Students' Societies of Edinburgh and Glasgow

A Selection of Writings 1886–1958

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1984, is concerned mainly with papers published in various Transactions of the Chartered Accountants Students' Societies of Edinburgh and Glasgow. Many of these lectures were given by eminent accountants from throughout the UK, and soon the activities of the Societies extended beyond lectures. The financial reporting and auditing topics are the major concern of this text – they represent the one category of lectures which have a continuing and international relevance and interest.

History of Public Accounting in the United States

James Don Edwards

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1988, is a readable, concise history of the accounting profession in the US from its beginnings to the late twentieth century. It examines the roots of the profession, how it developed, how its standards have evolved, and what social, economic and legal forces have shaped it. The chapters form a series of dramatic highlights, illustrative of the multifarious problems besetting a young profession, catapulted into prominence by the economic and social forces of the twentieth century.

Alexander Hamilton Church

A Man of Ideas for All Seasons

Richard Vangermeersch, IMA, Montvale, NJ

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1988, reassesses the data on Church – accountant, manager and industrial engineer – and stresses the theoretical impact of his ideas upon contemporary business structures as well as his practical desire to implement concepts to better the working man's day. The past impact of engineers and engineering concepts on accounting and management has previously been overlooked, and this book corrects this. The discussion herein may inspire a much-needed dialogue among engineers, accountants and managers.

Shareholder Use and Understanding of Financial Information

T. A. Lee and D.P. Tweedie

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1977 and reissued in 1990, examines one of the most familiar aspects of accountancy – that of company financial reporting. Assessing the view that shareholders have little time for financial reports, this book presents the findings from a research project analysing whether or not shareholders understand financial reports; what they do and don't understand; their use of financial reports; the type of shareholders who have the most, and least, understanding and who make most, and least, use of financial reports.

A History of Canadian Accounting Thought and Practice

Edited by George J. Murphy

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1993, focuses on the evolution of accounting institutions, practices and standard-setting in Canada. Canada's federal system complicates the jurisdictional authority for accounting matters. The Canadian constitution empowers the ten provinces to regulate the training and certification of accountants, and each can incorporate organizations. A great deal of effort has been made by accounting bodies on jurisdictional coordination and disputes, and this book analyses how these systems have come to function in their present form.

Contributions of Four Accounting Pioneers

Kohler, Littleton, May, Paton: Digests of Periodical Writings

James Don Edwards and Roland F. Salmonson

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1988, is a valuable digest of the contributions to periodical literature in accountancy by four major contributors of the twentieth century. The four authors represent a total of over two hundred years of experience and leadership in the accounting profession. In many respects this book can be described as a history of accounting thought since 1900, and the particular manner in which each author has contributed to the development of the profession is detailed in the biography preceding each section.

The Accounting Postulates and Principles Controversy of the 1960s

Edited by Stephen A. Zeff

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1982, gathers together a series of articles and editorials written in response to the Accounting Research Program of the early 1960s. Accounting Research Study No. 1 and No. 3 sprang from the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants' desire to keep up with 'economic and social changes which affect accounting' and the research studies into 'postulates' and 'principles' proved to be controversial. These articles analyse the findings and provide vital historical insight into the profession of the time, and its further development.

Edited by Richard Vangermeersch, IMA, Montvale, NJ
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1986, includes primarily articles written by Church not reprinted in his books. The collection demonstrates the breadth of his work and demonstrate why he was such a renowned expert in the fields of cost accounting and management. He introduced the 'machine-hour rate' method, the production-centre concept, the 'regulative principles of management' and distribution cost-analysis. His writings spanned the fields of accounting, business, management and industrial engineering, and this book captures the essence of his work and central themes.

History of the Society of Incorporated Accountants 1885-1957

A.A. Garrett
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1984, marks the closing of a long and important chapter in the history of the accountancy profession. The Society of Incorporated Accountants was founded in 1885 and over its long history achieved much in the development of the profession. The book is concerned with the main policies of the Society, its leading personalities, its organisation, and the general will of its body of Members. It also focuses on economic and business affairs, legislation and constitutional development, as well as the relationship of different sections of the profession and developments in other countries.

Contributions of Limperg and Schmidt to the Replacement Cost Debate in the 1920s

Graeme W. Dean and Frank L. Clarke
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1990, examines the works of Theodore Limberg and Fritz Schmidt and their contribution to the development of the case for replacement price valuations. It analyses which of Limberg's and Schmidt's contributions was the most prominent and whether either was the genesis of an evolutionary development of replacement price valuations. This analysis is apposite. History indicates we will experience further periods of inflation and accompanying debate on the serviceability of accounting proposals to incorporate the financial effects of price and price-level changes.

The Evolution of Audit Thought and Practice

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1988, analyses the history of auditing with as much objectivity as possible. These chapters reveal the importance of auditing in society generally and business activity particularly. The character of the auditor is examined, and their part in history as their role developed from an amateur status to a professional one. The development of the accounting profession is a significant part of the history of auditing. The emerging professional bodies assumed a societal role and by doing so, the audit function changed in terms of its aims and practices, and became a matter of public as well as private concern.

Understanding Accounting in its Social and Historical Context

The Case of Cost Accounting in Britain, 1914-1925

Anne Loft
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

Underlying this book, first published in 1988, is the belief that it is insightful to examine accounting not as merely a technical process, nor as a technical process with social and political consequences, but as an activity which is both social and political in itself. One way of illuminating the social nature of accounting is through studying its cultural variations, for although accounting is a feature of modern industrial society the extent of its use varies across cultures. This book examines the history of accounting and explores the complicated relationship between accounting and society.

The Birth of American Accountancy

Peter L. McMickle and Paul H. Jensen
Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1988, brings together for the first time a comprehensive, analytical and annotated bibliography of all American Accounting Works up to 1820. The discussion extends, clarifies and corrects our knowledge of early American publications on accounting. All known printings are listed including many heretofore overlooked and hard-to-find accounting treatments. Each work is reviewed and many illustrations are provided including the title pages of the first printing of every item. The reviews represent the first modern analyses of these early accounting writings and the illustrations are often the first ever published.

The Legal Literature of Accounting

On Accounts by Diego del Castillo

Patti A. Mills

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Accounting History

This book, first published in 1988, is an English translation of the sixteenth-century Spanish treatise Tratado de Cuentas or On Accounts by Diego del Castillo. The broad purpose of this work is to make this treatise and the issues it raises in accounting history better known. Despite its importance to the field, the Tratado has been relatively inaccessible. It is a legal treatise with legal implications – accounting activity has always had social consequences, and as a result, accounting practices have been subject to and shaped by legal constraints throughout their history. This work makes clear the important relationship between law and accounting.

Nineteenth-Century Religion, Literature and Society

Religious Feeling

Edited by Richa Dwor

Spanning the long nineteenth century (c.1789–1914), this four-volume historical resource provides new opportunities for investigating the relationship between religion, literature and society in Britain and its imperial territories by making accessible a diverse selection of harder-to-find primary sources. These include religious fiction, poetry, essays, memoirs, sermons, travel writing, religious ephemera, unpublished notebooks and pamphlet literature. This third volume looks at 'religious feeling' as an important and distinct category for understanding the ways in which religion is embodied and expressed in culture.

Cooperation in European Energy policy

Anca Sinea

Series: Europa Perspectives on the EU Single Market

The purpose of this book is twofold. First, it aims to explain the general framework for cooperation in the field of energy in Europe, with a conceptual basis that allows for a better understanding of the dynamics that led to its existence. Second, the volume deals with Romania both as a representative case for the region, given the commonalities raised by the transition process in the last three decades, and also as a country with a specific agenda in the field of energy, with implications for internal and foreign policy that can only be perceived and understood in the Romanian context.

Handbook of Caribbean Economies

Edited by Robert E. Looney, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, USA

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This volume aims to illustrate the uniqueness of the economies of the countries and territories of the Caribbean as well as the similarities they share with other regions. While most countries in the region share many of the characteristics of middle-income countries, theirs is a matter of extremes. Their generally small size suggests a fragility not found elsewhere. While much of the world is beginning to feel some effects of climate change, the Caribbean is ground zero. These factors suggest a difficult road ahead, but the chapters presented in this volume aim to help spur the search for creative solutions to the region's problems.

Rediscover Routledge Classics

CELEBRATING 20 YEARS OF GROUND-BREAKING PUBLISHING

With over 200 titles, Routledge Classics is an attractive and affordable series of the most innovative and important works of modern times; books that have, by popular consent, become established as classics in their field. Routledge Classics has brought to more than a million readers worldwide the very best of Routledge publishing over the last century and beyond, providing readers with field-defining and ground-breaking work across a variety of subjects.

“ It’s a remarkable series. These are the books that helped shape the intellectual life of the 20th century.

– Al Alvarez

“ Routledge Classics is more than just a collection of texts...it embodies and circulates challenging ideas and keeps vital debates current and alive.

– Hilary Mantel
